A BLOW FOR WHITEWAY

The Imperial Government Refuses to Remove the Disabilities.

CONFEDERATION A PARTY ISSUE

In the Present Crisis They Will Ask to be Admitted Into the Canadian Confederation—Mines Close Down, Throwing 500 Men Out of Employment.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 21.—The House of Assembly Saturday passed a resolution with closed doors requesting the governor to telegraph the Imperial government urging that assent be given at once to a bill removing the disabilities from the unseated members of the Whiteway party as they are needed to conduct the public affairs in the present crisis. The resolution was forced through at one sitting without notice or time for discussion. The Opposition will make a strong protest. The legislature will to-day adjourn a month to give time for maturing measures to meet the present crisis. It is expected that they will decide on confederation with Canada as the colony cannot sustain its independence.

The Government party, it is understood, is preparing to face the country on the question of the confederation issue. They also want ex-Premier Whiteway and his associates to lead in the contest believing that their prestige would be sufficient to carry with Canada. It is also hinted that they are endeavoring to obtain a promise from the Canadian Government that Whitway be made the first Lieutenant-Governor of Newfoundland under the confederation. Governor O'Brien in promising to forward the Government's resolution on the disability bill to the Imperial authorities declined to recommend it for Imperial assent.

Governor O'Brien has received a despatch from the Imperial Government refusing to assent to the bill for the removal of the ditabilities of Sir William Whiteway and his colleagues. This refusal will probably compell the Government to accept a royal commission to investigate the colony's affairs as in the resolutions asking the passage of this bill the Government admitted its incapacity to continue to conduct affairs.

The creditors of several of the firms are opposing the ratification of the compromises offered holding that the firms are able to pay more than they are offering. The creditors have filed objections with the Supreme Court urging that the trustees be appointed to carry on the business of those firms until ultimately wound up. This is objected to by the general public because it would completely ruin the colony's trade in a year or two.

The copper mines at Little Bay have shut down, the owners of a wealthy English firm having decided to abandon mining in Newfoundland altogether. The force of men are now engaged dismantling the works and machinery, preparatory to shipping it from the country. The shutdown throws about five hundred men out of employment.

The newspapers are filled with denunciations of the management of the suspended banks here. One firm alone, it is shown, overdrew its accounts of $35,000 last year for the greater part of which no assets existed. This firm executed a mortgage for $70,000, but the mortgage was not registered. Another firm purchased steamers with the money obtained from the banks. The steamers are now mortgaged to repay the money.

Estimates of charitable associations show that about 3,000 persons in this city are receiving relief daily.

A number of persons implicated in the bank scandals are likely to be arrested to-day. Among them will probably be some of the directors.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Times says editorially: "Canada is not likely to welcome Newfoundland while the latter is a bankrupt colony with a French shore difficulty. If Newfoundland becomes a crown colony, possibly an English bank will be willing to open a branch there. In view of the hardy maritime population we would suggest also a navy recruiting station."

TRUE BILL FOR MURDER.

Clara Ford Will be Tried Now on the Charge of Murder.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—The grand jury in the case of Clara Ford, charged with the murder of Frank Westwood, brought in a true bill on Saturday.

Clara was arraigned in court and pleaded not guilty. Mr. Murdoch, who is defending the girl, moved for a postponement of the trial until March. He filed an affidavit made by the prisoner, in which she pleaded that a fair trial was impossible in the present state of public feeling, as an unprejudiced jury could not be had. The affidavit also sets forth that many witnesses, whose evidence would tell of the prisoner's movements on the night of the murder, had not yet been procured owing to a lack of funds. Justice Street could not see that the affidavit was sufficient cause for postponement and refused the request, consequently the trial will go on at the present sitting.

IN DEFIANCE OF TROOPS

Militia and Police Unable to Cope With the Brooklyn Strikers.

LINES COMPLETELY TIED UP

The Companies Find it Impossible to Run Their Cars—Non-Union Motormen Desert Their Posts—Riotous Demonstrations—Efforts at Arbitration Are Futile.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 21.—The entire second brigade, national guards, state of New York nearly 3,000 strong, failed to restore order in Brooklyn on Saturday. The troops responded with surprising promptness to the call. They performed guard duty at the depots of the trolley lines and relieved the police, but the latter were not able to prevent the mobbing of cars and assaults upon employes at other points. Trolley wires were cut, motors disabled, green men stoned and maltreated and other disturbances were kept up with nearly the same disregard for the authorities that has prevailed all the week. The companies failed to make good their promise to operate all its lines if afforded protection.

Attempts at opening new lines were attended with slight success owing to lack of capable men and to the determined opposition of the strikers at points not covered by police or troops. The extent of the trolley routes and the method of the mobs which melted away at the appearance of blue jackets, and re-formed again in a manner that would do credit to the communists of Paris, effectually prevented the police from maintaining peace. There was clubbing in plenty and a few arrests were made, but the disorder continued all day. All efforts at effecting a settlement by arbitration are off The men hoped to obtain the issuance of a mandamus compelling the railroads to run their cars in accordance with the provisions of their charter, but Judge Cullen decided against them, holding that the corporations should not be held responsible for the failure to operate their lines while protection from violence was not furnished by the city.

At 10 o'clock at night Major Cochran, of the 18th Regiment, with three companies, relieved Col. Eddy, of the 47th Regiment, who was on duty with two companies at the stables of the Brooklyn Heights railway at Alabama and Jamaica avenues. After Col. Eddy had started away with his men a number of spectators gathered about. Col. Eddy had only gone about five blocks when Major Cochran ordered his men to charge. The crowd then scattered in all directions and the soldiers pursued the fugitives for several blocks. In the chase several persons were knocked down and trampled on and several were injured by having the bayonets of the soldiers thrust into them. One man was stabbed in the groin and is now at St. Mary's hospital, likely to die. Eugene Williams and Philip Tighe were also injured. After the charge, however, the crowd became thicker, and as a last resort to keep them back Major Cochran recalled Col. Eddy. In the charge Malcolm W. Wood, a private, was hit with a stone. He is now in the hospital suffering with a fractured skull. Four companies were stationed at the stables with 100 policemen and a squad of 25 mounted men. The police closed all the saloons in the neighborhood at midnight.

There was no special effort made by the railroad companies yesterday to move cars on the tied-up trolley lines, but Mayor Schieren took hold of the strike with new determination. Public indignation at repeated disturbances in spite of police and militia and public discomfort due to the failures of the companies to restore the operation of their roads even with the aid of police and troops stirred him to action. He sent for the strike leaders and also for the railroad presidents and had a protracted conference.

The Mayor decided to call upon the Governor for more troops, and issued a proclamation warning the people from gathering in crowds, and states that the police and militia have been ordered to disperse any unlawful assemblage.

There were a number of minor disturbances during the day, and some men and boys were arrested for stoning cars. One car was started on the Atlantic avenue system, but after running a short distance the motorman deserted. The strikers claim that ten of the new men employed by the company have deserted.

The wires of the Fulton street road were cut at Stone avenue a little before three o'clock yesterday and at six o'clock wires on the same route at Sackman street were found severed and sputtering on the tracks. The repair waggon got both these breaks patched up without interference.

The police are looking for four strikers who are alleged to have held up Ernest Kludt and beaten him into insensibility. Kludt took the place of one of the striking conductors of the Fifth avenue line. He was going to work and while on his way to the depot was set upon by a gang. One of his assailants beat him on the head with a revolver, cutting his scalp in several places. He says he can identify the men.

Herman Brunswick, a non-union motorman, was going home yesterday morning from the power house and was turning the corner of Fulton street and Myrtle avenue when he was recognized and set upon by a crowd of men. One of them struck him on the head, knocking him down. Several policemen rushed up and scattered the crowd. John Duffy, 43 years old, was arrested on suspicion of being Brunswick's assailants.

The New French Cabinet.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—M. Brindeau, mayor of Havre, and a delegation from the Havre municipal council, presented to President Faure yesterday an address of congratulation. M. Faure sat in the Chamber for Havre. M. Bourgeois will complete his negotiations for a Cabinet to-day, although most of the portfolios have been accepted. It is understood M. Hanotaux, Poincare and Barthou, all of the last Cabinet, and Eugene Godefrey Cavaignac have consented to serve. Gen. Mercier, Del Casse, Lockroy and Thompson are mentioned as candidates for the Ministry of Marine. M. Viger is another of M. Dupuy's colleagues who is willing to be a Minister again.

Note the Pants going at 75c, 98c, $1.25 and $1.50 at Grafton's clearing sale.

LORDS' POWER TO VETO

Mr. Gladstone Will Take a Hand in Having it Abolished.

NO PROSPECT OF DISSOLUTION

None of the Important Government Measures Will be Abandoned, and They Will Probably be Carried—John Burns' Visit to America.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Mr. Gladstone has recently written letters to several of his former colleagues and followers in Parliament informing them that it is his intention to make his reappearance in the House of Commons and take part in its proceedings. According to these communications the ex-Premier will either vote or speak upon the questions of the first importance, but will otherwise remain passive. This news has been as gratifying as it has been surprising to the Ministerial party, but it is not known what particular measures will call him to his seat in the House. The most reasonable surmise, however, is based upon Mr. Gladstone's answers to letters to him pursuing a general line of inquiry as to what he may be relied upon to do in support of the Ministry. While he is disposed to be non-committal as to his intentions he has intimated that the Irish land bill, the Armenian atrocities and the anti-Lords measure are the questions in whose discussion he means to actively take part.

If the plans already formulated by the Government are carried out during the session the proceedings will culminate in the passage of a bill depriving the Upper House of the power to veto. Mr. Gladstone's open adhesion to this principle will be a tower of strength to the Liberals and their allies, particularly on the eve of a general election and it will also commit Mr. Gladstone to the re-assumption of his place in the front rank and cause him to assume the guidance of the party in the direction in turning the elections towards the decision of questions affecting great constitutional reforms.

The Dissolution.

The fact that Lord Rosebery, in his circular to the Liberal election agents, informed them that there was no immediate prospect of a dissolution of Parliament, confirms the statements recently cabled in regard to the future situation and gives assurance that none of the measures, upon which the Government have staked their existence, will be abandoned. The probability now increases that these measures will all be carried and as a consequence the leaders of the Opposition appear to have abandoned hope of being able to accomplish the overthrow of the Ministry, either upon the vote on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne or upon any subsequent measures. Evidence of this is furnished by the fact that, as it has transpired, Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Chamberlain and other Tory and Unionist leaders recently held a conference at Hatfield House, Lord Salisbury's residence, at which plans were discussed designed to force a dissolution.

Sir William Harcourt's Budget.

No parliamentary development is the source of so much public speculation as Sir William Harcourt's budget, but it is generally accepted as a certainty that the Cabinet intends to spring a sensation by making proposals to throw off the taxes from tea, coffee, and cocoa, and reduce the duty on tobacco. The surplus being thus swept off, nothing will remain to meet the admitted financial requirements of the navy, consequently the Government have decided upon a bold course, contemplating the raising of a loan of £25,000,000, payable in annual instalments. This work will be employed in part in erecting permanent fort works in Gibraltar and Portsmouth and strengthening the existing coaling stations and creating new ones. The residue will be devoted to increasing the number of warships. Mr. Labouchere and Sir Charles Dilke are in favor of this measure and their support of it ensures the adhesion of the Radicals to the plan.

Burns' View of the States.

The views of John Burns and John Wm. Benn upon the subject of municipal corruption in the United States is gratefully received as a basis of comment upon American institutions by the Conservative press, which are assiduously ministering to the widespread feeling of jealousy of republican progress and prosperity. The Spectator protests that the English world takes no pleasure in the revelations made by these members of Parliament. If the English race is responsible for cities like Chicago, the Spectator says, that calamity is offset by its successes elsewhere. The paper expresses the hope that the Hungarians, Italians and Irish who rule American cities may yet be compelled to give proof of their ability and honesty before they are entrusted with power. Mr. Burns, in answer to questions as to the remedy for the evils he discovered in American municipal administrations, said that if the latent energies of the race were once directed towards purification they would quickly make English cities look to their laurels. If the American politicians were once aroused they would hit quickly and knock the enemy out in one round.

THE WAR IN THE ORIENT.

The Tong-Chow-Foo Forts Silenced—Approaching Wei-Hai-Wei.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Central News learns from Chee-Foo that three Japanese warships carrying troops have silenced the forts at Tong-Chow-Foo. More than 25,000 Japanese have been landed at Yun-Ching, near the great fortress of Wei-Hai-Wei, and fifty Japanese transports are off the coast at that point.

A City Destroyed by an Earthquake.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Times correspondent in Teheran, Persia, telegraphs: "The city of Kuchan, which an earthquake destroyed fourteen months ago, and which was immediately re-built, was again destroyed on January 17. Many were killed. A hundred women were crushed in one batch. The extent of the damage and the number of deaths are unknown as yet. The bitterest cold increases the suffering. Four distinct shocks were felt in Meshed in the last three days, but no damage was done.

Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1895.

THE highest price obtained for Ontario creamery butter in '93 was twenty four and the lowest a little over twenty-three cents. The cost of manufacture was three and a half to four cents. Even after a liberal allowance is made for the value of the milk used it would seem as if there should be profit enough in the enterprise without asking the Government to bonus the product turned out.—Toronto News.

The bonus proposed sounds very like an insult to the intelligence and enterprise of the farmers of Ontario. Indiscriminate bonusing like indiscriminate charity, which encourages pauperism, tends to destroy the spirit of self-reliance, that constitutes the best citizenship. The farmers in Canada, judiciously assisted by the government, have put the Canadian cheese industry on its feet and made it the best in the world. The same farmers with similiar assistance can put the butter business upon the same basis. Give the farmers of Canada a fair chance and they will place the roll of butter on the same level on the pinnacle of prominence, upon which a Canadian cheese is impaled.

WHEN the ministers come to Peterborough, perhaps they will explain the riot of the unemployed in Montreal. When, as was the case last Friday, three or four thousand unemployed workmen of the commercial metropolis of the Dominion rise in riot and demand work or bread there should be some explanation. In 1877 Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, then premier of the Dominion, was denounced because he wouldn't believe and practice the belief that legislation could remove hard times and give employment. The Conservatives tried the experiment and the riot in Montreal shows how they have succeeded. Perhaps the ministers will tell us that the Montreal workmen are discrediting the country, because they do not submit quietly to the blessing of starvation under the N. P., which promised—almost under oath—to give everybody employment and make money as stones for abundance.

IN an article in the EXAMINER of Saturday an error was made in stating that the net debt of Canada was placed at over two hundred and forty-six thousand dollars. The EXAMINER would rejoice greatly if the statement were no mistake. Unfortunately it is a mistake, for the net debt of Canada is over two hundred and forty-six million dollars. Two or three omissions of nothing makes all the difference in the world.

COLD SPRINGS—OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The annual business meeting of Cold Springs Union Sunday School was held on Thursday evening, Jan. 17th. The Secretary's report was as follows:

It affords me great pleasure to present to you the report of our school for the year 1894. While reviewing the work of the past year we feel we have great cause to be thankful, and we are encouraged to go forward in the good work.

There are enrolled on our class books seven teachers and officers and sixty six scholars, making a total of seventy-three.

On our anniversary Sunday, May 27th, every teacher, officer and scholar was present, together with a number of parents and friends, making a total attendance of 110—the highest for the year.

Our average attendance was 53, being an increase of 7 over the average attendance for 1893. One scholar, Master Lorne Brooks, was present every Sunday in the year, and there were six scholars who missed only one Sunday.

Our class collections are considerably in excess of last year, and our finances, as will be seen by the Treasurer's report, are in a very satisfactory condition.

During the last quarter of 1894 we added the Home Class Department with a view to a deeper study of the Holy Scriptures by those in our homes who do not, or can not, conveniently attend the school, and also to arouse a greater interest among the parents in the work of the school, and in the home study of the lessons of the scholars. The members of this class pledge themselves to spend at least half an hour a week in the study of the Sunday school lesson, and, if possible, to be present on Review Sunday. Although yet in its infancy, its influence is being felt in our school. The class numbers 58 members.

Again, for the second time in the history of our school, we are called upon to record the death of one of our scholars, Robert A. Smyth, who passed away after a lingering illness, peacefully trusting in Jesus, on Jan. 3rd, 1895. Our heartfelt sympathy and prayers go out to his sorrowing friends in this their time of bereavement.

And, now, encouraged by the measure of success that has attended our efforts this year, and looking unto Jesus in faith and prayer, let us go forward with renewed energy and zeal, determined to do more and better work for Christ in the coming year than in the past, and let our motto be, as it has been in former years, but with a deeper meaning, "this year for Jesus."

LAURA BENNETT,
Secretary.

The treasurer's report was as below:

Balance from 1893	$ 68 15
Receipts in 1894	127 43
Total	$195 57
Expenses	97 05
Balance on hand	$98 52

The election of officers for 1895 resulted as follows:

Superintendent—Mr. M. W. Matchett.
Assistant-Superintendent—Mr. H. P. Kennedy.
Sec.-Treas.—Miss Laura Bennett.
Teachers—Mrs. D. Kennedy, Mrs. T. Sisson, Misses C. G. Robertson, J. Ambrose and L. Bennett, and Messrs. H. P. Kennedy and M. W. Matchett.

Several other matters affecting the welfare of the school were also discussed. The school meets on Sundays at 2.45 p. m., and all who can attend will be made welcome.

Mr. H. Bear, successor to Mr. Owens as teacher here, is succeeding well.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy went to Montreal, on Tuesday, on a business trip.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The meeting held at Fenelon Falls was well attended. The election of officers was the first business, and resulted as follows:—

TERRIBLE STEAMBOAT DISASTER.

The State of Missouri Wrecked—Forty Passengers Drowned.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 21.—Meagre particulars of a terrible steamboat disaster reached this city yesterday. The officers of the steamer City of Owensboro, of the Louisville and Evansville mail line, reported the sinking of the State of Missouri a short distance below Wolf Creek, Ky., on Saturday, at about 5.30 p.m.

The Missouri left Louisville at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning. After striking the boat drifted off the rocks and sank in five minutes in fifty feet of water. The people aboard were panic-stricken when they heard the crash. They had no time to prepare for their safety and officers, passengers and crew seized anything in sight that would keep them above water.

Captain Joe Conlon, First Clerk Werman and Second Clerk Howard, with five lady passengers, and Pilot Pell and son, managed to reach shore uninjured. The second mate and engineer on watch were picked up by the steamer Tell City, and the city of Owensboro picked up four men and left them at Owensboro. The others, 35 to 40 in number, including male passengers and members of the crew, it is thought, went down with the vessel. This was the first trip of the season for the Missouri. The wrecked boat belonged to the "White Collar Line" (Cincinnati and Memphis Packet Co.)

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—The Tribune's correspondent at Hawesville, Ky., wires the following:

The great Cincinnati and New Orleans steamer State of Missouri went to the bottom of the Ohio at Wolf Creek postoffice, 350 miles west of this city at six o'clock Saturday night and 40 people met death. The postoffice at Wolf Creek, Ky., is 25 miles from the railroad and it was with great difficulty that the following facts were obtained:

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning the rear end of the bull of the steamer was caught at Troy, Ind., seven miles below here and 35 drowned mules were found securely tied to the guards. At Crocketts, two miles below here, half of the cabin, the clerk's register, the entire clerk's office and the safe containing a large some of money were caught. A state room was caught at this city containing a dead man who can not be identified.

C. C. Whitehead, one of the passengers who escaped in an old flatboat pilot, who boarded the ill-fated Missouri at Cincinnati, said: "The pilot was about half a second too late in turning the boat. When the shock came a brave negro jumped ashore and tied it, but the headway of the boat parted the line and she swung into the river. I saw the boat was sinking, and as there seemed to be no one in command, I helped lower the boats and helped all the lady passengers, 35 in number, into one of them and they were saved.

"In less than four minutes the boat had gone down over her upper decks and when I was knee-deep in water I jumped and began swimming in the darkness. A negro who was frightened and fighting for his life caught me by the hair for support, and I had a terrible struggle in the water but finally fought him off and saw him go down to rise no more."

Clerk Howard, of Paducah, Ky., was saved. Captain Coppler was saved but the rescued passengers scored him bitterly for not attempting to save the boat. Pell and his son were the pilots and both were saved. The young man was at the wheel and it was said that his carelessness caused the disaster. One of the engineers was saved. The mate by fighting drowning men managed to save every woman on the boat and when he was found he was waist deep in the mud and almost dead. The boat was 20 minutes in sinking. The boat was making 18 miles an hour.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.

Lights, Stronger Than Two Noonday Suns, Seen by a Steamer on Lake Michigan.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Jan. 21.—The Detroit and Milwaukee steamer was more than half way across Lake Michigan on Friday night when the pilot saw a bright light off the starboard bow. He could not account for it, and called the captain. The captain, too, was puzzled, and thinking that the boat must have veered from her course and that the light was from Grand Haven, he ordered her headed for it.

It was calculated that the light was fifteen miles ahead. After proceeding ten miles a companion light appeared some five miles to the westward. The passengers, who had by this time been aroused, gathered on the deck and watched these lights, which now began to flash at intervals.

On went the steamer and as she approached the light the passengers were obliged to hold up umbrellas and other objects to shade their eyes from the intense glare. So bright was it that Steward Walthew, over 60 years old, was enabled to read the Lord's prayer from the fine print of a Bible without his glasses. Suddenly a mountain of darkness seemed to arise between the boat and the light, but the blaze was flashed over its top. In a few moments the mountain sank backward and the lights were seen still too brilliant for the eye to endure. At just 2 a.m. by the captain's watch, the lights flashed, there was a terrible rumbling like a quadruple peal of thunder, and then the lights disappeared. Almost on the instant a tidal wave struck the ship and the phenomenon was over.

No one attempts to explain the strange occurrence. The boat, which was fifteen miles out of her course, was over an hour late in arriving here. A commercial traveller named Dunn, who was on the boat, said that the glare was greater than two noon suns and that he really believed the end of the world had come. The captain has made an official report of the phenomenon to the secretary of the company and these facts are taken from that report.

AFTER PATENT MEDICINE MEN.

Dr. Montague Objects to His Name Being Used in Advertisements.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—The Hon. Dr. Montague is here and is quite recovered from his illness, which was only of a temporary character. It is said that he will take steps to prosecute the parties responsible for issuing as well as for printing a patent medicine advertisement in which his name appears in some of the newspapers.

The clerks in the geological museum were badly frightened on Saturday. It appears that when representations were made to the department regarding the unsafe condition of the building the Minister ordered that repairs be immediately commenced. These consisted of wooden props to the first and second floors. The props were of green wood and as they dried a natural shrinkage set in. While the clerks in the long room were at work a noise was heard and it was discovered that one of the props had moved from its position. Those who were working at the time were considerably perturbed. Word was sent to the department with the request that the damaged portion be attended to at once.

NEBRASKA'S GREAT DISTRESS.

In One County a Fifth of the People Are County Charges—A Woeful Picture.

GREELEY CENTRE, Neb., Jan. 21.—The distress in this part of the state is appalling. No picture of the suffering has been overdrawn and a great many sad cases have been suppressed. Hundreds of families have nothing to eat and no fuel and children are so nearly naked that they are kept from school. At least one fifth of the people of this county have become county charges. It is impossible for the people to care for the destitute. Unless a large amount of outside assistance is received at once many farmers and their families will perish. The people are most in need of clothing.

Some of the best farmers, whose lands are unencumbered, are as destitute as tenants, because they cannot realize on any kind of class of securities. A great many of the floating population left the state last fall, and all who are here are actual residents, most of them owning their homes

PROMINENT SOUTHERNER DYING.

The First Editor to Openly Advocate Secession—Original Owner of "Blind Tom."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Gen. James W. Bethune, of Georgia, lies critically ill in this city. He is nearly 92 years old. He was the first editor in the south to openly advocate secession. He was also almost the pioneer free trader in this country, having as early as 1840 advocated free trade and direct taxation. At one time he was attorney general of the state of Georgia. He moved into Virginia shortly after the late war and incidentally became widely known as the original owner of "Blind Tom," the negro musical prodigy.

Russian Hebrews Detained in Halifax.

HALIFAX, Jan. 21.—At deep water terminus United States Alien labor commissioners detained lately a score or more of Hebrews, mostly from southern Russia, men women and children, for the reason they have no money and no visible means of getting a livelihood and are likely to become charges on the state if permitted to go into the United States, whither they are bound. Women and children will be held until definitely ascertained if they have friends awaiting them who will look after them. The men are not mechanics and have no money. The usual course pursued with immigrants refused passport into the United States by commissioners at Halifax is to return them to England on the steamer which brought them out when the steamer is going homeward.

Welland's Peat Fuel Industry.

WELLAND, Ont., Jan. 21.—The development of the manufacture of peat fuel as the great beds of material now operated and controlled by the Ontario peat fuel company in the township of Wainfleet is likely to be very greatly enhanced by the announcement just made that the Canada Southern Railway Co. (Michigan Central Railway) will begin within the next six weeks the construction of a branch line from a point on the main line west of the town to the peat beds. The operation of the peat works has been hampered by the lack of shipping facilities and the proposed action will lead to much greater output and the employment of many men.

Orleans Went Into France.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—It is reported that the Duc d'Orleans, who went to Dover during the crisis in France, eluded the detectives at Dover and Calais and succeeded in getting into France. The story is that he had got as far as Amiens, where he was caught and compelled to return to England.

FLORIDA GRAPE FRUIT.

Mr. Wm. Cluxton, having spent a winter in Florida, furnishes the following reliable commendation of the salutary and health-giving qualities of the Florida "Grape Fruit" (resembling an orange), sold by OSTROM BROS:—

The Grape Fruit sold in the shops in Peterborough is a native of Florida.

Some persons believe it is the best fruit in the world—others say it is the "forbidden fruit" of the Garden of Eden.

It is a providential arrangement for Florida which, in parts, is a malarious country. It is a tonic containing quinine, which is a preventive of fever.

The trees are grown from seeds planted in rows, and the young trees are transplanted in the same way as apple trees in this country. The fruit matures at the same time as the orange—the end of January or beginning of February—although some of both are allowed to remain on the trees later.

For the breakfast table the Grape Fruit should be cut in two halves and the core taken out with a sharp knife, then use a dessert spoon, squeeze the fruit and sup the juice. When finished in this way it has the appearance of a squeezed lemon.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles with out noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

Music and the Honeymakers.

The belief that bees can hear, and that they find music in sounds which to human beings are hideous, is at least as old as Virgil, and probably a good deal older. Has not Virgil described—and have we not all heard in our childhood—how anyone can persuade bees to swarm by banging a gong in an intelligent and insinuating manner? Beekeepers, it is true, have of late years abandoned the practice, but the belief in its efficacy still prevails to a considerable extent. At last, however, Sir John Lubbock comes to knock the illusion on the head. He made some experiments with honey and a musical box, wishing to know whether the tinkling tunes would have the same effect upon bees as the sound of the dinner bell has upon a hungry terrier. He found that the bees, however hungry, never rose to associating the idea of the music with the idea of meals, and he draws the inference that they cannot hear. The argument certainly sounds conclusive, but Sir John could hardly have surprised us more if he had told us that bees could not sting.

THE ORIENT.

According to the examination just made by order of the Greek patriarch, the Byzantine edifices of Constantinople have not suffered severely by the earthquake.

As fasters the sect of Jains, in India, is far ahead of all rivals. Fasts of from thirty to forty days are very common, and once a year they are said to abstain from food for seventy-five days.

Nearly every Japanese paper has a "prison editor." For infraction of the publication laws somebody must go to jail, and so the prison editor's chief duty is to expiate the newspaper's offense by languishing in a cell.

On a territory about the area of Montana Japan supports forty million people in comparative comfort. Reckoning our own area at twenty-four times that of Japan, this country at that rate would support nine hundred and sixty million people.

Europe has only about eight per cent. of the Sunday school attendance of the world.

The Sunday school membership of Germany has increased over eighty per cent. in the last twenty years.

There are 23,000,000 persons, teachers and scholars, enrolled in the Protestant Sunday schools of the world.

There are 25,039 Sunday schools, 81,959 teachers, and 1,585 scholars in the different continental nations of Europe.

In 1874 there were in Germany 1,918 Protestant Sunday schools, with 86,418 teachers and scholars, in 1893 there were 5,900 schools and 784,769 teachers and scholars.

Miss Dhanbai Fardonjer Banajee, aged eighteen years, of Bombay, is the first woman to go from India to Paris for art study. She has succeeded in having one of her pictures hung in the Paris salon.

After many repaintings and alterations Alma Tadema has finished his magnum opus, a picture of ancient Rome in festival, which has already been bought by a dealer in Berlin for one hundred thousand marks. It is called "Spring," and contains more than one hundred figures of celebrants and spectators, a procession in honor of the gods of flowers and fertility moving along toward the temple.

SWEEPING.

An Expert Tells All About How to Do It Correctly.

I have just been visiting in a house where the mistress besought me to tell her the best way to sweep and dust. She had become interested in the germ theory of disease, and learning that germs are living atoms, the beginning of life, the particles that grow into infectious diseases, and that these atoms, freighted with dangers to her loved ones, might lurk in the corners of her own rooms, in the furniture, the walls, and especially in the carpets, to be set in motion and sent upon deadly errands by the broom and dust cloth, she besought me to say a few words upon this, to her thinking, the most important subjet, to help others, who, like herself, are anxious to know the best way of doing everything for the health and comfort of the family.

And why not? Perhaps it would be more elegant to tell you something about high art embroidery, painting or decorating, but after all isn't it a plain, practical matter of interest to know just how to remove the dirt and dust of the household as scientifically as possible?

A celebrated doctor has told me that "Animals (of which man is one) are constantly giving out a quantity of solid organic matter from the lungs in the act of breathing. If this condensed breath be put on a piece of white porcelain and allowed to stand a few days it will become the abode of living animals, which may be seen with a good microscope. The impure exhalations of living bodies, therefore, become condensed on cold bodies and form a kind of glutinous organic plaster. We often see a substance of this kind on the furniture of dirty houses, and in this case a disagreeable smell is always perceptible. This will show the necessity for constant cleaning and tell the reason why everything becomes dirty."

Dirt is the atoms of decayed matter, and the air wafts these particles everywhere. They settle in our houses, and their removal should be a constant source of intelligent care.

First of all, "raising a dust" in sweeping is inexcusable and unhygienic. To raise a dust in sweeping is merely to make certain that the general diffusion over everything will be greater in the end and the danger that lurks in dust germs proportionately greater to the health of the inmates of the house.

The most important of several good reasons why the polished wood floor is better than a carpet lies in the fact that rugs may be removed entirely for cleansing purposes, while nailed-down carpets will require sweeping. Indeed, I believe that the nailed-down will find no place in the well-organized home of the future.

But if one will use carpets then they should be cared for in such a way that dirt may not be driven into and under them. The edges and corners should be most carefully looked after.

The violent use of a very stiff broom used dry upon a carpet will not only rub off the nap and wear the threads, but the dust driven beneath becomes an accumulation and will remain a source of constant menace to health, since carpets are at best taken up but once or twice a year to be "beaten" and to allow the floor beneath to be properly swept and washed.

In laying a carpet, sheets of paper should always be used. There should be no exception to this rule. Paper is manufactured for this especial purpose, and while the first cost is not heavy, the saving in the wear of a carpet is astonishing.

For a carpet broom the plain, ordinary one is usually used, but it should always be used wet. The short bristle brush having two kinds of bristles, one hard and one soft, is, to my way of thinking, better yet.

Where the common stiff broom is used for the general carpet sweeping, sawdust slightly damp, Indian meal, damp, well-washed tea leaves, even bits of newspaper slightly damp may be torn up and scattered over the carpet and will help in keeping down the dust.

To cleanse and brighten a carpet put three tablespoonfuls of ammonia into a pail of clear water, and go over the surface of the carpet with a cloth well wrung from the liquid.

When carpets become spotted with grease a hot iron used over blotting paper will generally remove the spots. Benzine is also good when well rubbed in with a flannel.

And in conclusion let me urge upon my readers that, homely subject as the proper sweeping and cleaning of a room may seem, there must be the greatest satisfaction in feeling that one has done something toward removing the danger of disease and suffering from one's loved ones. It is claimed by acknowledged authorities, that all disease could be prevented were our habits of life perfectly cleanly and refined.—Irma, in Jenness Miller Monthly.

The Uses of Ammonia.

Of all the handy helps to housekeepers I hold ammonia the cheapest and the best. A pint bottle costing but ten cents at the druggist's will rob cleaning of half its terrors, for it is a positive enemy to grease and dirt, effacing all such spots with a magical touch. The dining-room carpet has a few unsightly grease spots, has it? Dip your cleaning cloth into a basin of warm, clean suds into which a good spoonful of ammonia has been poured, and lightly rub the soiled places. All grease and dirt will disappear, leaving the carpet freshened and bright.

The good man's soiled coat collar can be restored to a presentable condition by the use of a sponge dipped in the ammonia without the use of soap and water. As all trace of odor at once disappears, it is pleasant to use and perfectly safe if kept away from the neighborhood of fire, and from little children. Glass takes on a beautiful clearness if a small amount is used in the water; stains on paint leave on the first application. A tablespoonful in the boiler-ful of clothes whitens them, and renders the water soft, while in the housecleaning it is invaluable, leaving behind that odor of cleanliness so encouraging to the worker. The salts of ammonia are reviving in case of faintness, and very useful as a headache remedy.—Ohio Farmer.

A Solid Country Dinner.

The best possible country dinner is a pork stew. Cover two pounds of fat and lean, sweet, home-cured, sliced salt pork with two quarts of water; simmer slowly until tender, and then add two quarts of sliced potatoes, a pint of sliced onions and some parsley or celery top. When the vegetables are done, thicken with a little flour, wet with cold milk, and season with pepper, but not salt. Serve.—Country Gentleman.

The Archduke Rainer, of Austria, has a collection of 10,000 Egyptian papyrus documents dating back from B.C. 1200. The collection contains commercial letters, contracts, tax records, wills, tailors' bills, novels and even love letters.

Bismarck said to a correspondent who visited him at Varzin a couple of weeks ago: "I shall never enter public life of any kind again. I am out of the harness forever." As he is verging upon the age of fourscore this is not particularly surprising.

GOVERNMENT RAILROADS.

South Austria owns her own railway system.

The little country of Hesse owns two hundred and twenty-six miles of railroad.

The government of Portugal owns about half the railroads in the country.

The Netherlands own nearly one thousand miles of railroads, all in the best of condition.

There are six hundred and three miles of railway belonging to the Japanese government.

A large per cent of the railways of Italy are owned by the government and leased to corporations.

Victoria, Australia, owns all the railroads in the colony, two thousand three hundred and forty-one miles.

New South Wales owns two thousand one hundred and eighty-two miles of railway, and New Zealand in 1892 owned six hundred and seventy-two miles.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The characteristic symptoms are a severe itching, which at times is almost unbearable, especially when the patient becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously scratches the parts until they are sore—bleed and form scabs, when extensive moisture is exuded. Fissures and ulcerations also frequently develop from this disease, causing an incurable irritation and discomfort. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body, are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and absorb the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the sense creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

Fractured her Elbow.

Mrs. Richard Heard, of Smith township, had the misfortune of falling from a loft or mow to the floor below, on Thursday last, the result of which was the fracturing of her right arm in two places at the elbow. Mrs. Heard being an elderly lady and of great weight, the fall was a most severe one. Drs. Caldwell and Yelland were called in to reduce the fracture. At latest accounts, she is doing well and her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

At the Saturday night "sing" Mr. B. Anderson gave the fellows something to think about. The spirit of the service was good.

Dr. Torrance gave an excellent address on "The Judgment Day" to upwards of 300 people, at yesterday's open meeting. A mixed quartette from St. Andrew's, composed of Mr. King, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Mulligan and Mr. Mulligan, sang a very pretty selection. The solo parts were pleasingly rendered by Mr. Mulligan. The audience seemed to enjoy very much the ladies' quartette, Miss V. Belleghem, Mrs. Seward, Miss Fawcett and Miss A. Belleghem. They sang "Let the Saviour in." After the address, Messrs. J. Miller, Crowe, A. Miller and Mulligan sang "Glory to God in the Highest." Mr. T. H. Martin was chairman.

This is convention week. First session on Thursday at 2.30 p.m. Peterborough sends several delegates.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Wm. Young, of Galt, is the guest of Mr. James McDonald, Ashburnham.

The Cobourg Post says : "Dr. John Beatty, of Peterborough, was in town on Tuesday."

Mrs. (Dr.) Fairbanks was visiting friends in Peterborough this week.—Cobourg Post.

Mr. Aaron Comstock has so far recovered from the effects of the accident with which he recently met, as to be able to sit up.

Miss Annie Fawcett left this afternoon to sing at a concert in Kingston. This is the third time this winter for Miss Fawcett to be requested to favour Kingston audiences with her presence.

The many friends of Mr. T. H. Graham, late of Gilmour street, town, will learn with pleasure that he is doing a rushing business in Grand Forks, Dakota. Mr. Graham is running two stores in that city, one on either side of the river. His brother Allan, of T. Dolan & Co,, will leave for there in a few days to take charge of one of the stores.

A COMPOUND COMMINUTED FRACTURE.

A Most Serious Accident Befalls an Old Lady.

Mrs. Mary Brown, of McDonel street, met with so serious an accident on Saturday evening as may necessitate the amputation of her foot.

While standing on the top of a stepladder investigating the cause of a fire which was burning fiercely in the chimney of her residence, the ladder overturned and she was thrown so violently to the floor as to sustain a compound comminuted fracture of her ankle, the force actually crushing the bone through her stocking into plain view.

Mrs. Brown was removed to the hospital and received medical attendance, but being an elderly lady, the fracture bids fair to be most troublesome.

Dublin Porter.

If you want to keep off la grippe, use "Dublin Porter," as a tonic. It will strengthen your system and give you an appetite. Recommended by all the medical faculty to delicate people. Sold by the leading grocers. Quarts, $1 per doz. ; pints, 60 cents. Telephone No. 98. H. CALCUTT.

A Charitable Object.

The celebration of Burn's Anniversary, in Peterborough, by a concert of high order and one worthy of the occasion, is not the only laudable object which the St. Andrew's Society have in view. The proceeds of this concert are in aid of the benevolent fund of this Society, which it is learned, has stood the strain of hard times until its funds have become nearly exhausted. Ticket holders, therefore, have the satisfaction of knowing that they are assisting a purely charitable society, which has been helping to relieve the town of some of the burdens that must be borne by every community. Remember the date—January 23rd.

Snazelle.

The Academy of Music, Montreal, opened the festive season with a programme appropriate to the occasion. The attraction was Mr. Snazelle, who was heralded as giving an unique and beautiful Christmas entertainment, which included music, song and story. But one thing has been to a certain extent lost sight of and that is the dissolving views. They were very fine, true to nature and marvellous, and were so placed on the canvass that anyone who saw them would truly come to the conclusion that they were realities. This to those who have not seen the views, may appear as imaginary, but they have such a natural appearance, especially when the ever accepted strains of "Home Sweet Home" resound upon the ears of the audience. Scene after scene pass before the wondering eyes and with the church bell chimes in the distance and the peals of the old parish church organ, has the effect of making one feel as if he was worshipping at the shrine of his Saviour. Mr. Snazelle sang several solos which were like his stories, accompanied on the piano and the canvas. The singing of "Nazareth" and the views were very acceptable, One of the finest views of the many was the "Rock of Ages." Mr. Snazelle appears at the Opera House here, on Thursday and Friday, January 24th and 25th, and should be greeted with full houses. Prices 25, 35 and 50c. Seats now on sale.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The anthem "O Lord How Manifold" was sweetly rendered in St. Paul's at last evening's service.

The Sunday School attendance at the Baptist Street Mission reached its highest mark yesterday when 163 scholars answered the roll call.

"The Spirit and the Bride say, come," was the title of a most pleasing anthem, which was sung by the members of the Park street mission choir, last night.

During the offertory in the Charlotte street church, last night, the choir sang "Jerusalem" with good effect, Mr. A. L. Davis and Miss Fawcett taking the solo parts.

Miss Flossie Hall took the soprano solo in particularly sweet voice, yesterday morning, in the anthem "Hail ! King of Glory." in the Charlotte street Methodist church.

Mr. Pady delivered a most interesting sermon to young men last evening in the Park Street Baptist Mission. He took for his text "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do." Acts. IX ch. and 6th verse.

"Seek ye the Lord" was the title of the evening anthem in the Charlotte street Methodist church, last night, in which Miss Flossie Hall took the solo and Miss Fawcett the obligato solo.

In St. Paul's church yesterday morning the anthem, "Jesu Lover of my Soul," was particularly well sung, Misses Rose and Paterson taking the duet and Mrs. W. A. Sanderson the solo very effectively.

Next Sunday, Rev. Dr. Galbraith, President of the Toronto Conference, will preach in the morning in the Charlotte street church and in the evening, in the George street church. Rev. F. M. Manning, of Whitby, will preach in the latter church in the morning and in Charlotte street at night.

Rev. C. B. Kenrick preached a most excellent sermon, yesterday, in St. John's church, from Isaiah lxi chap., 1 verse,—"The spirit of the Lord God is upon me ; because the Lord hath annointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek ; he hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." The sermon dealt principally with the life of Christ at the age of thirty years and was listened to with marked attention.

Yesterday morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed in St. Andrew's by the largest number in the history of the congregation. On Friday evening at the preparatory services 34 new members were received into full communion. This it will be seen is an exceptionally large number, when it is remembered three months ago 24 were received. An especially encouraging feature is the large number both of old and young admitted on profession of faith. The labours of the pastor and his faithful helpers are surely being abundantly blest. St. Andrew's begins 1895 with very bright prospects. The service in the morning was very impressive. Mr. MacWilliams took for his text John 1—29, "Behold the Lamb of God and beareth away the sins of the world." The sermon was able and appropriate and was listened to with great interest. The service will not soon be forgotten. In the evening again a large congregation filling the spacious church, assembled to listen to Rev. Johnston Goforth, from Honan, China. The needs of China and the power of the gospel to save were deeply impressed. He spoke for one hour but so interesting was his discourse that none were tired. Such stirring addresses must bear much fruit.

HAVELOCK.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Havelock school board met, first meeting. The members elected were Messrs. Maiden, Chapman and Bryans, who, after taking the declaration of office took their seats. The board present was Messrs. Miell, Mark, Chapman and Bryans. Moved by Mr. Mark, seconded by Mr. Miell. that Mr. J. Maiden be chairman of the board for the year 1895. Moved by Mr. Miell, seconded by Mr. Bryans, that the school board grant the council permission to use school hall for council purposes for the year 1895, free of charge, and the council pay school board six dollars as payment of caretaker's salary for his services. Moved by Mr. Mark, seconded by Mr. Chapman, that Mr. Brenton be re-engaged as caretaker for the year 1895 on his former agreement. Moved by Mr. Bryans, seconded by Mr. Chapman, that Mr. Mark be secretary-treasurer for the year 1895, at a salary of $15, and that he provide his bond of fifteen hundred dollars, according to the act. Moved by Mr. Bryan, seconded by Mr. Miell, that the secretary-treasurer be authorized to borrow money through this minute, required to meet current expense from time to time at the lowest possible rate of interest. Moved by Mr. Bryans, seconded by Mr. Chapman, that the accounts of $1.50 due EXAMINER, and 60c due the Mail papers, and also an account of $105 due Phillip Bros. for furnace, be paid. Moved by Mr. Bryans, seconded by Mr. Miell, that the secretary tender for 30 cord of green maple wood, 36 inches long, face measurement, also 7 cord of dry pine, 4 feet long, all to be sound body wood, tenders to be open up till Feb. 1st. Wood to be delivered on school ground on or before the 1st day of March, 1895. The chairman appointed for committees : Messrs. Mark, Ritchie and Bryans, as managing committee, and Messrs. Miell and Chapman as educational committee. Moved by Mr. Mark, seconded by Mr. Bryans, that the regular meetings of this board be held on the first Monday of each month, at the hour of 8 p.m. in school house. Moved by Mr. Mark, seconded by Mr. Miell, that the minutes of meetings of this board be sent to EXAMINER to be published during the year 1895. On motion the board adjourned at 10.20.

Watching Ice Formation.

To procure ice in the laboratory, even when intended to illustrate the same as an experiment, is generally brought about neither by the clumsy method of mixing large quantities of the original compound with sodium or calcium chloride, and exposing to its influence the subject under examination ; or, when in larger quantity, by employing one of the costly refrigerators now upon the market. With a practical chemist all such apparatus is ridiculed. Take for the expensive refrigerator a fractional distillation flask ; place the flask in the desired quantity of water which is intended to freeze, contained in a suitable receptacle. Through the neck of the flask is now inserted a rubber tube terminating in a glass point, which should all but touch the surface of the liquid contained in the flask, which consists of about twenty c.c. of an equal mixture of ether and carbon disulphide. The further end of the rubber is now connected to a pair of constant bellows, and a brisk current of air continued for about three minutes ; almost immediately the thermometer will sink to zero, the vapor of the mixture introduced escaping through the small tubular of the flask, while the outside vessel, containing the water, will be found to have become inseparable owing to the thickness of the ice formed. This constitutes a beautiful experiment for a lecture table, where the gradual development of the ice can be readily observed. By this means I have frozen a litre of water when the room was at 70 degrees F. in half an hour.—H. A. Warren in Invention.

DIED.

PARRINGTON—At 325 Simcoe street, on Saturday, January 19th, 1895, the wife of John Parrington, of a son.

THE INSPECTORATE MATTER.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR,—If your editorial statement be true that the Board of Education was unanimous in demanding Mr. Garvin's resignation (!), was it not enough, Sir, for one to be battling for his professional life against fifteen, without your entering the arena against him ? You have no right nor authority to hold him responsible for any letter not signed by his own name.

It is true that three or four "Liberal members of the Board" have been my "staunchest friends," so to speak—it would be more correct to say that they have staunchly supported the system which they helped to introduce, and hence the supervisor who was placed in charge of their schools, but it is not true that "It was only on grounds well known to Mr. Garvin, and not only particularly to recent events, that they felt it their duty to join the Conservatives on the Board in an unanimous declaration that Mr. Garvin's usefulness as an Inspector was gone." The writer, Sir, has no positive knowledge whatever on what grounds his resignation has been demanded, and if published inferences in the letters of friends be not correct he has sought in vain to discover them.

You say, "If Mr. Garvin feels inclined to continue such unjust attacks he may be favoured with some wholesome, if unpalatable truths of which the public are not generally aware." Mr. Garvin, Sir, has made no unjust attack on any man. On the contrary, in the Peterborough dailies of Friday last he spoke as follows : "I should like also to state that ever since I came to Peterborough (Wednesday evening possibly excepted), I have received nothing but courteous treatment from the Board as a whole, and that our relations for the two years have ever been of a harmonious nature."

But, sir, will you or some member of the Board be so good as to let the public know what the "wholesome, if unpalatable truths" are "of which the public are not generally aware." The writer earnestly requests, nay, demands, that those "unpalatable truths" be given to the public. Neither you, sir, nor the Chairman of the Commitee on Appointments shall stab him in the back with the double-edged knife of innuendo. Out upon such cowardice. State your accusations like men and let the Inspector have a chance to defend himself.

The citizens of Peterborough shall be the judge and jury, and they will not be slow to notice that nowhere in your editorial, or throughout your columns, are the charges made in Mr. Sawers' able letter re "secret caucus," on Tuesday evening, and "star chamber court" on the following night, refuted.

As to the progress the schools have made under my management, the following statements made by two prominent members of the board, which are clipped from your issue of Sept. 5th, 1894, should be taken as evidence :

"Mr. Hill, in referring to the report, (Inspector's) stated that all should congratulate themselves on the creditable and highly satisfactory condition of the schools."

"Mr. Hamilton said the position the schools occupied was a creditable one, and the results achieved were very satisfactory as compared with former years. It proved that the teaching staff of the schools were working with a will, and that the schools underwent a thorough Inspection. They had, he said, certain reasons to congratulate themselves upon the result."

In conclusion let me publicly thank the friends who are so kindly and actively interesting themselves in my behalf, and the teachers of my staff for their warm sympathy and fearless courage in testifying, without solicitation on my part (with one exception), to the character and professional attainments of their chief.

Yours, etc.,
J. W. GARVIN.

[Had it not been for the letters appearing in Mr. Garvin's interest endeavouring to cast undeserved blame on prominent Liberals "on and off the Board," not one word would have been said by the EXAMINER with regard to the difficulty between Mr. Garvin and the Board. In the above letter Mr. Garvin says the EXAMINER did not deny that there was a "secret caucus." If Mr. Sawers meant to insinuate that there was a caucus of Liberal members to consider the decapitation of Mr. Garvin, he is utterly mistaken. As to Mr. Hamilton's presence on the mythical occasion, his presence in St. Paul's church at a meeting, on the evening mentioned, makes it impossible that he should have had a hand in any caucus, as evidently insinuated. The "wholesome if unpalatable truths," suggested by the EXAMINER, and to which Mr. Garvin takes so strong exception, simply had reference to personal characteristics in the matter of perpetual exhibition of overweening vanity, that alienated those with whom he came into personal contact, to such an extent as to destroy the usefulness which under proper conditions, many acknowledge that the Inspector possessed. The EXAMINER does not wish in any way to injure Mr. Garvin—its desire is to benefit the schools by saving them from the unspeakable injury of having political feelings introduce as a factor in their administration. —ED. EXAMINER.

A Permanent Benefit.

Shade trees about a home, even in the country, appeal to a certain sentiment in human nature that is not reached by any other effort at adornment. Buildings and fences may be painted, the fields smooth, the garden neat, the door yard nicely turfed over, and the flower beds may show proof of refinement and taste ; but these speak only for the present and are subject to change, and call for constant care. But a spreading tree, with its sweeping branches and cooling shade, gives an air of permanent comfort and indicates that the man who planted it intended to make a permanent home and provide for posterity.

THE TOWN FATHERS' INAUGURAL MEETING.

MEETINGS TO BE LIVELY THIS YEAR.

The Eleven O'clock Closing Rule Will Evidently be Suspended Many Times in 1895.

The statutory inaugural meeting of the town council was held this morning with the Mayor in the chair and the following members present: Messrs. Cahill, Best, Sproule, Denne, Mills, Dawson, Sawers, Clinkscale, Stone, Mason and Phelan.

The clerk read the usual declaration concerning the members of the new council, all of whom had filed the necessary papers with the exception of Mr. Thos. Brady.

The Mayor made a brief address welcoming both the old and new members, after which were received:

THE FOLLOWING COMMUNICATIONS

From John Jeffers, asking for time in which to pay his taxes.

Referred to the Court of Revision, and on motion of Messrs. Dawson and Clinkscale, the applicant will be given corporation work.

From J. J. Hartley, John Kincaid, Thos. B. McGrath, T. McFadden and Wm. Hill, applying for the position of town assessor.

Referred to Committee on Appointments.

From E. B. Edwards, stating that a new trial had been ordered in the Dunsford vs. Peterborough case.

Received.

From Hampden Burnham, Honorary Secretary of the Children's Aid Society, stating that in accordance with the finding of the Finance Committee, the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society had advertised for applications from those wishing to take children. There were six applications, the particulars of which are appended and these are respectfully submitted for the consideration of the council. So far as the Society was in a position to judge of the several applications, after making due inquiry, that of Mrs. R. R. Hamilton was approved by the Society as the most favourable in its terms and the most suitable in other respects.

In view of the fact that there are some cases that are now before the Society requiring immediate attention, the Society will be glad if the council will give the matter its early consideration and either make the necessary arrangement or enable the Society to make arrangement for the temporary accommodation of the children.

The applications are as follows:

Mrs. R. R. Hamilton, $1.75 per child, per week.

Mr. Isaac Dormer, $2.00 per week, per child.

Mrs. McIlmoyle, $2 per week per child.

Mrs. Geo. Rose, (no terms stated.)

Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane, (application not completed.)

Referred to the Charity Committee.

From Andrew Fairbairn offering wood for sale.

Referred to the Charity Committee.

From Mr. A. J. Close, of the Universal Knitting Company, of Toronto, asking what the town would be willing to do in the way of offering inducements for the location of the works in Peterborough. The management expressed themselves as desirous of having some local capital interested.

Referred to the Manufacturers' Committee.

From R. W. Errett and George Stevenson, applying for the position of town auditor.

Received.

THE AUDITORS.

The Mayor appointed Mr. F. E. Bell as one of the auditors for the town. Messrs. Dawson and Best nominated Sheriff Hall as the remaining auditor. No other nominations being made the by-law for the appointment of these two gentlemen as auditors was introduced and passed.

THE FOLLOWING ACCOUNTS

were referred to the Finance Committee:

Rufus Stevenson	$ 3 00
Thomas Williams	75
O'Sullivan	1 00

RESOLUTIONS.

Moved by Messrs. Best and Dawson that Thomas Cahill, Henry Denne, Adam Dawson, Francis Mason and the mover be a committee to strike the standing committees for the year 1895.

Mr. Best explained that as every ward was represented on the committee he thought the motion should meet with the approval of all.

Mr. Sawers was of a different opinion. He thought all should have a hand in the striking of the committees.

Mr. Dawson pointed out that a small committee would do the work much more quickly and save a great deal of time.

Mr. Sawers didn't think time was any object. He had been sent to the council chamber to represent the citizens and was prepared to live in the chamber for the whole twelve months if necessary.

An amusing passage at arms then occurred between Messrs. Dawson and Sawers, which clearly indicates that the meetings of the council of 1895 will not be nearly as harmonious as in the council of 1894.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Sawers and Clinkscale, that the whole council be committee to strike the standing committees.

Moved, in amendment to the amendment by Messrs. Sproule and Denne that a committee composed of Messrs. Cahill, Denne, Dawson, Stone, Phelan, Best and Sawers be a committee to strike the standing committees.

Mr. Sproule's motion was lost, when the amendment of Mr. Sawers was put and carried.

The council then adjourned to meet at eight o'clock this evening when the report of the committee of the whole will be presented.

HOCKEY.

On Saturday evening the Peterboroughs won the first schedule match in this division of the O.H.A. against the Volts by a score of 11—2. The Peterboroughs had things all their own way from the start, but the Volts nevertheless put up a plucky game and fought hard against defeat. Unfortunately the latter team went on the ice with the firm conviction that it was to be beaten by an overwhelming score, and to avoid such being the case, two men were played at cover point to strengthen the defense, but it was a case of where "too many cooks spoil the broth," and the game around the Volts' goal degenerated into a shinneying contest, as the extra man only interfered with Thorne's play, and the goals which were scored were only acquired by "shinneying." The idea was a mistake, and the Volts realizing this, made a change in the second half, which made the game far more interesting for the spectators. The teams were as follows:

Volts.		Peterboroughs.
Dixon	Goal	Cluxton
Montgomery	Point	Thorne
Ferguson	Cover point	Adams
Phelan	Forwards	W Moore
Lefevre	Forwards	Wilgar
Wonham	Forwards	Moore
King	Forwards	Dunsford

The goals which were scored were made by the following players in the time specified:

1ST HALF.

1	Wonham	for Peterborough	in 10	mins.
2	Phelan	" "	" 3	"
3	King	" "	" 2	"
4	King	" "	" 1½	"
5	Wilgar	" Volts	" 4	"
6	Wonham	" Peterborough	" ½	"
7	Moore	" Volts	" 2	"

SECOND HALF.

8	King	" Peterborough	" 5	"
9	King	" "	" 2½	"
10	Phelan	" "	" 5	"
11	King	" "	" 4½	"
12	Phelan	" "	" ½	"
13	King	" "	" 2½	"

Lionel King played a star game during the evening, scoring six of the eleven games which Peterborough won. Phelan also played a brilliant game, but was not backed up by Lefevre, who was very weak in his position. With this exception Peterborough was strong all along the line. Parsons did not feel in good condition, and Ferguson, a new man, was tried at point and did well.

For the Volts, young Thorne played a dashing game at cover point, and though his inexperience at times was apparent, it is evident he has in him the making of a star, if he continues to practice. Bert Cluxton, just behind him, between the flags made some wonderful stops, which called for a good deal of applause. Wilgar and the two Moores also did well.

The Volts appeared to have great difficulty in keeping their feet on the ice and it was no uncommon sight to see two or three of them down at the same time.

An interested spectator of the match was General Manager Stevens, of the Canadian General Works, who cheered on his boys with a great deal of spirit. Mr. "Poly" Strickland as referee and Messrs. Lewis and W. J. English as umpires, satisfactorily performed their several duties.

In the second half of the game, the pretty combination work of the Peterboroughs was most interesting to witness. Phelan generally came out of a scrimmage with the puck and after one of the brilliant dashes down the ice, for which he is noted, the rubber would be accurately passed over to King or Wonham, who were always just in the right place to receive it and in an instant the puck would be raised straight on the Volts' flags, and a loud hurra would announce that Peterborough had once more scored.

The Morrisburg hockeyists, who are just now exulting over the fact that they have met with no defeat this year, will send the following team to Peterborough on Friday: Goal, Chalmers; point, Cutler; cover-point, Pariseau; forwards, Merkley, (Capt.), Myers, Snyder, Montgomery. As the Morrisburg's have proven themselves a fast team the game will be the best doubtless which has been played here this season.

Mr. J. P. Hurley, manager of the Peterborough's, is making arrangements for a tour of the team. When the schedule match is played with Kingston the boys will not return directly home but will stop off at Belleville and try conclusions with the Y.M.C.A. team there. Cobourg and Port Hope will also each be given games, and a good match may be looked for in the latter town, as the Port Hopers have an unbeaten record for this year.

This evening, a representative meeting is called of the hockey clubs of the town, with the exception of the Peterboroughs, for the purpose of forming a town league. Teams will probably be entered from the Canadian General Works, the Collegiate Institute and the town juniors. The Review states that the winners of the series of matches will style themselves the town champions, but such a title could only be borne by the winners of a series of matches from which no club had been debarred. The winners can be champion of "the town league", but not of "the town," unless the Peterboroughs are admitted. The meeting in question will be held in the Balace Restaurant, at eight o'clock.

A match between the bankers is on the tapis for the latter end of the week and will probably be set for Friday evening at ten o'clock. It will be Ontario vs Montreal and the spectators may look for a rich treat. The Bank of Montreal men will, it is rumored, wear plug hats and linen dusters, while the Ontario Bank clerks will sport dress suits.

ATE, DRANK AND WERE MERRY.

Mr. Jas. McDonald, of Ashburnham, entertains His Friends.

Mr. Jas. McDonald, of Elizabeth street, Ashburnham, entertained a number of his most intimate friends from the town and village at his residence a few evenings ago. The "At Home" took the form of a pedro party which lasted up till midnight during which those present spent a very enjoyable time in raising one another's bids. This was followed by a very elaborate supper which had been prepared by the host in a very dainty and appetizing manner. Needless to say all present amply satisfied the wants of the inner man. At the conclusion of the party, all present joined in wishing that Mr. McDonald may long live in order that they may be able to enjoy his kind hospitality on numerous future occasions.—COM.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Not Equal to it.

As a cure for frost bites, chilblains, burns and scalds, chafing, chapped hands, inflamed breasts, sprains, wounds, bruises, Magyard's Yellow Oil is the most reliable remedy on the market.

AGAIN THE INSPECTOR.

Mr. C. W. Sawers cannot be accused of lack of zeal, no matter what may be thought of his discretion, in seeking to prop up Mr. Inspector Garvin's position in regard to the School Board. In a morning paper Mr. Sawers prints a certificate of character and qualifications on behalf of Mr. Garvin, purporting to be signed by the teachers. The signatures published are eighteen in number. There appear to be the signatures of five teachers lacking; of these Mr. Sawers says three refused to sign and two were out of town. If Mr. Sawers reflected for a moment he would see that his course in this respect is injuring the cause he wishes to serve. If Mr. Garvin possesses all the personal and professional virtues the certificate asserts, why, after he has had nearly two years chance of displaying such shining qualities should it be necessary to institute special investigation, to discover them and have an opinion of them recorded? Why is it necessary for Mr. Sawers to interfere in a matter that is a simple question of business between the School Board and Mr. Garvin? Why is it necessary for Mr. Sawers to cajole teachers into an action that places them in the position of antagonizing the school board, by signing a document of whose full purport and effect, they were doubtless to a large extent unaware. By bringing the teachers into such relation in respect to the Board and Inspector, Mr. Sawers was placing the staff, to use a common saying, "between the devil and the deep sea." If Mr. Sawers had as great an interest in serving the interests of education as in promoting personal interests, he would see the impropriety and unmanliness of approaching sensitive lady teachers, inexperienced in worldly wiles, and practising what savours of intimidation, to procure signatures, which have, in some cases, since robbed the makers of their sleep. Attention may be called to the fact that none of the principals of the Ward Schools have signed the petition, except one, and, as his name was procured under a misrepresentation or, at least, a misapprehension, he has repudiated the action and has withdrawn his name. We do not see in the list the name of Mr. Wm. Smith, Mr. James Smith, Mr Walkey nor Mr. Yeaney, gentlemen whose signatures would count for something. The history of this document would be interesting, as showing the means employed to snatch a verdict in Mr. Garvin's favour. Does it not occur to Mr. Sawers (and Mr. Garvin) that in this matter it is not the teachers but the School Board that decides, or rather has decided, and that such interference as he has chosen to exercise is simply an impertinence? There is an old proverb which suggests the wisdom of letting sleeping dogs lie, which both Mr. Sawers and Mr. Garvin would have perhaps done well to bear in mind.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Rev. Mr. Crothers of Port Hope, Delivers Most Eloquent Addresses.

Both services in the Charlotte Street Church were conducted yesterday by Rev. Mr. Crothers of Port Hope. It was anniversary Sunday, and the church was well filled both morning and evening.

As the text for his evening sermon Mr. Crothers took the ninth verse of the third chapter of first Kings, "Give, therefore, thy servant an understanding heart." These were the words, he explained, with which Solomon answered the Almighty when interrogated as to what he desired, and the speaker called the attention of the audience to the fact that whenever in the Scriptures between God and man, that elements of information of a wonderful character could be discerned—information which although revealed thousands of years ago, yet measured itself right up to the present day of the nineteenth century. As the information was applicable to the state of affairs as then existing, so were they applicable to present day actions and deeds. Another characteristic, he thought, of these dialogues was that though in all cases they were peculiarly suitable for the deep consideration and thought of young people, yet all could derive lessons therefrom.

Mr. Crothers explained that he came not as a counsellor, in a judicial sense, but would like to make a few suggestions to the young people—the young people who were the

as well as the hope of the country. It was never realised more forcibly, he claimed, than at the present day, how much dependence the country was placing upon its young people, and how they were advancing with rapid strides to take prominent positions in church work. Where years ago there were no organizations of young people, now there were many, such as the Epworth League, Y.M.C.A., Christian Endeavour, Y.W.C.A., and hosts of others.

The most important positions, he stated, were being vacated from time to time. The bench, the seat of the legislator and other similar offices were opened for new men, and who were these new men but men picked from the rising generation—men who were anxious for progress.

Like many other young men Solomon made

when he started out in life. His supplication for "an understanding heart" was one worthy of praise and if he had only lived up to this standard, the record which is read of his derelictions would not be so painful. "Though Solomon's kingdom was great," contended Mr. Crothers, "it was not greater than is yours. Solomon could number his hosts and his provinces, but his wealth was fleeting, while our kingdom is emphatically the everlasting one—who amongst you could give an account of the vast possibilities which loom up before you in the incomprehensible 'to come.' Seeing Wellington or Napoleon at their play as boys, who could have stepped forward and claimed that they would bear the mightiest names known in the annals of modern history. Who, seeing that tiny child, in the bygone ages, floating down the river in his basket of bulrushes, could have announced that there lay the future prime minister of a hundred provinces."

The interesting sermon was continued along the line indicated and was concluded by an earnest exhortation to the young people to be worthy of the great confidence and trust which was being placed in them.

DOURO.

An almost life-long and highly respected resident of Douro, Mr. J. B. Coughlin, died on Tuesday, Jan. 15th, at the family residence of a kidney affection and vertebral carries. The deceased gentleman, who was in his fifty-second year, was a native of Peterborough, but removed with his father when a mere infant to Douro, where he has since resided. He leaves behind him a widow and eight children. He was highly respected, and a large concourse followed his remains to their last resting place on Thursday.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Goods are RIGHT If They Are LEFT.

We refer to our REMNANTS which have been LEFT over after a heavy season's selling, and which are going so fast that they won't trouble us at stock-taking time.

The qualities and prices are RIGHT—if they are left. Because we have decided to give customers the advantage of good, serviceable, staple oddlengths at and below original cost.

Some of the snaps still left on our Remnant Counter consist of short lengths of DRESS GOODS, CLOAKINGS, FLANNELS, BLANKETS, COMFORTERS, TABLE LINENS, TOWELINGS, &c. But they are going fast. It's worth while to come in and look them over.

We are grateful to our customers for their valuable patronage during 1894, and respectfully solicit continuance of the kind favours during 1895.

NEW GOODS
NEW LEAF

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will set off cheap.

CAST OUT the disorders diseases, and weaknesses peculiar to women — by the prompt action of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A woman's beauty depends on her health — beauty in this case can be purchased. A bad complexion, a muddy skin, a wrinkled face and sunken eyes, follow the disorders of the womanly functions. Cupid is in demand for healthy woman—not for sick and ailing ones.

The "Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a strengthening nervine to be used in all those distressing troubles which make woman's life miserable. You'll find relief from sleeplessness, backache and bearing-down sensations. It's a medicine prescribed by an eminent physician for those nervous conditions brought on by functional disorders—such as Nervous Prostration, Excitability, Fainting Spells, Dizziness, and St. Vitus's Dance. Science Progress.

SMOKELESS LOCOMOCIVE.

The Struggles of Science Said to Have at Last Been Rewarded.

A few invited guests witnessed yesday the trial of a new smoke-consuming apparatus, which, according to all appearances, is destined to cause radical changes in the operation of railways, says a Vienna journal. The inventor of the apparatus, who was introduced to them, is the mechanical engineer of the Northwest Railway, Mr. Theodor Langer. The management of the Northwest Railway kindly placed at his disposal the special train which conveyed the guests from Vienna to Znaim, a distance of 100 kilometres, on yesterday's trial trip.

The two cars immediately behind the locomotive were open, and the occupants were able, consequently, to observe closely the working of the new apparatus. It was shown that the locomotive, even when running at a high rate of speed—at times as high as 70 kilometres an hour—emitted only clear water steam, but not smoke, sparks or cinders.

After years of observation Mr. Langer succeeded in explaining with theoretical directness the complicated process of heat power, and the law of the composition of smoke. In harmony with the law he placed outside the boiler an automatic device which supplies the fire with just enough air to make possible the consumption of the smoke and gas. In the space over the fire a steam veil operates in such a manner that the air and the gas are whirled together and thoroughly mixed. The gas, which has thus been burned, is then forced against the boiler, and its heat-giving power is utilized to the last possibility. The great advantages of this process are plain. Besides effecting a great saving of heating materials —estimated at 10 to 25 per cent.—it enables a railway company to do away with the disagreeable and unhealthy smoke, cinders and gas which are emitted by locomotives of the usual type, for the locomotives provided with the Langer smoke consuming device give out only the pure steam necessary to operate them. * * * This device has been applied on thirty five locomotives (most of them in the express train service of the Northwest Railway, and after trials extending over two years has been found in every way satisfactory. More locomotives are provided by the Northwest Company with it almost every month. Other companies which have tested the invention report equally good results.

Ventilation for Everybody.

One of the greatest difficulties met with in ventilating public buildings and railway cars is to settle the question of how much air shall be admitted, or how often the entire cubic contents of an apartment shall be renewed. This from the fact that in the quantity of air required individuals vary greatly. To some the whole ocean of the atmosphere is inadequate, and they do not feel even comfortable unless a Niagara of air is pouring over them. This is the fresh-air fiend, male and female, who opens the car window and swallows dust and cinders (and makes others do the same) for the sake of satisfying their craving. Behind, sits, doubtless, a person to whom the least breath of air in motion is a calamity, yet both of them must make the journey in company. One has just as much right as the other to his views of what is desirable to him, and neither is called upon to give way to the other; one smothers and the other feels that he or she is about to be blown out of the car.

The only compromise that we can think of that would answer and make ventilation of public rooms a success is to provide an automatic system which shall be variable in different parts of the same room. These parts should be supplied with traps in the floor and have, say, a 6 second fan blower beneath each trap, and be accessible only to fresh-air fiends of both sexes. In the other parts a dead-air space—approaching a vacuum—should be maintained into which a little sulphuret of hydrogen should be injected periodically, in order to obtain all the phenomena of bad ventilation for persons of infirm health who are compelled to travel. Then every one would be satisfied—if the plan worked! —The Engineer.

TO AVOID TROBLE WITH WAGONS.

Do Not Expose them to Weather.—Treating Wheels With Oil.

This is the time of the year when the spokes in the farm wagon, spring wagon and buggy wheels begin to rattle, says the Orange Judd Farmer. The door of nearly every blacksmith shop is blocked with the wheels of these vehicles. Usually there is a certain amount of heavy hauling to be done at this time and the wagon tires begin to bother just when the vehicle is most needed. However it is used just as long as possible until finally a tire will slip off and a broken wheel probably results. Being a busy season for the blacksmith several days may elapse before the repairing can be done, and thus considerable loss accrues to the unfortunate owner.

If the work of setting tires was similar to that of greasing harness it might be done during bad weather, but on rainy days wagon tires give no trouble. However, much of the loss resulting from loose tires can be prevented if due precautions are taken and the vehicles properly cared for.

In localities where the roads become deeply rutted and afterward grow very hard the paint is quickly rubbed off the felloes and ends of the spokes in wagon and buggy wheels. The vehicles are then frequently allowed to stand out in all kinds of weather. The felloes not being protected by paint become thoroughly soaked and when dried out by the hot sun they shrink, lessening the size of the wheel and consequently loosening the tire. To prevent this the felloes should be protected from wet which is best done by keeping in dry sheds.

Oiling the felloes occasionally has been found beneficial where they are inclined to dry out. For oiling them a small trough a trifle wider and deeper than the felloes is needed. In it place linseed oil heated to the boiling point. Immediately turn the wheel slowly through the boiling oil. Two or three revolutions will probably be sufficient. Do the same with the next wheel. Then add a little more of the boiling oil and proceed with the remaining wheels. When the operation is completed the oil remaining can be returned to a vessel and kept until needed again. Do not wait until the tires begin to loosen, but give each set of wheels an application in the early part of the summer. Then if the vehicles are kept in the shade when not in use, they will not need to be treated again until the next year. It is not a bad plan to give the felloes a good coat of paint each summer after they have been thoroughly soaked with oil.

Summer Care of Hogs.

Prof. Henry of the Wisconsin experiment station says in the Breeders' Gazette that hogs have a craving for such articles as earth, ashes, charcoal, rotten wood, mortar, soft stone, soft brick, etc. Only a very few insist that there is no need of these articles, the craving of them being abnormal, somewhat like the school-girl gnawing slate-pencils or chalk. The large majority of hog feeders will agree with me, I think, that after all, the hog knows pretty well what he wants, and does not search for and consume these substances for no good end. Most hogs have rings in their noses and never get the opportunity to root in the soil, as all will if not thus prevented. In his wild state, and even when left to himself on our farms, the hog must take a large amount of earthy, gritty matter into his stomach, which condition is held in abeyance when the ring is introduced and the animal confined to small yards or on wood floors. At this station we keep all our swine on the ground at all times of the year. In the summer time the hog-house is entirely vacated, all going out to the fields as soon as the weather will permit. Those that must be confined are kept in movable pens with the natural earth for a floor. When they come back to the hog-house in the fall they are still kept on the ground, having a straw bed resting directly on natural earth. Only when let into the "dining-room" do they stand on board floors. Of course we must keep rings in their noses, otherwise they would root too much in the field in summer and dig great holes in their apartments in winter. Under this liberal treatment, where we keep as close to nature as we can, we find that our hogs still have an intense craving for something, which, for lack of a better term, I have called a condiment. With us, hard coal ashes are easily obtained, and at times we have used as much as a one-horse wagon-load thrown into the summer pens of swine on experiments and to those in the open fields. I frequenely watch the hogs working at a pile of ashes, where individuals will stand for half an hour at a time crunching cinders with every evidence of extreme satisfaction and perfect contentment. I have sometimes wondered if the hogs did not eat too much of this material, yet the growth is satisfactory, and the gains from the food consumed excellent.

Mulching Strawberries.

The strawberry season for 1894 has passed. We must now prepare for 1895, and one of the most important things to attend to is mulching. This is just as important in the south as in the north, east or west. The mulch not only keeps the berries clean but holds the moisture, which is very important. An acre of good strawberries well mulched and clean is worth from $25 to $100 more, and the mulch alone will benefit the soil more than the cost of itself. In the south thousands of tons of pine tags are burnt yearly from fire running through the woods; they can be had by simply raking up and hauling and are free from seeds. This is very important and particularly if the crop has to stand more than one year. Tobacco stems, when they can be had cheap, I find also excellent. Leaves from the woods are more excellent to cover the ground between the rows, but not so good on the plants; if put on thick they lie too close.—Ohio Farmer.

"I have been a victim to terrible headaches," writes C. F. Newman, Dug Spur, Va., "and have never found anything to relieve them so quickly as Ayer's Pills. Since I began taking this medicine, the attacks have been less frequent, till they have ceased altogether."

After La Grippe obstinate coughs, lung trouble, etc., frequently follow. There is no remedy so prompt, and at the same time effectual and pleasant, as Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites, which is the latest and best combination of anti-consumptive remedies. EMERGENCY NURSING

Why it is Necessary That Mothers Should Have Proper Training.

Miss E. Marguerite Lindley recently talked to the New York Red Cross Society on what to do in emergencies and home nursing.

"In every walk in life, especially in every school and home," said Miss Lindley, "there is a crying need for instruction in emergencies. There are no limitations to emergencies that are likely to occur which demand from us proper attention. This is especially so during the summer. Everybody, particularly mothers and teachers, should be educated to dress a simple wound, and in severe cases to keep the patient at least in good condition of mind and body until abler services can be obtained. Instead of this it is a deplorable fact that most women and girls either faint at the sight of blood or stand helplessly around, adding distress to the scene by whispered remarks and sad faces." Miss Lindley suggested that it would be better if the school children were taught less of the dead languages and more of the live body.

"Is it right," she added, "that girls are graduated as 'finished' when the sight of blood causes them to faint when their hands, educated in very other fine art, are powerless to bandage an injury? A few minutes profuse arterial bleeding may deplete the system beyond years of recuperation, and, on the other hand, a sprained ankle properly massaged and bandaged at the time of accident may regain strength in days that as many months would not otherwise restore.

"In home nursing," continued Miss Lindley, "the field is quite as broad as in emergency work. Home nursing is for incipient ills, for emergency nursing, whether of accident, contagion or the culmination of chronic diseases, and for convalescence which in many instances is a more dangerous period than the acute stage of illness, inasmuch as doctor and nurse usually dismiss themselves at this time and the members of the family assume the role of nurse usually to the disadvantage of the patient. Overindulgence in diet and sociability are grave faults of the amateur nurse. Home nursing education should include among other features a knowledge of human nature and how to manage emotional natures so that strength is breathed from every influence. Too many invalids are made so from the emotional attitude of sympathetic friends, although they will insist that such influence is invaluable to them. The best of all sympathy is that spoken only in strong deeds. No emotional ideas should be allowed; no faces should be present in the sick-room that speak other then cheer and courage. The human animal, like the dumb brute, needs absolute repose when under the ban of physical pain. The mind should not be stirred by much conversation."

Miss Lindley affirms that the sick-room should be bright, cheerful, airy and dry, removed from sharp or sudden sounds, odors and other unfavorable influences. The ground floor is undesirable for obvious reasons. There should be windows on opposite sides if possible, but care should be taken to keep one or the other shaded. The head of the bed should be placed towards the strongest light, "although many of our nerve specialists," added Miss Lindley, "say that on account of the polarity of the earth the bed should be head towards the north first, the south second, east third, but not towards the west."

Sunshine should be admitted as much as possible, and screens provided to prevent inconvenience to the patient's eyes. Ventilation should be carefully considered. A current of air is necessary, but a draught is to be avoided. In cases of pneumonia it is best to ventilate through an adjoining room. An open fire place is of great importance in ventilation, and a fire helps induce the current up the chimney.

A candle burning in the grate may be sufficient for the sick room in summer time. A single bed is better than a wider one in case much care is needed; a wide one is the better in case the patient needs much changing of position. Two sets of bedclothing should be provided, so that one set can be aired while the other is in use. The room furnishings should be simple and restful. No perplexing patterns in wall papers should ever be placed in sleeping rooms. A table should be placed near the bed, but no accumulation of bottles or dishes should be allowed in sight.

Conversation should be cheerful, but neither hilarious nor continual. Creaking hinges may be treated to an application of soap. The carpet sweeper and a slightly moistened dustcloth are the only implements of the kind for the sick room. Food should be prepared in small quantities and without consulting the patient.

Miss Lindley dwelt with special force on the results of poor posture during convalescence. "In many cases" she said, "it leads to deformity and weak internal organs. What is needed is more massage and less encouragement to the convalescent to sit up."

Good Lemonade.

A good glass of lemonade is as rare as "a beaker full of the warm South." It should not be the thin fluid which is its common presentment, but should have "a body," which can alone be got by reducing the sugar to a syrup before adding the lemons. Take half a pound of loaf sugar, and reduce it with one pint of water; add the rind of five lemons, and let it stand an hour; remove the rinds, and add the strained juice of the lemons; add one bottle of Apollinaris or other water, and a block of ice in the centre of the bowl. Peel one lemon, and cut it up into thin slices; divide each slice in two, and place the pieces in the lemonade.

The Raw, Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether internal or external. 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

Skin Diseases.

Skin diseases are more or less occasioned by bad blood. B. B. B. cures the following skin diseases: shingles, erysipelas, itching rashes, salt rheum, scald head, eruptions, pimples and sickness, by removing all impurities from the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,]
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest,
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age,
They then went home, but stop, I mis.,]

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

CARE OF WORKING HORSES.

Some Excellent Points Horse Owners Would Do Well to Remember.

There is as much difference in the disposition of horses as there is in men and require as careful training and education as boys do to correct evil habits. In fact the training must begin before the habit is formed. The disposition of the colt must be looked after and treated according so that when it reaches the working age, breaking will be unnecessary, for it will have already been trained into submission and obedience. Firmness in the handling of horses is essential but kindness is of more importance. A vicious disposition can be intensified by cruel treatment. A horse has an appreciation of kindness and responds to it by the more patient service. This noble and patient servant of man is not appreciated as it should be by many. No other animal compares with the horse in beauty, strength and agility and in nobleness of character. Dispense with him for a year and see where your dependence lies. Crops would fail, transportation would cease and hungry mouths would famish for want of food.

Some horses are very nervous and easily scare at objects new to them. Such horses should be very carefully handled, says a writer familiar with this matter. The first thing to do with a horse strange to city scenes is to place him in a position to notice what is going on around him, without forcing him upon objects which he especially dreads. Take the electric cars, for instance; if your horse shows unusual uneasiness with respect to them, manage to approach them across street, and at a safe distance let him stand and look at them. He will examine them closely and with an intelligence which is marvelous. If he manifests undue anxiety, reassure and soothe him with your voice. The next time drive a little closer and repeat the soothing assurances. Nothing is so quieting and reassuring as the firm, yet gentle, tones of the voice to a terrified horse. In a very short time you will be able to approach an electric car within six feet without apprehension. The horse has learned that the object will not hurt him, and that is all he cares for.

And so with any other object which excites his fear. A firm hand, a cool head, and a soothing word will accomplish more than punishment under any and all circumstances. None but a fool punishes a horse for being afraid. A man that will whip a horse excited by fear should be forever debarred from handling a horse in any way. Whips are undoubtedly good things in their places. They come in well with a constitutionally lazy horse. They are very effective sometimes when horses are mischievous. A horse had a habit as soon as his bedding was put under him of scraping it all out of the stall behind him. He was watched, and at every attempt a vigorous application of the whip to his rear was made. In two nights he was thoroughly broken of the trick. If the personal safety of the occupants of a vehicle is endangered through a horse backing or turning around, use the whip vigorously, it will divert his attention. Never use the whip without warning, and never use it to cure a horse of fright; if you do, between the whipping and the fear he will soon become unmanageable when he meets the object he dreads.—Western Rural.

Something About Roses.

Most of our flowers are from across the Atlantic. But four varieties of the rose are native to America, and these are wild roses still. Man has not been able to effect material change from the original of many varieties. Other varieties have responded to man's efforts and have put on new beauty. Under the watchful and painstaking care of trained florists they have sported or been hybridized and new varieties have resulted. The law under which sports occur is not known, and yet we believe there is a law for their occurrence. As an example, the snowball of our yards is a sport from the dogwoods of our forests. All our double flowers have come to us in this way. They have done so in nearly all cases at the sacrifice of stamens and pistils, and hence seldom produce seed. The rose is in most cases an exception to this rule, and usually bears seed. By hybridization we often obtain fruit with qualities not found in either parent. Sometimes the result is an improvement, while often it is not. By this means many qualities of the rose, such as size, color, scent, etc, have been greatly improved. Many of the most beautiful roses lack hardiness to withstand the rigors of Ohio winters without protection. The Damask rose, a direct descendant of the famous rose of Damascus, is that from which the ottar of roses is produced in large quantities in India and other warm countries. The famous Tea roses, which are too tender for outdoor culture here are of the best for greenhouse culture and ornamentation. But at the hight of beauty in the rose family stands the moss rose, and between the beauty of the red and the white, we may challenge any one to decide.—Prof. E. W. Claypole.

Prefer Canada's Trade.

MADRID, Jan. 19.—The members of the Chamber of Deputies from Porto Rico have asked that Porto Rico be not included in the modus vivendi between Spain and the United States upon the ground that Porto Rico sugar goes to Canada and not to the United States. Apart from this the opposition to the new commercial arrangement is not serious, although some deputies intend to attack the Cabinet, accusing the Ministers of having yielded to the menaces of President Cleveland.

A Smallpox Case in Guelph.

GUELPH, Jan. 21.—A case of smallpox occurred here on Friday in the person of William Schwartz who some days before came from near St. Thomas to attend the Dairy School under the control of the president of the Agricultural College. The dairy buildings are situated a quarter of a mile from the college and its students board in private houses in the township near Guelph. The sick man had mingled for several days with the students at the Dairy School, and when too sick to work, consulted a Guelph physician, who diagnosed smallpox and sent him to the smallpox hospital, where he is isolated.

Controller Wallace's Bad Tumble.

BRAMPTON, Ont., Jan. 21.—Yesterday as Mr. Clarke Wallace was returning from Ottawa to his home in Woodbridge, driving from Toronto Junction with his son Tom, the horse became frightened at a house which was being moved at the top of the Black creek hill near Weston and ran down the hill at a terrific speed. They controlled the horse for a time but finally ran against the bank. The sleigh overturned, throwing both occupants out with great force and bruising the controller considerably on the side and face, but Tom was only slightly injured.

Windsor's Mortality for the Year.

WINDSOR, Jan. 21.—Health Officer Coventry has completed his annual report. It shows a total of 83 deaths for the six months ending December 31, 1894. The heaviest mortality was among infants under one year, of these there were 20. The death rate was 14.47 per 1,000. Dr. Coventry says the large number of deaths from consumption is notable.

Brockville Bigamy Case.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 21.—Detective Wm. Greer, of Toronto, arrived here on Saturday in connection with the Dempster bigamy case. The fact connected with the postponement of the sentence of Mrs. Dempster by Judge McDonald gives color to the rumors that Mrs. Dempster secured poison that would destroy her husband's life without leaving a trace.

Mayor Stewart Loses a Good Position.

HAMILTON, Jan. 21.—Mayor A. D. Stewart, who has held the position of chief game warden for the past three years, has received a letter from Hon. J. M. Gibson asking him to resign the position. The reason given for this action by Mr. Gibson is that it is desired to have the chief game warden's office located in the Parliament buildings, Toronto, and the holder of the post must give his time exclusively to the work in connection therewith. A salary of $1,000 a year is paid the chief game warden and several names are already mentioned in connection with Mayor Stewart's successor, among them being Edward Tinsley and Andrew Murdoch, both of Hamilton.

Nanaimo's Dishonest Police Magistrate.

NANAIMO, B. C., Jan. 21.—Police Magistrate Planta left town Friday afternoon in a small sail boat with his youngest son. The boat was seen later in the day heading for the American side. Planta's flight was well timed. A hurried investigation of his affairs shows that for years he has been in the habit of converting public money and trust funds to his own use. Planta is supposed to be making for San Francisco whence he can proceed to Hawaii.

Dr. Baxter in Haldimand.

CAYUGA, Jan. 21.—At a large meeting of the Reformers of Haldimand, held on Saturday, Dr. Baxter was the only name presented to the meeting as a candidate to contest the riding in the bye-election for the local house, rendered necessary by the retirement of Mr. Senn. The doctor's nomination was thus unanimous.

Another Victim of the Delavan Fire.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Benjamin Heilman, of Brooklyn, who with his wife jumped from the fourth story of the Delavan house on the day of the fire, died at the city hospital on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Heilman arrived on their wedding tour at five o'clock in the afternoon of the fire. In jumping from the window Mr. Heilman struck a balcony and received internal injuries. His bride was badly injured and is disfigured for life.

Captain Dreyfus Mobbed.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Captain Dreyfus arrived on Saturday at the seaport of La Rochelle, on his way to the island of Ro. An enormous crowd hooted at him. The guard was unable to keep the people back from their prisoner. Men and women fought to get at him and several struck him on the head. A riot threatened, but eventually the people were driven off by the police.

Church Bats.

It is a queer fact that in the basement of a certain Lewiston church live bats that never go out, but exist upon the mice they can catch there. The janitor says that a dozen of them will watch for a mouse, and when he appears swoop down upon him, and after a lively battle he is conquered. If any of the bats are overcome in the fray they are eaten, too. The basement was entirely freed from them once. The furnace tender would leave the window open till midnight, and then close it while the bats were outside, and they had to find another abode.

CLAIM SHAVING BY THE MUTUAL RESERVE.

The Editor of Our Monthly Issues a Straight Challenge to Auditor Cameron, of the Mutual Reserve—A Red-Hot Editorial.

(From the Toronto World, Jan. 17th.)

Editor World: In your issue of the 9th inst. appears a letter stated to have been written by Mr. D. E. Cameron of the Mutual Reserve, to Managing Director Ellis of the Manufacturers' Life, in which Mr. Cameron has the gall to request Mr. Ellis to repudiate an editorial which appeared in Our Monthly for Dec., 1894, headed, "Claim Shaving in the Mutual Reserve." That editorial, which was written by myself, is characterized by Mr. Cameron as a "scandalous and untruthful article," "a vulgar and disgraceful attack," and a "tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end"; about the worst that could be said of any article whatever. Mr. Cameron has been with the Mutual Reserve nearly four months, and, of course, knows all about that musical institution; Mr. Cameron is also a gentleman of the utmost integrity, so much so, that whatever he says goes. Good. The issue is therefore, between myself and Mr. Cameron, and the editorial which he has been good enough to characterize as "a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end," is published hereunder, and I will give the sum of $250 (two hundred and fifty dollars) to Mr. Cameron's pet charity, if he has one, if he can prove a single statement in it, to be not true, either in substance or fact. This is Mr. Cameron's supreme chance; if he can prove my work to be a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end he will do a good day's work for the Mutual Reserve, and if he cannot, of course it will not matter, he loses nothing. This offer holds good one week from date of publication.

CLAIM SHAVING IN THE MUTUAL RESERVE.

The October number of the Vigilant contained a fac-simile letter written to an agent by Vice-President O. B. Baldwin, of the Mutual Reserve, in which that worthy gentleman (we presume he is a worthy gentleman) was indiscreet enough to say that the Death Claim Department of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association had no authority to approve any case for payment in full, and that it was useless to expect it to do so. Now, anybody reading the Vigilant would naturally jump at the conclusion that it was useless to expect the Mutual Reserve to pay any death claim in full. But the Mutual Reserve pays some of its death claims in full, in fact it pays all its death claims in full that it does not shave or wiggle out of altogether (it has no other alternative), and the money thus saved in the course of every year amounts to an enormous sum. The Bulletin, of Toronto, for November, editorially referring to the subject says: "It is becoming a matter of common remark and complaint that the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association is 'shaving' its death claims." Well, we should say it has. The Insurance and Commercial Gazette of Belfast, Ireland, which has always fought well for the Mutual Reserve, and therefore cannot be accused of being a "subsidized old line journal," calls attention in a recent issue to several cases of claim shaving, and avers that it (The Gazette) is at a perfect loss to understand the conduct of the association, conduct which calls for full official explanation, and except that explanation is forthcoming, and is then eminently satisfactory, the immediate results cannot be otherwise than disastrous in the extreme. The Gazette recites among other cases of claim shaving, the case of Mr. Salter, who was "insured" in the association for $3,000, which after negotiation was declared settled for $4,500, but it had not been paid, and no reason had been given for the delay. First of all the widow was offered $1,250, then $2,500, then $3 750 and finally $4,500, (£250, £500, £750 and £900) and afterwards agreed upon the last sum as a basis of settlement.

A death claim in the Mutual Reserve is not "due" until 90 days after being finally approved of. This is the rule in most old line companies, but few of them are under the necessity of putting the rule in force. The Mutual Reserve, however, is in the habit of delaying the "approval" of claims upon the most trivial pretexts, and, of course, if there is any noise made about it, isn't it very easy to say that President Harper and his officers so zealously guard the funds of the institution over which they preside, that not "one dollar" will ever be paid out on a claim until they are satisfied of the honesty of it? On account of this care and watchfulness, Harper is able to float down to Toronto on a royal toot and blow in in a single night two or three thousand dollars of the salvage (which rightfully belongs to the "widows and orphans he babbles so much about.) The honesty of any single transaction which Mr. Harper is concerned in appears to be always all on his side, somehow or other, and in order to give better flavour to the delusion, his tin trumpet, The Insurance Economist, reminds us every now and again that Edward B. Harper is a member of the Calvary Baptist Church in the city of New York, and not only a member, but the senior member of the Board of Trustees of Calvary Baptist church, "which church cost more than half a million of dollars"!!! Think of that ye to whom the Mutual Reserve offers $500 in payment of $1,000—E. Barnum Harper, the president, who offers it to ye, goes to church!

But about the death-claim department of the Mutual Reserve having no authority to pay claims in full. The November number of the Insurance Economist tries to explain the anachronism by the tale that Vice-President O. D. Baldwin, no more than President Harper, or any other individual officer or department of the Mutual Reserve, has the authority to approve and pay for the association any death claim, either in full or for any other amount, or any other bill or claim against the Association." The rules of the Mutual Reserve require the approval and signature of three officers to every cheque and bill paid by the association.

Of course, in the multitude of counsellors there is a lot of time conveniently wasted, but let us see if the bluff of the Economist amounts to anything. There is the Death Claim Committee to examine the claim, and then there is the Executive Committee to approve of it finally; is that it? Or there is another committee still, to pronounce upon the finding of the Executive Committee? Well, let it b so. Let William Jones die and stick the concern for $1000, and what's the matter with the Death-Claim Committee, after all the evidence is in, passing the claim for payment in full or not (as it happens) on to the Executive Committee for their approval. The approval of the Death-Claim Committee, we should judge, should in no way influence the opinion or final approval of the Executive Committee, but Vice-President Baldwin says that the Death-Claim Committee has no authority to approve any case for payment in full, which simply means that every claim that will stand shaving stands to be shaved, and that's all about it.

The application, medical examination and claim forms in use by the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association are documents which would entrap the very elect; the late Lord Chief Justice of England, Lord Coleridge, characterized them as "pitfalls for the unwary," and that's just about the size of them.

TO PREVENT BOILER SCALE.

A Cartridge in the Boiler Which Attracts the Objectionable Matter.

For a year or two Charles Law, of Pittston, has been trying to study out a process for preventing the deposit on the interior of the boilers of rust and mineral and it looks as if he had succeeded, said the Wilkesbarre Record. The invention is very simple and consists merely of a cartridge, containing some metal or metalloid, which has the property of attracting to itself the oxygen of the water, which would otherwise go to the metal and attack it in the shape of rust. Meanwhile, the hydrogen of the water escapes in the form of bubbles. Mr. Law says the chemical process is what is familiarly known as electrolysis, and his only surprise is that it has not long ago been utilized for the purpose to which he now applies it.

In a recent experimental test Mr. Law left two tin pails, into which was poured ordinary hydrant water. Into one pail was placed a plate of polished steel, and into the other pail a similar plate, plus the cartridge, which was to prevent rusting. After a space of a week the metal plate accompanied by the cartridge was found perfectly bright and polished—the other was badly rusted. Then salt was added and allowed to remain several days. Salt is one of the greatest destroyers of boilers, and ocean water cannot be used in consequence. The test shows that the cartridge fully protected the steel plate, but the other plate was badly rusted.

The Future Locomotive.

David L. Barnes summed up an article in the Engineering Magazine on the present and future locomotive as follows: "We are now entering upon an era of change of motive power from steam directly applied, as in our present steam locomotives, to electric transference of power from a central station to moving trains. The change must necessarily go on slowly, commencing first with the suburban, switching, and elevated services and finally beginning in main-line work where the traffic is crowded. The steam locomotive will not be altered much in appearance or power, from the best of the present designs, but improvements will continue in detail so long as it remains in use. We are nearly at the limit of economy with steam locomotives where there are large boilers and compound cylinders, and where the engineer and firemen are competent and the loads not excessive, and the maximum capacity is about as great in some cases as it is practical to make it; hence, for higher efficiency and greatly increased hauling power at high speed, concentration of power is needed. So far as can now be seen there must be a stationary plant where power can be concentrated, and electricity seems the only practical means of transferring such concentrated power to moving trains."

The Bubble's Brilliancy.

When light impinges on the soap bubble, part of it is reflected from the exterior surface, and part enters the film and is reflected from the interior surface. This latter portion traverses the water medium between the two surfaces twice, and is therefore kept behind the first reflected ray. The two sets of waves interfere with each other, and produce a colored light, instead of a white light. Other waves, again, may destroy each other and extinguish the light. Some of the constituent colors of the impinging white light—formed by their passage through the film—interfere so as to destroy each other, while others remain unaffected. As the film diminishes in thickness, the colors necessarily vary. In this way is accounted for the marvelous variety of beauty of colors in the soap bubble, the iridescence of oil upon water, the changing of color of steel when being tempered and the gaudiness of some insects wings.

Great Filtering Plant.

Dr. Albert Shaw writes in the Atlantic on "Hamburg's New Sanitary Impulse." The general vague impression left in the people's minds about the cholera tragedy in Hamburg is, Dr. Shaw tells us, an entirely erroneous one, so far as it stigmatizes Hamburg as a dangerous town from a sanitary point of view. The danger that formerly existed came from the Elbe water, but since 1893 the largest filtration system in the world has been put into operation to purify Hamburg's water supply, and as for the rest, it is a dignified and splendid city, with 600,000 inhabitants, much more attractive and picturesque than Berlin. The Hygienic Institute is now in charge of Dr. Dunbar, of St. Paul, Minn., and with the intelligent and energetic work accomplish by it, the average January death rate of this city has decreased from 23.10 per thousand of population to somewhere between 18 and 19.

Luxemburg Labor Exhibition.

According to European advices a labor exhibition, to which foreign exhibitors will be admitted, is now under way at Luxemburg. It will be open until September next. The principal object of this exhibition is to make known the different types of improved small motors, machine tools, tools, as well as the accessory apparatus used in the different trades in the minor industries, as well as products made with these instruments; also the finished products, intermediary products and the raw products or the raw materials necessary for the different manufactures.

A Thunder Storm Every Day.

There are more thunderstorms in Europe, according to the president of the French Meteorological Society, than in equatorial regions. They occur in some parts of France every day of the year, and in six or seven months of 1892 as many as 328 were counted. But in Sumatra where there are storms during the six months of the southeast monsoon, thunder is never heard; and Peru has only one or two thunderstorms in a century, that of 1877 having been the only one since 1803.

Insurance of Crops.

With the view of warding off distress among the agricultural population in seasons of crop failure, Russian statesmen are preparing a scheme for the insurance of crops by the State. The insurance is to be compulsory so far as the farming lands are concerned, the rates varying according to the conditions of the various districts.

Experiments With a 52-Foot Gun.

A 6.3-inch gun was made up to the extraordinary length of 52.5 feet, at the arsenal of Rochfort, by screwing additional tubes to the muzzle so as to make it up to 90 calibres in length. With a projectile of 99.2 pounds weight, this is said to have given the unprecedented muzzle velocity of 2068 feet seconds.

OUR CATTLE IN EUROPE

France May Prove a Market for the Canadian Shippers.

THE SHEEP TRADE MAY SUFFER

Detection of Scab in Several Recent Importations May Lead to Restrictions Being Placed on Future Cargoes —English Tenant Farmers and Emigration.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The relations between the Imperial Institute authorities and the colonies are said not to be of the most cordial description at the present time. When the building was opened, the expenditure to be incurred annually by the various parts of the Empire was estimated at certain fixed sums based largely upon the space occupied by the exhibits. The colonies, or most of them, accepted the estimates and provided the necessary funds. Quite recently, however, the Secretary of the Institute has reported that the actual expenditure has been in excess of the estimates, and that further sums will therefore have to be provided both for last year and for the coming year. The excess does not amount to very much, divided among the colonies interested, and it will no doubt be met in some way or other. But the colonies seem to require and not unnaturally, that the annual expenditure should be limited to a fixed amount, so far as they are concerned, as otherwise the applications to the local legislatures for additional funds may cause difficulties it would be wiser to avoid.

The Macdonald Memorials.

The casting of the bronze portions of the Macdonald memorial for Montreal is proceeding as rapidly as possible in view of the intricate character of much of the work and Mr. Wade, the sculptor, quite expects that it will be ready for shipment in March or April. Of course he is largely in the hands of the casters and the work is of a nature that cannot very well be hurried. The statue to be erected at Kingston is also well in hand.

Tenant Farmers and Emigration.

Some of the tenant farmers' delegates who visited Canada in 1893 have recently been interviewed. In addition to their reports, which were printed and widely circulated by the Government, many of them have delivered lectures and inserted communications in the press, and in these ways have done excellent service to Canada. Besides, as their names and addresses were printed on the reports, they have been recipients of large numbers of letters asking for advice in regard to emigration. They all appear to have accepted cheerfully the responsibility placed upon their shoulders and the Minister of the Interior may be congratulated on having secured the services of these gentlemen, so thoroughly qualified for the mission they undertook. They state, however, that many of their enquirers belong to classes for which there is little or no opening in Canada at the present time, and add that the emigration of agriculturists has been much restricted owing to the low prices of produce that have prevailed in England and in Canada.

Markets for Canadian Cattle.

In view of the continuance of the restrictions in Great Britain, and of the recent action of the German and Belgian governments, several persons interested in the Canadian cattle trade are making enquiry as to the French market. It seems that several thousand head of cattle from the United States were entered last year, at various ports, largely for the Paris market; and it is stated that the trade may be indefinitely increased in fat cattle as well as in stockers, if a regular supply can be kept up, and nothing occurs to interfere with the trade. Both the United States and Canada may, however, expect to have more competition in the live cattle business. Some Australian shippers are looking out for freight for a thousand head of cattle to be shipped early in the season, in continuation of the experiment inaugurated last year. A large vessel is also on the way to the river Platte to bring over a cargo of live animals as a trial shipment.

Our Sheep Trade in Danger.

The development of the sheep trade from Canada is being watched with much interest. Several cargoes have arrived recently, however, in which scab has been detected, and the animals were consequently slaughtered. If such shipments continue there is a danger of restrictions being placed on the importation of sheep, which would be a great pity, from the point of view of the Canadian farmer. It was believed that the stringent measures taken some years ago had led to the stamping out of the affection, but this does not appear to be the case. It is alleged in some quarters that the cars in which American sheep are conveyed through Canada are subsequently utilised for Canadian sheep, without being disinfected. Of course this is only a surmise, but it is a fact that the sheep arriving here from United States are generally very much affected with scab, and almost every other cargo in the last few months has been slaughtered at the port of debarkation in consequence.

CARNIVAL AT OTTAWA

Sir James Grant Formally Opens the Sports at the Capital.

A MEETING OF THE CABINET

Nothing Definite Reached With Regard to Dissolution on Account of the Absence of Several Ministers—The Ministerial Tour—Mayoralty Recount.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—Owing to the tour which some of the members of the Dominion Government were engaged in making through the province of Ontario in December having been interrupted by the death of Sir John Thompson, a number of meetings arranged for, some of which were advertised, had to be given up. These meetings will commence with one at Galt on Jan. 28th. The tour will end with the week ending Saturday, the 9th February.

The Cabinet Meeting.

It is understood that owing to the absence of the Ministers in Montreal nothing definite was done at yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet in regard to dissolution.

Opening of the Carnival.

In formally opening the carnival yesterday, Sir James Grant said: "Gentlemen, this is a red letter day in the history of the Capital of Canada, and certainly our first effort in the celebration of a winter carnival is an assured success. Various circumstances have contributed towards the realization of our hopes in carrying forward the undertaking. We desire first to thank His Excellency, Lord Aberdeen, for the use of Government grounds, with rinks, slide and skating areas, which will be additional sources of pleasure to our people. We also return our thanks to our distant friends who have contributed so liberally, and also to the citizens generally for the very cordial support tendered to the carnival committee, thus bringing to a successful issue this great event. Canada has reason to feel proud of her sons and their efforts in the development of national sports which tend to manliness of character and physical powers. Such marked their efforts in fording the cataracts of the Nile, under Lord Wolseley, as well as their march into the prairies of the far west, to quell uncalled-for disturbance under most trying circumstances.

"Some people have an idea that winter sports, such as the present, tend to convey the impression that Canada is a frozen country, but a more salubrious climate than ours is not to be found anywhere. True, we have frost to macadamize our roads in winter and bridge our rivers, and with the addition of snow, our trade and commerce are very materially advanced. On the other hand we have many months of sunshine, which fructifies our fields, stimulates and encourages our people in the varied occupations of life. What better proof could be adduced than the production of over 20,000,000 bushels of wheat in one year in the Province of Manitoba, which also enjoys its winter season, but is not a detriment to its agricultural prosperity.

"As to our carnival, I am confident our friends from the neighboring republic, whom we welcome to our city, will join heartily in the various sports and entertainments with a full and thorough determination to enjoy the outcome of our endeavors on the present occasion. Such is the wish of the committees, who spared no effort, in order to realize the fullest degree of success in the present carnival which I now declare open."

Immediately Sir James Grant closed his speech the band played and the guns on Nepean Point, under the direction of Major Bliss, fired a salute of six guns which was replied to by the noonday gun on Parliament Hill.

Mayor Borthwick and Sir A. P. Caron delivered speeches congratulating the committee and the citizens on the success they had achieved and bidding visitors a hearty welcome to the city. The afternoon and evening proceedings were greatly marred by showers of sleet, which left the sidewalks as slippery as glass.

A Mayoralty Recount.

Ex-Ald. Cluff has succeeded in procuring a recount. An application for a recount made before Judge Ross was granted. The application was made by Mr. Taylor McVeity in behalf of ex-Ald. Cluff under the usual statutory form.

WESTWOOD CASE POSTPONED.

Clara Ford Will Not be Tried Until the Spring Assizes.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Clara Ford will not be tried until the spring assizes. This was the dictum of Judge MacMahon, before whom E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., who is associated with W. G. Murdoch, made application yesterday. The feature of his application was another affidavit by Clara to the effect that a dozen witnesses saw her at the theatre the fatal night at the time when she is supposed to have been in Parkdale.

Dastardly Assault.

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 22.—Albert Turner, a young man lately employed by Belisle & Co., tailors, went to Glen Williams Sunday evening to attend church. After the service, and when accompanying a young lady friend to her home, Turner was struck a terrible blow from behind just at the base of the skull. In falling the force with which he was hit partly turned him around when he received another terrific crack in the face. Turner fell to the ground from all appearances a dead man. An alarm was given and as the people were still on their way from church, willing hands conveyed Turner to the hotel where he has lain ever since in an unconscious state. Drs. Webster and Nixon are doing everything possible to relieve his sufferings. Joe McMaster is suspected of being the party who committed the assault and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Little Chance for Fahey.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—A strong effort has been made by the friends of ex-Detective Fahey of Montreal to have him liberated from the penitentiary on the grounds of ill-health. The papers and correspondence in the case are now before Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. The Minister asked for a special medical report in Fahey's case and has got it. There is said to be nothing in it to warrant Fahey's liberation at the present time.

RIOTING IN BROOKLYN

The Seventh Regiment Attacked and Stoned by the Mob.

STRIKERS HOLDING THEIR OWN

Little Progress Made Toward Resuming the Usual Traffic—A Few Cars Run Under Police Protection—Woman Run Down by a Green Motorman.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23.—Volleys were fired and riotous mobs charged with fixed bayonets in the streets of Brooklyn yesterday. New York's crack regiment, the Seventh, was attacked, and stones were thrown and shots fired at the guardsmen by crowds on the pavement and by persons in windows and on roofs of houses. The troops fired several volleys over the heads of the mob. Sharpshooters were also detailed and ordered to shoot to kill at any person seen throwing missiles or firing shots from house tops or windows. Numbers of people were jabbed with bayonets, but not seriously injured. One policeman was wounded in the hand, another in the arm, by bullets shot by either militiamen or people in the crowd. Two other policemen received scalp wounds and still another a fractured skull from missiles thrown from house tops.

One militiaman is in the hospital with a compound fracture of the skull due to his falling to the roof of the Long Island railroad depot in an attempt to escape from the 13th regiment armory where he had been imprisoned for intoxication. All these casualties and many of a less serious nature occurred in a succession of disturbances, which took place in spite of the presence of nearly 7,000 troops and 2,700 policemen.

The railroad companies made but little progress toward resuming normal traffic. All cars were stopped shortly after dark instead of running until midnight. President Lewis said that he had been requested by the police to stop running after dark. The police deny this point blank. At midnight all was quiet and no trouble was expected during the night.

The military situation is this: There are over 3,000 soldiers of the second brigade, or Brooklyn militia, on guard at the various trolley stables and power houses. In addition there are 4,634 soldiers of the First brigade, made up of New York regiments, also on duty there. One car was run out from the Halzy street depot and passed between files of Seventh regiment men.

The East New York car house presents a formidable appearance. The First Battery, Capt. Wendell in charge, has four cannon planted to command Broadway, Fulton avenue, Herkimer street and Alabama avenue. The guns can sweep these streets for many blocks.

Police Commissioner Wells is incensed at the reports of the inefficiency of the police, and the charges that they are aiding the strikers. Patrolman Geo. Kelly, of the 17th precinct, was suspended by Commissioner Wells for refusing to execute orders. He had been assigned to a Fulton street car. He made one trip and then refused to go out again, saying that he was tired of such work.

The first Broadway car was sent out at 4 p. m. The police took care that it was not interfered with. Five others followed it when the officials of the road saw that there was no interference. The Gates avenue line which had been tied up for a week was opened by the sending out of a car at 5 p. m. Companies A. F. and H. of the Seventh regiment were at the car house, which is but a short distance from Col. Appleton's headquarters, and the car was not molested.

President Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights Company, stated yesterday that about 145 cars were running, an increase of 35 over the number running on Sunday. When asked as to the protection afforded by the militia and police, he said that he was satisfied with the protection given by both. In all about 230 cars were moved yesterday. The number in operation before the strike was 1,900.

Mrs. Josephine Ziegler, aged 60 years, was run over by a car in charge of a green motorman at Broadway and Hayward street. She sustained a contusion of the hip and internal injuries. She is in a serious condition. The motorman was arrested and locked up. Witnesses say he was totally incapable of controlling the car.

A car on the Fifth avenue line started from Fifth avenue and 23rd street shortly after 4 o'clock. About three blocks from the depot it was surrounded by a mob. A detachment of the Thirteenth regiment under Major Cochrane charged the mob with fixed bayonets and the crowd scattered. August Browne received a bayonet wound in the hip. A feed wire was cut on the Bergen street between Rogers and Mostrand avenue.

A mob of over 1,000 men surrounded a Gates avenue car at Mostrand avenue. Sticks and stones were thrown and shots were fired by men in the crowd. The reserves from the Ninth precinct station house hurried to the scene. After some trouble and fighting in which three policemen were seriously injured, the mob scattered. Officer Lewis Shackelton sustained a fracture of the skull. Officers Dennis, Burke and James L. Collihan were injured but less seriously. They were hit on the heads by stones, crockery and other missiles, thrown from house tops.

The Seventh regiment last night for the second time fired a volley. At about 8 p. m. the police were called in and the militia took charge of the various car houses and property of the traction companies. At the Halsey street stables companies C., F. and K. of the Seventh regiment were stationed. Captain Palmer placed twenty picked sharpshooters at Howard avenue and Halsey street where a crowd of about 200 jeered them and threw stones and other missiles. At about 10 o'clock the men fired a volley presumably into the air. The mob quickly dispersed. Serious trouble is expected at the Gates avenue car houses to-day.

Furious Storm on Lake Michigan.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Jan. 23.—A furious wind storm is now prevailing here. The lake is lashed into a fury. The tug Tramp left in the morning and was caught in an ice floe, where she is now battling with the gale amid seas of ice. The steamer Chicora, of the Graham and Morton line, left Milwaukee yesterday, bound for this port, but has not yet been heard from.

MR. LODGE'S RESOLUTION.

He Does Not Want Great Britain to Secure a Lease of Necker Island.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Lodge (Rep. Mass.,) offered the following resolutions, and asked for their immediate consideration: "Resolved, that the Senate cordially approves the despatch of a ship of war to the Sandwich Islands on Saturday last, and is of opinion that an American ship of war should be for the present kept at Honolulu.

"Resolved, that prompt measures should be taken to construct or promote the construction of a submarine cable from San Francisco to Honolulu; that no part of the rights and privileges secured to the United States by Article 44 of the existing treaty between the United States and the Hawaiian government should be abandoned or waived in order to enable any other government to secure a foothold or lease upon any part of the Hawaiian Islands.

"Resolved, that in the judgment of the Senate immediate steps should be taken to secure possession of the Sandwich Islands by their annexation to the United States."

Mr. Blackburn (Dem. Ky.,) and Mr. Vest (Dem. Mo.,) objected and the resolutions went over until to-day.

WHITEWAYITES ALL RIGHT.

The Imperial Government Changes Its Mind With Regard to the Disabilities.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 23.—Another despatch was received from the British Government yesterday which instructed Governor O'Brien to give his assent to the bill for the removal of the disabilities against ex-Premier Whiteway and his colleagues and the Governor will likely sign the bill to-day.

Grand Trunk Not to Blame.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 22.—The coroner's jury in the case of Robert Hagyard, who was killed at Hyde Park on Saturday morning, returned a verdict of accidental death and exonerated the railway company. A deplorable circumstance was developed. It was shown by the evidence of Albert Edward Morris, a hotelkeeper, that Hagyard came to his place at six in the evening and remained until one in the morning, when he left under the influence of liquor. A whiskey bottle, partly filled, was found on the body. It was also shown that the horse driven by the man was a very stubborn brute.

Maidstone Farmer Killed.

ESSEX, Ont., Jan. 22.—John McHugh, a well-known Maidstone township farmer, aged about 50 years, was killed last evening at a M. C. R. crossing here while driving home from Essex. The sleigh was smashed to atoms and the body badly mangled, the head being crushed and one foot cut off. Deceased was a brother of Judge McHugh, Windsor, and a member of a prominent family in this section.

Nominations in Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jan. 22.—The nomination for candidates to fill the vacancy in the Ontario Legislature caused by the unseating of Dr. Smythe took place yesterday. Dr. R. T. Walkem nominated E. H. Smythe and Edward Bennett seconded the nomination. Hon. W. Harty was nominated by Geo. Mills and seconded by J. C. Hardy. Both candidates received a good hearing. The city hall was crowded to the doors and it was nearly six o'clock before the meeting broke up.

Chief Ardagh in Danger.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Chief Ardagh is lying in great danger and his recovery is a matter of doubt. He was mending well up to Thursday night, when he took a chill and suffered a relapse. An attack of pleurisy developed rapidly and his medical adviser, Dr. Gee, has been in constant consultation with Dr. Sheard ever since. He holds out but slight hope for his recovery.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Telegraph Lines Cut—Gen. Wei's Fate Has Its Effect on the Chinese.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The Times correspondent in Tien-Tsin says: The telegraph lines were cut on Saturday eastward from Wei-Hai-Wei; hence there is no news of the movement of the Japanese who landed at Yun Ching.

General Wei's punishment has had a salutary effect on the Chinese.

The troops are now punctually paid and well fed when possible.

Fight Between Troops and Bandits.

VICTORIA, Mex., Jan. 22.—A courier has arrived here bringing information of a desperate battle between a detachment of soldiers and a band of brigands on Saturday. The brigands were led by the notorious outlaw Marco de Luna. The band has been committing many depredations and a force of troops was sent to capture them. The bandits were surrounded at a ranch and opened fire upon the troops when they rode up. The soldiers returned the fire and the battle was continued for several hours. Nicolas Vela, one of the bandits, was killed. The others escaped when night came on. Two soldiers were wounded.

Postmaster Cobb's Arrest by Turks.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople gives the circumstances of Postmaster Cobb's arrest by the Turkish officials. The Turkish police arrested one of his letter carriers named Cegah, an Armenian, whom they accused of trying to pass a bad half penny. They handcuffed him, beat him and started him for jail. When Mr. Cobb protested he too was taken in charge and was locked up with his employe. The Standard's correspondent in Constantinople says that Sir Philip Currie, the British Ambassador, has demanded a full apology for Mr. Cobb's arrest.

Ayer's Hair Vigor is certainly a remarkable preparation and nothing like it has ever been produced. No matter how wiry and unmanageable the hair may be, under the influence of this incomparable dressing, it becomes soft, silky, and pliable to the comb and brush.

Beyond Dispute.

There is no better, safer or more pleasant cough remedy made than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It cures hoarseness, sore throat, coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

AFFAIRS OF THE HEART.

For every widower who marries a widow, there are eleven who espouse maidens.

Of the total population of the Dominion little more than one-third are married.

In Siam the first wife may be divorced but cannot be sold. The other wives may be both divorced and sold.

Marriage is growing popular again in England. The register for the first quarter of 1894 exceeds the first quarter of any year since 1868.

A tribute to a considerate wife was expressed in the will of a physician who recently died in Glasgow. She had deserted him three months after marriage. In his will, made seventeen years later, he left his entire fortune to her, because she had "permitted him to enjoy a peaceful and quiet life."

Three years ago a tiff separated Miss Cora Spire and Mr. Joseph Buchholtz, who were engaged to be married. Two weeks ago they accidentally met in a carriage, while attending a funeral at Sharon, Pa. They were returning from the funeral, when they were married in the carriage by Rev. W. M. Tinka.

A fortune-teller in Brooklyn had among her patrons, recently, a servant girl who was anxious to peer into the future. She listened to most pleasant predictions, and was then told that for twenty-five cents extra she could see a photograph of her future husband. She paid the sum asked, and was shown a picture of Edwin Booth.

POULTRY RAISING.

One thing that tends to make low prices from this time on is that a good per cent. of the poultry sent to market lacks much of being in condition, and this, with the quantity, helps to lower prices.

All roosts should be level or parallel with each other. Where a series of roosts is so arranged that the rear roosts are higher than those in front, the hens will always crowd up into the higher places.

Wheat bran should always be scalded before feeding, as it is not relished otherwise. For fattening chicks for market cornmeal that has been scalded will often induce them to eat more and to fatten more rapidly.

When the young poultry are confined in small runs it will be best to change every few days to fresh ground in order to avoid filth. Not only will the chickens enjoy the change, but better health will be maintained.

As soon as the hens begin to moult there is always a liability that they will begin to pluck feathers from one another, and as soon as one hen learns it she teaches it to another. The only sure cure is to kill the hen, and the sooner it is done the better.

THE CHURCHES.

The Captists in Sweden number 36,391. They have 550 churches.

There are now in Madagascar 1,800 self-supporting Christian congregations.

Gen. William Booth, of the Salvation Army, is about 66 years of age, and is as active and vigorous as many men of 30.

The smallest church see in the world is that of St. Helena, the bishop of which has jurisdiction over three clergymen.

Miss Lucy M. Booth, a daughter of Gen. Booth, has been appointed commander of the Salvation Army in India, with her headquarters at Bombay.

Rev. J. A. Zahm in an article in the American Ecclesiastical Review locates the Garden of Eden in the land intervening between the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates and the Persian gulf.

Twenty-seven million francs has already been spent on the great church of the Sacred Heart at Montmartre, and the building is far from complete. The money has been raised entirely by voluntary contributions.

INDUSTRIAL FIGURES.

The number of idle cotton operatives in Fall River is placed at 23,220.

Almost five-eighths of the steamers in the world are under the British flag.

The Texas Live Stock Journal thinks there are 1,500,000 fewer cattle in that state than there were at this time two years ago.

Estimates by the director of the mint place the gold product of the world at $175,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 over the amount stated in the annual report.

During the past five years the production of tin in the Dutch East Indies and the Straits settlements has increased greatly. The shipments to Europe and America to the end of August, 1894, were 44,118 tons, as against 27,557 tons in 1890. The syndicate which is trying to corner the market will have to obtain control of this source of supply to succeed, as well as of the visible supply, which was over 20,000 tons in August and only 14,000 tons a year ago. A WOMAN'S HEART.

ONE DISEASE THAT BAFFLES THE PHYSICIAN.

The Case of a Woman Who Suffered for Nine Years—How She Was Cured.

From the Newark News.

Valvular diseases of the heart has always been considered incurable. The following interview therefore, will interest the medical profession since it decribes the successful use of a new treatment for the disease. The patient is Mrs. George Archer, of Clifton, N. J. All physicians consulted pronounced the patient suffering with valvular disease of the heart and treated her without the slightiest relief. Mrs. Archer said: "I could not walk across the floor; neither could I go up stairs without stopping to let the pain in my chest and left arm cease. I felt an awful constriction about my arms and chest as though I were tied with ropes. Then there was a terrible noise in my right ear like the labored breathing of some great animal. I have often turned expecting to see some creature at my side.

"Last July," continued Mrs. Archer, "I was at Springfield, Mass., visiting and my mother showed me an account in the Springfield Examiner telling of the wonderful cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. My mother urged me to try the pills and on November 25th last I bought a box and began taking them, and I have taken them ever since, except for a short interval. After beginning on the second box, to my wonder, the noise in my ear ceased entirely. I kept right on and the distress that I used to feel in my chest and arms gradually disappeared. The blood has returned to my face, lips and ears which were entirely devoid of colour and I feel well and strong again.

"My son, too, has been troubled with gastritis and I induced him to try the Pink Pills with great benefit. I feel that everybody ought to know of my wonderful cure, and I bless God that I have found something that has given me this great relief."

Whooping Cough.

For Whooping Cough and all throat affections, chest troubles, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the best embrocation ever discovered. It promptly relieves inflamation, pain and soreness from whatever cause arising.

Collision on Brooklyn Bridge.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A rear-end collision occurred last evening on the Brooklyn bridge. Two cars were badly damaged and three people injured. The accident was indirectly due to another which occurred a few minutes before on the New York side, in which a car was derailed, stopping traffic from Brooklyn. The two accidents caused the most stupendous blockade that has ever occurred on the bridge. For more than an hour and a half the traffic on both tracks was at a standstill and the big promenade on the bridge was fairly jammed with people.

Another of Those Confidential Clerks.

HAMBURG, Jan. 22.—The Boersenhalle says that Charles Zander, the Nobel company's confidential clerk, who was arrested some time ago, embezzled 750,000 marks. The news caused the company's shares to fall seven per cent. on the Berlin Bourse, but this decline was made good when it was announced that the directors would cover the deficit from the reserve fund. The Nobel company deals in dynamite.

Captured the Elopers.

GUTHRIE, Ok., Jan. 22.—B. B. Blakney, of Tecumseh, a prominent lawyer and ex-county attorney, eloped with Miss Ray Swardsburg, daughter of a leading merchant. The father gave chase. The elopers' buggy finally overturned, and Swardsburg, coming up, covered the couple with two revolvers. After a short parley he marched them back to town, where the girl is now in close confinement on bread and water.

A Bank Defaulter in Court.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Jan. 22.—H. D. Miner, the defaulting president of the defunct Miner Bank, who recently returned from Canada and gave himself up to the authorities, appeared before the grand jury and pleaded not guilty to the charge of grand larceny. He was released in the sum of $3,000, C. M. Reed and R. J. Cross becoming his bondsmen.

MacLeod's Case Further Postponed.

BUFFALO, Jan. 22.—Herbert T. MacLeod, the Canadian charged with fraudulently obtaining naturalization papers, was again before the United States Commissioner yesterday, and after some testimony the case was put over till January 31.

Fatal Explosion in a Saw Mill.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 22.—The planing and saw mill of Brownlow and Co., located in Delray, a suburb of this city, was wrecked by the explosion of a boiler. Frank Colliau, the engineer, was killed and Henry Setske, a laborer, had his arm broken.

Strike Riots in Passaic, N. J.

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 22.—The striking employes of the Algonquin woollen mills to the number of 200 commenced rioting yesterday. Several non-union men were roughly handled. The cause of the strike was a 15 per cent. reduction in the rate of wages.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 22, 1895.

On the street here a load of white wheat brought 62c and 300 bushels of barley 46 to 47 1-2c. Outside there was very little demand for wheat and it was freely offered at 37c middle freights.

Buffalo reports a marked decrease in the visible supply of barley during the past week. Stocks in sight, afloat and stored aggregate 2,316,000 bushels, as against 2,624,000 last week and 2,194,000 a year ago. The quantity taken out for consumption is much greater than during the season of last year to this date.

The Buffalo barley market is quiet. Cheap barley is scarce and what little call there was it was for that class. Sellers are asking old figures. Sales, 18,000 bush. No. 2 Milwaukee at 59 1-2 to 60c.

At East Buffalo in sheep and lambs 140 cars were received, but as there were 120 cars of hogs and 142 cars of cattle room was not made for all the stock until late in the day and fully 50 cars of sheep and lambs were unsold at 5 p.m. Values were all of 10 to 25c lower on all grades, the best Canada lambs selling at $4.85, with $4.90 a fancy price for fed export stock and general range of quotations at $4.65 to $4.75 for good to choice. Export sheep were steady; Canada wethers, $4 to $4.25.

Wheat was weak in Chicago and closing prices showed a loss of 1 5-8c. It was also a disastrous day for corn and oats, the former showing an equal loss with wheat and the former declined 1c.

Speculation at the New York stock exchange was dull again; at the opening the market was heavy, prices declining 1-4 to 1 1-4 per cent., New Jersey Central and Union Pacific leading. The improvement in sugar was due to the favorable decision by the United States Supreme Court in the suit brought by Attorney-General Olney under the Sherman anti-trust law. The market closed weak with prices anywhere from 1-4 to 2 1-2 per cent. lower on the day. Total sales were 76,000; listed, 32,000, including Chicago Gas 14,000.

There was a distinct decline in all the speculative markets in London, but for no special discernable cause, and a speedy recovery is anticipated.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills have done me a great deal of good. I had a severe attack of the grip in the winter, and after getting over the fever I did not seem to gather strength, and had no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla proved to be just what I needed. The results were very satisfactory, and I recommend this medicine to all who are afflicted with rheumatism or other

CURED BY TAKING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured.'"—A. LEFIER, watchmaker, Orangeville, Ont.

Consulted a Doctor

SAVING THE SCRAPS.

Surprising Economy Among New York Restaurant Habitues.

"You would be surprised," said a confidential restaurant keeper to a representative of The New York Sun, "at the growing number of my customers who carry off with them portion of their unfinished meals. Three or four years ago the only person that used to do this was an old French lady, who always used two of the three lumps of sugar that we used to serve with a cup of coffee and pocketed the third. The next person I noticed doing anything of the sort was a young man who ate two out of his three rolls, and after looking a little shame-facedly round the restaurant, reached up and dropped the third roll into his overcoat pocket. The following morning he did the same thing, and now he always does it, and does it, too, as a matter of course.

"Both of these little tricks, you will observe, were at breakfast, and I thought the explanation of them was easy. I knew it was the custom in France to pocket the unused sugar, and I imagined the young man was a clerk in an office and used to eat the third roll during the morning or for lunch. But during the past year or so I have given up seeking for explanations of a habit that has become common, any explanation, I mean, except that of hard times, for now it's done right and left and at every meal. Why, sir, you'd be amused or saddened, I don't know which, to see the matter-of-fact way in which part of a meal are saved. Some customers bring little handbags and sweep every unused thing into them. Others use oiled paper and wrap up the fag end of a steak or part of a bird, and others, again make neat little parcels of their left-over bread and butter. It was only yesterday that I saw one young woman at lunch bring a small bottle out of her pocket and pour into it the milk she had not used in her tea.

"Of course I can't object to the practice, and I don't know that I would if I could. The customer pays for what he is served with, and it doesn't matter much to me whether it is eaten here at my tables or taken home by my customers to be eaten at theirs. Indirectly, of course, it affects me, because it means that there is a great and prevailing spirit of economy abroad, and if the saved scraps from breakfast here can be made do duty for or help out a lunch, why, naturally, I or some other restaurant man loses the profit on that lunch. Any way, it's a phrase of the influence of hard times that I haven't seen noticed or commented upon."

The Deer of Scotland.

Of the four-footed game the largest are the deer. The roebuck is the only member of the family in a truly wild condition. His small size, nimbleness and ungregarious habits enable him to wander from one place to another with a measure of impunity. In wooded valleys and within reach of the hills he seems to be well able to look after himself. He abounds in the northern counties—in Perthshire, the highland districts of Aberdeenshire and Forfarshire, and is thinly scattered over the central valley.

The red deer or stag has by no means the same claim to be regarded as a wild animal as in the days when the Commons King made his memorable excursion through the Trossachs. He is now cooped up in savage fastnesses, with mountain fences 8,000 feet high, behind which he only wanders in an exceptionally hard winter. The "forests" with which I am acquainted would neither maintain a crofter nor even reimburse a sheep farmer, and are simply incapable of being put to any other use.

In the middle of the day the deer are seldom to be seen, except by a practical eye, as they are then at rest and lying quietly among the rough heath, or it may be in the shadow of some birch copse. In the early morning or on the approach of evening they feed downward toward the grassy sides of the rivers and burns. They detect the intruding botanist or geologist long before they see him, and by their actions apprise the keeper that a trespasser is at hand. The fallow deer is still further from the true feral condition and can only be regarded as an ornamental domestic animal kept to give picturesqueness to the park around the mansion. His grass is provided and his water is pure.—Gentleman's Magazine.

THE GOOD CONDUCTOR GROWLS.

He Sinks His Gallantry and Lets Go With His Tongue.

"I would rather handle twenty men than one woman," said a New York car conductor, eyeing the retreating figure of an irascible old lady who had just got off. "Women have been pampered and humored and taken care of so long that they are rapidly becoming an absolute nuisance as far as street cars are concerned." Then, for the edification of a Herald reporter, the conductor produced a list of one day's experiences with women. It was:

Number of women who chased the car two blocks when another car was just behind, 326; women who complained because the car did not stop within ten feet of the crossing, 78; women who gave the conductor the "bad eye" on general principles, 126; women who hung to straps and refused to "step forward," 375; women who refused to move along and make room for other women, 86; women who carried pug dogs in defiance of all rules, 23; women who quarreled with each other for seats, 18; women who tried to make the conductor believe that 10-year-old children were babes in arms, 13; women who consumed ten minutes looking for their fare, 278; women who felt insulted because worn-out workingmen did not get up and make room for them, 301; women who smiled sweetly on being jostled and acted courteously to all (Salvation Army), 1; women who said "please" to the conductor when asking him to stop the car (blind), 1.

Gen Ducrot's Letters.

The family of the late Gen. Ducrot have just published in Plous the correspondence of their illustrious relative, which extends from his entrance into the service as a sub-lieutenant in an infantry regiment in Algeria, in 1837, down to the capitulation of Paris, in 1871. The two volumes will prove a mine of wealth to the historian of the monarchy of July, and the second empire, and there are some few of the letters of the highest interest, as showing the state of feeling in France, Germany and Russia previous to the catastrophe at Sedan. It very clearly appears that Gen. Ducrot, like Col. Stoffel and Gen. Trochu, was fully aware in 1870, that, from a military point of view, France was not in a condition to cope with Prussia, and that Marshal Bazaine and Gen. Frossard, and the Emperor himself, were under the same impression as long before the outbreak of the war as 1868.

A relevation, however, which is calculated to cause not a little sensation, is that if the Emperor had shown a little more energy and hurried on the war which he and everybody else knew to be inevitable, the inhabitants and rulers of the Rhine country (excepting Baden) would have joined the French, and, what is stranger still, that the then Grand Duke of Hesse—the granduncle of the present grand duke—actually made overtures to France, urging that power to lose no time, and thus deprive Prussia of the advantage of the offensive, and offered France that part of his possession situated on the left bank of Rhine, against some compensation to be provided at the expense of the grand duchy of Baden. These offers were made at an interview between the grand duke and Gen. Ducrot, which took place some time in November, 1868. Gen. Ducrot was there in command of the Strasburg garrison and fortress.—London Standard Paris Correspondence.

The Czar and Insular Vanity.

It is etiquette to predicate every virtue in the occupant of a throne on his accession to it. What the present emperor of Russia may be, and still more what he will become under the baneful influence of irresponsible power, no one knows. It has, of course, been taken for granted that he is one of the wisest and best of human beings, and will ever become still wiser and still better each year that he lives. This is mere courtly phraseology. He probably is not better or worse than any other Russian for his position is due to mere blind accident. But what has particularly amused me in the laudatory lucubrations respecting him in which our press has indulged is that it is deemed proof positive of his fitness for the post of emperor of Russia that he should act not by the advice of his own Ministers but by that of the Prince of Wales, and that he should not so much look to the interests of his own country as to those of ours. There is an insular vanity in all this which is only equalled by the lectures that our press has been addressing to him under the impression that he will read, mark, learn and inwardly digest them.—London Truth.

The Production of Ozone.

The value and importance of ozone, from a medical and sanitary point of view, have led to the invention of several methods—electrical and chemical—of producing it for use as a deodorizing and purifying agent. The most recent system is that of Lieut. Poulsen, a Danish officer, whose apparatus is of a simple and efficient character. It consists of a wide-necked glass jar, with a double cover of porcelain plates, finely perforated. The upper plate closes in the mouth of the jar, whilst the lower one is inserted in the neck of the jar, about two inches below the other. Through the center of each of these covers a glass rod passes, terminating at the lower end—which is curved upwards—in a small cup for holding a piece of phosphorus. In the jar is placed a given quantity of acidulated water, the level of which is just above the cup containing the phosphorus, which, when the apparatus is not in action, is always submerged. A small quantity of permanganate of potash is added to the acid solution, and to produce ozone the phosphorus is raised, by means of the glass rod, just to the surface of the water. The chemical action of the system is as follows: Phosphorus acid in the form of fumes is produced by the contact of the phosphorus with the air, and the fumes are seen to rise to a certain height, when they are deflected down upon the solution, into which they are absorbed, and converted into phosphoric acid by being oxidized by the permanganate of potash. In the meantime ozonified oxygen is produced, and passing out through the perforations in the covers, is distributed in the atmosphere. The first cost of the apparatus is small, and the acid bath only requires renewing about once in three months. The system has been in satisfactory use for some time past in hospitals in Denmark and France. It is employed in the Pasteur Institute, Paris.—Engineering.

SEEKING AID.

Thousands in Dire Distress.

MANY ARE NEAR DEATH.

THE SUFFERERS SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

MRS. DURANT IS CURED.

At the present time there are thousands of valuable lives in jeopardy in our country and men and women are anxiously seeking for help. Many are cruelly suffering and in deep distress. Kidney and liver complaints, heart troubles, dyspepsia, indigestion and rheumatism have brought many to the verge of the grave. Mental anxiety, failures with doctors, and the thought of leaving near and dear ones behind, adds to the weight of agony and physical tortures.

It is the duty of all who know what Paine's Celery Compound has done in the past, to urge every sufferer to give it a trial; it cannot fail; its mission is to cure and save.

Mrs. George Durant, a lady living in Elma, Dundas County, Ontario, was cured of liver and kidney troubles after the failure of several physicians. She writes as follows:

"Permit me to record my testimony in favour of your excellent preparation, Paine's Celery Compound. For many years I have been a sufferer from kidney and liver troubles, and have doctored with several physicians, but only found relief for a very short time. My husband advised me to try your Compound. I did so, and found so much relief from the first bottle that I continued, and am now using the third bottle. Your Compound has done more for me than any physician. For months before using the Compound I never had one night of sound sleep; but now I can go to bed and sleep soundly and naturally, and feel like a new creature in the morning."

Disuse of Slate.

The reasons assigned by the school committee for the discontinuance of slates, slate pencils and sponges in the public schools and the substitution of paper, lead pencils and rubber erasers in their places are as follows:

1. A light gray mark upon a slightly darker grey surface is more or less indistinct and trying to the eyesight.

2. The resistance of the hard pencil upon the hard slate is trying to the muscles, and the resistance to which the muscles are thus trained must be overcome when beginning to write with pencil or pen upon paper.

3. The use of slates, slate pencils and sponges is a very uncleanly custom and leads to and establishes very uncleanly habits.—Boston Globe.

Cost of Electric Cooking.

It has been shown by recent experiments that there is practically no difference in cost between cooking by electricity and by coal, while the advantages of the former method in point of comfort, cleanliness and safety are considerable, says Inventions. Of every 100 tons of coal burned in an ordinary cooking stove 96 tons are, it is said, practically wasted, whereas with electricity the expense is not so much on the fuel as on labor and interest on machinery.

Russel. A cordial invitation is extended the members of Courts Littlejohn, Langton and Young Peterborough.—D. S. HARVIE, C. R.

The Young People's Association.

The Young People's Association of St. John's held their regular fortnightly meeting in the school house last night. There was a fair attendance considering the weather. The President, Miss A. Sproule, presided, and after receiving reports of various committees announced a short programme, consisting of a duet by Miss Henderson and Miss Vink; recitation by Mr. T. S. Baker, and a fine instrumental solo by Miss A. Sproule. The meeting then adjourned until Monday, Feb. 4th.

The Mayor's Annual Banquet.

The Councillors and town officials were banquetted by the Mayor at the Palace Restaurant, last evening. The room was most beautifully decorated for the occasion and the table was a pretty sight indeed, being artistically dressed with primroses, begonias and lilies. Across the four corners of the room hung huge flags, while around the sides red, white and blue bunting was lavishly displayed and also hung in massive folds from the ceiling. The usual toasts were most heartily drank and the evening passed off most pleasantly, proving not the least enjoyable of the several banquets to which the mayor has invited the councillors and officials. Special mention is deserved by Mr. Frank Graham for the excellence of the menu, which he provided and for the tastefulness with which the dining room was decorated. Mr. Graham is proving himself a skilful caterer indeed.

Grand Carnival Masquerade Ball.

A novel and interesting entertainment in the shape of a grand carnival masquerade ball, will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday, Feb. 12th. The affair is expected to be unusually brilliant and amusing, and the committee in charge are sparing no pains to achieve that result. It is hoped and requested that as many as possible will come in fancy dress to contribute to the effect of the scene. Special costumes, however, are not necessary, provided an element of colour is used in the dress. Small masks of black or fancy velvet, silk or calico should be worn. Music will be furnished by Butcher's orchestra and the Battalion Band. Dancing will commence at 8.30 p.m and at midnight all the dancers will unmask. Tickets $1.00, admitting gentleman and lady or two ladies, can be procured at Stratton's bookstore, Sailsbury's bookstore and the Street Railway office. The number of tickets will be limited to 200. Secure them early to avoid the rush. 1d

—The January thaw didn't last long.

—The electric sweeper was out for a run over the track this morning.

—Have you got your creepers on? was the popular salutation to-day.

—Boys were skating on the ice-covered sidewalks all over town to-day.

—The citizens generally took advantage of the thaw yesterday to remove the snow and ice from their sidewalks.

—Fans, opera glasses and reserved seats for the Burn's anniversary concert for sale at the Peterborough Book Store.

—The postponed installation of the officers of Mt. Hebron and Hiawatha Encampments, I.O.O.F., will take place this evening.

—All those intending to take part in the Pontypool Minstrel performance are requested to meet at the C.P.R. hotel to-night without fail.

—The members of the Rugby Football Amateur Minstrel troupe will meet for a regular practice in Jackson's music rooms, Aylmer street, to-night.

—It is suggested that those curlers who are Scotchmen and who will perforce miss the Burn's anniversary concert to-morrow night, if they go to Toronto, should purchase their tickets anyway, as the concert is held solely for charitable purposes.

—A farmer says: We let our timber rot and buy fencing. We throw away our ashes and grease and buy soap. We raise dogs and buy hogs. We let our manure go to waste and buy fertilizers. We grow weeds and buy vegetables and brooms. We catch 5 cent fish with a $4 rod. We build school houses and send our children off to be educated. And lastly, we send our boys out with a $40 gun and a $10 dog to hunt for 10 cent birds.

Miss Maude Jones left this afternoon to visit friends in Jerseyville, west of Hamilton.

Miss A. M. Wood has returned to town after spending a month visiting friends in Toronto.

Miss Lottie Morgan leaves this evening to spend a few weeks with friends in Hamilton.

Mrs. Denne, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. A. Walker, Sr., Welcome, returned home to-day.

Miss Kate Simons, of Miss Rudkins' dry goods store, has gone to Ottawa to spend a week at the carnival.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott, of Ashburnham, returned home last evening, after a prolonged stay with friends and relatives in Galt.

Mr. R. D. Hamilton, of the Peter Hamilton Mfg. Co., fell yesterday on the step of his residence and severely sprained his left wrist.

Mr. Edward Gurney, of the Gurney Stove M'f'g Co., of Toronto, together with Mr. Carrick, the manager of the works, is in to-day on a business trip.

Mr. James McDonald, of Ashburnham, left last evening on a business trip, intermingled with pleasure, to the Capital. He will also take in the carnival.

The Port Hope Guide says: "Mr. W. L. Innes, land surveyor and civil engineer, of Peterborough, has been surveying in vicinity of Port Hope during the last week."

The following gentlemen have been chosen to represent the local branch of the Y. M. C. A. Ontario and Quebec convention, which takes place in Belleville:—R. O. Crowe, Gen. Sec.; F. Mason, V. Best, T. H. Martin, J. W. Bennett, G. M. Roger.

WEDDING BELLS RANG IN INGERSOLL.

Wedding of an Old Peterborough Boy in the Person of Mr. Richard Clegg.

The Ingersoll Tribune of Thursday last contains the following notice concerning the nuptials of one who was a great favourite in Peterborough during his residence here :—

CLEGG—BEVINS.

"At Christ church Rectory, London, yesterday, the marriage was celebrated by Rev. J. H. Moorehouse, of Mr. Richard Clegg, manager of the upholstering department of the Ellis Furniture Company, to Miss Mary Adeline Bevins, only daughter of Mr. N. P. Bevins. Mr. Clegg has been a resident of the town for several years, during which time he has acquired a host of friends by his sterling qualities and generous nature; while the fair bride is a native of the town, where her sweet disposition and graceful presence are well known, and all will join us in wishing them much joy in their newly acquired relationship."

The EXAMINER joins "Dick's" many other friends in Peterborough in wishing him every happiness as a Benedict. His relatives in town were greatly surprised and delighted when they received word that Richard had espoused a fair bride.

Successful Tea Meeting,

Or, to be more correct, we should say the tea that is meeting with the greatest success is that 50 cent blend of Indian and Ceylon tea which Mason & Co. are selling at 38 cents.

Appreciated Abroad.

Messrs. Duncan and Grey, painsers, etc., have just returned to town after completing a contract for Mr. R. Hicks, who has just erected a magnificient residence, in the vicinity of Alnwick, Northumberland county. Messrs. Mills & Priest, of Hastings, were the contractors for the new building and gave excellent satisfaction. It certainly speaks well for the firm of Duncan & Grey that their reputation for performing first-class work should have penetrated to so distant a place as Alnwick township.

Snazelle at Kingston.

The Kingston News, in referring to Mr. Snazelle's appearances in Kingston, on Friday evening last, says:—"The beautiful views of English and southern scenery and famous statuary were indeed a feast for the eye. The views of of the Thames were especially interesting to those whose birthplace was in the old land, and marked applause at times proved that the spectators beheld a familiar spot. Mr. Snazelle is an extensive traveller and has had exceptional opportunities of securing appropriate photographs of different countries which he has visited. Many of these were shown and explained in a careful manner that could not fail to be instructive. As a singer and reciter, Mr. Snazelle is inimitable. In the well-known story of the battle of Waterloo, as told by Mr. Bill Adams, he struck a humorous chord and the approval and delight of the audience were plainly shown." Mr. Snazelle appears at the opera house, here, on Thursday and Friday evenings, Jan. 24th and 25th, and should be greeted by full houses. 1t

THE REPEAL OF THE LIQUOR BY-LAW.

LICENSES WILL BE AGAIN ISSUED TO THOSE CUT OFF.

The Councillors Decide That the Cutting off of Liquor Licenses Does Not Tend to Lessen Intemperance—The Schol Trustees Reappointed.

An adjourned meeting of the town council was held last evening at which there was present the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Sproule, Best, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Sawers, Stone, Mason and Brady.

A large attendance of ratepayers was present.

Mr. Brady, who was absent from the morning meeting on account of illness, was in his seat and was stated by the clerk to have duly qualified.

The following

were received :

From Thos. McKee, Mr. Aldridge and J. J. Brasley, asking for appointment as assessors.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From T. Bradburn and thirty-one others asking that Ostrom Bros. be granted a license to cut up and sell fresh meats at their store on George street.

Received.

From John Carnegie and R. Max Dennistoun, calling attention to their application to last year's council for the privilege for erecting poles and wires on the streets for the purpose of transmitting electric power.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

From Lewis Spry, applying for the position of Charity Inspector. Mr. Spry also applied for the position of Health Inspector, if the council decided to appoint one.

Referred to Committee on Appointments.

From J. A. Harper, asking for a share of the town printing.

Referred to the Printing Committee.

From Geo. Carton, asking for a rebate of $20 on his peddler's licence.

Referred to the License Committee.

From Wm. Telford, a poem, being a brief sketch of the life and death of Sir John Thompson, and dedicated to the Mayor and Town Council.

Referred to the Committee on Printing.

The following

ACCOUNTS

were presented and referred to the Finance Committee :

Geo Carton	$ 2 00
W G Fowler & Co	6 00
Mrs Dunford	1 00

Manufactures and Railways—Councillors Cahill, Sproule Dawson Phelan, Mills, Mason, Stone.

Appointments and Supervison of Police —Councillors Stone, Phelan, Dawson, Sproule, Denne, Mason, Clinkscale.

Property—Councillors Dawson Phelan, Brady, Stone, Mills, Cahill.

Market—Councillors Denne, Sproule, Sawers, Mason, Best, Clinkscale.

Health—Councillors Mason, Brady, Mills, Clinkscale, Sawers.

Joint—Councillors Phelan, Sproule, Best, Mills, Sawers, Dawson, Stone.

Sewerage—Councillors Best, Cahill, Dawson, Mason, Brady.

First named on each committee be its chairman.

That the sum of $250 be placed to the Mayor's credit to meet the expenses connected with his office.

Mr. Dawson asked permission to retire from the chairmanship of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and moved, seconded by Mr. Sproule, that Mr. Brady's name be submitted for his as the chairman.

Carried.

Councillors Dawson and Phelan moved that Mr. Cahill's name be added to the personnel of the Joint Committee. As the bylaw only allows seven members to act on this committee Mr. Stone begged permission to retire in Mr. Cahill's favour. Mr. Cahill wouldn't hear of it, but the motion was carried.

The report was then adopted as amended.

THE BY-LAW

for the appointment of the Board of Health was then introduced and the following gentlemen named as members :—Messrs. Henry Denne, Robert Innes, Wm. Blackwell, Charles Stapleton, Adam Hall, James Kendry, John H. Hartley, B. Shortly and Dr. McGrath.

On motion of Messrs. Mason and Stone, the bylaw was read a third time and passed.

Councillors Brady and Dawson moved that Ostrom Bros. be granted a license to sell meat in their premises on George street and also moved the passage of a bylaw to change the market bylaw to enable the required license to be granted and to permit the establishment of butcher shops on George street, between Brock and Hunter streets.

Carried.

Councillors Sawers and Clinkscale moved that Messrs. Peter Hamilton and Henry Denne be appointed school trustees for the ensuing term.

Carried.

Moved by Councillors Cahill and Best, that the Street and Bridge Committee be authorised to purchase 100 cords of stone, in addition to that already purchased, at the same price and on the same conditions as that already bought, and that the same be paid for on the certificate of the Street Inspector.

Carried.

Mr. Dawson broached the subject of the purchase of a typewriter for use in the town offices. Every other town and village he stated, seemed to be in possession of a typewritar, and Peterborough should be up with the times in office equipment.

Moved by Councillors Brady and Clinkscale, that the Property Committee be instructed to report on the matter.

Carried.

Councillors Cahill and Sproule moved that an order book be hereafter kept in the clerk's office for the booking of all orders of goods for the corporation, giving the name of the parties ordering the goods, upon whom drawn and the quantity ordered.

Carried.

On motion of Messrs. Cahill and Phelan the Mayor was authorised to purchase a book recently issued on debentures, etc., for the use of the town treasurer.

Mr. T. Bradburn addressed the council and stated that he himself paid one thirty-fifth part of the taxes of the town amounting to $2,000, and he hoped the new council would be judicious and not extravagant.

Councillor Best gave notice of motion respecting the repeal of the bylaw passed by last year's council cutting of certain liquor licenses of the town. He advocated a strict inspectorate and the fixing of the license fees at fair prices.

Councillor Denne stated that he understood that the town lost between seven and eight hundred dollars revenue by the cutting off of these licenses.

Councillor Stone did not think the bylaw met the requirements of those who were instrumental in passing it. He claimed to be as good a temperance man as any who would vote against the repeal of this bylaw.

Councillor Best withdrew his notice of motion, and introduced the bylaw repealing the one aforementioned, to take effect on the first of May.

The Mayor also announced his intention of voting for the repeal of the bylaw. The local hotels, he believed, were as well carried on as any in the country. An injustice had been done by the previous council to the license holders. Intemperance could not be lessened by cutting off a few licenses, and by so doing encouragement was given to places a great deal worse than licensed hotels.

Mr. Sproule mentioned the fact that many of those whose licenses had been cut off were good citizens and had spent large sums in furnishing their hotels. The law countenanced the sale of liquor and no class in the community had the right to hound down and abuse the seller thereof. Temperance reform should begin in the home circle. Nothing could ever be accomplished by attacking the sale of liquor.

On motion of Councillors Best and Phelan, the by-law was read a first, second and third time and passed.

The mayor complimented the members on the despatch with which the business of the evening had been disposed of, after which the council adjourned on his invitation to partake of an oyster supper.

By amount expenditure as above		7,921 83
To amount received as above	9,171 88
Balance overdrawn Dec. 31st, 1894	1,145 18
	$10,267 06	$10,267 06

In commenting on the report, Mr. McGill explained that the receipts during the past year had exceeded the expenditure by $1,200.05, thereby reducing the sum due the Ontario Bank by that amount. He ascribed the reason for the increased revenue to the fact that the number of patients treated during the year was fully double that of any previous year. As the running expenses were amounted to almost the same figure, whether there were few or many patients in the hospital, it could be seen that the more patients treated, the larger would the revenue and necessarily the profits become. At one time it cost something like $2.40 per day for the treatment of each patient. The cost had now been reduced to about 90 cents by the increased number and it was estimated that the minimum price of treatment would yet be reduced to 75 cents per patient per day.

Mr. Hall read a report showing that the number of patients treated during the year, ending September 31st, was 304, 22 deaths had occurred during this time and 50 operations had been performed. Six new beds had been purchased, a system of electric bells introduced, three refrigerators put in, storm doors placed in position and one new private ward furnished, together with a host of minor improvements having been accomplished.

Mr. C. McGill referred in a few brief remarks to the harmony which prevailed amongst the medical men and amongst the staff, and complimented the Lady Superintendent on the excellence of her supervision.

Mr. R. S. Davidson was appointed chairman pro tem. and the election of officers resulted as follows:

Chairman—Mr. Richard Hall.
Honorary Secretary—Mr. R. S. Davidson.
Secretary—Mr. C. McGill.

The personnel of the standing committees will remain the same as last year, and are as follows:—

Finance Committee—A. P. Poussette, R. S. Davidson, James Stevenson, C. McGill.

Property Committee—W. Aldridge, John McClelland, R. S. Davidson, James Kendry, B. A. Jackson.

Supply Committee—John McClelland, R. S. Davidson, W. Aldridge, J. D. Tully, J. Walsh.

Visiting Committee — (February and August), A. P. Poussette, John McClelland; (March and September), W. Aldridge, J. D. Tully; (April and October), Richard Hall, James Kendry; (May and November), C. McGill, R. S. Davidson; (June and December), James Stevenson, B. A. Jackson; (July and January), W. Walsh.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Davidson drew the attention of the other members to the fact that a convalescent ward for infectious diseases was much needed, as patients who were recovering should not remain in the infectious ward, and neither should they be removed directly into the general wards of the hospital.

The meeting adjourned without any decided action being taken on this point.

A PETERBOROUGH PREACHER PRAISED.

The Pastor of the Charlotte Street in Port Hope, Sunday.

Rev. J. J. Rae preached in Port Hope, Sunday, and the Guide says of him:—"The Rev. J. J. Rae, of Charlotte street Methodist church, Peterborough, filled the pulpit with great acceptance. The text chosen was Genisee, 3rd chap. and part of 8th verse, "And Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden." The preacher's treatment of the subject was very unique and brought the matter down to the every day life of the people of the present age, and showed the different kinds of trees that are now used for the transgressor to hide behind. The whole discourse was most practical and could not but have a good effect upon all who were privileged to hear it."

THE LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY COMPANY.

SHAREHOLDERS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL MEETING.

A Comprehensive Report from the Legislative Committee—Other Reports Received—The Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held yesterday afternoon in the town council chamber, with the president, Mr. Henry Denne, in the chair, and a large attendance of members present.

The report of the directors was read as follows: An offer was received last June from Mr. T. Bradburn to sell to the company for $350 the piece of land adjoining the cemetery on the south, and lying between the cemetery and the Midland Railway. The Directors considered the offer, and concluded it would be in the interests of the company to accept it, and they accordingly purchased the land from him at the above figure.

An application from the executors of the Almira G. Foley estate for the payment by them to the company of a lump sum in consideration of the company making certain improvements upon the Foley lot and engaging to keep same in perpetual repair was also received and a contract was made with the executors to make such improvements and keep the lot in repair for $400. The company received this sum and have expended in the specified improvements $87.00, leaving $313.00 a reserve fund from the profits on which the repairs may be maintained.

The principal improvement made upon the grounds during the year was the laying of a concrete walk from the terrace facing the entrance gate to the avenue at the west of the chapel. A small extension of the hydrant system was also undertaken.

The financial statement, which is also submitted, shows a cash surplus for the year of $724. Removing from the account the expenditure for land purchased and the net amount received from the Foley estate which represent transactions and of the ordinary character, the cash surplus from the ordinary transactions of the year is $761. This cash surplus is the largest in a year's operation that the company has had for at least eight years. The next largest during that period was $521 in 1891.

Received.

The following report of the

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION

was then received and referred to the new Board.

GENTLEMEN,—Your Directors, considering that the Cemetery Companies' Act might be amended with advantage to all concerned, appointed a Committee on Legislation, with instructions to make their suggestions on the subject to this meeting.

Your committee beg to report and point out that there can not be a time when real estate will be without an owner, and that some of the oldest and best known families of this part of the country are passing, or have passed, away, with no one left to whom their burial plot is a matter of any concern. Their lots in the cemetery may become the property of some distant heir, who has never seen or known the relatives whose bodies lie in them, and it may be in vain that persons who desire to have their lots kept in order after their death, bequeath money to the company for the purpose of perpetual repair, if it should appear that the company has not control of the land itself and the monuments and other improvements on it.

A distant and indifferent heir may appear on the scene, sell the monuments, and also dispose of the lot to an unscrupulous purchaser, and remove the bones of former owners to the Potter's field.

Your committee believe that the possibilities should be provided for and guarded against, and are of the opinion that they may be avoided by amendments to the Cemeteries' Act in the following manner:

1st.—Cemetery Companies to be empowered to accept devises of lots, to be held upon trust in perpetuity for the purposes mentioned in the trust deed, and 2nd.—Directors of cemetery companies to have the power to prevent the re-opening of any grave or the removal of any monument, tree, or shrub, &c., without their express consent.

As you are aware, directors of cemeteries, at the present, have the power to control the erection of monuments, etc., and of burials, and it is only proper and reasonable, in the opinion of your committee, that they should be able to control their removal as well.

Your committee are also of the opinion that legislation might, with advantage, be asked to enable cemetery companies to become purchasers of lots, from grantees or their heirs or assigns, and the same or parts thereof, to sell again, for the owner frequently possesses one, two or more lots, with few or no burials in them, and on removing from his vicinity, may desire to sell the lots, and as good lots in the cemetery are now mostly disposed of, this would probably prove a source of some profit to the company and of convenience to persons desiring to obtain lots in the cemetery.

Your committee would also call attention to the fact that no express authority is contained in the Cemeteries Act to make by-laws, rules or regulations for the government of a cemetery, and it is probable that many of the by-laws and regulations passed by your company, and which in the opinion of your committee are most important for the preservation and attractiveness of the grounds, could not, if disputed, be legally enforced; and, in the opinion of your committee, an amendment of the Act should also be obtained in this respect.

All of which is respectively submitted for your consideration.

W. H. MOORE,
Chairman of Committee.

THE SUPERINTENDENT

submitted the following report, which was received:

To the President, Directors and Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Co.:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to submit the following report of the improvements made at the cemetery for the year ending 31st Dec. 1894.

In the spring, 150 evergreens and ornamental trees were planted through the cemetery, and have grown well.

The waterworks system has been extended to section E; 500 feet of mains laid and 4 hydrants erected. A concrete walk, five feet wide, has been made from the stone steps at the main entrance and around the fountain, and continued across section H, to the carriage drive, at the chapel. In the fall the terraces on Maple avenue, in section A, were repaired and re-sodded. At the grove, on the east side of the cemetery where the trees were thick, some were removed to admit light, so that the grass would grow.

With the permission of lot owners, several of the cedar hedges and old iron railings have been removed, and it is to be hoped the few remaining that mar the landscape beauty of the cemetery may soon be taken away. I would recommend that drains be made in the walks in section C, to intersect the present drain on Ravine avenue, the coming season; also that arrangement be made for a better supply of water, as that now obtained from the windmill is altogether inadequate to the supply required, in the dry part of the summer. Connections could be made with our mains and the Water Co.'s pipes; or, probably, permission could be obtained from the government to erect a pumping house at the locks dam, and thus give the Cemetery Company an independent source of supply.

I append hereto my financial statement for the year ending 31st December, 1894.

W. H. FOORD,
Superintendent.

On motion of Messrs. Moore and Shortly, Messrs. John J. Hall and James A. Hall were appointed auditors for the ensuing year.

The following Directors were elected by acclamation,—Messrs. H. Denne, James Stevenson, W. H. Moore, R. Max Dennistoun, Benjamin Shortly, Charles Stapleton, C. W. Sawers, John Burnham and John James Lundy.

The general meeting of the shareholders then adjourned and the directors met and elected the following officers:

President—Henry Denne.
Secretary—E. A. Peck.
Managing Committee—Messrs. Denne, Lundy, Shortly and Stapleton.

On motion of Messrs. Dennistoun and Shortly, the report of the Legislative Committee was referred back to that committee with instructions to obtain the views of other cemetery companies on the questions raised and to report thereon to the Board of Directors.

Hereafter all improvements on lots will have to be paid for in advance and the superintendent was instructed not to incur further liability and to endeavour to collect all outstanding accounts.

The meeting then adjourned.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

Inaugural Meeting Held—Committees and Officials Appointed—Other Business Transacted.

The inaugural meeting of the Ashburnham village council was held last evening, Reeve Burnham in the chair, and Councillors Craig, Smith, Rutherford and Calcutt present.

The clerk read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved.

On motion of Messrs. Calcutt and Craig, the following

APPOINTMENTS.

On motion of Messrs. Smith and Rutherford, J. T. Wright was appointed collector for the year at a salary of $80.

On motion of Messrs. Rutherford and Craig, Mr. Thos. Clithero was appointed auditor at a salary of $8. The Reeve appointed Mr. F. Dover the other auditor at the same salary.

The by-law appointing the auditors then passed its several readings.

On motion of Messrs. Smith and Craig, Messrs. John M. Mowry and Wm. H. Thompson were appointed assessors at $40 each.

On motion of Messrs. Smith and Rutherford, Dr. Spears was appointed Medical Health Officer at a salary of $30.

On motion of Messrs. Smith and Rutherford, Jno. W. Lowry, J. T. Wright and Allan McCarthy were appointed Board of Health for 1895.

THE VILLAGE LABOUR.

Councillor Smith moved that corporation labourers be paid $1.15 per day, and that pay sheets be made up to Friday evening of each week.

The motion received no seconder.

CHARITY COMMITTEE.

Messrs. Craig and Smith were appointed the Charity Committee for the North Ward and Messrs. Rutherford and Calcutt for the South Ward.

ROAD AND STREET COMMITTEE.

On motion of Messrs. Calcutt and Craig the whole council was appointed a Road and Street committee with Mr. Calcutt as chairman.

Some discussion then took place over the chairmanship of this committee. Mr. A. Rutherford filled the position last year, giving good satisfaction. The Reeve favoured the re-appointment of Mr. Rutherford whose name was substituted in Mr. Calcutta place as chairman.

FIRE PROTECTION.

On motion of Messrs Smith and Calcutt, the reeve and council was appointed a committee to confer with the town council to make new terms for fire protection, such terms to date from Jan. 1, 1895.

LICENSING BILLIARD TABLES.

Messrs. Agnew and Noyes, on behalf of Ontonabee Council, R. T. of T., presented a largely signed petition requesting the council not to allow or grant licenses to billiard or pool tables in the village. In referring to the statutes, it was learned that the council had not the power to prohibit and could only impose a license. After some discussion, it was moved by Messrs. Rutherford and Smith that the license for pool and bagatel tables be fixed at $100 for first table and $20 for each additional table in the corporation of Ashham.

Carried.

The usual grants were made the reporters.

After discussing a few minor matters, the council then adjourned.

Gaining Favour.

Most smokers like a cool, mild and pure smoking tobacco. Clegg's mixture has these qualities, and in consequence is gaining in favour every day. Try it. E. B. CLEGG, 415 George street.

The Plain Truth Tells.

Constipation, headache, biliousness, and bad blood, are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters, which acts upon the stomach, liver, bowels and blood, curing all their diseases.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Dublin Porter.

If you want to keep off la grippe, use "Dublin Porter," as a tonic. It will strengthen your system and give you an appetite. Recommended by all the medical faculty to delicate people. Sold by the leading grocers. Quarts, $1 per doz.; pints, 60 cents. Telephone No. 88. H. CALCUTT.

MR. C. W. SAWERS, in a morning contemporary, publishes a letter re the Inspector matter putting a wrong construction upon a conversation held by Mr. Stratton in his office with a Conservative citizen, who dropped in in a friendly way, on Saturday evening. When asked "What has the EXAMINER against Mr. Garvin?" Mr. Stratton's reply was to the effect, that in connection with Mr. Garvin's trouble with the Board, the EXAMINER would have had nothing to say in the matter if prominent Liberals on and off the Board had not been falsely accused of clandestinely meeting to consult about Mr. Garvin's decapitation, when, as a matter of fact, from a political point of view, they did not care a fig what course Mr. Garvin took or what treatment he received. Mr. Sawers' garbled misinterpretation of the conversation in question is quite aside the mark and entirely at variance with its purport, as the gentleman with whom the few passing words of conversation was held can testify.

THE INSPECTOR ONCE MORE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Inspector Garvin's "staff" is deserting in the roar and tumult of the battle between him and the trustees. The only male teacher who signed the foolish "testimonial" in the Inspector's favour has withdrawn his name and is very sorry he had anything to do with it. And the eighteen lady teachers who were cajoled into signing the same document, are now making frantic efforts to pull their bangs out of root with vexation, because in an evil hour they were tempted very imprudently to interfere between the Board and the Inspector. But the lady teachers are not so much to blame after all, for when the ill-starred "testimonial" was presented to them by Mr. Camden Sawers they were "overpersuaded" by that gentleman that it was no harm to sign, and the rash deed was done before they had time to think of it. Och, Camden, but its yourself has the the sweet, deludin tongue when you'r talkin to the ladies. It is not the business of the writer to offer advice, but when the Board was unanimous in giving the Inspector three months to tender his resignation, he should, like the Arab, have folded his tent and silently glided away. But the upshot of the whole matter may be summoned up in one short sentence of three words, viz: Garvin must go.

The Goods are RIGHT If They Are LEFT.

We refer to our REMNANTS which have been LEFT over after a heavy season's selling, and which are going so fast that they won't trouble us at stock-taking time.

The qualities and prices are RIGHT—if they are left. Because we have decided to give customers the advantage of good, serviceable, staple oddlengths at and below original cost.

Some of the snaps still left on our Remnant Counter consist of short lengths of DRESS GOODS, CLOAKINGS, FLANNELS, BLANKETS, COMFORTERS, TABLE LINENS, TOWELINGS, &c. But they are going fast. It's worth while to come in and look them over.

We are grateful to our customers for their valuable patronage during 1894, and respectfully solicit continuance of the kind favours during 1895.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

IT TAKES YOUR MONEY

—only 25 cents to buy a glass vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets — but then you get a lasting benefit and a permanent cure of your Bilious or Sick Headache, Constipation or Indigestion, loss of appetite, and all those troubles which follow a disordered liver.

The time to treat an inactive liver is before it becomes a disease. If these tiny Pellets were in every day use people would be germ-proof. The germs of disease make their entrance to the system through the liver—your health and well-being depends on the liver.

If you suffer from wind and pain in the stomach, giddiness, costiveness, disturbed sleep, you get immediate relief from the use of "Pleasant Pellets."

They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money returned.

A "COLD IN THE HEAD" is quickly cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. So is Catarrhal Headache, and every trouble that is caused by Catarrh. So is Catarrh itself. The proprietors offer $500 in cash for any case which they cannot cure. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

THE MISSES.

Miss Margaret Eleanor Tupper, a daughter of the poet Tupper, has just died in London.

The only daughter of Sig. Crispi, the premier of Italy, has become engaged to Prince di Linguaglossa, a Sicilian.

Beatrice Harraden, after the ships have passed in the night, has a habit of running barefoot on the grass of the lawn to bathe her feet in the morning dew.

Miss Frances Willard lives on the time-lock principle of division of the day—eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight hours for rest and recreation.

Ora Kees and Mollie Kees, two young girls, have started a paper at Grayson, Ky. It is called the Eastern Kentucky Republican and, as its name implies, is republican to the core.

The statement that Miss Philippa Fawcett, the "lady senior wrangler," is about to begin a business career as a civil engineer is said to be unfounded. She has no present intention of leaving Newnham college.

THROUGH EUROPE.

The reading of romances is forbidden by the Koran; hence popular tales are never put in writing among Mohammedans, but are passed from one story teller to another.

One of the three dozen shirts possessed by Napoleon at St. Helena, and divided at his death among his companions, has been sold by auction for one hundred and fifty francs.

Every passenger landed in a French port from a steam vessel coming from a European port, by a decree just issued, is to pay a tax of fifty centimes (ten cents); from any other part of the world he pays a franc.

Brussels has a new executioner. He was a waiter in a saloon, and was dared by his companions into betting that he would try for the place. He won the bet and the place, which carries with it a salary of some twelve hundred francs a year.

Another Advocate in Ottawa.

A Mother Writes About Lactated Food.

In the city of Ottawa there was recently added another convert to the great army of mothers who believe that Lactated Food is the best in the world for babies who can not be breast fed. The lady, who lives on Wellington Street, writes as follows:—

"When my baby was born, seven months ago, I found myself unable to nurse it, and was in a quandary as to how it should be fed. One of my most intimate friends suggested a food of which neither of us knew anything. This food was used for nearly a month, but my baby did not seem to relish it or gain strength in any way.

"I fortunately read an article in one of our daily papers about Lacated Food, and quickly decided to give it a trial. I bought a tin from my druggist and commenced to feed baby regularly. She improved and slept more naturally. Since then Lactated Food has been her only diet, and to-day there is not a finer looking baby girl of her age in this city. This food I am sure was the means of saving her life. I can strongly recommend Lactated Food to every mother given my happy experiences with it."

AUTHORS AND BOOKS.

Conan Doyle stands as high as any living novelist to-day, either in this country or in Europe. He is six feet two.

Mr. Gladstone has promised to write an introduction to the life of Sir Andrew Clark, which is in course of preparation.

Henrik K. Ibsen, who is now sixty-seven years of age was an apothecary's clerk in Skien, Norway, when he wrote his first play.

Field Marshal Lord Wolseley wrote his life of "Marlborough" standing at his desk in his dressing-gown and before breakfast.

Count Tolstoi's son has published a short story, which has been reproduced in a Parisian newspaper. He is said to have more radical views than his father.

George Solomon, a Parisian book collector, has a collection of seven hundred volumes, none of them being larger than one inch wide by two inches high.

The Berlin royal library has acquired a Semitic manuscript by a Hebrew doctor of the fourteenth century which promises to throw much light on the history of medicine.

Paris papers say that the pope recently told several French prelates that he would not receive M. Zola, the writer, should the latter ask for an audience. He gave as a reason that the novelist was a declared enemy of the church.

PEOPLE OVER THE SEAS.

Henry M. Stanley and his beautiful wife reside quietly at St. Moritz, in Switzerland.

In the House of Commons several members take notes in shorthand for their personal reference. Tim Healy is one of this group.

Mr. Manecherjee Merwanjee Bhownuggree, a Parsee, will stand for parliament as a unionist. The first Indian admitted the house or commons, Dadiabbai Naoroji, is a liberal.

Marshal Blaine's son has lately returned from Mexico, where he tried in vain to obtain the restitution of his mother's property, confiscated by the Mexican government. The family is now in abject poverty.

The house in which Martin Luther died at Eisleben, Germany, bore no mark to indicate this fact until a few weeks ago. The famous house, however, has been repaired and restored in a worthy fashion. It contains many relics of the great reformer.

Baron von Munchausen, the winner of the recent Baden jubilee cup, is not only a namesake but a lineal descendant of the baron, whose veracious tales of travel and adventure, as told by Rudolph Raspe, have been immortalized by Cruikshank and Gustave Dore.

NATURAL HISTORY.

The giraffe has a tongue almost eighteen inches long.

The original home of the bison was in the Great Salt lake valley.

The eyeball is white because the blood vessels that feed its substance are so small that they do not admit the red corpuscles.

The horse's eye has a thick, glutinous secretion, because his eye being large and much exposed to dust, the viscid secretion cleanses it more effectually than would a more watery agent.

A living specimen of the largest and most deadly snake known (Ophiophagus elaps) has been added to the zoological gardens of London. It grows twelve to fourteen feet in length, and is hooded like the cobra. It occurs in India, Burma and the East Indian archipelago, living in forests and jungles and readily climbing trees.

Cultivate After a Rainfall.

The surface soil should be stirred as soon as practicable after a considerable rainfall, as soon as the tools will work well. The cultivation should, as a rule, be shallow, leaving a thin stratum of the surface soil finely pulverized and completely cut off from the soil below. Where this is not done, the extremely rapid evaporation which takes place from undisturbed wet soil on hot, clear days may even in a few hours not only dissipate that which has just fallen, but also a part of that which the rain has caused to be drawn toward the surface from lower levels, and thus leave the soil actually drier than before the rain, even though it may look more moist at the surface.

When a succession of showers follow each other at just the right intervals and are of the right intervals to strengthen the capillary flow into the upper stratum from below each time, without any percolation taking place, it is evident that such soils left to themselves under these condition may lose not only the water which falls directly upon them, but a considerable portion of that stored below down to at least five feet. —Orange Judd Farmer.

Profit From One Cow.

Recently the Pennsylvania experiment station tested a number of cows. One of the cows in the trial would, on the basis of her performance, furnish a yearly profit of $61.50; another but $31.50 for the same period, while still another would only yield a gain of $14.70 in a year. All these cows would furnish about the same quantity of milk and butter yearly, but varied in a marked degree in the cost of food necessary for its production. An illustration is furnished by the cow credited with the larger profit. Assuming that she is in milk 300 days in each year, and that her profit making period covers six years, her earnidgs during that time will equal ten per cent, compound interest on an investment of $208. The smaller profit cow under corresponding conditions, and for an equal period, will only yield so large a rate of interest on $106. Language fails to add importance to these figures as to the necessity of knowing from the commercial standpoint, all that is to be known about every member of a dairy herd.

"I have been a victim to terrible headaches," writes C. F. Newman, Dug Spur, Va., "and have never found anything to relieve them so quickly as Ayer's Pills. Since I began taking this medicine, the attacks have been less frequent, till they have ceased altogether."

After La Grippe.

After La Grippe obstinate coughs, lung trouble, etc., frequently follow. There is no remedy so prompt, and at the same time effectual and pleasant, as Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites, which is the latest and best combination of anti-consumptive remedies. Price 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by all druggists.

A man in Germany recently bought one thousand cigars and had them insured against fire. Then he smoked them and demanded the amount of his policy from the insurance company. The company refusing to pay it, he brought suit and got a verdict.

According to Power, a foreign chemist has devised a sensitive paint which is yellow at ordinary temperatures, but turns bright red on reaching one of two hundred and twenty degrees. It is suggested that this paint may be used advantageously to indicate heat from friction in machinery.

One part of the wedding ceremony among the Babylonians was very significant. The priest took a thread from the garment of the bride, and another from the garment of the bridegroom, and tied them into a knot, which he gave to the bride. This is probably the origin of the modern saying about tying the knot in regard to marriage.—Jewish Messenger.

FOWL, FISH AND SERPENT.

A boa-constrictor, which lives in the Adelaide zoological gardens, caught its fangs the other day in a rug. Being unable to disengage itself, it proceeded to swallow the rug, which was seven feet by six in size.

A sturgeon weighing 1,440 pounds was caught in the Caspian sea two weeks ago. The head alone weighed 228 pounds, and the fish furnished about 120 pounds of roe for caviare. The fish was sold for $160.

The most formidable check to the increase of serpents and venomous insects in the tropical regions is the abundance of ants which, attacking in thousands, will kill and devour animals often of considerable size.

There is a mystery about the method of motion of condors that has never been explained. They have been seen to circle to and fro in the sky, half a day at a time, rising and descending without once flapping a wing.

SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENTS.

Experiments are now being made with compressed hay for paving blocks. The hay, after being pressed, is soaked in a drying oil, which, it is claimed, renders it indestructable.

A new alloy has been invented by a Paris manufacturer, composed of silver and copper. It has great strength, and will resist sudden or long sustained strains. The low price of silver has lately made such an alloy practicable.

Great success has been obtained in Belgium with the ammonia process for sinking shafts through quicksand. The principle is that of freezing the quicksand by an ammonia freezer similar to that used in making artificial ice.

A new thermometer for registering extreme heat is composed of a liquid alloy of sodium and potassium, instead of mercury. The boiling point of this alloy is about 1,100 degrees above, and its freezing point 12 degrees below zero.

IN SCHOOL AND COLLEGE.

The students at Princeton college have abolished "hazing."

Viceroy Li Hung Chang has established at Tientsin an imperial medical college, with a staff of western (English) medical men who assist native Chinese in teaching. A four years' graduated course is required and a well-equipped hospital has been built.

The degrees of bachelor of medicine and of master of surgery have this year, for the first time in the history of the Scottish universities, been conferred on women. One of these young women, who ranked third in a class of sixty-one members, stood first in her class of zoology, practical chemistry, anatomy, history, physiology, surgery, medicine, pathology and midwifery.

THE WHEEL.

France derived 950,000 francs last year from the tax on cycles, the number of machines being 132,276.

The bicycle of the khedive of Egypt is a gorgeous machine, almost entirely covered with silver plating.

A young French officer lately, on a wager, made his way on a bicycle to the top of the Pic du Midi in the Pyrenees, 9,540 feet high, and then down again.

The Bell Telephone company, of Cincinnati, O., have mounted thirty inspectors on bicycles. Thirty horses and as many buggies have been displaced thereby.

Wheels propelled by petroleum are being introduced in Paris to take the place of the cycle. They are very costly, one thousand dollars being the price for one.—Hardware.

ODD NAMES IN QUEER PLACES.

The Philadelphia College of Pharmacy has a student named Pellett.

Col. Cash Surplus was proprietor of a Texas newspaper that suspended a few days ago.

Despite the suggestion contained in its name, Vermillion is one of the banner Woman's Christian Temperance union towns in South Dakota.

Mr. White, of Greenwood county, Kan., has a daughter named "Snow." This is as bad as Mr. Button, of Fort Scott, who has a daughter named "Pearl."

The Raw, Cutting Winds
Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less away. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether internal or external. 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

Skin Diseases.
Skin diseases are more or less occasioned by bad blood. B. B. B. cures the following skin diseases: abscesses, carbuncles, boils, rashes, salt rheum, scald head, eruptions, pimples and blotches, by removing all impurities from the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age,
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

As eleven years is said to be the life of the average steel rail, the 10,000,000 tons now in use in the United States must sooner or later make way for others. These renewals involve an annual replacement of not less than 1,737,373 tons.

The Carrara marble quarries are practically inexhaustible. The entire mass of Monte Sagro, 5,000 feet high, which dominates Carrara, is solid marble. About 160,000 tons of marble are annually exported, most of which comes to America.

All the car-building companies in St. Louis—the Laclede, the St. Louis, the American, the Brownell and the St. Charles—have combined. There will be $5,000,000 of bonds and $15,000,000 of stock issued to represent the combined properties.

Mr. Samuel E. Morse, the consul general at Paris, has sent to the state department an abstract of the official report on the wheat crop in France for 1894. It is estimated by the French statisticians, says Mr. Morse, that the crops of 1894 throughout the world will be 35 per cent. in excess of the world's demands for consumption and seed.

The celebrated Baring estate is approaching final liquidation. At one time the liabilities were largely over $100,000,000; now they are but $12,500,000. With the improvement in all assets the world over, the bank of England will not need long time to close out the collateral they hold. A large surplus is expected. In history this will stand as the greatest financial exploit ever accomplished in business.—Banker's Monthly.

The average whale is from 50 to 65 feet in length and 35 feet in circumference. The jawbones are 20 to 25 feet long, and a tongue has been known to yield almost a ton of oil.

An Antarctic iceberg has been seen that was 20 miles wide, 40 miles in length and 400 feet in height; a square township or two could break off from this and hardly affect it.

There are only one or two places in Toronto and Montreal where foreign postage stamps can be bought to inclose in letters sent abroad for return postage, and even at these places a price nearly double the face value of the stamp is asked.

BAYONET POINTS.

A new Italian rifle will send a bullet through five inches of solid oak at a distance of 4,000 feet.

Aluminum drums are proving most successful in the Prussian military bands. Not only are they lighter than the ordinary kind, but they give out a much fuller and richer sound.

Chateaudun, where the French maneuvers have just been held, has the distinction of having received as a municipality the cross of the Legion of Honor for its heroic defense against the Germans in 1870.

Experiments are being conducted at the armory in Springfield, Mass., in the use of aluminum for the bayonet scabbards for the new rifle. While the metal works well in bending and is about fifty per cent. lighter than the steel scabbard, no satisfactory method has been devised for soldering the edges together.

Making Biscuits.

Biscuits made with an acid and an alkali, such as baking powder, soda and cream of tartar, or soda and sour milk, should be baked in a very hot oven. The hotter it can be and yet not burn the biscuits the better. An oven that will cover a piece of white paper dark brown in one minute will be none too hot for this kind of biscuit.

JAPS TROUBLESOME IN HAWAII.

The Future of the Islands Menaced by Them—Arms for the Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—The steamer Australia sailed for Honolulu yesterday. Among the passengers was F. M. Hatch, Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs. Mr. Hatch bears with him private despatches and has in custody a shipment of arms for the government. The Hawaiian government had information of the plans of the royalists over a month ago and Mr. Hatch's mission to the United States was in relation thereto, although at the time of his arrival he deemed it wise to keep his knowledge a secret. Mr. Hatch stated before leaving that the government had nothing to fear from the royalists, but the Japanese question was the only one menacing the future of Hawaii.

The Ging Murder Trial.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 22.—The trial of Harry Hayward, charged with causing the death of Catharine Ging was begun yesterday. No jurors were accepted at the opening session. A sensation occurred just before the noon adjournment. The famous criminal lawyer, "Bill" Erwin, who defends Hayward, showed knowledge of the movements of a juror he was examining, even quoting language that the man was supposed to have used to the effect that he was a member of the jury and would "fix them," meaning the defendants in the case. Judge Smith said: "I would like to know if all the jurymen on this panel have been canvassed and shall make inquiries in regard to it."

Pursued Her Erring Husband.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan, 22.—A man named Herbert Hokin was arrested and locked up Saturday evening as a suspect. The arrest was made on information given to the police by a woman who claimed to be Hockin's wife. She stated that his home was in London, Ont., where he was in the employ of a firm of coopers, and that he embezzled a sum of money from the firm and decamped. He left his wife in London, according to her story, and met another woman. Mrs. Hockin traced him to Port Huron and from there followed him here. The detectives found him occupying rooms at 268 Jefferson avenue with the woman referred to by his wife.

The Shoe Strike Breaking Up.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Jan. 22.—J. H. Winchesell & Co. opened their shoe shop as a free factory yesterday. About two hundred of the old help went to work, and every department is running. The factories of W. W. Spaulding, Chick Bros., Spaulding & Sweet and C. A. Ellis, are all running in all departments, but with much less force than before the strike. The Gale Shoe Company's factory started up with help enough to run one set of machinery in all departments.

A Tennessee Cyclone.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 22.—A cyclone struck Covington, Tenn., which blew off the top of the court house and demolished a dozen residences and a score of barns and outhouses. The damage is $50,000. No lives were lost.

Floods in England.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—A terrific rain storm has prevailed in the Midlands. The roads from Tamworth to Birmingham and Litchfield are submerged and the traffic is entirely suspended. There is five feet of water in the streets of Evesham, where an election is taking place for member of Parliament. The voters are obliged to go to the polls in boats. The towns of Eton and Buckingham are partly submerged.

M. Rochefort Was Not Murdered.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—A rumor was circulated yesterday that M. Henri Rochefort had been assassinated. Much excitement prevailed for a time, until it was learned there was no truth in the rumor. M. Rochefort says he has no idea how such a report could have originated.

Sir John A. and Home Rule.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—In a letter to the Times Mr. Joseph Pope, of Ottawa, denies that Sir John A. Macdonald ever moved, originated or supported an Irish home rule resolution in the Canadian House of Commons in 1883, as reported, or, in fact, anywhere else.

Talented Men Required for Farmers.

There seems to be a belief among certain ignorant people, mostly residents of our cities and towns, that a man of talent, of brains and energy and business tact will meet his best reward in city life, and that the occupation of farming gives no scope for the exercise of the best faculties with which mankind are blest.

Nothing could be further from the truth than such a belief. Life in cities does indeed offer rare opportunities to a few men of great enterprise and large capital to accumulate vast fortunes, acquired sometimes by means of honest work for the benefit of their fellow men, but not unfrequently by taking unscrupulous and cruel advantage of others with less knowledge of the state of trade or with less capital to control it.

But while a few in the cities become rich, the much larger number work hard for small pay, with unhealthy surroundings and little hope of improving their condition. Country life does not offer such magnificent chances for sudden wealth nor such terrible temptations, but it offers ample opportunity for the use of the best powers with which mankind are endowed, and demands the best education offered by our colleges to enable the farmer to use to best advantage those opportunities.

"HIGH TEA" AND HIGH-CLASS ENTERTAINMENT.

A Fitting Conclusion to the Anniversary Celebration—A Splendid Spread and a Good Programme—The Weather Offered Vain Opposition.

Last night, in spite of the unseasonable excursion of Jupiter Pluvius to this vicinity, there was a good attendance at the high tea and entertainment of the Charlotte street Methodist church, the closing functions of the more than usually successful anniversary celebration.

The high tea tables, three in number, extended lengthwise of the spacious school room, and apart from the intrinsic gastronomic merit of their burdens, t' e decorations and garniture made them a vision of beauty. The glitter of silver flashing in the light and the profuse decorations of flowers, etc., made an admirable picture. The viands themselves in their profusive variety and dainty excellence would have challenged the commendation of even Epicurus himself. During the evening about 300 in relays sat down to the repast and give practical demonstration of their appreciation of the culinary skill of the good ladies of the Charlotte street Methodist church. At the conclusion of the banquet the people assembled in the church auditorium nearly filling it in spite of the stormy weather. Rev. J. J. Rae, the genial pastor of the church, occupied the chair and very efficiently discharged the duty, mingling pleasantry and sense in judicious administration. He made a short address, welcoming the company and, as the lawers say, "showed cause" why several ministers who had been invited were absent. He regretted to state that Rev. Mr. Shorey, of Lindsay, was kept away, not only by illness in his own family, but he himself was to ill to leave home. Rev. Mr. Trotter, Baptist minister, and Rev. Mr. McKnight, an unattached minister, were also present and gave brief and appropriate addresses. A good programme was presented consisting of a well sung vocal solo, "Lenore," by Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mr. Crane accompanying. A pianoforte duet was well. given by Misses Sherin and Morrow. Mrs (Dr.) Goldsmith's recital was so warmly received, that during the evening, she had to comply with a special request for another selection. Miss Clarke gave a beautiful violin solo, a balladina being accompanied by her sister Mrs. Chas. McClelland. The Y. M. C. A. quartette gave a very acceptable semi-sacred selection—unaccompanied. Miss Flossie Hall, a little girl with a very pleasing and promising voice, sang a vocal solo, Master Hall accompanying. Messrs. A. L. Davis and G. W. Mulligan sang with fine effect a stirring nautical song, which with the singing of "God Save the Queen" brought a delightful entertainment to a close. All those in any way connected with the high tea and entertainment are to be congratulated upon the very pleasant success it proved to be in spite of the disagreeably unpleasant weather.

HUSLING HAVELOCK.

A carnival is to be held here on Tuesday evening, 22nd inst. on the park and pleasure ground skating rink. This will be the first event of the season on this new rink, and everybody here is talking about it. The affair is in charge of an influential managing committee, with Mr. A. McAuley as chairman, and Mr. T. Milne, secretary. The chairman's tall handsome form may be seen every evening on the ice cutting graceful figures on skates, and whirling in and out among the young people encouraging them to practice for the coming event. Quite a number of prizes are offered for competition, the result of which I hope to be able to announce to the EXAMINER in time for this week's weekly edition, which is steadily increasing in popularity with our citizens.

The English church here has been fortunate in securing the Rev. Mr. Williams as rector. The members of the congregation are well satisfied with their clergyman and express their pleasure with the success of his labours among them as well as for the harmony and good will which prevails among all classes. The Rev. Mr. Williams is a son of the late lamented Col. Williams, of Port Hops, and is a young man of much promise. He is an able, manly and fluent speaker, full of earnestness and zeal and impresses his hearers with his sincerity for their spiritual welfare.

The monthly home social in connection with the English church will be held on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. McKeown, Ottawa street.

J. B. Gould & Co., of the C.P.R. store, recently closed a successful season of bargain giving, and have commenced a 70-days' sale, at which they announce they are not looking for profits. They are not trying to get even cost. They have cleared out a great many lines, and for the next month or two more startling bargains than ever may be looked for, as they are determined to convert their winter stock into cash to prepare the way for spring goods.

Swift & Co. have been very busy during the past three weeks filling their monster ice house here. Mr. Bryans, the energetic superintendent for the company, has had a gang of 24 men at work packing away the ice, which is being cut in Peterborough by Messrs. McDonald & Mercier at Point St. Charles, on Little Lake, and shipped here in cars by them. About 300 cars have been contracted to fill this big icing station, which must be quite a snug pile in the hands of these Peterborough ice men. Ice is pronounced A1.

BROKEN.

There are times when I am merry,
Yes, and gay,
But I'm feeling very
Blue to-day.
Yet no sweetheart has forsaken
Me and taken
Up some other jay.

Nor would I be apt to mind it
If a maid had thus opined it,
For I am not built that way.
But my trouble strikes me nearer
And severer,
'Till dismay
Falls upon me like a lion on his prey.

Inside out I turn my pockets
And the humor seems to mock its Grim display.
For I see that I broken
And in sorrow be it spoken;
Yes, I haven't a cent to-day.

THE MODEL HUSBAND.

What Might Have Been Had Lord Macauley Married.

A kind husband, when he goes from home, generally brings back some little present to his wife. Attentions like this keep fresh that element of romance which should never be entirely absent from married life. They remind the now staid but still impressible matron of the days of her maiden power, when a cold look from her brought winter into the room and when the faintest wish would have sent a certain young gentleman on a walk of a dozen miles for the first violets. Yes, now and then give your wife a present—a real present, which, without involving undue expense, is good enough to make her cheek flush with delight at seeing that just as the bride was dearer than the sweetheart, the wife is yet dearer than the bride. There is quite as much human nature in a wife as in a husband, and a little tender petting does her a great deal of good, and may even be better than presents.

What a model husband and father Macauley would have been if he had married! His sister, Lady Trevelyan, says that "those who did not know him at home never knew him in his brilliant, witty and fertile vein." He was the life and sunshine to young and old in the somber house in Great Ormond street, where the forlorn old father, like a blighted oak, lingered on in leafless decay, reading one long sermon to his family on Sunday afternoons and another long sermon on Sunday evenings—"where Sunday walking for walking's sake was never allowed, and even going to a distant church was discouraged." Through this Puritanic gloom Macauley shot like a sunbeam and turned it into a fairy scene of innocent laughter and mirth.

Against Macaulay, the author, severe things may be said; but as to his conduct in his own home—as a son, as a brother and an uncle—it is only the barest justice to say that he appears to have touched the farthest verge of human virtue, sweetness and generosity. His thinking was often, if not generally, pitched in what we must call a low key, but his actions might put the very saints to shame. He reversed a practice too common among men of genius, who are often careful to display all their shining and attractive qualities to the outside world and keep for home consumption their meanness, selfishness and ill-temper. Macaulay struck no heroic attitude of benevolence, magnanimity and aspiration before the world—rather the opposite; but in the circle of his home affections he practiced those virtues without letting his right hand know what was done by his left.—New York Advertiser.

Giving the Ear a Rest.

A man cannot control hearing as he does sight or feeling or taste. One can close the eye if he does not want to see; no one can be compelled to taste or to smell unless he chooses to, but how can anyone keep out of noises, near or distant, which in large cities abound in numberless variety?

Railroads, steamboats, factories, foundries, trolleys, street cars, pianos, organs, blacksmiths and what not unite in making life almost unbearable. To put cotton in both ears, as often suggested, does not give sufficient relief.

THE SOUND-KILLER.

article which bids fair to become an absolute necessity for many dwellers in large cities. The euphonious name given it is "antiphone," indicating its usage. In plain English this means "sound-killer," and the object is to give the one sense that needs it most a much-needed rest. It is but a small anchor-shaped piece of metal. The ball at the lower end (Fig. 1) fits closely into the outer canal of the ear, while the flattened upper part sits snugly in the hollow of the ear.

The human ear varies greatly in shape, and the antiphone is, therefore, made in many sizes to fit anybody; as much care should be taken in fitting antiphones as in eyeglasses.

Soon the rumbling of railroad cars, the snorting of engines, the monotonous noise of a steamer's screw and the like will have ceased to disturb the peace of the traveler; the piano next door will be no terror and the antiphone will spread its humane qualities.

An Electrical Parrot Teacher.

According to London Electricity, a Mr. Hill, of Manchester, who seems to have invented a number of curious contrivances, has lately devised an electrical parrot teacher, which is made up of a phonograph, a motor, an electro-magnet and a battery.

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 12,960,000,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance

Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

MORE TROOPS NEEDED

Two Brigades With Police Fail to Keep Order in Brooklyn.

THE SITUATION GROWS SERIOUS

Linemen Ordered to Quit Work—One Man Fatally Shot—Stray Bullets Crash Through Store Windows—Car Windows Smashed by the Rioters.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 23.—Mob violence continued in the presence of troops in Brooklyn yesterday. Troops fired upon the mobs last night. The 7,000 men of the First and Second brigades have not restored order and the Third brigade has been notified to be in readiness to proceed to the scene of the strife on short notice. Adjt-Gen. McAlpine, sent by Governor Morton from Albany to ascertain the exact situation, has been here and has gone to report to the Governor.

The Mayor has issued an additional proclamations as follows: "Law and order must prevail first in this community, must be respected by all and must be enforced upon all even if it takes the entire force of the state.

The situation has grown more serious and the outlook is most grave. The breach between the striking employes of the trolley lines and the companies has been widened by yesterday's doings.

Master Workman Martin J. Connelly declares that the troops of the Seventh regiment raided a peaceable assemblage of workingmen, seized their papers and records and ran things with a high hand. The militia admit throwing out a cordon of soldiers for two blocks from the Ridgeway depot and incidentally penning 200 strikers in the Oddfellow's hall for two hours while the cars were operated on the Gates avenue line. They deny seizing books and papers.

Fifteen linemen, who went on strike of their own accord early in the day, were ordered back to work by Connelly, but when he heard of the affair at Oddfellows' hall he ordered all the linemen to quit work to-day. If the men obey there will be few cars operated until their places are filled, if they can be filled.

The car companies made some progress toward resuming traffic. More cars were run on the lines which have been opened for three or four days and two new lines were opened. In one case troops and police lined the route for blocks and shot at people in windows who threw missiles. Troop "A" charged with drawn sabres to rescue a car in the hands of the mob. Both these affairs in which troops figured took place in broad daylight. Minor disturbances were reported from various parts of the city. There were only a dozen arrests in all that had any connection with the disturbances. Strikers captured men hired by the companies to fill their places. In some cases they used moral suasion and in others it is said they used force to kidnap the non-union men.

A delegation of tradesmen along the line of Third avenue railroad called on the Mayor yesterday and complained of the failure of the Third avenue line to run cars. The Mayor replied that establishing law and order throughout the city just now was the paramount duty of the municipal authorities, and until this had been accomplished, they would not rigidly insist on the trolley lines resuming the running of cars. The Mayor admitted that several companies had not been able to operate their lines, and further stated that the troops now on hand were sufficient to fully control the situation.

The cars began to run early. The first car to run out was delayed fifteen minutes at the entrance to the Plaza where the track was obstructed. A mob had piled up old iron and stones on the track and it took a quarter of an hour to clear it so that the car could proceed. This was the only trouble on this line.

For the first time since the inauguration of the strike the Brooklyn, Queen's County and Suburban Company began to run cars on its Ralph avenue line. The car left the barns protected by two officers and manned by non-union men. About the place was a crowd of 100 men and boys, but they made no demonstration. This encouraged the company and within an hour eight cars had been started. Along the line at different points crowds were congregated. They hooted and sent stones crashing through car windows and many of the policemen and non-unionists were struck and severely bruised. The company continued to operate this branch up to 6 p.m., when it was decided it would not be safe to run any more cars. On Fulton street between Ralph and Patchen avennes, where the Fulton street line is operated, very serious trouble was threatened during the day. A mob of nearly 1,000 strikers and their sympathizers held that neighborhood in terror for several hours and only the timely arrival of a detachment of police and cavalry prevented bloodshed. At one time the police were compelled to draw their revolvers.

There was trouble all day on the Gates avenue line. One shot was fired by a Seventh regiment man before it was over. Early in the day President Norton of the Brooklyn City system, which operates the line, announced that it would be operated. He succeeded in moving 19 cars over the line. This number does not mean that 19 cars were in operation all day. As a matter of fact they were started out close together after 3.30 p. m. and were hustled back into the car house before six o'clock.

The first car had its windows smashed while others were hit with stones and bricks. At 5.50 p. m. Patrolman William McCann, of the Sixth precinct, while on a Gates avenue car going to Ridgewood had a box of cayenne pepper thrown in his face by a woman at the corner of Gates and Irving avenues. He was attended by the surgeon of the Seventh regiment. At 8.30 p. m. a squad of police dispersed a crowd and fired several shots in the air at Palmetto avenue.

A charge was made by the military at Broadway and Halsey streets at 11 p.m. last night. Some small boys had been jeering the soldiers, but there was but few men about. A drunken man from New York started from Conway's saloon, on the corner to cross Halsey street. He was fired upon and hit in the face, sustaining a compound fracture of the jaw. His name is Thomas Ahens. He will die. Dr. Mitchell, of the Brooklyn City railroad, was shot in the arm. Two of the bullets from the guns of the militia went through the large plate glass window of the candy store of John Eckoff, at 1,657 Broadway, narrowly missing the clerks behind the counters. At 11.40 the neighborhood was almost deserted, but the few men about were excited over the occurrence. There were less than twenty men present when the shooting occurred and there is said to have been no excuse for it.

ANGERS' PAIR OF HORSES.

L'Electeur Said He Received Them for Dismissing Mercier's Government.

QUEBEC, Jan. 23.—In the Superior court yesterday the case of Hon. A. R. Angers vs. L'Electeur was proceeded with. Hon. Judge Andrews on the bench. The suit in question resulted from an article which appeared in L'Electeur over a year ago. It referred to Hon. A. R. Angers as having participated in the Beauport Asylum transaction and accused the hon. gentleman, the Lieutenant-Governor of the province of Quebec, of having received a fine pair of horses as a reward for having dismissed the Mercier Government.

Hon. Mr. Casgrain, G. G. Stuart and L. Belleau represented the Hon. Mr. Angers. L'Electeur had no representative in the court and the proceedings were carried on ex-parte

Hon. L. P. Pelletier was the first witness examined. He thought L'Electeur's article was a very injurious one. He himself never had anything to do with Hon. A. R. Angers on matters referring to the Beauport Asylum.

Hon. Mr. De Boucherville, late Premier of the Province of Quebec, and Hon. Mr. Chapais, Government leader of the Legislative Council and editor of the Courier du Canada, were examined. The latter thought the article a gross libel and a $25,000 suit was not enough to compensate the damage done by the libellous article.

Messrs. S. J. Shaw and Edmond Dupre, both of the Chinic Hardware Company, corroborated the above evidence.

Hon. Senator Landry, being examined, said that the pair of horses were not from him, but were offered to the Lieutenant-Governor by some of his personal friends and admirers.

P. P. A. CONVENTION.

The Grand Council Holds its Annual Meeting in Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—The grand council of the P. P. A. is holding its annual session in this city. The principal business which the convention will have to deal with will be the selection of a president to succeed Rev. J. C. Madill, who is expected to resign the position. An officer of the association says that the fight for the presidency will be between Mayor Essery of London, Mayor Stewart of Hamilton, Ald. Wm. Bell, A. T. Gurd, M. P. P., Mr. John Shields, contractor, and Dr. Ryerson, M. P. P. It is noticeable that this year there is no registering under assumed names as was the case in Hamilton last year. The convention is expected to finish its business to morrow.

The Manitoba Subsidy.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—The Manitoba delegates, Attorney-General Sifton and Treasurer McMillan, have left for Toronto, having completed their business with the Government. Before leaving they received a reply from Hon. Geo. Foster to their request for an increase in their provincial subsidy. It will be remembered that they asked for a subsidy on the per capita basis of 200,000 of a population. At present they are receiving a subsidy for 153,000. The population at the last census, an estimate made by the province, puts the population at 200,000, but the Dominion Government seems to think this is an over estimate. At any rate, Mr. Foster has agreed on behalf of the Government to increase the subsidy on the basis of 190,000 of a population. This will give to the province an increase of about $30,000 per year. The arrangement holds good until 1896. Messrs. Sifton and McMillan were apparently well satisfied with the result of their trip to the Capital.

Essex County Licensed Victuallers.

WINDSOR, Jan. 23.—The Licensed Victuallers met at the British American here and decided to combine all those in the business in Essex county for mutual interest. Organizer Dickey, of Toronto, is to be invited to speak at a meeting to be held some day next week and to take charge of the organizing. It is intended to send a petition to the Government asking for special legislation as to the closing hour on Saturday evening extending it from 7 to 11 o'clock, the argument being that the people who want liquor will go to Detroit and not only spend money for that purpose but for other things. There were nearly 30 hotel and saloon keepers at the meeting.

ON THE LIBERAL POLICY

Hon. Mr. Laurier Speaks at a Large Meeting in Montreal.

A REVENUE TARIFF ADVOCATED

Between a High Tariff and Absolute Free Trade There Is a Happy Medium for Which Liberals Stand—Sir Oliver Mowat Addresses the Meeting.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—The Liberal campaign was opened by a meeting in this city last night at which nearly three thousand people were present to hear addresses from Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the party, Sir Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario, and Mr. Paterson, M. P., of Brant. All the Liberal lieutenants of any prominence were present. The Windsor Hall was packed to overflowing and long before eight o'clock the doors had to be closed and many people were unable to gain admittance. When Mr. Laurier, Sir Oliver Mowat and Mr. Paterson appeared on the platform they were greeted with applause. Amongst the other prominent Liberals present were:—Jas. Sutherland, M.P., J. D. Edgar, M.P., J. J. McLaren, Q.C., Julius Scriver, M.P., Hon. F. G. Marchand, leader of the Quebec Liberals.

Mr. Laurier, who was the first speaker, asked if this was Montreal, if this was the great Conservative city of Canada. Well might he doubt this. But this was Montreal and he did not forget it. Neither did he forget the fact that for the last sixteen years the people of the commercial metropolis had cast their votes for the Conservative policy. But he believed that this fact had been largely due to the prestige of Sir John A. Macdonald. He believed that English history was to-day fully repeated in Canadian history. It is only three years since Sir John A. Macdonald had been laid in the grave, but there was a marked falling off in the Conservative ranks. A feeling of dissatisfaction had been created by gross corruption in the administration of the country. They were here not to present the policy of the Liberal party because that policy was well known, but he was here to defend the Liberal policy. It had long been a stale joke that the Liberal party had no policy. The Liberal policy was the same as that adopted by the Ottawa convention in 1893.

The Liberal party demanded the adoption of a sound fiscal policy which, while not doing injustice to any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade; that the tariff be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient Government; that it should be so adjusted as to bear as light as possible upon the necessaries of life, while promoting free trade with the whole world, more particularly with Great Britain and the United States. The Liberals, in other words, believed in a maximum of revenue for a minimum of taxation. Such in brief was the lamp of the Liberal party. Protection, he declared, had been the bane and the curse of Canada.

Mr. Laurier quoted a large number of figures to bear out this contention. He claimed that Montreal had not been brought to its present condition by protection, but by its superior geographical position.

Protection as a matter of fact destroyed maritime trade and under a revenue tariff a maritime city like Montreal would be more prosperous. He maintained that the manufacturers would be better off under a revenue tariff, as all raw materials would be free. There were some people who feared that if the Liberals got into power they would go too far, that they would revolutionize the tariff and that a financial crisis would result. There were others who thought that they would not go far enough, but between the two there was the happy medium of Reform for which the Liberals stood. On this issue the Liberals stood prepared to meet the electors whenever the time came. The question was, When would it come? He could not say, he was not in the secret of the false gods that sat at Ottawa, but like death, the elections might come like a thief in the night, but whenever they did come the Liberals would be ready, and they would win.

Sir Oliver Mowat followed Mr. Laurier and assured his hearers that the Liberals of Ontario would do their part for Mr. Laurier in the next election.

Mr. Paterson, M. P. for Brant, attacked the National Policy, which he declared had been disastrous to the country.

The meeting which was most orderly throughout, closed with cheers for the Liberal leaders.

WHITEWAY COMING TO OTTAWA.

To Treat for Terms Under Which the Island May Come Into Confederation.

ST JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 23.—The British Government's decision to assent to the removal of disabilities bill framed in favor of members of the Whiteway party and passed by the colonial leigislature will, it is thought, prove a strong lever to aid Newfoundland's entrance into the Canadian federation. A delegation consisting of Sir William Whiteway and Messrs. Bond and Morrin will go to Ottawa, probably next week, to treat for terms under which the colony may enter the Confederation and the Legislature will adjourn for a month to await their return, when it will consider the matter.

Crushed Between Freight Cars.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Archibald Levitt, a student of Caledonia, Que., left home intending to go to the Agricultural College at Guelph, and remained over in Toronto Monday night. Yesterday morning when he went to the Union to catch his train, he was somewhat late and in his hurry he attempted to cross between two freight cars. Just as he stepped on the draw-head a shunting engine backed against one of the cars, pinning Levitt by the feet. He was removed to the waiting room where Dr. Riordan dressed his injuries, after which he was taken to the General Hospital. It is thought that one of his feet will have to be amputated.

The Chignecto Railway.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Financial Times, in speaking of the Chignecto railway matter, says that it calls for a most careful consideration. In view of the failure to provide capital, and the general distrust as to the feasibility of the scheme, the Government would do well to think twice before renewing the offer.

SNOW STORMS AND FLOODS.

Loss of Life and Property on the Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—A severe snow storm has been raging on the line of the Central Pacific railroad, the snow being 28 feet deep on the level at the summit. On the Shasta route a formidable fall of snow has occurred at Upper Soda Springs, near Dunsmore, burying the track 60 feet deep under snow, bushes and rocks. Hundreds of men are now clearing the track, but it is not expected to be clear for two days.

The river at Napa City has overflowed its banks and the best portion of the city is inundated. At Sonomora several bridges have been swept away and the roads are impassable. At Escenda, in Lower California, a large tannery and several residences have been swept away by the rise of the river. Two government pilot boats have also been wrecked.

On Agua Fria river, 20 miles from Phoenix, Ariz., Frank Dougherty, while attempting to ford the river, was swept away and perished in the sight of many spectators. James Hammond was drowned in Hassampar river, 50 miles north of Phoenix, while driving a mail coach across the stream.

A COAL TRAIN ON FIRE.

One Man Killed and Four Injured in a Railway Wreck.

BRADFORD, Pa., Jan. 23.—A special from Ridgway says a fatal railroad wreck occurred on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg railroad, near Carmen interchange, yesterday. Three sections of a coal train piled up and caught fire.

The accident occurred upon a bridge and the trains toppled over into the ravine. One man was killed and four injured by the accident. Fireman William Baxter, of Bradford, who was on his engine in the second section, had his arm so badly crushed that it was amputated. The middle brakesman, named McPhilamee, who was in the caboose, was buried beneath the wreckage, and it is feared was burned in the fire which followed the collision. No trace of his body can be found.

Conductor James Morrow, of Bradford, was badly bruised, and another whose name could not be learned was injured. Flagman Traynor was injured about the arms and body, but not seriously. Two cars were destroyed by fire.

CANNOT CROSS THE LINE.

DeBarry Deports a Celestial Visitor From Woodstock.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Lee Hang is a Chinaman living in Woodstock, Ont., and Lee Sam is his cousin and lives in Buffalo. The Canadian Chinaman has been in the habit of coming over to see his cousin, but on Monday night when he arrived he was detained by Customs Inspector Cassidy, as he was not provided with the papers required under the new Chinese treaty entitling him to land. Hang, who is quite a handsome fellow for a Chinaman and dresses in European costume, said that he had no intention of staying in this country and did not see why he should be interfered with.

Mr. De Barry investigated the case and found that the celestial had no legal right in this country. Accordingly, he deported him and warned him that if he were found in this country again he would first be imprisoned and then returned to Canada.

The Chinaman promised reluctantly to remain in his present home.

REDMOND AND HOME RULE.

He Says His Party Will Do Their Utmost to Oust the Government.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—In the course of a speech in Hull last evening Home Secretary Asquith said that the country must prepare for a serious financial sacrifice in order to strengthen the navy.

John Redmond, M. P., leader of the Parnellites, said in a speech in Waterford last evening, that he and his colleagues will go back to Parliament with a determination to do their utmost to oust the Government. They will insist that no British business be transacted until Home Rule shall have been granted to Ireland.

Mexico's Patriotic Students.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 23.—Three thousand students accompanied by friends called on President Diaz at the National Palace yesterday and offered their services in the event of war between Mexico and Guatemala. The President, who was deeply moved, said that relations between the two countries had not yet come to a crisis, but that the diplomatic situation was dangerous and war might result. Peace was necessary to the progress of the Republic he said and the government would not interrupt it unless absolutely compelled to do so.

Attempt to Blow Up a Rescue Home.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Jan. 23.—An attempt was made to blow up the Rescue Home of the Kings Sons and Daughters yesterday morning. Dynamite was used and the rear end of the building was badly damaged. It was evidently the intention to injure Evangelist Whitaker, who has made himself obnoxious to the tough element.

Salisbury Sounds the Call.

WEST PETERBOROUGH FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

SUCCESSFUL EVENING MEETING IN NORTH MONAGHAN.

Interesting and Profitable Addresses—A Good Musical Programme—A Large Attendance.

A large number of prominent farmers attended in the town hall on Wednesday evening to hear the addresses of the deputation who came to address them. Among those present were Mr. R. D. Dundas, Springville, the well known stock breeder, Mr. Levi S. Bowles, of no less fame in that line. Mr. Joseph Harrison, Mr. Thos. Brown, of the firm of Brown Bros., Mr. John Greer, Reeve Forster, Mr. Thos. Fry, Isaac Clark, James Baptie, John Bennett, Wm. Lang, Councillor McIntosh, Wm. Lang, Mr. Wm. Bell, Robt. Dobbin, who were but a few of the foremost agriculturists of the locality. A large number of the fair sex graced the front seats. The High Park band was in attendance which added much to the enjoyment of the meeting. This band is composed chiefly of two families, the Messrs. Williamson and Fowler, and under the able leadership of Mr. H. D. Williamson, render their selections equal to many of the city bands.

Mr. J. Fred Davidson, the president of the Institute, occupied the chair and opened the meeting with a few well chosen remarks, complimenting the audience on their splendid turnout in numbers, remarking that he had seldom seen such a number of ladies present at any of the meetings. He went on to say that although Ontario was a large Province and ahead of any province or state in North America in agricultural productions, yet the authorities spent a smaller amount of money ($6,000) in conducting the Farmers' Institute societies than any State in the Union, instancing one, Wisconsin, which spent $12,000 on a similar society.

Music by the band.

Mr. J. F. Beam gave an exceedingly interesting address on the subject of "Dairy farming as a business." Mr. Beam is a practical farmer of Welland county, owning a large farm and running a cheese factory himself, and gave some valuable reasons why dairy farming is a profitable business. The speaker went on to that almost all other products of the farm take 25 per cent. of their value to market them, in the charge of freights, etc., while dairy products only cost five per cent of the value to take them from the farm to the consumers' market. Another point in favour of dairy farming is that it is absolutely necessary for the farmer to engage largely in dairying so as to have the manure to keep his land in a state of fertility to enable him to raise large crops. He asked the farmers present to contrast the farmer operating his farm with a herd of dairy cattle and the other operating his farm without the dairy herd, and draw their conclusions as to which farmer is being the most successful and keeping his farm in the most fertile state. The speaker thon pointed out the many

PROVE FROM STATISTICS

and the necessity of manufacturing their goods to suit the requirements of both the home and foreign markets. He believed that farmers' interests were so interwoven that it is essential for them to work together, witholding no secrets of their business that would benefit their neighbours and concentrating their skill and working together as a people. By doing so they would enhance the value of their farms and be able to compete with all foreigners in the placing of those products to the best advantage on the best foreign markets of the world. Mr. Beam advised the farmers of this section who were sending there milk to a cheese factory to insist on the manufacture of small cheese for the home market. He then gave his own experience. Five years ago he began at his own cheese factory to fill a few orders from customers for cheese weighing from ten to twenty-five pounds, himself fixing the price at twelve cents per pound. His customers finding them so satisfactory (owing to keeping fresh and not drying out) that they now sell several tons of these cheese during the season. He had no doubt that if the people of this country were supplied with the best cheese manufactured in a suitable way the consumption of cheese in this country would materially increase.

Will the dairy business be overdone by the farmers? was the next question taken up. It was pointed out that it was utterly impossible for Canada to produce too much cheese, as long as it retained its high reputation, and the speaker showed that although dairy farming had some objectionable features about it, owing to it requiring constant attention, yet at the present time, when farmers can make from thirty, fifty and even one hundred dollars per cow in a single season, he advised farmers to dispossess their minds of any apprehension of the business ever being overdone, as it is the surest branch of farming at the present time. At the close of his address, Mr. G. G. Payne and others asked a number of questions in regard to the cost of changing a cheese factory into a butter factory for the winter months. Mr. Beam gave figures for the different pieces of machinery required, which showed that the whole cost would not be over nine hundred dollars.

Miss Mary Payne favoured the audience with a reading which was well received.

Mr. Geo. Y. Payne, a second year student of the Agricultural College, a young man of the township of North Monaghan, gave a short address on

THE COLLEGE AND ITS WORK.

Mr. Payne drew a fine picture of the beauty of the college and the farm, and spoke in approving terms of the management and also of the seven professors, all indefatigueable workers, and closed a very pleasing address by urging the young men to try and take a course at the Agricultural College, as the amount of scientific knowledge that a student will acquire which will fit him for his high calling will far away overshadow the small cost of $60 per year.

Mr. H. D. Williamson favoured the audience with a cornet solo in his usual perfect manner.

Mr. C. A. Zavitiz, agriculture experimentalist, who is a pleasing speaker, prefaced his remarks by expressing himself as exceedingly pleased to be present tonight, not only because he knew he was about to address a large and intelligent audience of ladies and gentlemen, but because that he recognized the faces of some ex-students here this evening which warranted him in believing that the farmers of this district were equally as anxious as the farmers of other parts of the Province in fitting their sons for the noble calling that they themselves are engaged in. The gentlemen then explained the workings of the college and with the aid of a very large chart of the experimental grounds, took the audience for a pleasant trip of inspection to almost every plot, explaining as they went up and down the twenty-three miles of the almost numberless drives and walks, the methods employed in experimenting, and the successes and failures they had had during the last five years with the different kinds of grains, clovers, roots, seeds, etc. After giving a brief description of the work of the Experimental Union, organized in 1889, it was stated that progress was very slow at first, there being in 1890 only 12 members, but it had risen from its slumbering, and last year, 1894, there were 1340 ex-students and farmers experimenting with the different kinds of cereals and roots in all parts of the province, and the speaker urged all farmers to get possession of all the scientific and practical knowledge that they possibly could in order to enable them to manage their farms and business so as to make profits that will do away with the hard times.

Miss Edith Tully sang a song entitled, "Putting on Airs," which was given the audience a hearty encore, which she responded to by singing "Love on the Brain." Miss Tully possesses a rich voice and always pleases when ever she takes part in filling a programme.

Mr. D. E. Smith, B.A., of Brampton, addressed the audience for a short time on the subject of "Country Life vs. Town Life." Mr. Smith launched out into his subject by asking the audience to peer into the future as far as thirty years, and to picture to themselves for the moment the change that will have taken place. Many who are now past middle age will have passed over to the silent majority, and the young men and boys of to-day will be occupying their places, some on the farms and others in the trades and professions. It is then absolutely necessary that the surroundings of the boys and girls should be such as will not only tend to develop their minds but also that their bodies should receive the care and be provided with the means that would fit them for the different occupations that they will be called upon to exercise. Compare with the boy's life in town. The former goes out to play and is content to not have very many toys, but will use them day after day and very quickly adapts himself to be useful in running errands, etc., while the boy in town will require numberless toys and then will cast them away to look for pleasure around the corners of the streets, being no use to anybody, but at times a great nuisance—continuously looking for that which will satisfy his unsatiable appetite for pleasure. The country boy, in his rompings around in the pure air, viewing nature in its beauty, develops a robust constitution, a strong receptive mind and usually a quiet temperament, while the boy in the town with his indolent habits develops a puny, delicate physique, receiving his education chiefly from books—which of the two has the best chance of entering life at 16 years of age? The boy from the country leaves home, goes to college and with his strong physique and receptive mind, climbs to the top of the ladder in the course of learning, which he has set himself to pursue, and in a short time enters a profession and reaches to distinction; while the city boy, with his love for pleasure, too often becomes a shiftless dude, leaning on some person else for sustenance and can not apply himself to anything that requires much tact or energy. Statistics prove that nine tenths of all the best positions in the professions in all the large cities are occupied by men who were once boys in the country.

THE BOY'S LIFE IN THE COUNTRY

To train the boys and girls at home, they should be supplied with the best literature in order to fit their minds to enable them to perform their work in an intelligent manner. Here again the speaker strongly urged all present to make the homes so pleasant by supplying beautiful pictures and music, that they will not only grow up useful boys and girls, but that they will grow to love in after years the abodes of their childhood. Mr. Smith closed one of the best addresses of the evening by thanking the audience for the kind attention, and sat down amidst applause.

A solo was sung by Mr. J. F. Beam entitled "The Dairyman," for which he was heartily encored, and responded, playing his own accompaniment.

A vote of thanks was unanimously tendered the band and the vocalists for their valuable assistance during the evening. Mr. Wm. Collins moved a vote of thanks to the press, which was unanimously carried. The band played "God Save the Queen," which brought to a close the most successful Farmers' Institute meeting held in this section.

Pickpockets Heavily Sentenced.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—William Blake, an old man of 60 years of age, who has a bad record marked against him on the police books, was up in the assize court yesterday, charged with picking the pocket of Maggie Phenix, a deaf mute. The old man pleaded for mercy in a pitiful manner, but Judge McMahon, who is determined to break the alarming increase of this crime in the city, sentenced him to five years in Kingston penitentiary. John Connors, another pickpocket, was sentenced to seven years in the same institution.

A Breach of Promise Case Settled.

HAMILTON, Jan. 23.—The breach of promise case of Clara Erschler against Archer Epstein was settled yesterday before the case went to the jury. Plaintiff came here from Rochester, N.Y., last July, and met defendant on the day she arrived. She became engaged to him in the month of August. In September defendant backed out of the agreement without cause and thus the suit. Both parties are Hebrews. A settlement was arrived at by which plaintiff will get $380.

Ex-Alderman Stewart's Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Ex-Ald. Stewart was in court yesterday. His counsel, Mr. John Greer, moved for a postponement of his trial until the Assize Court on the ground that two witnesses, Edward Hewitt and John Bailey, are not in town, and their evidence is material and necessary. His Lordship traversed the case, and Mr. Stewart and his bondsmen renewed their bail.

Result of a Neglected Cold.

DISEASED LUNGS

Which Doctors Failed to Help,

CURED BY TAKING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured."—A. LEFLAR, wax Manufacturer, Orangeville, Ont.

Consulted a Doctor

Fallacies of Heredity.

Heredity is in the air, says everybody. No doubt of that; but what is heredity?

Most people mean by it little more than the obvious truism that the offspring, on the whole, tends to resemble the parents. Heredity, in that sense, was known before Noah. The real question is, how far does it tend to resemble them? What are the conditions and limitations of the resemblance? How many special features and characteristics of each parent may we expect to see reproduced in the young, and how many may we expect to find neutralized or unrepresented. We must clear the subject of misconceptions; and this is what not even systematic writers, like Galton and Ribot, have hitherto done. We must limit the field of investigation; we must propose for ourselves certain definite questions, and seek to find a definite answer for them.

Our enquiry relates mainly to what may be regarded as individual or personal characteristics: for everybody admits that specific characteristics, and even the characteristics of well-marked varieties within the same species, are almost always normally transmitted. Bulldogs produce bulldogs and terriers terriers. The child of two negroes is always a negro: Japanese parents never beget a European infant. It is only when we come to minor and comparatively personal differences that doubt begins. Where we may reasonably expect to see parental traits reproduced in the offspring, and where to find individual or idiosyncratic differences?

Hitherto, for the most part, enquiry into heredity has begun at the wrong end—with the most complex instead of the most simple phenomena; with the mental instead of the physical; with the morbid instead of the normal and natural. Just as pathology preceded physiology, and just as evolving medicine was ready to prescribe for cancer or phthisis before it knew anything of the circulation of the blood or the digestive process; so, in the study of heredity, enquirers have begun with hereditary genius and hereditary madness, instead of beginning with color of hair and eyes, stature, shape of features, observations, like Bertillon's, on anthropometrical peculiarities. Now, clearly, genius and madness are among the most complex phenomena which the investigator can attack. The psychological is more elusive than the anatomical or the physiological. What we want first is a clear conception of the nature and limits of physical heredity. That will give us a basis from which we can afterwards attack the more difficult problems of psychological heredity.

Hitherto, the chief question has always been, "How is it that this, that, or the other great man has not sons who are equally great with him? Why is not the greatness or the genius inherited?" The very form the question takes shows how far we still are from a scientific standpoint in these matters. For the real difficulty is not why such special combinations of qualities as constitute genius are not transmitted to children, but why they are not shared by brothers and sisters. The great man's children are his offspring by a mother who is often presumably a little less great; and his greatness is the result of an exceptionally delicate balance of qualities. Is it likely, then, that such a balance will survive admixture with the very different qualities of the particular woman he has happened to marry? His brothers and sisters, however, are the product of the self-same father and mother; nothing shows better the delicate nature of the organic balance which produces genius than the fact that these brothers and sisters, though they may greatly resemble the genius in many other respects, both physical and mental, seldom share those peculiar and distinctive traits which make a genius of him. The difference is idiosyncracy, and the idiosyncratic peculiarities of brothers and sisters are the subject matter out of which in the end we must frame a true theory of heredity, human or animal.—London Saturday Review.

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigorous action to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

HIS BOOKKEEPER.

She has such dainty little ways
That often my attention strays
To where she sits.
Unconscious of her witching grace,
While now and then across her face
A shadow flits.

Puzzling all day with figures blind,
She knits her brows when fate unkind
Puts her in doubt.
And I, whene'er she has the blues,
Would give my whole stock of old shoes
To help her out.

At last a sudden, joyful flash
Within her eyes shows that her cash
Is balanced right.
And then the sunshine in her face
Enhances her bewitching grace,
It shines so bright.

Alas! what is her charm to me?
She is no longer fancy free
And, what is more,
I must remember, with a sigh,
That she is but eighteen, and I
Am fifty-four.

AS TO TRIPTOLOGY.

Some Instances of the Habit Among Persons of Distinction.

Horace Walpole humorously described as "triptology" George III's habit of repeating three times any remark he might make. It was emphatic thinking aloud, and the author of "Gossip of the Century" gives this instance of the "tripological" habit. The king was very fond of the Weld family and frequently stayed at Lulworth castle, their family seat. One evening he attended a ball there, and the daughter of the house, a handsome woman, danced so gracefully that the king expressed aloud his admiration in the characteristic form:

"Fine woman, fine woman, fine woman! Dances well, dances well, dances well!"

The habit ran in the royal family, and his son, the duke of Cambridge, inherited it. The duke attended church Sunday mornings and would express in an audible tone, and with threefold repitition, his approbation of the services and opinion of the sermon. On one occasion the officiating clergyman pronounced the exhortation: "Let us pray."

"Aye, to be sure, why not? Let us pray, let us pray, let us pray," repeated the duke from his pew.

On another occasion, when the ten commandments were being read, the duke thus emphatically indorsed the eighth:

"Steal! Of course not! Mustn't steal, mustn't steal, mustn't steal."

William IV did not inherit his father's "triptology," but when any question was brought before him on which he was not prepared to express an opinion he would say: "That's another matter."

On his deathbed, watching through an open window the sun sinking below the horizon, he said reflectively to the archbishop of Canterbury, who stood near:

"Ah, my friend, I shall not see another sunset."

"We don't know that, sire," answered the prelate, "and I pray heartily that your majesty may see many more."

"That's another matter," replied the king.

Well Equipped for the Senate.

The drummer for a big Toronto establishment was doing the talking.

"I think," said he, "of leaving the road before long."

"What for?" asked the man next to him.

"To go into politics."

"There's nothing in that for you, is there?"

"A Dominion Senatorship, that's all."

"Rats? Come off! You'd make a fine Senator, wouldn't you!"

"Why not?"

"You haven't the capacity."

"Capacity, nothing. Haven't I been handling dry sweets on the road for a dozen years?"

"Wow!" exclaimed the other man and collapsed.

Sudden Change of Mind.

Lawyer Gassaway, a San Antonio, Texas, lawyer, was appealing most eloquently to the jury on behalf of his client, who was being tried for larceny. The lawyer's defense was so thrilling and pathetic that even the prisoner himself was moved to tears, and was wiping his eyes with a handkerchief when his attorney turned and asked the jury to gaze on the honest features of his client, and say if they could believe that it was possible for a man with such an honest face to be guilty of theft. Suddenly the lawyer paused, gasped for breath and ejaculated: "Well, I'll be blowed if that blankety blank scoundrel hasn't swiped my pocket handkerchief."—Texas Siftings.

A Great Artesian Well.

Chamberlain, S. D., has an artesian well eight inches in diameter and 670 feet deep. The stream of water which flows from it is sufficient both in force and volume to run a great roller mill and electric light plant. At the time this great flow was struck the drill fell through a subterranean lake sixty feet in depth.

Even They Discriminate.

Herbivorous animals do not eat all of nature's menu. The horse refuses the water hemlock that the goat eats with avidity and, on the other hand, the goat refuses some plants that are eaten by the sheep. The tobacco plant is avoided by all save the goat, man and the tobacco worm.

Miss Frances E. Willard is the third woman to have the right to write doctor of laws after her name. Maria Mitchell, the astronomer, and Amelia B. Edwards, the Egyptologist, were the others.

Ayer's Hair Vigor is certainly a remarkable preparation and nothing like it has ever been produced. No matter how wiry and unmanageable the hair may be, under the influence of this incomparable dressing, it becomes soft, silky, and pliable to the comb and brush.

AUTHORS AND BOOKS.

Conan Doyle stands as high as any living novelist to-day, either in this country or in Europe. He is six feet two.

Mr. Gladstone has promised to write an introduction to the life of Sir Andrew Clark, which is in course of preparation.

Henrik K. Ibsen, who is now sixty-seven years of age was an apothecary's clerk in Skien, Norway, when he wrote his first play.

Field Marshal Lord Wolseley wrote his life of "Marlborough" standing at his desk in his dressing-gown and before breakfast.

Count Tolstoi's son has published a short story, which has been reproduced in a Parisian newspaper. He is said to have more radical views than his father.

George Solomon, a Parisian book collector, has a collection of seven hundred volumes, none of them being larger than one inch wide by two inches high.

The Berlin royal library has acquired a Semitic manuscript by a Hebrew doctor of the fourteenth century which promises to throw much light on the history of medicine.

Paris papers say that the pope recently told several French prelates that he would not receive M. Zola, the writer, should the latter ask for an audience. He gave as a reason that the novelist was a declared enemy of the church.

PEOPLE OVER THE SEAS.

Henry M. Stanley and his beautiful wife reside quietly at St. Moritz, in Switzerland.

In the House of Commons several members take notes in shorthand for their personal reference. Tim Healy is one of this group.

Mr. Maneherjee Merwanjee Bhownuggree, a Parsee, will stand for parliament as a unionist. The first Indian admitted the house or commons, Dadlabbai Naoroji, is a liberal.

Marshal Blaine's son has lately returned from Mexico, where he tried in vain to obtain the restitution of his mother's property, confiscated by the Mexican government. The family is now in abject poverty.

The house in which Martin Luther died at Eisleben, Germany, bore no mark to indicate this fact until a few weeks ago. The famous house, however, has been repaired and restored in a worthy fashion. It contains many relics of the great reformer.

Baron von Munchausen, the winner of the recent Baden jubilee cup, is not only a namesake but a lineal descendant of the baron, whose veracious tales of travel and adventure, as told by Rudolph Raspe, have been immortalized by Cruikshank and Gustave Dore.

Quite a Trip.

A carload of coal from Buffalo, consigned to Mr. Thos. Robson, reached the Fenelon Falls station on Thursday. Mr. Robson opened the car on Friday morning, and was considerably startled when a characteristic specimen of the tramp tribe jumped out and ran away with a speed that would indicate that he had been "fasting," which is not at all unlikely, as one week had elapsed since the car left Buffalo.

A Continental Reputation.

The fact that Mr. Geo. A. Cox has recently added largely to his interest in the Toronto Railway Company and will become a member of the Board of Directors of that most important financial concern will do much to strengthen the standing of the railway company with the public. Mr. Cox has a continental reputation as a safe and successful financier, and his name is a pillar of strength to any institution to which he lends it.—Globe.

Painful Accident.

On Monday last Mr. John Martin, of Fenelon, slipped from a felled tree upon which he was standing, and the axe he was using struck his right foot, cutting through the second and third toes, leaving one hanging by a little skin and flesh, and completely severing the other from the foot. He drove as soon as possible to the Falls, where Dr. Wilson put several stitches into the edges of the wound on the second toe and bound up the stump of the other.

A Strong Commendation.

The Penman's Art Journal of New York contains the following strong testimony to the excellence of the vertical writing taught in the Public Schools of Peterborough, particularly strong as coming from a source not specially favourable to Canadians and Canadian institutions :—

"Inspector of Public Schools J. W. Garvin, Peterborough, Ont., has sent us some of the finest examples of vertical writing we have examined. They are from the first and fourth grades, and the writing of all pupils in these grades is represented. The work is legible, uniform in slant (or, rather, uniformly vertical), and, in fact, equals the writing of many teachers of the new style. Mr. Garvin dates his success to a visit made his teachers by Mr. Newlands, on which occasion Mr. Newlands gave them a two hours' lesson, and incidentally gave the cause of vertical writing "a tremendous impetus," as Mr. Garvin puts it. There is no special teacher employed in Peterborough. Blank copy-books are used, and the grade teachers write the copies on the blackboard.

NEWS NUGGETS

—The town hotels are doing a rushing business just now as a rush of commercial men has just struck the town.

—A couple of new members were initiated into the local branch of the C. M. B. A., at its regular meeting last night.

—Mayor Cowan, of Oshawa, has given $1,000 for the relief of the families of the malleable iron works, which were burned there recently.

—At a meeting of the Property Committee last night it was decided that the council be recommended to buy a typewriter for use in the town offices. The much needed repairs to the collector's department will also be undertaken.

—The annual meeting of the county Orangemen will be held in Unity Hall, here, on Tuesday, February 5th, at 2 o'clock p. m., when the annual election of officers will take place and final arrangements made regarding a twelfth of July celebration.

—Rev. Dr. Sutherland, general secretary of the Methodist missions, said yesterday that it was not true that all the Methodist missionaries in Japan had resigned. Six of them had signed a letter asking to be recalled from the foreign field. The matter will be laid before the Executive Committee.

PERSONAL

Mr. Scott Lang, of Keene, was in town to-day.

Mr. Fred Smith, Belleville, is in town for a couple of days.

Mr. Richard Gough, of the firm of Gough Bros., is in Toronto on a business trip.

Mr. W. H. Meredith is looking over the stock of Toronto wholesalers to-day.

Misses B. and L. McNamara left this this morning on a visit to friends in Toronto.

Mrs. G. Learmouth has returned, after spending some time with her brother, Dr. McNaughton, of Westwood.

Mr. H. P. Lindsay is in Toronto to-day attending the annual meeting of the Temperance and General Insurance Company.

Mr. R. Fair, of the Golden Lion Dry Goods store, is in Toronto to-day completing his purchases at the dry goods establishment of Wyld, Grasset & Darling, who suffered at the recent Toronto fire. Particulars of the great bargains will be announced in a day or two.

Mrs. Mary Brown, of McDonnel street, who was taken to the Nicholls Hospital on Sunday after having sustained a severe fracture of her leg, is reported to be improved to such an extent as to warrant the authorities in stating that amputation may possibly not be necessary.

Mr. W. H. Morrey, of the Union Publishing Company, favoured the EXAMINER with a call yesterday. Mr. Morrey has just recovered from a severe attack of typhoid fever, and his many friends in town will be pleased to know that he is again quite up to the mark.

Mr. J. Walker Macdougall, of Boston, manager for Sara Lord Bailey, is registered at the Grand Central. Mr. Macdougall has succeeded in billing Miss Bailey in a number of towns in this vicinity, and will probably make arrangements for her to appear in Peterborough some time next month.

Mr. R. H. Montgomery, one of Orillia's enterprising business men, and a town councillor of that place, was in Peterborough a few days ago on a business visit. Mr. Montgomery has accepted the position of manager for Grafton & Co's new branch clothing store to be opened in Orillia shortly. This pushing firm of clothing manufacturers have met with so much encouragement with their local branch here under Mr. W. E. Conway's management, and their Owen Sound branch under Mr. T. W. Barrie's management, that they have decided to extend their business into Orillia. They have been specially fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Montgomery for their Orillia branch, as he is a gentleman possessed of a full knowledge of the clothing business and is well known and popular in that place.

THE WAY TO SAVE FUEL.

At a trial held at Calcutt's Brewery on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 21st and 22nd, of his improved steam boiler, it gave the following results : Monday—Pumped 5,000 gallons of water up 50 feet ; boiled 3,000 of it by steam ; ground in mill 75 bushels of malt ; kept buildings warm, including bottle cellar, 200 feet away.

Tuesday—Did our brewery, starting at 6 a.m.; pumped water from tower to top flat ; boiled it with the steam ; pumped water for cooking, 1,000 gallons and kept the buildings all heated, as well as heating water to wash bottles, all for the incredible small quantity of one cord of tamarac wood, costing the sum of $2.25.

The Central Canada.

The annual meeting of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company is being held to-day. Amongst those present are Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Mr. F. G. Cox, Mr. Dundas and Mr. F. C. Taylor. Mr. Lefevre of Lakefield, is also in attendance.

Postponment.

Manager Bradburn of the Opera House wishes to announce that owing to illness Mr. Snazelle will be unable to fulfill his engagement here to-morrow evening. An effort will be made to induce Mr. Snazelle to appear in Peterborough in about two weeks.

A Tour of Inspection in England.

Mr. Alan Macdougall, sanitary engineer, who is well known in Peterborough in connection with the outfall sewer matter, sails this week for England on a short visit to inspect the latest improvements in sewage disposal and water works in the larger cities.

Snazelle has Cancelled.

The two grand performances announced by Snazelle to take place in the Opera House on Thursday and Friday evenings, have been unavoidably cancelled. NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Laing Bros. will give a phonograph concert in Norwood, under the auspices of the Mechanic's Institute, the first week in February.

The first carnival of the season was held on the rink, Friday evening last. A large number turned out and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The costumes were not as good as last year, but there were some which were excellent. The prize for the handsomest lady in costume was taken by Miss F. Patterson, while Stewart Smart took the gentleman's prize. The prize for best girl's costume was awarded to Miss Lillie McGregor. McGuire, of Havelock, came in first in the open race, there being three contestants. The boys' race was won by John Williams.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The first meeting of the village council for 1895 was held in the town hall on Monday, January 21st, at 11 a.m. All the members being present. The usual declarations of office were subscribed to after J. B. Pearce, reeve, read that portion of the statute according to the requirements of which this meeting was held. Minutes of last meeting were read and signed. The council appointed Mr. C. W. Waters as auditor. The reeve nominated Mr. W. A. F. Campbell. By-law No. 181 appointing the auditors was passed. The offices of clerk and treasurer were left unchanged. By-law No. 182 was passed appointing the following officers :—Hugh Spence, assessor, at $20; Thos. Fraser collector, at $35; James Kellett, caretaker, at $20; Jas. Gotchan, sanitary inspector $20; H. Reynolds, pound keeper; Jas. Starr, Jas. Raddon, John Calder, fence viewers; Roland Scriver, constable $50; John Chandler, truant officer; S. P. Ford, M. D., School Trustee; T. Fraser, A. R. Anderson, Chas. O'Rielly, Local Board of Health; S. P. Ford, Medical Health Officer. Moved by councillor Stuart, seconded by councillor Reynolds, that the reeve appoint a committee on charity.—Carried. Moved by councillor Stuart, seconded by councillor Buck, that the clerk ask for tenders for $75, for chairs for the town hall—Carried. The contract for the municipal printing was given to J. G. Keefer, for $45. The clerk was instructed to purchase what wood is necessary for heating of town hall.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute were held at Keene and Norwood on Friday and Saturday of last week. The meetings in Norwood were very successful. A large number of farmers was present and much interest was taken in the discussion which followed the speeches. C. A. Zavitz, B.S. A., Guelph, was the first speaker. The subject chosen was clover. Mr. Zavitz spoke principally of the great value of clover of a fertilizer. Phosphoric acid, potash, and nitrogen are very important and at the same time the most costly. Nitrogen forms four-fifths of the atmosphere around us, but only liguminous plants, such as clover, peas or beans have the power of absorbing this free nitrogen. After the clover is cut much of this absorbed nitrogen remains in the soil and greatly enriches it. Mr. Zavitz gave an instance of a man who, by growing clover in a three years' rotation with potatoes and winter wheat, doubled the fertility of his soil in a few years. The long, fibrous roots of the clover also draw nourishment from the subsoil and thereby enriches the land. Clover is a splendid food for stock, and if the manure is all carefully collected, but little of the fertility is lost. We gleaned the following points from the discussion which followed :—Plaster is good for crops on certain kinds of land ; it is of especial value on low, wet places, but should be used carefully as it tends to exhaust the land. Salt is useful on low, wet ground ; it will make the straw stiffer and brighter.

Mr. D. E. Smith, B. A., was the first speaker at the afternoon session. His subject was the feeding of stock. All food for stock must have a proper proportion of muscle-former and flesh-producer. If too great a quantity of either is present it is wasted. Mr. Smith suggested corn ensilage, clover hay and pea meal as a well-balanced ration for dairy cows. Pea straw is one of the best and healthiest foods for cattle. Peas and clover are very easy on the land, in fact they are fertilizers. Corn does not exhaust the land, as it is returned to it in the form of manure. Pea meal should be mixed with cut straw or hay before being fed. A good form of silo was described. It should be built round, plank about 6 inches wide, 2 inches thick, and the proper height. The edges of these are bevelled. When the planks have been put in place, ¾ inch iron rods are used to draw the planks tightly together and to hold them together.

A good roof is then put on. The ensilage is taken out through doors in the side. These are put in in such a way that the pressure of the ensilage makes them fit tighter.

The addresses of J. F. Beam on "How to construct and maintain good roads," and the address on "Best varieties of wheat and oats" by C. A. Zavitz, were reported in the EXAMINER last week.

Mr. Oakman, Asphodel, gave a short address on mixed farming.

Mr. Hawthorne, reeve of Dummer, read a very able paper on "Hired help on the farm." All classes would be greatly benefitted by a change in the mode of boarding the hired man. Let the farmer build a small cottage for his help, allow him pasture for a cow and the necessary wood, and the man boards himself. The farmers wife is not the hired man's servant. The man is not necessarily an associate for his employer's family. He cannot leave when he chooses without warning. He has a home of his own and can get married when he chooses.

At the evening session, the hall was crowded and many were turned away. Addresses were delivered by Reeve Pearce, J. B. Ewing, T. Blezard, M. P. P., C. A. Zavitz, B. S. A., D. E. Smith, B. A., and J. F. Beam. The following musical programme was well rendered :

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Teachers Hold Their Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Sunday school teachers, of St. Paul's church, was held, last evening, with Mr. J. A. Fife, B. A., in the chair.

The financial report was received and proved most satisfactory.

The election of officers resulted as follows :

Superintendent—J. A. Fife, B. A.
Asst.-Superintendent—W. Madill.
Sec.-Treas.—J. H. Connal.
Pianist—Miss Code.
Librarians—Robert Strachan, Arthur Lang, Harry Martin and Fred Dixon.
Artist—John McCallum.

The missionary collections for the year were divided as follows :—

French Evangelisation	$ 75 00
Home Missions	109 00
Foreign Missions	109 00
Pontypool Mission	10 35
S S Association	15 00
	$308 35

A great deal of good work has been accomplished by the teachers and officers of this most progressive Sunday school during 1894, and few similar institutions can boast of having distributed over $300 amongst missions during the past year.

CURLIANA.

Forty-eight of Peterborough's crack curlers are in Toronto, to-day, for a friendly bonspeil on the rinks of the Granites. The majority of the knights of the broom and stone went up to the Queen City on the 7.20 C. P. R. express this morning. Six rinks play in the afternoon and the remaining six will take their turn with the stones this evening. The Granites will send down twelve rinks for a return match sometime in February. The final arrangements regarding the composition of the different rinks were only completed at a late hour, last night.

The Empire says : On account of the death of their president, Mr. C. E. Maddison, the Toronto's friendly match with the Peterborough curlers, which was to have been played in this city to-day, has been postponed.

HOCKEY.

The town hockey league has now fully organized and elected the following officers for the year :

President—H. R. H. Kenner, B.A.
Vice-President—C. LeBrun.
Secretary—E. E. Lord.

Committee composed of representatives, one from each team :

Collegiate II—J. Hamilton.
Volt II—E. E. Lord.
Volt I—B. Cluxton.
Peterborough II—A. Ferguson.
Collegiate I—W. Crossley.

The committee met last night, and drew up the following schedule for the season's games, the first of which will take place, as mentioned, on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock sharp. No admission fee will be charged.

1 Collegiate I vs. Collegiate II, Thursday, Jan. 24.
2 Peterborough II vs. Volts I, Monday, Jan. 28.
3 Collegiate I vs. Volts II, Thursday, Jan. 31.
4 Volts II vs. Volts I, Saturday, Feb. 2.
5 Collegiate I vs. Peterborough II, Monday, Feb. 4.
6 Volts II vs. Peterborough II, Wednesday, Feb. 6.
7 Collegiate II vs. Volts II, Saturday, Feb. 9.
8 Collegiate II vs. Volts I, Tuesday, Feb. 12.
9 Collegiate I vs. Volts I, Saturday, Feb. 16.
10 Collegiate II vs. Peterborough II, Monday, Feb. 18.

For this, the first year, no trophy will be offered. The winners will have the title of "Town League Champions," and the season will close with a supper.

A town league is something which was greatly needed in the town, as through it many young players will be developed who otherwise would remain in the background. The Peterboroughs will need recruiting from time to time, and with a lot of promising young players to pick from, the town's prestige for turning out a crack hockey team will remain untarnished. The games of the new league will be watched with interest.

The bankers turned out in force yesterday afternoon at the skating rink for a preliminary whirl prior to beginning their practising for the match which comes off at the latter end of the week, between representative teams from the Montreal and Ontario Banks. What the game may lack in scientific points will be more than balanced by the amusement which will be furnished the spectators, if last night's practice is any criterion by which the judgement may be guided.

All is undecision regarding the game with the Morrisburg team on Friday, as no further word has been received from the management since the challenge was accepted.

A hockey club was organized at Keene on Saturday with a membership of 25. Following were the officers elected :

President—G. E. Porter.
Vice President—Stewart Fife.
Secretary-Treasurer—J. R. McIntyre.
Captain—Scott Lang.
Committee—Fred. Quinn, Jas. McCarthy, Wm. Chapman, Jas. Dixon.

The team will practice every night from 7 to 8.

TORONTO'S MODESTY.

Toronto the Good is a modest city. It not only "wants the earth" but actually proposes asking the Ontario Government for a free gift of a plot of land belonging to the people of the whole province, as a site for an hotel. The site to be grabbed is the property on the north-west corner of King and Simcoe streets, belonging to the University of Toronto and the province. The site is demanded because, as it is alleged, the erection of a large hotel will have the effect of raising the value of the government property in the vicinity sufficiently to compensate for the gift of the hotel site. It has not been noticed that a hotel building is a very powerful factor in enhancing the value of property in its vicinity. It certainly is not in the case of the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, or the Rossin or Palmer House, and it is not the case in this town or any other place with which we are acquainted. Thus the only possible excuse for the monumental and unmitigated gall (no other word is strong enough) of the City of Toronto, asking the Province of Ontario to present it a hotel site, disappears.

Toronto may need a first class hotel; then, let Toronto build it on the usual business basis, and not compel the people of the Province, nineteen-twentieths of whom do not care a farthing whether Toronto has a hotel or not, to take stock in the concern by furnishing a site free to a few prominent citizens of Toronto, who expect to take all the profit the venture will yield. The Board of Trustees of Toronto University, who recommend the grant, will receive public condemnation for alienating lands devoted to educational purposes, to the hotel business. If we are to have the Gothenburg system of state interest in the liquor traffic, let us go directly at it, and not 'round the corner of King and Simcoe streets, Toronto.

MR. WARDEN PEARCE.

The EXAMINER wishes to congratulate Mr. J. B. Pearce, reeve of Norwood, upon having received the high honour, to himself personally and to Norwood, implied in election to the important position as Warden of the county of Peterborough. Mr. Pearce is a native of Norwood, where he was born in 1840. He was the eldest son of the late Peter Pearce, ex-warden of the county. Mr. Pearce has had ample perience in municipal matters that should fit him well for discharging the duties of his new position. He was first elected reeve of Norwood in 1878 and held the position for that and five succeeding years. He resigned in 1883 and was elected again to the reeveship in 1890. He also filled the position in 1893 and 1894. While in the County Council, Mr. Pearce was for six years continuously chairman of the Committee on Equalization and Assessment. He has been engaged in the mercantile business in Norwood for many years, and has met with success. He was also engaged in the lumbering business at Norwood and Havelock. He is president of the Pearce Company, (Limited) of Marmora, which carries on an extensive business in lumbering, mining and manufacturing. Mr. Pearce is at present postmaster at Norwood, and has for 21 years been a Justice of the Peace. The municipal faculty seems to be hereditary in the Pearce family. The present Warden's brother, the late late T. P. Pearce, was reeve of Marmora and warden of the County of Hastings, and another brother, Mr. J. W. Pearce, is the present reeve of Marmora. Mr. Pearce was twice census commissioner, and has been a member of the School Board, Norwood. As far as municipal experience and knowledge of affairs go, the County Council has made a selection that will, doubtless, result in the efficient and able administration of the duties of the office.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Excellent sleighing, and farmers very busy drawing in wood.

Little or no sickness.

The anniversary services of the Methodist church here were largely attended on last Sabbath. The Rev. Mr. Trotter, of Lindsay, ably entertained the large and appreciative audience. The musical part of the services were not the least interesting part. An orchestra of about 14 pieces, ably assisted by Messrs. Stubbs and Skitch, Peterborough, contributed very much to the singing by 100 juvenile voices.

Canada's greatness was given on Monday evening by a number of young ladies and gentlemen with good effect. Dr. J. N. Thompson is the able and efficient supt. of school.

The new councils for the village and township met on Monday for the first time.

Mr. Cockburn, student of Knox's College, ably filled the Presbyterian pulpit, last Sabbath. Mr. MacKay will occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

The Omemee band has been serenading the new councillors and are meeting with warm receptions.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE.

The County Union Executive met on Saturday evening in the Y.M.C.A. parlours Rev. W. R. Young presiding. Representatives from four of the five districts were present.

Miss M. E. Frise at the request of the executive, agreed to fill out the term as secretary in place of Mr. Ward, who has been removed to the western part of the province.

It was agreed that the annual convention be held in Peterborough on Easter Monday, April 15th. Norwood and Lakefield were also mentioned, but it was thought best for this year at least to have it in town. The church arrangements, programme and billeting are to be left in the hands of a committee to be appointed by the town local union at their next meeting.

The following article is taken from the Presbyterian Review of this month: "On Tuesday night the 8th inst. there was held in the Central Presbyterian church, Toronto, a missionary meeting, unique even in this age of missionary meetings. The occasion was a farewell to Dr. Glover and his sister who were to start the following day for the Province of Kwang-Si in Southern China, to labour under the auspices of the International Alliance. Dr. and Miss Glover spoke well. Dr. Simpson, who presides over that missionary organization, was present and also delivered an address, in which he eloquently set forth impressions of the world's need received during his trip around the world two years ago. Two or three thoughts are suggested by the meeting that deserve attention.

In the first place the meeting was very large, the church being crowded largely with young people. That was owing to the fact that Dr. Glover and his sister were enthusiastic workers in the Y. P. S. C.E. It illustrated the possibilities of the Y. P. S. C. E. Dr. Simpson asked, during his address, how many of these young people were prepared to let God have their lives to be used by Him and in the foreign field if He so willed. Promptly a considerable number stood up. Making all allowance for the enthusiasm of the occasion, the response no doubt meant honest purpose of heart to make a complete surrender. Any organization that brings multitudes of young people under such influences deserves a more cordial support than it has in many quarters received. It is capable of infinite usefulness.

We have not space to reproduce the entire article, but merely say the latter part takes up the difference between the Christian Alliance and China Inland Mission on one hand and the regular church organizations on the other. The first two are sending out dozens of missionaries, trusting God for their support. But the church will not send any unless their support is guaranteed, showing want of faith in God. Think it over Christians.

COLD IN THE HEAD AND HOW TO CURE IT.

One of the most unpleasant and dangerous maladies that afflicts Canadians at this season is cold in the head. Unpleasant, because of the dull, heavy headache, inflamed nostrils and other disagreeable symptoms accompanying it; and dangerous, because if neglected, it develops into catarrh, with its disagreeable hawking and spitting, foul breath, frequent loss of taste and smell, and in many cases ultimately developing into consumption. Nasal Balm is the only remedy yet discovered that will instantly relieve cold in the head and cure in a few applications, while its faithful use will effectually eradicate the worst case of catarrh. Capt. D. H. Lyon, president of the C. P. R. Car Ferry, Prescott, Ont., says:—"I used Nasal Balm for a prolonged case of cold in the head. Two applications effected a cure in less than twenty-four hours. I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not replace it." Sold by all dealers or sent by mail postpaid at 50 cents per bottle, by addressing G. T. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

SMOKING CONCERT.

Non-Coms of the 57th Batt. have a Merry Evening in the Mess Rooms.

The Non Coms of the 57th have every reason to be proud of the success of their "smoker," which took place in their mess room last night. Good fellowship was the genius, who invisibly presided and his representative, Sergt. R. J. Hiller, president pro tem, made everybody feel thoroughly at home. At 8.30 the chair was taken by Sergt. Hiller, who in a few words opened the musical part of the evening's entertainment. Although the programme was impromptu, the numbers rendered were excellent. Sergt-Major Peters opened the ball with a rollicking comic song, followed by a very amusing recitation, "The Frogs in Little Lake," by Corp. Baker, Sergt. T. Connal, on being called upon to add his mite to the fun, moved to tears by the occasion, made the speech of the evening. With his own grace of speech, he modestly disclaimed any pretensions to vocal or histrionic ability, but his powerful arguments on behalf of the mess and his touching appeal for more refreshments for his brother officers convinced his hearers of his exceptional powers as an orator. Songs were also rendered by Messrs. Hiller, Roberts, Edwards and Lannon. Messrs. Alf. Reynolds and George Miller gave some choice selections with banjo accompaniments, which called for repeated encores. Special mention may be made of "Say Au Revoir," sung by Mr. A. Reynolds in company with Messrs. Hiller and Miller, and a beautiful solo and chorus, "Good Old Jack," by the same gentlemen. The funny sayings of Messrs. Reynolds and Miller kept the mess in roars of laughter. Not least to be mentioned was the spirit of charity and philanthropy shown by the president, Sergt. R. J. Hiller, and many were the motions that refreshments be provided for some late comer. It created quite an uproar when the same motion was put and carried with enthusiasm on the entrance of Col. J. Z. Rogers who, in a few hearty words, expressed the hope that his boys were enjoying themselves. At 12 o'clock the mess broke up and everybody on going home declared themselves as delighted with their first smoker.

HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A new butcher shop is to be opened here by James and Alex. Watson, in the premises formerly occupied by the C. P. R. store, opposite the station.

Mr. C. H. Brewster has filled up quite a gap on Ontario street, and will form quite an attractive addition to the west end of the village when completed. Mr. Brewster carries on a large flour, feed and provision business and expects to rent the rest of it, as soon as it is ready for occupation.

Mr. S. S. Joyce, reeve, is attending the meeting of the county council this week.

Mr. T. Curtis one of the newly elected councillors for the village, accidentally had the end of the first finger of the left hand cut off on Saturday, while using some machinery. His injury was attended to by Dr. Jeffs, and it will necessitate his laying off work for about a month.

Councillor Knox's new block next to the post office will be completed this week. It is a substantial business looking structure, well designed and laid out, and reflects credit on its proprietor. One store is already occupied by Mr. E. Lang, as a grocery and bakery, and the other is rented as a barber shop.

The new council for 1895 met at 11 o'clock on Monday morning, the reeve, Mr. S. S. Joyce, in the chair, all the members present. Mr. R. Phillips was re-elected clerk, Mr. Maldens, treasurer, and Mr. Chambers assessor.

Mr. Geo. Liscombe had his right hand accidentally cut on Monday afternoon while working at the ice house. Dr. Fowler dressed the wound and hopes to have it healed in about a week.

FUNERAL RITES

Over the Late Mrs. Sarah Campbell—Particulars of the Obsequies.

The Chatham Planet speaks as follows concerning the death of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, sister of Mr. Aaron Comstock, town:—"On Thursday afternoon all that was mortal of the late Mrs. Sarah Campbell was consigned to the grave in Maple Leaf cemetery. A brief service was held at the house before the cortege formed. Rev. F. H. Larkin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted it, assisted by Rev. A. McColl. Both preachers made feeling reference to the saintly woman who had gone to enjoy her eternal reward. The funeral procession was very long, representative citizens from city and country largely composing it. The chief mourners were:—Daniel Comstock, of Newcastle, Ont., brother, and Miss Comstock; John Comstock, of St. Catherines, brother; Manson Campbell, Wm. E. Campbell, Annie Campbell and Mrs. F. R. McLaren, (Seattle, Wash.) children: Geo. A. Cox, Toronto, president Bank of Commerce and Aaron Cox, Peterborough. The absence of a third brother, Aaron Comstock, of Peterborough, was accounted for by a serious runaway accident from which he was suffering. The city council turned out and attended the funeral in a body, as a tribute of respect to the Mayor-elect."

Make Home Attractive

By buying furniture from A. Clegg. See his cheap bedroom suites, his sideboards and extension tables, parlor suites, Couches, easy chairs, mattresses, spring beds, and every thing you need to make your house into a model home of neatness and comfort. Every thing at bottom prices; splendid values. Remember the place, 427 George street.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for these four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Minard's Liniment cures Distemper.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Administrator's Notice.

In the matter of MARCUS SAMUEL DEAN, late of the Township of Smith, in the County of Peterborough, Merchant, deceased.

PURSUANT TO THE REVISED STATutes of Ontario, chapter 110, section 38, notice is hereby given that all creditors and persons having claims upon or against the estate of Marcus Samuel Dean, late of the township of Smith, in the county of Peterborough, merchant, who died on or about the third day of October, 1894, are hereby required to deliver or send by post, prepaid, to Messrs. Stratton & Hall, Hunter street, Peterborough, Ontario, solicitors for Samuel Clegg, administrator of the estate of said deceased, on or before the 10th day of February, 1895, a statement in writing of their names and addresses, together with full particulars of their claims and the nature of their security (if any) held by them.

And notice is further given that after the said 10th day of February, 1895, the said administrator will proceed to distribute the estate of the said deceased among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said administrator will not be liable for the said assets, or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him or his solicitors at the time aforesaid.

SAMUEL CLEGG,
By Stratton & Hall, his solicitors herein.

Dated at Peterborough, this 19th day of December, 1894. 4w3

AGENT FOR BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.

The Goods are RIGHT If They Are LEFT.

We refer to our REMNANTS which have been LEFT over after a heavy season's selling, and which are going so fast that they won't trouble us at stock-taking time.

The qualities and prices are RIGHT—if they are left. Because we have decided to give customers the advantage of good, serviceable, staple oddlengths at and below original cost.

Some of the snaps still left on our Remnant Counter consist of short lengths of DRESS GOODS, CLOAKINGS, FLANNELS, BLANKETS, COMFORTERS, TABLE LINENS, TOWELINGS, &c. But they are going fast. It's worth while to come in and look them over.

We are grateful to our customers for their valuable patronage during 1894, and respectfully solicit continuance of the kind favours during 1895.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

DR. SIMPSON'S ADROIT PESSARY

"Better than a pound of cure" for weakness and leucorrhea. When not obtainable at Drug Stores, order by mail, one box $1, 6 for $5. Circular free. The Simpson Company, Toronto.

Sold in Peterborough by John Nugent, Druggist

when pimples, boils, carbuncles and like manifestations of impure blood appear. They wouldn't appear if your blood were pure and your system in the right condition. They show you what you need—a good blood-purifier; that's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It carries health with it. All Blood, Skin, and Scalp Diseases, from a common blotch or eruption to the worst Scrofula, are cured by it. It invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, and rouses every organ into healthful action. In the most stubborn forms of Skin Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Carbuncles, and kindred ailments, and with Scrofula, in every shape, and all blood-taints, if it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. It is the cheapest blood-purifier sold.

SHE WAS SYMPATHETIC.

But Had Personal Reasons for Anxiety Concerning Strangers.

There had been a slight accident to the incoming suburban train; one or two people were cut by flying glass, but the other passengers escaped with a slight shaking up. The danger was now all over and the passengers were all telling each other just what they had said or done when the accident occurred.

"I was just as cool as I ever am," said a pretty blonde. "Why, after I had started out I ran back for my satchel because I am going to a dinner and it has all my pretty things in it."

"I wish I'd done the same," growled the stout man across the aisle. "I was so busy trying to climb out of the window that I forgot all about it. Say, has anybody seen——"

"My goodness!" cried the pretty blonde, "my satchel looks so queer, like it had all been flattened out. What if my lovely chiffon waist is ruined?" She opened it hastily and closed it with a scream.

"Beg pardon, ma'am," said the conductor, coming up, "but this must be your satchel in the seat you had before. This one is——"

"Mine," said the stout man across the aisle. "It has my samples in it. I travel for a suspender house, miss, and it wouldn't have done you much good."

But the pretty blonde was pressing her hot cheek against the cold window pane and made no reply.

"I was not scared at all," said the man with the big ears. "I always choose a seat in the middle of the car where you can't——"

"I knew we'd have trouble when we started," said the woman whose back hair was coming down; "I never dreamed of fire yet but——"

"I thought we'd be late, for sure," said the pretty blonde to her companion, "and I knew that Ella would never believe our story of an accident."

"She'd see it in the papers."

"But not until she had frozen us all evening.

"What I am worried about," said the brunette, "is not the dinner, but those poor men who were hurt. I can't think of anything until I find out if they are badly injured. Oh, won't somebody go and find out?"

"I will, miss," said the stout man across the aisle. "It is a real relief," he whispered to his companion, "when all the rest are thinking only of self to find that lovely girl so anxious about the injuries of utter strangers."

He was back in a few moments.

"Neither of them much hurt, miss," he said, smiling. "only a good deal shaken up and slightly cut."

"Oh, thank you! You don't know how much relieved I am."

"It does you great credit, I'm sure."

"Yes. You see my father is one of the directors of this road. He is always grumbling about the hard times and I knew that if those men were much injured and the road had heavy damages to pay he would make it an excuse to refuse to let me go abroad in January and——"

But the stout passenger heard no more; he had stolen away into the car.

Use and Abuse of Toothpicks.

The toothpick, judiciously used, is of undoubted value. Of the materials used as toothpicks the best is the quill, with the sharp point removed, but with this, as with all other forms, care must be observed. By indiscriminate application the gums may be so irritated and injured as to cause recession and thus increase the existing trouble, or inflammation of the tooth membrane may be caused, a most annoying condition and one in which the still more vigorous use of the toothpick gives temporary relief, only in reality to add fuel to the fire. Metal toothpicks are good because blunt-pointed, but are too thick to pass between teeth at all close together. Wood need only be mentioned to be condemned, for it is a by no means uncommon occurrence for small fibres to become detached and jammed between the socket and tooth, leading to chronic periostitis and even loss of the tooth if the condition is not recognized.—Lancet.

ART IN MONTREAL.

Its Progress Has Been Rapid in the Last Forty Years—Canadian Patrons.

"Forty years ago," said a well-known Canadian artist to a reporter for the Montreal Star the other day, "Montreal knew little, if anything, of art. Picture-painting in those days was like the country, raw and undeveloped. It is true, however, that among us sprang up such local lights as Locke, Kreighoff, Duncan, Sawyer and a few others. In those days the sale of a picture for $100 was a rare occurrence, and it was considered a high price. Later on there came from abroad such artists as Jacobi, Way, Raphael and Fraiser, and then native talent began to develop, and Montreal has good reason to feel proud of Adolphe Vogt, Allen Edson, Wyat Eaton, Henry Sandham and William Brymner.

"Then came the day the lovers of real art let go their purse strings and placed in their homes the pictures which would do credit to any city. Contrast Montreal to-day, filled as it is with the best works of the most eminent men, with Montreal forty years ago, when it was utterly barren of anything like a good picture? I am ashamed to say, however, that this applies only to Montreal. Outside of the city, with, perhaps, two exceptions, there is not a painting of note in the Dominion. To-day we are a great art centre and our private collections contain some of the finest gems by both old and modern masters. It is a curious fact and one worthy of note that though these collections have been made and are now the property of gentlemen of British origin, but few names of English artists are to be found among their treasures.

"For the past ten or fifteen years the French artist has held sway, with a sprinkling of a few Dutch pictures. Fine examples of the French school can be found in our galleries. The early English and Dutch paintings are just now attracting a great deal of attention both here and in the United States. No, there is no room here for cheap art. This is plainly shown in the way etchings have gone out in the past year or so. Cheap copies flooded the market and then the really good pictures sank in everybody's estimation. Of course, there are exceptions. I saw a little 6x8-inch etching bring $7,000 in London recently, and another about the same size $5,000. If you have read the New York papers lately you probably saw that the Lotos Club of that city were holding an art exhibit, and you might also have noticed among the pictures loaned were several owned by Montreal gentlemen. Among them can be mentioned Sir William Van Horne, Mr. D. Morrice, Mr. W. J. Dearmont and Mr. R. B. Angus.

"This tells you better than any argument I can put forth, the position our city is taking in art matters. Of course, a great many of Canada's native artists have drifted to larger fields. Some have gone to the United States and others to Europe, but let us hope that this country will soon be in a position not only to retain, but foster them. Then Canada can proudly take her place, not only as a professor of works which stand as ideal for all time to come, but furnish as well the skilful creators of the art which stands first in a modern civilization."

TREES, FLOWERS AND PLANTS.

An orchardist in Pomoma, Cal., has in his nursery sixty varieties of olive trees.

Some of the great trees in Humboldt, Cal., are said by scientists to be nearly three thousand years old.

The thistle, shamrock and rose are the emblems of Scotland, Ireland and England, probably because of the prevalence of those plants in those countries.

About one-third of a crop depends upon the soil, one-third upon the seed, one-third upon care and cultivation, but each one of these must be at its best to get full advantage of the others. If either falls short more than its own proportion the crop is likely to fall short.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY.

Umbrellas made of varnished paper are coming into favor in France.

Durable artificial silk, which is both neat and dressy, is made of waste wool or cotton, by the aid of chemicals.

A pneumatic horse collar finds favor with many horsemen, and the animals themselves seem to appreciate it, as it adjusts itself to every motion of the neck.

Paper indestructible by fire has been invented by M. Meyer, of Paris. A specimen of it was subjected to a severe test—one hundred and forty-eight hours in a potter's furnace—and came out with its glaze almost perfect.

SOME YANKEE CITIES.

Philadelphia has 2,000 miles of regularly laid out streets, and 700 miles of street car lines. It produces every year $500,000,000 of goods.

Durham, N. C., is one of the greatest tobacco manufacturing points in the south. One firm there makes 800,000,000 cigarettes every year.

Buffalo has a city hall that cost $1,350,000. Over 90,000,000 bushels of grain have passed through Buffalo going east in a single season.

The latest census report shows that there are more marriages in Brooklyn, in proportion to its population, than any other city of the union.

"I have been a victim to terrible headaches," writes C. F. Newman, Dug Spur, Va., "and have never found anything to relieve them so quickly as Ayer's Pills. Since I began taking this medicine, the attacks have been less frequent, till they have ceased altogether."

After La Grippe.

After La Grippe obstinate coughs, lung trouble, etc., frequently follow. There is no remedy so prompt, and at the same time effectual and pleasant, as Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites, which is the latest and best combination of anti-consumptive remedies. Price 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys and back. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. GOWNS REQUIRED TO COMPLETE A DEBUTANTE'S WARDROBE.

Besides the Gowns for House and Evening Wear Four Street Suits Are Required—Stylish Theatre Bodices and Opera Capes—The Planning Required.

[Special Letter.]

The wardrobe of a debutante is a very serious matter, as every chaperone knows, and requires as much planning and preparation as a wedding trousseau or a layette for some very remarkable baby. No matter whether the bud hates the bother and fuss incidental to having her clothes well cut and fitted, she is obliged to go through the trying ordeal. She must do this in order that she may look dainty and sweet when she makes her first bow to society, and also that her clothes may look fresh and neat through the entire season. To secure this freshness an immense amount of trouble is necessary, and a lot of gowns have to be made. It is not necessary that they be elaborate or of expensive material, but there must be enough of them for the debutante never to wear a gown in the street or ballroom that looks the least tumbled or mussed. Besides the gowns for house and evening wear at least four street suits are necessary, and fashion decrees that one of these shall be tailor-made and most severely plain. The others, while quite simple in themselves, have rather elaborately-trimmed jackets of the same materials as the gown.

COMING OUT GOWN.

Much thoughtful consideration is given to the coming-out gown, as it is considered the most important of all.

These gowns are made with the most charming simplicity and the materials used are airy chiffons, gauzes, silk mulls and tissues and materials of that description.

At one place where I went to inquire about these gowns I was shown the entire wardrobe of a debutante. The coming-out gown was made so that by an added garniture of lace it can be used as a ball gown. This gown, by the way, was rather a surprise to me, inasmuch as it was colored instead of the regulation white; but Mme. Modiste explained this by saying that the debutante was an exceedingly dark brunette, who would not look at all pretty in dead white, so she had chosen yellow instead. It was a regular corn yellow, embroidered in yellow daisies, and made over a yellow silk lining. The low-cut corsage was finished with a soft ruching of yellow gauze, and the sleeves were great puffs of the gauze shirred into a narrow puff like a bracelet at the elbow. Rosettes at the waist finished the ribbon that was used as a belt, and huge ribbon rosettes at the shoulders gave it a very jaunty air. With gloves, slippers and fan to match the entire gown will be a perfect success on the brunette who can so well wear this color.

Another creation, which will take the town by storm, in this same wardrobe, was a combination of pale blue and scarlet. The full skirt was fashioned of blue liberty silk, and the shortness of it revealed the full ruchings of scarlet underneath. The bodice was of taffeta plisse shading on the blue and scarlet, with the square-cut neck filled in with soft folds of scarlet chiffon. The chiffon sleeves were very full, reaching only to the elbow, and the waist was finished by a broad band of passementerie. Scarlet flowers were used as a corsage cluster, and were placed high on the left side in the old-fashioned manner. They were so well made they could easily be mistaken for natural blossoms.

THEATRE BODICE.

All in all, it was the most unique gown I have seen, and was exquisite in its absolute Frenchy air. The slippers to be worn with it were of blue satin, with the high French heels of scarlet.

Another gown was made of cinnamon brown cloth and trimmed with royal purple—that is the newest combination. The velvet was used very sparingly and the gown was a master-piece, so well had the modiste carried out the scheme of combining these two colors.

Madame also showed me several dresses to be worn by members of the debutante's family. A young married sister will wear a low, square-cut corsage of Nile-green miroir with a white satin skirt brocaded in silver, the whole trimmed with the glossiest of glossy ivy leaves.

The mother's toilet was of satin, soft gray in color and trimmed with pearl and silver passementerie and fine old lace. It was the gown par excellence for the matron, with gloves and slippers of gray to complete the toilet.

The fancy for waists of different material from that of the skirt is prettily carried out in the decollete gowns made for coming balls and smart social functions. Miroir velvet of delicate shade and exquisite luster is used with beautiful effect for corsages to be worn with white satin skirts. Flower and leaf trimmings are used very effectively on these waists, and just at the present moment lace is omitted.

A love of a waist that excited my deepest admiration was of rose pink velvet, cut square in the neck, back and front, with black chiffon drawn softly at one side through a paste buckle. The sleeves were large puffs with frills of fine black lace. It was very pleasing, indeed, and just suited to wear at home in the evenings with the old black skirt we are all supposed to possess.

I have seen some lovely little theatre blouses lately. The latest, like everything else that hails from Paris, are spangled. A charming little affair in coral color crepe de chine had the front arranged in box plaits with loose side plaits between, with the box plaits spangled. The upper part of the half decollete corsage was lace with wide black velvet bands, finished with choux going over the shoulders. The sleeves were immense, and softly veiled under a drapery of lace.

Another new model is of petunia satin with a cape of black satin edged with a frill. A black chiffon cravat and a wide box plait down the front and buttoned with diamonds complete it.

I might add in passing that box plaits appear to be the inevitable accompaniments to all the new bodices, whether of velvet, cloth or silk.

Capes have not lost one iota of their popularity; and some of the newest ones are enough to tempt the most resolute woman into bankruptcy.

The most dressy ones are of velvet, either colored or black, embroidered in jet cabochons and colored sequins, edged with the inevitable sable and lined with white satin. The white or tinted satin lining, by the way, is seen in all of the handsomest wraps. All the darkest furs which would in former seasons have been deemed absolutely unfit for such distinction are given this luxurious lining.

Something entirely new in an opera cloak is of cream-tinted cloth made very loose and faced down the front with sable. It is lined with surah to match the cloth and boasts monstrous sleeves terminating at the wrist with a turnback cuff of sable. The fur collar is fastened at either side by a satin rosette and a paste buckle, while the hood is embroidered and spangled regardless of expense and is edged with a plaited chiffon ruffle which forms a becoming frame to the face.

The pelisse which made its appearance at the beginning of the season is marching right along toward popularity. Some very handsome ones are in bright blue cloth with the cape collar outlined with mink. Still more elegant ones are made of black miroir velvet and trimmed with fur and jet. The latter is an ideal garment, but it is a garment whose charms you cannot exploit by sitting down. You must walk to show it to good advantage, and you must walk well.

Decidedly new and a distinct change from the many-tailed sable boa which clasps the neck of the woman fashionable and unfashionable is a boa I saw the other morning encircling the throat of a well-dressed woman. It was a band of sable lined with cream-tinted satin, fastened at the throat with a satin rosette and a bunch of violets from which hung a plaited lace bib.

The fox boa is a novelty and a very pretty one. It is much longer than any to which we have been accustomed, some falling quite to the waist. It is said there is no fur more comfortable to wear—it is so soft and warm, and very becoming, too.—Kate Gardner.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never cause to want.
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but 'stop, I pray,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.

WHERE ARE THE KALLAHAN'S?

There's Money Waiting for Them Down in Oklahoma.

The police are in receipt of the following letter from B. C. Schnell, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, regarding the relatives of one John Kalishan or Kellehen, of that place, who recently died and whose relatives are supposed to be in Canada:

GUTHRIE, OKLAHOMA, Jan. 19.

Chief of Police, Peterborough:

SIR,—Will you kindly inform me whether you have any people in your city by name of Kallahan or Kellehen? A man by that name, John Kellahan, but supposed to be Kellehen, died here on the 17th inst., leaving considerable property; but I have been unable to find any of his relatives. He told me he left Canada in 1867 and went to Kansas, where he worked at the printing business. He has never written or heard from his people. He said a father, mothe, four sisters and three brothers were somewheres in Canada, but he did not give me their addresses. If they do not live in your vicinity, please publish a notice in some paper that reaches the people generally. His relatives may be poor, and this estate will help them. Have all parties communicate with me. The man was of Irish descent.

Yours respectfully,
B. C. SCHNELL.

Their Hard Lot.

The other day the Countess of Warwick, better known by her former title of Lady Brooke, and who is now Lady Mayoress of Warwick, made a public address in which she complained that the pace set by the "parvenus" forced the old aristocracy to live beyond its means.

"We are not a rich aristocracy; we are many of us deadly poor; we are many of us little better than splendid paupers," exclaimed the fair Countess, with as much pathos in her voice as she could muster. Indeed, she made those present feel quite sorry for her hard lot. Truly, the old order changeth.

Vaseline for the Toilet Table.

Vaseline should have a place on every well-regulated toilet table. Rubbed into the eyebrows and on the lashes it stimulates their growth. It is sometimes good to take internally, as a remedy for colds. It is an excellent salve for burns and cuts. It should not be used much on the face, however, as it produces a growth of hair.

A Hungry People.

The Australians pass the greater part of their time at the table. At 7 they take tea and bread and butter. At 8:30 they breakfast on cold meats, chops or steaks, eggs and bacon and tea. At 11 most of them take a light lunch of beer and biscuit, or tea and bread and butter, according to their sex. At 1, or 1:30, they dine, and again the teapot comes into requisition. At 8 afternoon tea is served and swallowed. From 6 to 7 all Australia, broadly speaking, is taking its third meal, and again drinking tea. Those who stay up at all late sometimes supplement this with a light collation at 10.

ONTARIO BEE-KEEPERS

Annual Convention of the Association Assembles in Stratford.

THE FOUL BROOD DISEASE

The Inspector Appointed by the Provincial Government Reports the Disease on the Decrease—Some Valuable Pointers from Prominent Bee-keepers.

STRATFORD, Ont., Jan. 23.—The annual convention of the Ontario Bee-keepers Association opened in the city hall here yesterday, President A. Pickett of Nassagaweya in the chair. There were present L. F. Holterman, Vice-President, Brantford; Wm. Couse, Secretary, Streetsville; Wm. McEvoy, Woodstock; Allan Pringle, Selby; R. McKnight, Owen Sound; W. Z. Hutchinson, Flint, Mich.; S. T. Pettit, Belwood; J. K. Darling, Almonte; J. E. Frith, Princeton; Prof. Fletcher, Ottawa; D. S. Smith, St. Thomas; Jno. Meyers and F. A. Gemmill, Stratford; D. Chalmers Poole, Wm. Goodyear, J. B. Hall and John Newton, Woodstock; A. E. Sherrington, Walkerton; Dr. Duncan, Embro; J. H. Shaver and C. Edmonson, Brantford; A. Tolton, Walkerton; C. A. Oullette, Tilbury Centre; A. W. Brown, S. Chard, A. E. Hoshell, Beamsville; J. Pierie Drumquin, F. A. Rose, Balmoral; M. B. Holmes, Athens; Sam Smith, Listowel.

The president in a short address reviewed the work of the past year from the bee-keepers' standpoint and which upon the whole had been rather discouraging. The bees wintered well and came out in spring with few losses, but the cold and wet weather following drove them back to their hives and compelled them to live on their winter stores with the result that they were exhausted before the weather became favorable for the gathering of a fresh supply and in consequence many died of starvation. The survivors gathered but little clover honey and other blooms being cut short by the drought, the result was little more than half a crop. He made feeling reference to the death of the late Secretary of the Association, Mr. S. Corneil. He was pleased to notice that their annual meetings were increasing in attendance and also that the Provincial Government had taken an active interest in promoting the honey-making industry by appointing a foul-brood inspector and in other ways. He hoped that in the near future assistance financially for the association would be forthcoming from the same quarter.

A. E. Sherrington, of Walkerton, contributed a paper on "Conventions and how to make them successful." He advocated that papers presented should deal with practical live questions such as would interest every bee man and evoke general exchange of opinions.

Prof. Fletcher, of Ottawa, addressed the convention on the subject of spraying fruit trees in bloom and its bearing on bee culture. He also read a paper dealing with the same question by Prof. Webster, of Wooster, Ohio. The reader agreed with Prof. Webster that bees are in danger of being poisoned by spraying the bloom of fruit trees and that the danger remains until the bloom has fallen.

In the evening Wm. McEvoy, foul brood inspector, presented his annual report, showing that the disease was on the decrease and was now to be found more in the newer settled parts of the province than in the older localities. He had destroyed fifteen hives of diseased bees since last meeting.

Then followed a paper on the subject, "Will the bee keeping of the future differ from that of the past?" by W. Z. Hutchinson, of Flint, Mich.

R. H. Smith, St. Thomas, took for his subject, "How are the bees wintering?" Proper preparation was necessary to successful wintering. He recommended clamps packed in chaff, but favored cellar wintering in extreme climates. With proper attention brooding will go on all winter, unaffected by changes in temperature.

The convention adjourned until to-day.

How Arms Got Into Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—The secret of the shipment of arms to Hawaii, which were used by Wilcox and his band of revolutionists, is revealed by an ex-customs officer, who has just come from Victoria. This man says the arms were shipped from Victoria in the latter part of October on the opium smuggler schooner South Bend. The arms for Hawaii were in forty cases. These, with considerable ammunition, were hidden for several days under the dark arch of the Esquimalt bridge. There the arms were taken in Indian canoes to Seibel's Cove, near Victoria, where the schooner was lying. Stewart and Forbes accompanied the schooner, which landed the arms, as well as considerable opium, on the west side of the Island of Lunai. The arms were left with the Chinese, and were afterward taken to Honolulu by one of the small steamers that ply between the Islands. The South Bend recently returned to Victoria without Stewart and Forbes. They are both criminals who have served sentences for smuggling.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 23, 1895.

Grand Trunk returns of traffic for the week ending January 19 show a decrease for the week this year of $22,674.

Street sales here were one load white wheat at 63c; 1,500 bushels barley at 46 to 48 1-2c; 200 bushels oats at 35 to 35 1-2c. White wheat, west, is being quoted at 57 to 57 1-2c.

There was more inquiry for barley in Buffalo than for the past week, but prices were too high. Quoted: No. 1 western, 62c; No. 2 western, 60c; No. 1 Canada, 65c; No. 2, 63c.

Wheat continued to decline in Chicago, but there was a firmer feeling at the close, which was 1-2 to 5-8c lower. Early weakness in corn was displaced later by a firm tone with a fair rally in prices. The disposition to rally was also pronounced in oats, which closed a shade lower.

At East Buffalo in sheep and lambs there were 60 cars of unsold stock and 15 cars of fresh receipts on the market. Only a few Canada lambs included in the offerings, which sold at $4.50 to $4.80. Trading slack and at easy values.

The London stock markets exhibited a better tone except for Americans, which were depressed by the way in which Congress drifts hopelessly on without seriously attacking the currency question.

The Farmers' Institute meeting which was held in the town hall on Wednesday night last was fairly well attended. The High Park band rendered several selections in a creditable manner during the evening. Full report elsewhere.

The oyster supper given by the councillors and band was a success in every particular. There were plenty of oysters, and they were served in excellent style. We have only heard of two men who did not get "birds" enough in their soup. We think it would be well to refund these poor fellows their ten cents, as it is too bad to have them pay out so much money and not receive full value for the same. The following programme was given in the school room after the supper was served, Reeve Forster presiding:—

After the usual vote of thanks to those who helped in the evening's entertainment the band closed with God Save the Queen.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The councillors elect met in the Town Hall, on Monday, Jan. 21st, at one o'clock. After the statutory declaration of qualification and office were subscribed, Reeve Jos. Foster, took the chair and the session opened. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed. Communications were presented as follows:—From the secretary of the Ontario Good Roads Association, asking the council to send delegates to the meeting in Toronto, in February—Received but no action taken. From the publisher of the "Municipal World," soliciting subscriptions for 1895—Received and one copy ordered for clerk, for use of this council. From Wm. Breckenridge, claiming the sum of $11.00, as payment for work done some years ago on the creek.—received but no action taken. From the Times Printing and Publishing Company of Peterborough, offering to do the township printing, etc., for the sum of $55—received and no action taken. Applications for office were received from S. D. Rightmeyer, for assessor, at salary of $37; J. J. Bennett, for assessor, at salary of $28; Isreal Payne for assessor.

The chairman of Finance Committee reported as follows:

To the Reeve and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your committee on accounts beg to report as follows:

Ends of Tweeds,
Ends of Shirtings,
Ends of Prints,
Ends of Carpets,
Ends of Cottons,
Ends of Cretonnes,
Ends of Embroideries,
Ends of Laces,
Ends of Ribbons.

These are all good, fresh goods, only in remnants and will be sold at remnant prices. We have still about 180 suits of that very heavy all-wool Underclothing at $1.00 a suit. Sold every where at $1.50. Everyone who needs a suit of heavy underwear should see them.

The balance of our Sealettes, Heavy Curls and Mantles have been going steadily at the prices they were marked since we last talked about them, but we have still a few good Mantles and Cloths left, which some one will get a bargain of. We show a window of all styles of hats and placques. Your choice for 35 cents. We prefer to sell them at this price, rather than pack them away.

JEERED AT THE MILITIA

Riotous and Tumultuous Scenes in the Streets of Brooklyn.

MORE INNOCENT BLOOD SHED

The Soldiers Fire at a Man Employed on the Roof of a Building, Mortally Wounding Him—Missiles Thrown From Windows by Strike Sympathizers.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 24.—Blood was shed in starting cars on the Hicks street line of the Atlantic avenue system yesterday. Preparations were made to open the line shortly after noon. The Thirteenth regiment was there to keep order, with Col. Austen in command and Majors Cochran and Luscom in charge of the two battalions. The first car was started from the Butler street stables at 2.26 p.m. On the front platform was a special policeman and on the rear Officer Seward was on duty. The troops did not follow the plan which Major Abrams, of the Seventh, adopted at Ridgwood. Col. Austen instead deployed his men over several blocks in the neighborhood where he anticipated trouble. The Second battalion got a hot reception in the region about Hicks and Harrison streets. Stones, bottles and other missiles were thrown at them from windows. They were taunted and ridiculed by people who stood on the doorsteps, and in at least one instance a revolver was pointed at them from a window. The first car was not attacked, so its occupants say. The militiamen themselves were the targets.

Finally they ordered all windows closed and the sidewalks and doorways cleared. The people in the windows did not obey. There was the crack of a rifle and a piece of brownstone was chipped from a house front at the side of the window. The window was closed. People across the way leaned out over the heads of the troops and threw things. The troops fired again and bullets whizzed past several heads. The police rushed into the house at No. 416 Hicks street and arrested Jacob Quinlan for throwing lumps of coal at private William Cole of Company I. At 439 Hicks street they arrested John Mead who pointed a loaded revolver out of a window at Corporal Platt also of Company I. Just beyond this house over Pollard's saloon, No. 444 Hick street, a man was seen on the roof. The order was given, "Stand back there." Almost simultaneously several shots were fired and the man dropped. He was a roofer by the name of Thomas Carney. A bullet entered his right thigh, passed upward through the groin and abdomen. He was removed to the Long Island College Hospital and the coroner was called to take his ante-mortem statement.

There were in all about 40 shots fired. Carney was the only man hit. The car proceeded without interruption after that. Windows were kept closed and doorways deserted. Two cars passed through the street and returned to the stables without injury. The firing of the troops caused a reign of terror in the vicinity which lasted until about 4 o'clock when the troops marched down to the city hall, entered the trolley cars and were transported to their armory.

The residents of the street are very indignant over what they term the unprovoked killing of an innocent man. Coroner Kene took the deposition of the wounded man. He said he was Thomas Carney, a single man of 481 Union street, a roofer by trade, and had been working on the roof at 444 Hicks street all day. Another man was repairing the middle of the roof while he was at work on the front. He said he did not throw anything from the roof. He heard the order "Stand back there" and started to run back. His wound was pronounced mortal.

Officer Seward, who was on the rear platform of the first car, said he saw the militia shoot at a man on the roof. He saw no stones or missiles thrown at the car and declared that the car was not struck nor molested. He did, however, see people throw stones and other objects from windows at the militia.

Oddfellows Hall at 381 Palmetto street, Brooklyn, where the men of the Seventh under Major Abrams penned up 150 strikers was the scene of a similar trouble yesterday. After noon the wires in Gates avenue between Myrtle avenue and Broadway having been repaired preparations were made to start the cars. This thus far has been the most troublesome section of Brooklyn. Companies B., D. and G., Seventh regiment, when all was ready, sallied forth from the stables and proceeded to clear the streets about the barns. The windows were all ordered to be closed. A crowd of 300 strikers was gathered in Palmetto street a block from the depot, lounging. When the troops charged down the street the strikers took refuge in Oddfellows hall, their headquarters.

A squad of men was stationed at the door and would not allow the men to leave the place while the picket lines were out. Word of the trouble reached District Assembly 75 and Lawyer Baldwin Strauss was employed by them to go before Justice Gaynor to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. The Justice granted the writ ordering Gen. McLeer to produce the 300 strikers penned in Oddfellows hall in the Supreme Court at 4 o'clock and show cause as to why they should be detained. The 300 men were not brought to court. When the writ was served on Brig.-Gen. McLeer he notified Col. Appleton to release them, which he did. When the lawyers came into court to argue the writ they received a message from the released men to that effect which killed the writ.

There were several minor disturbances early in the evening and a number of arrests were made but no one was hurt. All the lines concluded to close operations early in the evening. The Atlantic avenue system gave orders to have all cars housed by 10 o'clock and other lines stopped sending out cars between 6 and 7 o'clock. The trolley wires on the Halsey street and Putnam avenue lines were cut about 9 o'clock and six cars of the line were stalled. There were rumors of extensive interfence with wires in other sections. There was apparently a widespread plan to follow up the order for a general strike of linemen with wholesale wire cutting. Wires were cut on the Broadway line between 8 and 9 o'clock. They were repaired in half an hour. All was quiet at Ridgwood.

After the last cars were housed at 10 o'clock, an ominous calm prevailed all over the city. The troops at their different posts had their sentries out and a sharp watch was kept for any sign of a disturbance. Men were ordered away from the vicinity of the car houses and extra precautions were taken to guard against wire cutting. At midnight all was quiet. The linemen held a meeting at Oddfellows hall in Palmetto street late at night. They decided positively to go on strike to-day and declared that any man who repaired a broken trolley wire would be put out of the order.

PRESIDENT PENA RESIGNS.

His Resignation Due to a Split in the Argentine Cabinet.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The Herald's Paris special from Buenos Ayres says: President Saenza Pena's resignation has been officially announced in the House of Deputies. In his letter of resignation he regrets his failure to bring accord out of the opposing elements in Congress, and says that his last Cabinet split over the amnesty question and that his efforts to form a new one satisfactory to all political parties have been futile.

Congress accepted his resignation, thanking him for his services to the country, by a vote of 70 to 1 in joint session.

Public opinion seems to be that this was the best course the President could pursue under the circumstances to avoid the complications which would arise out of his utter inability to obtain a Cabinet. Vice-President Uriburn will now fill the office of president.

WHY CASIMIR-PERIER RESIGNED.

Domestic Troubles the Cause—Seeking Divorce from His Wife.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says: The real cause of the resignation of Casimir-Perier was not at all political, but of a purely private character. The ex-president is on the point of seeking to obtain a divorce from Mme. Casimir-Perier, and the causes for this are of quite a long standing. As a matter of fact, the first steps in the proceedings had already been taken by Casimir-Perier's lawyers when he became President of the republic. At that time his mother intervened and her supplications induced him to accept the high office to which he was called, in the hopes that the official and public life he and Mme. Casimir-Perier would be forced to lead would put an end to their disagreements. But their misunderstandings became worse and when Casimir-Perier found that the joys of political power did not compensate him for his domestic annoyance, his intimate friend, M. Burdeau, died, and when his other friend, M. Raynal, was hounded down by the Chamber of Deputies because of the railway conventions, in a fit of anger he resigned. At the Palace of Justice it is said the divorce is imminent.

STORMS IN ENGLAND.

Floods at Windsor and Eton—Lightning Fatalities in London.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A heavy snowstorm prevailed in London turning into rain. In the morning the sky suddenly became dark, the darkness resembling that of nightfall, and a violent hailstorm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, set in. The thunder and hailstorm lasted until 10 o'clock, when snow began falling again. The snow fell for about an hour, when the skies cleared and the sun shone brightly. The storm caused a tremendous rising of the Thames.

Thousands of acres at Windsor and Eton are flooded, and many other sections are submerged. The violence of the wind uprooted trees, and at Kingston several brick walls were blown down.

The steeple of St. Stephen's church, Westminster, was struck by lightning and set on fire, but the flames were extinguished before any serious damage was done.

Three persons in different parts of London were killed by lighting and the roofs of a number of houses were struck and slightly damaged.

Justin McCarthy's Appeal.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Justin McCarthy, leader of the anti-Parnellites, has put forth an address to Irishmen. In it he reviews the situation and appeals for funds to enable the Irish members to attend constantly to their parliamentary duties and conduct in Great Britain the active campaign by which alone the success of the impending Irish measures can be assured. He remarks that the industrial depression in America and Australia excludes hope of much assistance from Irishmen in either continent.

LORD CHURCHILL DEAD

His Long Struggle With Disease Ended at Last.

ONCE A BRILLIANT POLITICIAN

For Many Years a Prominent Figure in the Imperial Parliament and Considered at One Time a Leader of the Tory Party—Brief Sketch of His Life.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Lord Randolph Churchill died at 6.15 this morning.

All through the night he did not rally from the state of coma into which he had relapsed yesterday. All Lord Randolph's relatives were present when the end came. His death was painless.

[The Right Hon. Lord Randolph Henry Spencer Churchill was the second son of the sixth Duke of Marlborough. He was born February 13, 1849, and educated at Oxford. He represented Woodstock in the Imperial Parliament from February, 1874, until 1885. He contested a seat for Birmingham once, but was defeated.

For the first three or four years of his parliamentary life he attracted little notice, but after that he became very active and suddenly became famous as the recognized leader of the "Fourth Party," made up of exactly four members, making up, however, for their lack of numbers by the brilliancy and sharpness of its attack on the Liberal party then in power under Mr. Gladstone.

Lord Salisbury's government went into power in 1885, and Lord Randolph was given the post of Secretary of State for India. He was by this time looked on as a leader of the Tory party and great expectations were formed for his future. While in office as Secretary for India Burmah was annexed.

In 1886 he became Chancellor of the Exchequer and the recognized leader of the House of Commons. This position, however, he occupied for but a very short time, for he suddenly resigned the office, and ever since his star has been on the wane.

He has been very erratic and uncertain as to his course, which was fatal to his success as a leader of his party. He espoused a sort of Tory democracy, advocating his principles occasionally with much vigor, and then falling again into the background.]

FACTORY HANDS CREMATED.

Fire in a Fourth Storey Results in the Loss of Three Lives—Two Others May Die.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 24.—Frederick Lonhard's Morocco factory in the fourth storey of a brick building on Schenk street was gutted by fire last night. Three employes were burned to death. Their bodies were found on the top floor and were almost unrecognizable. The names of the dead are Antonio Graff, aged 50, of 86 Classen avenue; Tony Schultz, aged 25, residing on First street, and Frank McSorley, aged 15, of 98 Skillman street.

Two other employes, Frederick Oliver and Albert Husen, each 16 years old, were badly burned, and the hospital authorities report that both will probably die

A U. S. Immigrant Inspector Arrested.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Jan. 24.—Col. Thos. M. Fisher, ex-United States Immigrant Inspector, was arrested here charged with forging an endorsement on a check for $350 which had been issued to a Canadian custom officer for giving information which led to the seizure of four hundred pounds of opium at Astoria in September, 1894. Fisher denies the charges. He claims that he made an official investigation and reported to the department that a firm of attorneys at Portland committed the forgery and secured the money.

Royalist Plots in Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Facts have come to light in this city which show that the royalist revolt in Honolulu included a plot to blow up the government headquarters with dynamite. It is now known that the sailing vessel which took a consignment of arms from Victoria also carried a supply of dynamite and other high explosives and that these were landed under cover of darkness some miles beyond Diamond Head. When the Alameda sailed from Honolulu the rebels had carried the arms and explosives back into the hills to a point where Wilcox was entrenched with his men.

Serious Accident at a Funeral.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 24.—While the funeral cortege of Peter Saladin was proceeding from the Emsworth Roman Catholic church to the cemetery, the horses attached to a carriage occupied by Mrs. Stroup and Mrs. Wonhorse, daughters of the deceased, and their husbands, became unmanageable, and with the carriage plunged over a forty foot precipice. Horses and carriage turned over several times, alighting in a brook at the bottom. Neither of the men was much hurt, but both ladies were very seriously and perhaps fatally injured.

The War in the Orient.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A despatch from Tokio says that a Japanese steamship line sanctioned by the government has been organized to ply between Kobe, Talien-Wan, Port Arthur and Port Mokpho. Southern Corea will be opened to foreigners in May. The Times correspondent in Shanghai thinks that probably China's peace envoys are authorised only to inquire as to the terms which Japan is willing to grant.

Bloodhounds to Assist the Law.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 24.—The Grand Jury reported yesterday that the county should purchase a pack of bloodhounds which should be kept by the sheriff at the county jail, and the criminal bailiff, as soon as a crime was reported, should repair to the scene and place the dogs on the trail.

A Good Friend to Astronomy.

VIENNA, Jan. 24.—Herr Treitl, a retired iron merchant, aged 91 years, died in this city yesterday, leaving by his will one million florins to the academy of science to be devoted to astronomical research.

The only way to cure catarrh is to purify the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and tones up the whole system.

TO THE ARCTIC REGIONS

Explorer Tyrrell of Ottawa to Lead Another Exploration.

SEARCH FOR LOST NATURALISTS

The Expedition Will be Under the United States Geological Survey—The Report of a Parliament Meeting on Feb. 21 Denied by the Premier.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—The Montreal Gazette published a statement that Parliament that would meet on February 21. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who was attending a meeting of the Treasury Board, was asked by a correspondent what truth there was in the report. The Premier's reply was that no date has been fixed for the meeting of Parliament. It is said to be about as good as settled now that a session will come before a general election. However, the matter has not been finally disposed of.

Another Arctic Exploration.

A big Arctic exploration, in which an Ottawa man is to take the leading part, is on foot. Mr. J. B. Tyrrell, of the geological survey, who has just returned from an exploration of the northern barren lands of Canada, has been asked by Prof. Steins, head of the United States geological survey, to lead a party to Ellesmere Land, situated to the north-west corner of Greenland, across the Smith sound from the Inglefield landing, the most northern point reached by the famous Peary expedition. The party is to go to search for and rescue two Swedish naturalists who have been lost in Ellesmere Land. Another object is make a survey of the north and west coasts of Ellesmere Land. It is proposed the party sail by vessel to Baffins Bay via Davis Strait and the great north west passage. The terminus of the exploration will be over two thousand miles distant from Newfoundland and about two hundred miles further north than the point reached by the Peary expedition. The expedition is under the United States geological survey, it being put on foot by American capitalists. The sum of $50,000 has been subscribed towards the exploration. Mr. Tyrrell has not yet accepted the offer to undertake the trip, but there is little doubt he will accept. It is learned he has the permission of the Dominion Government to take it if he wishes to do so. Ellesmere Land is in the 77th degree of latitude.

Senator Sanford and Messrs. A. McKay, M. P., S. S. Ryckman, M. P., Major Carpenter, M. P., and Mr. Henderson, M. P., have arrived here to oppose the plans as they now stand for the proposed bridge across the canal at Hamilton beach and to urge that a scheme more acceptable to their constituents be adopted.

Nanaimo's Police Magistrate Caught.

NANAIMO, B. C., Jan. 24.—Police Magistrate Planta, of this place, who skipped out a few days ago, has been arrested at Seattle, Washington Territory. Evidence taken before the Royal Commissioner involved Planta in some rather peculiar looking transactions, and his disappearance followed. A report was circulated by his friends, in order to cover up his flight, that he had drowned himself on account of the disgrace that his misdeeds had brought on him and his family. Planta will be brought back to the city to stand his trial on a charge of embezzlement. Planta waived extradition formalities.

The Glenwilliams Assault Case.

GEORGETOWN, Ont., Jan. 24.—Albert Turner, the young man so roughly handled at Glenwilliams on Sunday night, is still delirious. The doctors say his case is a critical one. Mr. Owens, from the Barnardo Home, Toronto, arrived last night. Turner was one of the boys brought to this country by the Barnardo system, and, not being of age, is still looked after by the management in Toronto. Mr. Owens laid information against Joseph McMaster, Turner's assailant. Joe appeared before Magistrates Kennedy and Barber and was remanded for eight days to Milton jail, pending the result of Turner's injuries.

The Norwich Lawyer Acquitted.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 24.—Lawyer Brown, of Norwich, charged with attempting to defeat the ends of justice by endeavoring to induce Louis Ling, the principal witness in the Hartley case, to leave the country, was discharged yesterday. Lawyer Brown immediately appeared before the Police Magistrate and asked for the arrest of Louis Henry Ling and George Ling on the charge of perjury and Detective Rogers, Sylvester Robins and J. J Bannon, of Norwich, for perjury and conspiracy. As yet those requests have not been acted upon.

Whiteway Again to be Premier.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 24.—It is reported that Sir William Whiteway will enter the Cabinet next week as Premier. Mr. Greene, the provisional leader, retaining the attorney-generalship. The Allan line steamer Assyrian, which arrived from Liverpool, brought considerable specie, together with many contributions of money, food and clothing forwarded by charitable people in England. Government supporters are warmly urging confederation with Canada.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1895.

HON. WILFRED LAURIER, the Liberal leader, in his great address at Montreal on Tuesday night instanced the following subjects as comprehending the policy of the Liberal party, upon which they were prepared to go to the country:

First—Condemnation of the fiscal policy of the Conservative Government, together with their declaration of the policy of the Liberal party on the same subject.

Second—Reciprocity of trade with our neighbours.

Third—Repression of corruption and malfeasance in office.

Fourth—Economy in the administration public affairs.

Fifth—The right and duty of Parliament to investigate all corruption and malfeasance in office.

Sixth—The selling of public lands to actual settlers and not to speculators.

Seventh—The franchise—the equitable distribution of Parliamentary representation.

Eighth—Temperance.

Meeting of Central Railway Clubmen.

BUFFALO, Jan. 24.—The annual meeting of the Central Railway Club was held yesterday with President Waitt, of Cleveland, in the chair and a large attendance from Boston, Albany, New York and other eastern and central cities. The club's membership is 231 comprising superintendents of various departments of railway service. A feature of the day's proceedings was the general discussion of the paper of J. B. Morford, Superintendent of the Canada Southern at St. Thomas, Ont., on "Terminal Yards."

A Brutal Father Gets Seven Years.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—John H. Mitchell, known as "Chicken," was on trial at the session yesterday, charged with committing an assault on his 14-year-old daughter Aggie. The case was tried a few days ago, when the girl refused to testify against her father. She was committed to the Mercer reformatory for a month for contempt of court, but afterwards consented to tell the whole story. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, and the unnatural father was sentenced to seven years penal servitude.

A Bad Fire in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 24.—A disastrous fire took place last night in the dry goods establishment of Alphonse Martina, 2088 Notre Dame street. The fire started in the under flats and extended throughout the building, badly damaging the extensive stock of dry goods. The adjoining premises occupied by Ronayne Bros., boots and shoes, were also damaged by fire and water. The total damage is estimated at about $80,000, partly covered by insurance in the Imperial Company.

An English Bye-Election.

EVESHAM, Eng., Jan. 24.—The result of the election for member of Parliament to represent Evesham division of Worcestershire resulted as follows: Colonel Long, Conservative, 4,760; F. Impey, Gladstonian, 3,585; Conservative majority 1,175. At the last election the Conservative vote was 4,170 and Gladstonian 3,590. It will thus be seen that the Conservative majority has increased by 595 votes.

Hamilton's Chief of Police.

HAMILTON, Jan. 24.—Chief Hugh McKinnon sent in his resignation yesterday. Application for the position of Chief of Police are received by nearly every mail and quite a few have been handed in by Hamiltonians. There are now fourteen applications on file, the latest received being from Chief Ross, of Brockville, and Colonel Villiers.

A Young Montreal Musician's Death.

BUFFALO, Jan. 24.—R. W. Robinson, of Montreal, a musician latterly employed in this city, dropped dead on the street yesterday while returning from a ball. Cause of death was heart disease. The coroner has charge of the remains pending instructions of the parents of the young man in Montreal.

A Blaze in Lindsay.

LINDSAY, Ont., Jan. 24.—Fire broke out yesterday in the workshops of Anderson, Nugent & Co., furniture manufacturers. The fire was confined to the building in which it started and this was totally destroyed. Insured for $1,200.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A large number attended the baseball concert, held in the Temperance Hall, on Friday night, from Springville, Fairmount, Fleetwood, Franklin and Orange Corners. Among those from a distance we noticed Mr. Laing, of Centreville; Mr. T. Donaldson, deputy-reeve, Cavan; Mr. O. R. Stacey, of Fleetwood; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stewart, of Franklin; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stewart, of Manitoba; Mr. M. Parker, Balliboro. Mr. W. J. Stacey ably filled the position of chairman. After a few pointers from the chairman, the following programme was rendered:

Master M Rosenburg	Reading
Jas H Wilson, Lifford	Comic song
A Mills, Fraserville	Recitation
A R Benson, Ballyduff	Comic song
G W McKim, Omemee	Cornet solo
Jas H Wilson	Comic song
Mrs W Brown, Mount Pleasant	Instrumental [music

A Mills	Reading
A R Benson	Comic song
Mrs W Brown	Instrumental music
Mr and Mrs Jas H Wilson (by request)	Vocal [duet
A R Benson (by request)	Comic song

National Anthem.

Everybody went home satisfied that this was the best concert given in Mount Pleasant for some time.

Jas. H. Wilson and A. R. Benson, were encored every piece and they heartily responded. We are satisfied if the base ball team or any other society wish to get up a concert here all they have to do is engage Jas. H. Wilson or A. R. Benson and we will guarantee a full house. Jas. Rev. Wm. McKay, of Knox College, Toronto, will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. John Gall has the brick on the ground for his new residence on Main street.

The first carnival of the season will be held in the rink on Friday evening, Jan. 25th. The committee are hustlers and are bound to make this the best carnival ever held here. Handsome prizes are offered for those appearing in costume. There will be a mile race for a handsome silver cup. Come all and spend a pleasant evening on ice. Don't forget the date, Jan. 25th.

Quite a number of our citizens attended the I.O.F. concert in Westwood Tuesday evening, and were well pleased.

We are sorry to chronicle the sudden demise of the late Alexander Laing, who passed quietly away on Monday, Jan. 21st, at 5 o'clock, a. m. The deceased was born in the year 1814 in the county of Roxburg, Scotland and came to Canada in 1842. Before coming to Keene he visited Prescott and Cobourg a short while. Previous to his commencing business for himself in Keene, he worked for Mr. Jas. Gallon, sr. He was a life-long Liberal, and was one of the first subscribers and a constant reader of the Toronto Globe. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He has two sisters living Mrs. Kay and Mrs. Scott, of Hamilton, also two brothers, Albert, of Hamilton, and James, of Galashiels, Scotland. He leaves a family of 2 sons and 3 daughters. The funeral took place on Wednesday, when a large concourse of friends followed the remains to the Pine Grove Cemetery. The bereaved friends have the sincere sympathy of all the people.

Mr. James Campbell, of Peterborough, spent a few days in the village this week.

Arrangements are being made to have that famous elocutionist, Sara Lord Bailey, here the first week in February.

Miss McCrea of Toronto, is visiting friends here.

Mr. A. R. Eason is at present attending the Ontario Business College, Belleville.

SMITH.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Council Meeting.

The newly elected council of the township of Smith for 1895, met at the town hall, Bridgenorth, on Monday, 21st Jan. After filing the necessary declarations of office and qualifications, they proceeded to business, the reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. A bylaw passed its several readings appointing township officers as follows: John Black and Andrew Young, auditors; Richard Waram, assessor and collector, and Dr. J. R. Fraser, Medical Health Officer. A board of health was also appointed as follows: The reeve and clerk, and R. Waram, Geo. Westlake and Wm. Preston. The timber on the 16th con. line from Buckhorn Lake, eastward to the line between lots 23 and 24 was granted to Wm. McIlmoyle for clearing off brush and timber, and seeding down to grass the road allowance thereon as far as his land is cleared, and clearing out balance of road so that a team with waggon may pass through. The timber on 16th con. line from Burleigh Road, eastward to Stony Lake, was ordered to be sold to L. Ayott for $5, he to have two years to remove the same. Application was made by the Peterborough and Chemong Park Electric Railway Company for permission to build an electric railway from Peterborough to Bridgenorth on the road allowance and the council expressed their willingness for such road to be built, provided the road bed be located to the satisfaction of the council and that no interference be caused to the ordinary traffic of at present, and provided that the building of road be commenced not later than the first day of June, of the present year and be completed by the 1st day of December next. The following claims were ordered to be paid:—W. B. Kelly, rent of hall, etc., $20.75, account for lumber, $21.03; Dr. Fraser, services as medical health officer, for 1894, $30; D. Roxborough, work on road, $5; J. Ridpath, printing, 50c; Geo. Luther, work on road, $3. The council then adjourned to meet on Monday, Feb. 4th.

A Womans Burdens

Are lightened when she turns to the right medicine. If her existence is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, she will find relief and emancipation from her troubles in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run-down," she has new life and strength after using this remarkable remedy. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic and nervine which was discovered and used by an eminent physician for many years, in all cases of "female complaints" and weaknesses. For young girls just entering womanhood; for women at the critical "change of life;" in bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulceration, inflammation, and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to cure, you have your money back.

AN ATTRACTIVE TYPE.

WOMEN OF ITALY WHO BEAR HEAVY BURDENS ON THEIR HEADS.

Some Statistics of the Weights Borne by Them in This Manner—The Effect It Has Upon Them Physically—A Type Rarely Seen.

The only women who have a truly regal pose are the Italian women whom financial stringency forces to carry great loads of wood from buildings in the process of erection or enormous heaps of clothing from the sweaters. As the human arm is not long enough to clasp the bundles they have to carry they have learned to utilize their heads for the work, and have thus acquired a carriage which no other class of women possesses. For one cannot balance twelve pounds of unsewed waistcoats upon the apex of the body unless the body is in absolute equilibrium, the neck and shoulders, the waist, hips and legs all in their correct positions.

It is an art not to be acquired in a day, this of balancing weights upon the head. Consequently the tenement-house mothers begin early to train their children in the way they will have to go. The six-year-old child is sent to the building for such sticks as she can collect. She does not carry them back in her arms, but piled upon her head. It may be a very light load—so light, in fact, that one wonders why it is not blown off—but the little maid scorns to bear it other than as her mother would do. The sticks are laid upon her head, her arms held akimbo and her hands are placed jauntily on her hips. She feels like a blot on the family 'scutcheon if an unsteady walk causes one of the lightly poised sticks to fall. That is her first lesson. After she has once acquired the principle her only advance consists in the increased weight of the load she carries, until finally she graduates with all the honors and at sixteen or so is able to lift as heavy a load as her mother.

According to a doctor the weight of the load increases from three or four pounds in early childhood to about sixty in vigorous youth and middle age. On gala occasions, when kind hearted builders allow the carrying away of old lumber in large quantities, the women frequently stagger along under eighty or ninety pounds of firewood. Of course the heavy weights are not health giving. The top of the head, though it may be hard and tough, is not adapted to bearing the burdens of a camel. The intense heat generated by heavy loads of woolen goods to be made up for the tailors is extremely unhealthy. The shape of the head is noticeably altered if the load-bearing begins early enough in life. The top of the head is distinctly flatter than the normal type.

For the benefit of those young women who would like to obtain the good results of such exercise, without its evil ones, the doctor recommends walking with about two pounds resting upon the head. The weight should be in such a shape that it will fall off unless the head is held correctly.

POINTS FOR SCIENTISTS.

The 132,856 craters which have been discovered on the moon are supposed to have been caused by a bombardment of aerolites.

Sea bathing causes many diseases of the ear. Cotton should be put in the ear when it is the intention to submerge the head.

All known chemical elements are represented in sea water. They are not always capable of being detected by chemical analysis.

The theory that the remains of animals form the raw material from which petroleum is formed by nature is still held by some prominent scientists.

The Medical News says that even sewage water can be converted into pure drinking water by sand filtrations in filter basins at the rate of two million gallons per acre per day.

Ayer's Hair Vigor is certainly a remarkable preparation and nothing like it has ever been produced. No matter how wiry and unmanageable the hair may be, under the influence of this incomparable dressing, it becomes soft, silky, and pliable to the comb and brush.

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured." A. LEFLAR, watchmaker, Orangeville, Ont.

THE LOVE OF SCANDAL.

A STRIKING CHARACTERISTIC OF THE ANCIENT ATHENIANS.

The Paradise of the Newsmongers of the Time—In All Their Ways, However, They Respected the Memory of the Dead—Has Old-Time Loyalty Departed.

Who does not remember the greed of the Athenians for news? The love of gossip was one of their most striking characteristics, and "What news?" was as much part of the business of the Agora, when friends met each other at noon, as the "price of fresh fish" or the "condition of the flower girls' violets."

No event was too trivial for them to chronicle, no shifting of life's kaleidoscope too minute for them to follow—nothing, in fact, in public or private, seemed to escape their scrutiny.

Maid, matron and hetaira, statesman and slave, the favorite poet's latest ode, the fashionable sophist's last oration, what blunders of uncouth simplicity the newest importation from Sparta had committed—of all things under heaven they discoursed freely, discussing and dissecting without restraint, without stint, as no people have done before or since.

They were the lovers of gossip par excellence, and Athens was the paradise of all newsmongers of the time; for neither dramatist nor orator could get a hearing if any should raise the cry, "News! news!" "News from the Hesperides!" "News from the Cassiterides!" "News of Glaucus!" "News of Phryne!" "Who will hear my news?"

But even the Athenians had their limits, and knew where to forbear; the line of gossip had to be drawn somewhere, if they would not be like their own harpies ravening and befouling all things; and they drew it at the door of the tomb. The dead were as sacred to them as the gods, Hades as impenetrable as Olympus; for much latent delicacy underlay this sunny Old World love of gossip, this chattering, laughing, effervescent delight in personal details.

Yes, although the Athenians were "heathens," in the common acceptance of the term nowadays, they respected the memory of the dead, and we do not. Their qualities of human pity and honor, their sense of fairness, even as man to man, came into play when there was no one present to reply, for they felt that the ghost wandering mournfully in the pale world of shades had still susceptibilities and affections; his wishes were to be carried out as honorably as if he still had power to enforce them; so, too, his weaknesses were to be as lightly touched upon as if he were to be met half an hour hence to discuss with his biographer what had been said of him.

No friend would ever have said, of the dead he had loved and lived with, words which it would have been dishonorable to say to the living, for the same cause as that which makes it impossible for a high-minded gentleman to speak ill of the absent who are unable to defend themselves.

The very helplessness of the dead was their safeguard against indiscretion, as against slander, and "de mortuis nil nisi bonum" only expressed the general respect for that helplessness.

But we have changed all that "old-time" honor, all that bygone loyalty of reticence.—Oliver S. Jones in North American Review.

FARM AND GARDEN

CATTLE HUSBANDRY.

A German Feeding Trial With Good vs. Poor Cattle.

Trials of Halle Experiment Station, Germany, are here reviewed and condensed. In the experiment with oxen six superior were fed against six inferior ones. In relation to this style the station is summarized as follows:

"The inferior animals were lighter in weight by about 65 kg. They were divided into three lots, receiving rations containing different proportions of nutrients. The poorest rations given these inferior animals was about the same as that given the better animals. The result of the feeding was that the inferior and lighter animals made the larger gain in live weight, those on the richest ration making the largest gain; but the financial result was on the side of the superior animals, for the product was rated much higher and their food was less expensive. The increased value due to the fattening was $21.76 more per 1,000 kg. live weight, in the case of the lot of inferior animals making the best showing.

"The authors conclude from these results that it is useless to attempt to secure a good result with inferior animals by intensive feeding. The first point in fattening animals is to use only animals of the best quality. With an equal expenditure for food, the result is so far superior with better animals that it cannot be too strongly urged that only the better animals be selected for fattening.

"In the experiment with oxen, the feeding of a ration richer in protein than Wolff's standard resulted in a larger gain in weight, less shrinkage in dressing and a somewhat better financial result, although the dressed beef was all valued at the same price per kilogram."

Many readers will be surprised that the inferior and lighter animals showed as good result as the superior and heavier ones. It is, however, to be considered in this connection, although overlooked by the investigator, that light animals make a larger gain from a given amount of food than heavy ones, yet it is not to be overlooked that the presumption is that when an animal of a given age of lighter weight than others of the same age it is due to an inherent inferiority. We have not enough of the conditions of the experiment to determine whether the experiment was entered upon under right conditions. The investigator of this far-famed station, knowing the conditions concluded that the inferior animals made the greater gain. It has been our observation that inferior animals ofter owe their condition to inferior food and that under equal conditions of feed such animals frequently give a good account of themselves.

We, even in our zeal for pedigree, overlook the fact that one of the strongest factors of pedigree is the grain bin. This remark should not be construed as advice to produce animals with a scrub form, for the experiment shows that final honors rested with the superior animals, for they sold for a much larger price per pound, though gaining less. This fact controls the breeder and the feeder; it is the jingle of the guinea and not the turn of a theory that governs practice in feeding. It is form and quality in an animal and not avoirdupois that governs its price.

The trial is interpreted in favor of a protein ratio, although it out-proteins Wolff's very protein ration—it proves too much. It may be more properly interpreted to show that a ration with a good quantity of grain is more effective than one with a smaller quantity of grain.—Mirror and Farmer.

Transportation of Milk.

Farm, Stock and Home says that the question is frequently asked: "Does milk change any in its composition during transportation and dipping from the can, and does the last customer get as much fat in milk as the first?"

This is an important question and is always raised whenever a milk-dealer is brought into court and charged with fraudulent practice. Fortunately extensive experiments have been made on this point, particularly in England, and at a quite recent date. In one case over 7,000 samples of milk were analyzed just before the milk started out on its route, and it was found to contain an average of 12.84 per cent. of total solid matters; during the delivery samples were again taken and showed an average of 12.88 per cent. of total solid matters, while at the close there was 12.82 per cent. of solid matters. The result of another season's work, on about 11,000 samples of milk, gave practically the same general results. The work was carefully conducted by Dr. Vieth, in the interests of a large dairy company, to prevent the drivers of wagons from fraudulent practices, thus making a commission, and in doing this the question of changes during transportation are satisfactorily solved. The results are certainly convincing enough to show that the dipping of the milk from the cans with long-handled dippers and the motion during transportation is sufficient to keep the milk well mixed and the fats from separating. This excuse when made in court can no longer hold as a valid one.

Farm Notes.

When you feel like serving the Lord, turn in and help your wife a little.

Orange Judd said years ago that tobacco would not grow in the shadow of a weed, and the saying is just as true today as it was then.

The man who makes it a rule to milk his cows in the stable is the one who has the least trouble with them. It takes but a minute to put them in and turn them out. This time is well spent.

If your pastures are liable to fall short in August and September do not waste any time until you have planted a patch of sweet corn. If you should happen to have more than you can use in feeding the cows you will find profitable use for it in feeding the surplus to the hogs.

Quitting field work enough earlier so as to get the milking done by the usual time for quitting work on the farm is the best and about the only way to keep good help on a dairy farm. Hired help can't be blamed for not wanting to put in a full day's work in the field and then put in an hour or more after dark, milking and doing the chores. To bring the discordant and unsatisfactory extremes to a harmonious and satisfactory mean is the only way out of the trouble.

Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup removes worms of all kinds from children or adults.

King of the Berlin Dudes.

Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia the brother-in-law of the Emperor of Germany, has just been promoted to the rank of major general, although his stupidity is such that while he was still a captain of the Garde du Corps Regiment, his colonel entreated the emperor to transfer him to another regiment, owing to the spectacle which he proposed to make of himself on field days and even at ordinary maneuvers. He is quite young, is known at Berlin as the "cigerl-ksnig," or "king of the dudes," and distinguished himself in this country by getting into a scrape at Coney Island, where, notwithstanding his rank, he was dragged before a local justice, charged with disorderly conduct. He is very rich and is the only son and chief heir of the famous cavalry general, Prince Frederick Charles, popularly known as the Red Prince, and as the captor of Metz in the war of 1870. Henceforth he is to command the fourth brigade of the guard, having a number of gray-haired veteran officers, veterans of 1870, under his orders. He is barely 32 years of age, and his being placed in such a position does not precisely give pleasure or satisfaction to the officers of the German army, who attribute, very justly, his promotion not to merit or service, but solely to the fact of his relationship to the emperor.—New York Recorder.

Dry Food for Chicks.

Wet mashes and other sloppy food is the direct cause of more chicken fatality than any other one thing. Feed dry food only. The chicks require very little water; when the food is damp they are compelled to swallow more water than is beneficial. A leading poultryman has claimed that he could raise more chicks by withholding water altogether than by giving a full supply, but we have no doubt the loss was occasioned more by the water being given in vessels that permitted the chicks to get wet rather than from the quantity consumed. The best results, however, have been obtained from dry food. Cracked corn, wheat, ground oats and even the dry ground meat has been tested with success. Such food may be placed in a small trough, from which the chicks may help themselves and it has the advantage of being less liable to ferment and spoil than when wet. The better way of feeding, however, is to feed at regular intervals, in order to afford a greater variety and avoid waste.

A New Thing in Beggary.

The latest thing in beggary on the streets is a copartnership. Two men start out together and openly and audaciously stop the pedestrian, man or woman, it makes no difference, with this proposition: "Me and my friend have had nothing to eat, and we ask you, etc. One of these solicitors was asked why his kidney was traveling in pairs this season, and he replied: "It's a fad."

Why the Skull is Round.

The skull is globular in form because this shape gives not only the greatest strength with the least amount of material, but also is best calculated to resist violent blows. Is a man's skull were square he would be in continual danger of knocking off one of the corners.

Late Literary News.

An old-fashioned sea story full of interest and adventure, with a strong love motive, is begun by W. Clark Russell, in the January Cosmopolitan. "Ouida" succeeds Froude, Gosse, Lang and other distinguished writers with an instalment of the "Great Passions of History" series, which has been appearing in the Cosmopolitan. A discussion is aroused by Mr. Edward Bok's article on "The Young Man and the Church," which will consume tons of ink before it is settled. Just preceding the famous Charcot's death, he prepared an article for the Cosmopolitan on Pasteur, to be published after Pasteur's death. But Charcot has died first, and so with the consent of Charcot's executors, the article is given now. The present "Theatrical Season in New York" is critically considered by Mr. James S. Metcalfe, editor of Life, and there are stories by Tourgee. Howells, and the famous French writer Francis Coppee.

Grand Carnival Masquerade Ball.

A novel and interesting entertainment in the shape of a Grand Carnival Masquerade Ball will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Friday, February 12th. The affair is expected to be unusually brilliant and amusing, and the management are sparing no pains to achieve that result. The proceeds over and above expenses will be donated to local charity. It is hoped and requested that as many as possible will come in fancy dress to contribute to the effect of the scene. Special costumes, however, are not necessary, provided a certain amount of colour is used in the dress. All should wear small masks of black or fancy velvet, silk or calico. Prizes will be given to the best dressed gentleman, the best dressed lady, and the best comic costume. Music will be furnished by Butcher's orchestra and the Battalion Band. Dancing will commence at 8.30 p.m., and at midnight all the dancers will unmask. The well-known caterer Mr. William Bowman will provide refreshments all evening. Tickets $1.00, admitting gentleman and lady, or two ladies, can be procured at Stratton's Bookstore, Sailsbury's Bookstore and the Street Railway Office. The number of tickets is limited to 200. Procure costumes, secure tickets and come to the social event of the season.

STATIONERY ENGINEERS.

An Interesting Meeting Held Last Night in the S. O. E. Hall.

The local branch of the Canadian Association of Stationery Engineers held a meeting last night in the S.O.E. Hall, with Mr. S. Potter, president, in the chair. The association now boasts eighteen members here, and the meeting was a most interesting one. The organization is one that is now and for some time past has been doing a great deal of good in a quiet unostentatious way. The members meet regularly to read and discuss papers, treating of subjects, which their occupation makes it imperative that they all should understand. In this way many who had not in earlier years the opportunity of pursuing the necessary studies and others who in their younger days neglected such opportunities, find it possible to acquire much valuable information. Any engineers not on the membership roll, and wishing to join the association can procure application cards by applying to the secretary, Mr. W. L. Sharpe.

OBITUARY.

A Prominent Young Worker in Church Circles Passes Away.

The funeral of the late Mr. Robert M. Russell took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Chamberlen street, under the auspices of Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters.

The pall bearers were Messrs. John Kennedy, Harry Beale, Albert Hamilton, of St. Andrew's church Society of Christian Endeavour, of which the deceased was a member. Messrs. P. Alexander, John Rickey and F. E. Nesbitt, of Court Peterborough, C.O.F., were the remaining three bearers. The first part of the funeral service was conducted by the Rev. A. McWilliams, after which Messrs. D. S. Harvie and John Alexander performed the usual Foresteric burial ceremony.

Mr. Russell was a most active and useful member both of the Y.M.C.A. and Christian Endeavour Society. The funeral was largely attended both by his brother Foresters and by the citizens generally.

An Exciting Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon while Mr. Mat Jamieson, proprietor of the Little Windsor Hotel, was engaged in speeding his trotting mare "Maude" the breeching of the harness gave way and the frightened animal made a mad break for liberty. Mr. Jamieson hung gamely to the reins and finally succeeded in bringing the mare again under control. The tremendous burst of speed shown by the mare in her runaway inclines "Mat" to the belief that a little more development will enable him to work wonders with her. He didn't know she was so speedy before the accident took place.

The Sons of Canada.

The Sons of Canada met last night, and made final arrangements for their next carnival. It was decided that the carnival will be held on Friday, Feb. 22nd. A hockey match will be played between two prominent teams before the costumers are allowed on. The costumers will then take the ice and open the fun with the grand march. It was also decided that a curling match will be held between the Granite and Thistle divisions. The rule has been made, and will be strictly adhered to, namely that only bona-fide masquerading costumes will be allowed on the ice.

BURNS ANNIVERSARY CONCERT

A Highly Successful Entertainment—The Attendance Short of the Merit of the Programme—A Varied Entertainment Menu Presented.

Last night the one hundred and thirty-sixth anniversary of the birth of the pet and pride of the Scottish heart, Robert Burns, was celebrated by a grand concert in the opera house. Friday is the real anniversary day, but the hall being engaged for that evening, the committee had to select Wednesday night—an unfortunate necessity, as no doubt the mid-week services held in all the churches largely decreased the attendance, which was far short of what it should have been on the occasion, and in view of the elaborate excellence of the programme presented. It is especially to be regretted that the chief object of the concert—increasing the charity fund of St. Andrew's Society—was not met ; on the other hand an opposite result is regretfully mentioned.

The audience that assembled enjoyed a fine evening's entertainment. The programme opened with a pianoforte solo, a minuet of Delahaye, played in a crisp, clean and artistic manner by Mr. Hewlett who also furnished the accompaniments during the evening in an excellent manner, showing himself to be a clever proficient in this important duty. Miss Annie Louise White, elocutionists, has been a frequent professional visitor to Peterborough. She was down for two double and one triple number, which were largely added to by her selections, in response to hearty encores. The numbers that she scored her greatest success in last night were "The Chariot Race" and the "Husking Bee." Of course, in a musical sense, the feature of the evening was the beautiful ballad singing of Maggie Barr (Mrs. Fenwick). She appeared four times, according to the programme, singing "O Sing tae me the auld Scotch Sangs," "Cam' ye by Athol?" "Within a Mile of Edinboro" and "Robin Adair." Maggie Barr's voice seems to be a perennial fountain of sweetness, and her manner of singing the "auld Scotch songs"—soulful delicate, feeling, taste and excellent vocalization—seems to lose none of its charm. Last night the audience heard her with delight and testified their pleasure by enthusiastic applause. She responded to two encores, singing the "Bonnie Brier Bush" and "I'm Glad My Heart's My Ain." The dancing of Master Norman Grahame Fraser, a little kilted lad of about ten or twelve years, gave great pleasure to the audience. He gave two dances with the precision, correctness and facility of a veteran, and was uproariously recalled upon both occasions. Mr. Geo. Fox, the brilliant Canadian violinist, gave a delightful balance to the programme. He contributed three selections, an "Adagio Pathetique," by Godard, "Valse Caprice," Wieniawski, "Hungarian Rhapsody," by Hille, and a double number (a) "Home Sweet Home," (with muted strings), and the first of Wieniawski's "Deux Mazurka." In response to fervid encores he gave "Auld Robin Gray," principally on the G string, and a dashing rendition of the "Arkansas Traveller," his own arrangement. Mr. Fox did his best work in Hille's Rhapsodie and the Wieniawski Mazurka, the nature of the compositions giving full play to the young violinists' rare technical facility both with the bow and string hand. His combined pitzzicato and bow work was exquisitely done and his harmonics crisp and pure. He has a rare natural talent for the violin, and only needs application and conscientious practice to place him well up in the front rank of violinists. Although the committee of St. Andrew's Society are to be congratulated upon furnishing so excellent an evening's entertainment, the regret may again be expressed that the financial outcome fell far short of corresponding to the importance of the occasion and to the charitable objects of the concert.

WHAT A NOTICE IN THE EXAMINER WILL DO.

Its Columns are Perused both Far and Wide—As an Advertising Medium, therefore, it has No Equal.

A few days ago the Chief of Police received a letter from the Chief Constable at Colborne, asking for information concerning the whereabouts of one James Elves, who was wanted in that village by the police for being concerned in a clothes-wringer swindle. The man in question had "worked" Peterborough during the fall, but since that time the local police had lost track of him.

The letter from the Colborne police was published in the EXAMINER, and the very next day the following letter was received at this office from Millbrook.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR,—I noticed in Friday's EXAMINER a communication from the authorities in Colborne, asking if there is a man going around in your town fixing wringers. The description of the man is given, also his name. I might say that some time last summer there came to Millbrook a man of the same description, of the same occupation and of the same name. After being here not more than a week, he married a woman who lives in the village. Since then he has been living here, working at his supposed trade, fixing wringers. If this is the same man, he should be at once looked after.

Yours truly.

The EXAMINER immediately communicated the intelligence to the police department here, and a telephone message to the chief constable at Colbourne was soon after sent singing over the wires.

The following letter to Chief Roszel shows what result may be attained by a notice in such a widely read medium as the Peterborough EXAMINER :

COLBORNE, Jan. 23rd, '95.

Chief Roszel, Peterborough.

DEAR SIR,

Re James Elves,

I went to Millbrook after talking with you yesterday, but my man had left on Monday, so I traced him and got him this morning at Trenton, and on being brought for trial was remanded for a week. While in Millbrook his wife sent to a drugstore where I was stopping, asking to borrow the Peterborough paper, as there was something particular in it, but the druggist could not find it, so I continued to follow on till I got him.

I remain,
Yours truly,
W. H. SMITH.

If Elves chances to escape conviction at Colborne, the chances are that he will be brought to Peterborough to face some of the citizens whom, it is alleged, he cleverly deprived of their wringers.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Annual Meeting of the Peterborough W. B. & S. Society.

At the seventh annual meeting of the Peterborough Workingmen's Building and Savings Society held last evening, the following officers were elected :

President—John Lynch.
Vice-President—T. B. McGrath.
Treasurer—W. Rudkins.
Secretary—John Corkery.

Miss Melville is giving reductions this week in stamped linnen goods, such as splashers, tray cloths, pillow shams, etc., etc. 424 George street. Stamping done to order.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crocoy, of 342 Water street, the agent for these four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

CURLIANA.

The Toronto Mail says says : It was a merry crowd of Peterborough curlers who invaded the Granite club yesterday and in their accustomed manner the Granites simultaneously administered a beating and gave their visitors a good time. Six rinks of Peterborough and an equal number of Granite players battled together in the afternoon, and when the entire outfit adjourned to the club parlours to dine, the home curlers were 21 shot up. Then at night six more rinks on each side went out to compete, and not until midnight did they conclude the contest, at which time the Granites had added seven more to their majority, giving them a total majority of 28 shots : An hour's pleasant reunion was spent in the club house after that, and the Peterborough cracks retired happy to be beaten by as good a lot of fellows as themselves. The scores :

JOHN MOLONEY,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, Jan. 24th, 1895.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session the council received and heard a deputation from the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Hampden Burnham, secretary, first addressed the council. He outlined the course of agitation and legislation that had resulted in the society in question. The object of the society was not charity, but the outcome of practical legislation. It was pointed out that the criminal classes were almost entirely recruited from the ranks of abandoned children. After referring to the several acts passed on behalf of the protection of children, he referred to the elaborate and excellent act passed by Sir Oliver Mowat, and fully explained its provisions and exemplified the mode of operation of the society. He pointed out what the town council had done and were required to do under the act, and asked the county to assist in a similar line. The salary of the agent was paid, not from municipal funds, but from voluntary contributions. Municipal aid was only asked to pay for the maintenance of a child under the custody of the Society till it is placed in a home. An address which furnished a good deal of practical information, was concluded by asking the consideration of the council to the question of assisting in providing temporary shelters.

Rev. J. C. Davidson made an address pointing out the common interest of the town and county in the work of the Society, and asked the council of the county to range itself on the side of the warfare on behalf of humanity as represented by the operations of the Children's Aid Society, and asked their practical aid.

A deputation, appointed by the Ministerial Association, to address the council on behalf of the work of the Prisoners' Aid Association, was received. Rev. J. E. Trotter read a petition in the form of a resolution, praying for the establishment of a House of Refuge in the county and also asked for the appointment of a committee of the council to consider the request of the petition, both in respect to a house of refuge and the better classification of prisoners.

Rev. W. R. Young spoke briefly referring particularly to the necessity of a better classification of prisoners.

Mr. Casement reminded the deputation that last June the council committed themselves to the principle of a house of refuge, on condition that the town corporation will unite with the county in the establishment of such a building, as otherwise the county would have to maintain the poor of the town without the latter paying a proper share for maintenance.

On motion of Mr. Moloney and Mr. Auger, the matter of aid to the Prisoner's Aid Association was referred to the finance committee.

On motion of Mr. Casement and Mr. Hales, the petition of the ministerial association wat referred to the comm tee on petitions.

On motion of Mr. Moloney the request on behalf of the Children's Aid Society, was referred to the Finance committee.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, president of the West Riding Agricultural Society, headed a deputation, consisting of Messrs. T. M. Hunter and W. J. Green, and a deputation from the East Riding society consisting of Mr. T. Blezard, M. P.P., asking aid on behalf of the respective societies.

Mr. W. J. Green, secretary, said that he had learned that some counties granted as high as $600 to their society.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Anderson, of Otonabee, said that a deputation would be present some day this week to solicit a grant for the Otonabee Society, which had enlarged its grounds and required assistance.

Mr. Casement presented a similar claim on behalf of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Society.

The petition of the Children's Aid Society requesting endorsation of their agent, was referred to the Committee on Petitions.

ANNUAL REPORTS OF MURRAY ST. CHURCH.

PROGRESSIVE CHURCH SOCIETIES FLOURISHING.

The Murray Street Baptists Assemble And Receive the Annual Reports Concerning the Different Branches of the Church's Work.

The annual reports concerning the different branches of the church work in connection with the Murray street Baptist congregation, were received last evening.

The meeting was opened by devotional exercises, conucted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Trotter, after which Mr. A. L. Grover presented the following report from the PARK STREET MISSION.

Deep gratitude fills our hearts as we record the work of 1894. "Great things have been done for us whereof we are glad."

God in His infinite goodness has been pleased to set His seal to the work so unmistakeably, that great joy has been ours in overseeing and directing it.

From January 1st to May 1st Sunday evening only was a regular preaching service kept up. The attendance for this period averaged 52, and for the Friday evening prayer and praise service, 19.

On Brother Pady's arrival new life went into the work. Under his enthusiastic leadership old workers put on fresh courage and new ones were enlisted. The morning service was resumed and has been well sustained. The lowest attendance was 55, the highest 120, the average 89. The evening service for the same time has averaged 131. The lowest attendance was 64, the highest 194. Since 1st October the average for this service has been 154.

The Friday evening service since May 1st has averaged 43, the lowest attendance being 20, and the highest 63.

Our most sanguine hopes have been realized in this field, and yet we believe the possibilities before us greater than ever before. The work is assuming a permanency and solidity that is most cheering, and we hesitate not to say that with the same persistent labour put into it in 1895, as in the past year, next January will show an advance equalling the advance this report shows on the one given one year ago.

But what has cheered us most, has been the eagerness with which the Gospel message has been received, and the many homes that have been blessed by its entrance. Some twenty-three have been baptized.

Your committee met on the 13th, and unanimously resolved to lay before the church the necessity for increased accommodation. The Sabbath school and evening service are cramped for room. Until more room is given the work will necessarily be hampered, and cannot attain the proportions it otherwise would. This enlargement of premises we were unanimous in recommending be immediately taken into consideration.

The financial report of the Mission Sunday school was submitted by the secretary, Mr. T. G. Gillespie, as follows:

Statement of Receipts and Expenditure of the Park Street Baptist Mission Sunday School, for 11 months, ending December 31st, 1894:

At the teachers' annual meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Superintendent—Miss Maggie Mann, (re-elected.)

Secretary—Mr. T. G Gillespie, (re-elected.)

Treasurer—Miss Maggie Mann, (re-elected.)

Librarian—Mr. Geo. Benton, jr.

Organist—Miss Bertha Hunt, (re-elected.)

The school at the end of the year was composed of the following divisions:

The primary department, under two teachers.

Intermediate department under eight teachers.

Two Bible classes.

Total number of teachers, 12.

Miss Maggie Mann, Superintendent of the Park street Sunday school, made the following remarks in connection with the work of the school:—"In speaking of the spiritual state of our Sunday school, our hearts are overflowing. Some of God's richest blessings have been bestowed upon us during the year that has just passed. Our monthly prayer meetings are seasons of great blessings and have increased the spiritual growth and earnestness of both superintendent and teachers to a greater desire for the salvation of those in their charge. Ten of the members of the school have united with the church during the year, while there are a number of boys and girls, who, we are confident, are trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour.

The teachers and officers have been unceasingly faithful in attendance. And time after time, God has come to our help and filled the places of those who have left for other parts of the vineyard. The deportment of the school has been excellent and the interest manifested by all is remarkable, while the harmony and unity are as one.

For several weeks before the close of the year, the great need of a young men's Bible class was laid upon our hearts. After earnest and united prayer, steps were taken to prepare a suitable place for that class. What was formerly used for a library room was removed and poles and curtains were put up and a room made to accomodate 18 young men. We trust and pray that this may be a great blessing to the young men of that neighbourhood.

We believe a great measure of our success has been given to us by God's blessings on the earnest prayerful labours of student, Mr. W. J. Pady. We begin this present year with bright prospects. Our prayer is that God may keep us humble and fully trusting in Himself."

Mr. A. L. Grover, superintendent of the Murray street Sunday school, reported as follows, concerning the progress made during the past year:

In drawing up this report, we have laboured under some disadvantages. Not being acquainted with the work of '93 comparisons cannot be drawn whereby progress, or otherwise, is shown. However, along many lines the school has been greatly prospered. There are enrolled, including teachers, about 205. The most cheering report is along spiritual lines. Over 35 have professed conversion, and of these 17 have been baptised and added to the church.

The teachers have been very regular in attendance, and to their zeal and faithfulness are largely due the success attained.

The school has raised for all purposes $150.34; of this $64.06 has been given missions.

Two of our scholars have been called above, Fred Kemp and Edith Taylor. They left behind good evidence that they have gone to be with Jesus.

Special prayers on behalf of Sunday school work were then offered by Mr. Stanley and Mr. Jewett, after which Miss Hutchinson reported that the attendance at the meetings of the was encouraging and that the finances of the band were in a flourishing condition.

Miss Mann, for Miss Edith Gillespie, secretary, read the appended report concerning the

JUNIOR UNION SOCIETY of the Park stret Mission:

Park street Junior Union Society organized June, 1894, with a good membership. Meetings were held regularly every Monday afternoon up to the end of September, when Mr. Pady, who was the leader, returned to college. Miss Maggie Mann was appointed leader and the meetings are held immediately after Sunday school. There are five committees, namely: Social, temperance, lookout, missionary and prayer meeting. The social committee assisted by the members, made two very attractive scrap books for the Children's Hospital, Toronto, and a very pretty doll was also sent to one of the inmates, a little girl six years old, who is very much afflicted. The missionary committee take the names of the absent scholars from the Sunday school and visits them and finds a reason for their absence. The temperance committeee prepared a bright and interesting programme, which was given after a tea provided for the juniors by the social and lookout committees. Seventy-five, all members, were present at the tea. Each member was asked to bring something they did not wish to give away away. Quite a number of toys, books, picture cards and papers were collected to be sent to our Indian Missionary, Mr. Prince, in the Northwest. During the summer a concert was given by the society, a collection taken amounting to $9, part of which was used to buy music books for the choir, $1.35 for 113 badges for the society, leaving a balance of $2.40. Our meetings are earnest and helpful. A great many take part in short prayers and Bible verses. The topics used are those found in the Baptist Union. The average attendance at the meetings is about 40.

Miss Smith read the following comprehensive report concerning the work of the

of the Murray street church:

Our Junior Union was organized about seven months ago with a membership of eighteen. For a time there seemed to be very little progress. The attendance was small and the interest taken by the children in the work did not seem to be very great.

However, as the autumn drew on and the children began to return from the summer outings, there was a marked increase both in attendance and interest.

During the summer months we held our meetings on Friday evening of each week from seven to eight o'clock, with the exception of the weeks when the Mission Band held its regular monthly meetings. On those weeks our Junior meeting was omitted as arranged for when we were organized.

We found as the days became shorter that many children were prevented from coming to the meeting because of the lateness of the hour at which it was held. It was then decided to change the time of meeting to Sunday afternoon. We now, therefore, meet immediately at the close of the Sunday School. We have found this to be an advantage, as ever since the change our membership has steadily increased until we now number forty-eight, and the number on our roll continues to grow.

Of late we have tried the plan of appointing leaders for each meeting from among the children. The programme is prepared for the leader. He or she has simply to preside over the meeting. We find that this plan works very well, indeed. The children take a greater interest in the meeting, when one of their number is acting as leader. We also try to have the children contribute largely to the programme. This we find them ready to do in an intelligent manner. So far as we can judge, we believe that the children are being developed by the part which they take in the society and we believe it will be the means of training them, as they reach years of maturity, to take useful and active parts in other departments of the church work, and to work intelligently for Christ in their every day life. We have several very useful committees, among these being the Sunshine Committee. The work of this committee is to try to bring joy to those less favoured than themselves by doing kindly deeds for them. The only way in which we have yet raised any money is through our Birthday Committee. This committee takes the name and date of the birthday of each member and when the birthday occurs, calls upon the person for a number of cents equal to the number years which she has lived. We should be glad to welcome the parents and friends of the children to our meetings occasionally, that they may see for themselves what is being done. We believe that they would enjoy our meetings and their presence, occasionally, would be an encouragement to the boys and girls. Will our friends please remember our Junior Union in their prayers, for we feel the need of wisdom and guidance.

Messrs. Croly and Elcombe then offered prayer for the success of the Unions, after which Mr. Stanley spoke as follows concerning the work of the Baptist Young People's Union of the church:—

To the Officers and Members of the Murray Street Baptist Church:

On behalf of the Young People's department of church work, I desire to report as follows:

For several years past up to and including the early part of the year just closed, and which is covered by this report, this department of the church was organized as a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour, and it was doing its work through the various committees, which are so prominent a part of that form of organization. Devotional and business meetings were regularly held. Funds in small amounts were raised for various objects and a good degree of interest in the Young People's work of the church was maintained.

On April 23rd, 1894, however, a meeting held for the purpose of considering the best means of increasing the efficiency of this department, which had been growing for several months, culminated in a re-organization, and this department is now known as Baptist Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour. In a word, this means that while we still maintain our connection with the Christian Endeavor Societies of the town, we have come into affiliation with the great Young People's movement of our own Baptist denomination; that we are in accord with the great object that movement has in view, with its general plans of work and especially with its "three C" plan of studies. Briefly stated this plan of studies comprehends a systematic course of daily bible readings called the Bible Readers Course; a weekly course of studies on home and foreign missions, their work, their history and their present needs, and a weekly course of studies on the struggles for distinctive Baptist principles dating from the earliest history of the christian church, down to the present time. These studies are each outlined in the Baptist Union, the official paper of our international organization, and it furnishes all that is needed to equip one for an intelligent home study of these important subjects. On the first Monday evening of each month we meet to observe our consecration service in recognition of the fact that we are still affiliated with the endeavour organization. On the second Monday evening we meet to observe a public review of our missionary studies. On the third Monday evening we meet for a devotional service and consider for a topic the bible readers course of the previous week, and on the fourth Monday evening we observe in public review our Reading Literature studies, or the struggles for distinctive Baptist principles. These meetings are always open to the entire church membership and a cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. Following the re-organization of the senior society of this department. These followed in quick succession two junior branches, one in connection with Park street Mission and the other with the church here. You have already listened to reports from the leaders of these two branches and to which nothing need be added. We believe that during the past year good seed of the right kind has been sown which will bear fruit in due season.

Portions of hymns were sung between the reading of the different reports and the evening proved to be one of great pleasure and profit to those who were in attendance.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

As eleven years is said to be the life of the average steel rail, the 10,000,000 tons now in use in the United States must sooner or later make way for others. These renewals involve an annual replacement of not less than 1,727,272 tons.

The Carrara marble quarries are practically inexhaustible. The entire mass of Monte Sagro, 5,600 feet high, which dominates Carrara, is solid marble. About 160,000 tons of marble are annually exported, most of which comes to America.

All the car-building companies in St. Louis—the Laclede, the St. Louis, the American, the Brownell and the St. Charles—have combined. There will be $5,000,000 of bonds and $15,000,000 of stock issued to represent the combined properties.

Mr. Samuel E. Morse, the consul general at Paris, has sent to the state department an abstract of the official report on the wheat crop in France for 1894. It is estimated by the French statisticians, says Mr. Morse, that the crops of 1894 throughout the world will be 35 per cent. in excess of the world's demands for consumption and seed.

The celebrated Baring estate is approaching final liquidation. At one time the liabilities were largely over $100,000,000; now they are but $12,500,000. With the improvement in all assets the world over, the bank of England will not need long time to close out the collateral they hold. A large surplus is expected. In history this will stand as the greatest financial exploit ever accomplished in business.—Banker's Monthly.

Experiments are being conducted at the armory in Springfield, Mass., in the use of aluminum for the bayonet scabbards for the new rifle. While the metal works well in bending and is about fifty per cent. lighter than the steel scabbard, no satisfactory method has been devised for soldering the edges together.

The Grave of a Faithful Dog.

Prince Llewellyn was a man of note in the time of King John of England. A leader among the Welsh princes, he occupied his Bethgelert house only in the hunting season. One year, while living there with his family, he returned from the chase to meet his hound Gelert running toward him with lips and fangs running blood. Reaching the house and finding his child missing, and the child's cradle smeared with blood, he turned upon the dog and slew him. When the latter discovered the child living and well, he saw that Gelert had really saved him from death by slaying a wolf that had stolen into the house. In remorse for his hasty deed, Llewellyn expressed his sorrow in the loudest terms, and ordered his servants to erect a monument over poor Gelert's grave:

"And now a gallant tomb they raise,
With costly sculpture decked,
And marbles storied with his praise
Poor Gelert's bones protect."

I fear, however, that when the poet wrote these lines he had not visted Bethgelert. For Gelert's grave, although romantically situated, is decked with no costly sculpture. The gravestone itself is a slender upright rock, standing under a large spreading tree near the centre of a level field. Although undoubtedly placed in its present position by human hands, it is still in its rough state. No chisel has touched it. The grave is enclosed by an iron fence, and during the summer months hundreds of tourists on their way through Snowdonia make a point to view it.—Harper's Young People.

"James," exclaimed Mrs. McNagg to her patient and long-suffering husband the other night just as he was dropping off into his first doze, "I am certain that I heard something moving downstairs, and I'm sure it's burglars. Get up at once, James, and see what it is. And, oh, dear, if you find any burglars, what will you do?" "Do?" repeated her husband with great calmness as he got up and prepared to explore the regions downstairs. "I will do whatever they want me to do, of course. I have never had my own way once in this house yet and it's too late to begin now.—Philadelphia Record.

Sunrise Thoughts.

Cool, from the chambers of the brooding night,
The morning air doth stir my soul, and brings
Unto awakened sense and touch the things
Which hover around the throne of beauty bright.
How have I slept within the very sight
And influence of that spirit which here clings—
A glory to each tree and flower, and flings
Its miracle of healing o'er earth's blight!
Around me lies such aspect of her face
As dear dame Nature wears when she is glad;
The trees for very joy do clap their hands,
So pure, so calm, so holy is the place
That I content, in contemplation clad,
Could dwell for e'er, ha! Duty no commands.

An analysis of water taken from the Great Salt lake, Utah, in August, 1888, showed that a ton of such water, would contain 391 pounds of solid matter, of which about 214 pounds would be common salt. Dead Sea water contains only 151 pounds of salt to the ton, but the proportion of solids is much greater, there being about 528 pounds to the ton.

It is reported that a lampwick of clay, that will give twenty-five per cent. more light than a cotton wick, has been invented. It is made capillary by incorporating with the clay, while still plastic, filaments of unspun vegetable fibre, which, burned out in the baking, leave minute tubes running through the wick, through which the flame draws the oil by capillary attraction. The flame thus fed, it is claimed, is white, odorless and smokeless, while the novel wick itself is almost indestructible.

The new fall hats are pronounced very ugly in appearance. The crowns are high with narrow rims, and altogether unsatisfactory. The English walking hat is renewing its popularity, and will be much worn.

Black and white has lost none of its popularity. It is used for both old and young, and will be enlivened by the striking millinery on the hats and bonnets. Gayly colored, over-trimmed headgear is announced for the fall and winter styles.

A PRINCE'S HOROSCOPE.

THE LATEST FAD AMONG THE LADIES OF FASHION.

New York Follows London in Pursuing the Dominant Occult Attraction, Astrology —What It All Means—How a Horoscope is Cast—The Coming King.

(Special Letter.)

Astrology is the dominant occult attraction in London, at the majority of West End "At Homes." No hostess is considered a success at such unless she provides an astrologer as one of the attractions.

In New York the art is practiced sub rosa, and although hosts of society women devote much precious time to the study of their fate, as revealed by sun, moon and stars, very little is said about it to the outside world. Intimate friends form a coterie which meets once a week, possibly more frequently, to listen to lectures on astrology and incidentally—so they say—have their fortunes revealed in the heavens

On the signals just from Mars,
And read their fate through the singing stars.

With many ladies it is simply a pastime; with others it might be called a matter of business; social life, philanthropies and dress even being regulated for them by messages from the spheres.

In Canada, and indeed in all Northern countries, star-gazing is handicapped for the greater part of the year by circumstances over which the most intelligent astrologer naturally has no control. In the East where the householder goes to bed every night of the year on the outside of his roof, and interposes nothing between himself and the Milky Way to keep out the weather, the study of the stars is more easily attended to, and graduates in the science are more numerous. The Bedouins and other children of the desert, as well as the city dwelling descendants of the tribes of Bible times, follow now, as in Scriptural days, the lore in which Joseph and Daniel excelled. Such ideas as Judges v. 20, records, have held their way down into our own days and unlucky people are recognized as having been born under an evil star. This is something to "consider," for to consider means to consult the stars, the word being derived from a word meaning "star." When any matter was "considered" in earlier days the stars were consulted with regard to it.

The basis of astrology is the belief that all the works of God are one and indivisible, that nothing can occur in the universe anywhere without effecting every part of it. It is believed that as events move in regular series, as season succeeds season, and night day, so certain orders of events succeed each other in classes regularly. Astrologers think that by continually observing what occurs on earth when certain other things are occurring in the heavens, they can by the accumulation of thousands of years' experience be able to tell what is likely to be going on on earth when previous conjunctions among the stars are repeated.

If one sees a clock pointing to five, one can tell how many times it will strike, or if one hears it strike five, one can tell how the hands are pointing. There are such an infinite number of indications in the heavens, however, that any claim to perfect accuracy must be disallowed. Some, however, of the approximations of astrology are remarkably interesting, and it is notable that many celebrated men, Napoleon, Sir Walter Scott, Lord Bulwer Lytton, etc., were devoted to the study.

The heavens are divided into a great clock-face by astrologers, and the hours are the signs of the Zodiac. The minutes are called degrees, and the sun, noon and planets serve for hour, minute and second hands. In the diagram, if you think of yourself sitting at the North pole, you will have the East at your left hand and six of the "hours," which are called "houses," above the horizon and six below. The various diurnal and annual movements of the heavenly bodies bring about a perpetual change in their relative positions, and the planets will be either above or below the horizon, ascending or descending. The houses indicate broadly certain features in life as shown in the diagram, but each planet bears a particular relation to each house, and as either a good or a bad planet may be in either a good or a bad house there are evidently a host of possibilities. To become familiar with all these contingencies requires a lifetime of study, and then some unheard or unthought of conjunction may occur which will upset all known calculations.

The Prince of Wales' horoscope, as a map of the position of the planets at birth is called, illustrates some of these things. To judge of future life the positions of the sun, etc., are calculated for every day after birth, each day being said to prophesy the corresponding year of the child's life, until the term of death is reached.

The sun, moon, Jupiter and Venus are the good planets, Uranus, Saturn and Mars the unfortunate ones. Mercury is good or bad according to his associations. In the Prince's case Mercury and the moon make a favorable combination and Jupiter is strongly situated; but Uranus has a very evil influence on Jupiter, and Mars also affects the sun for evil, the most dangerous result of which will occur in 1893. Many troubles are foretold for 1895, his elevation to the throne towards the close of the year or the beginning of next being probable. FRANKLAND CARY.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then were home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

AIR AND NO DRAUGHTS.

A Frenchman's Simple Method of Securing Perfect Ventilation.

A novel system for ventilating rooms was invented by Dr. Castaing, a physician in the French army, which does away with draughts or expensive appliances.

The system of ventilation of Dr. Castaing is extremely simple and cheap, and it continually renews the atmosphere without being felt by the occupants of the room. Two ordinary panes of window glass are placed in the upper frame of one or more windows, as follows: One pane, the outer one, is placed in the sash and held in place as usual by glazier points and putty; the only difference from an ordinary pane is that it is about two inches too short and raised that much from the bottom, leaving the lower edge free, and being held in place by the upper end and the two sides. A second pane, the inner one, is placed against the molding of the same sash, which is always wide enough to admit of its being used for this purpose. This glass is also cut about two inches short, but is adjusted so that the open space is on top. This pane is held in position by the lower edge and the two sides. The space between the two panes should not be less than one-half inch. It is, however, regulated by the thickness of the framework and the depth of the inner molding.

As the invention was at first applied, the inner pane was stationary, the same as the outer, and permanently held in place by points and putty. When practically applied serious objections were raised to this arrangements. The space between the panes was too narrow to admit of a thorough cleaning while the two panes were permanently fixed, and, however they tried, the glass was too much subject to breakage. To avoid this and to make the cleaning easy, the inner pane should be movable, and so arranged that it may be taken down and replaced rapidly and without danger of breakage. This result is arrived at by framing the edges of the inner pane with a light "U" shaped rubber rim (C) which has sufficient adherence to keep the pane firmly in place. The inner pane thus protected is then put in place and secured to the molding by means of small clamps (T) attached to the frame by small screws. For medium sized windows two clamps near each corner and one clamp on each side near the upper border, are sufficient.

Whatever the shape and depth of the inner moulding may be the pane should be cut so that the rubber rim rests against the frame so that by turning the eccentric clamps tighter the pane is held firmly in place and cannot rattle nor break.

This system of ventilation with its parallel glass panes and opposite openings directs a continuous stream of air vertically toward the ceiling of the room, which accounts for the excellent results for this contrivance, and airs a room without draughts.

A Pointer From England.

A correspondent of the London Farmer is much pleased with the rapid growth of lambs resulting from putting a Sussex ram with Hampshire ewes: "Ten days ago, Mr. Bowditch weighed ten of the lambs. Now ten days later he weighed the same ten lambs, and found them to be 6½lb. heavier than the first time of weighing, the best lamb gaining 8½ lbs., and the worst 5½lb. in the ten days an average gain of 6½lb. each."

BEE-KEEPERS' CONVENTION.

Presentation of Reports and Addresses—Election of Officers.

STRATFORD, Jan. 24.—The Ontario Bee-keepers' Association resumed their sessions yesterday. The eleventh annual report of the directors showed a deficit of $52.63. The president and vice-president were appointed a committee to endeavor to secure a grant from the Dominion Government.

Mr. Pettit presented the report of the deputation which went to Ottwa to promote the passage of a bill prohibiting the sale of imitation or impure honey. The measure passed the Commons, but was thrown out by the Senate.

J. K. Darling gave an interesting paper entitled "Some difficulties," and F. A. Gemmill one on "Experience in marketing comb honey." Prof. Fletcher gave an account of some experiments made at the Ottawa Experimental Farm, showing the advantages of using good wax over poor for foundations.

Allan Pringle delivered an able address on "Education," after which the election of officers took place as follows: President, J. B. Hall, Woodstock; Vice-President, J. K. Darling, Almonte; Directors, W. J. Brown, Chard; J. K. Darling, Almonte; M. B. Holmes, Athens; Allan Pringle, Selby; J. W. Sparling, Bowmanville; Wm. Couse, Streetsville; A. Pickett, Nassagaweya; F. BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER.

An Unusual Case in Toronto Police Court—A Heavy Sentence.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—The rather unusual sight of one brother testifying against another was seen in the police court yesterday, but in this case the complainant had exceptionally good grounds.

Walter Hutchinson is a respectable young married man who works in Heintzman's piano factory. According to the evidence taken his brother John Hutchinson has been living on him for four months, and two weeks ago assaulted his brother's wife and armed with a revolver stole a gold watch and chain, an overcoat and other articles of clothing. Then he told his brother stories about Mrs. Hutchinson that he could not prove and wanted him to sell everything and leave town.

Magistrate Denison said that it was one of the worst and most contemptible cases he had ever listened to, for if the man's story were true he was an infamous scoundrel and if it were not true he was equally bad. He then sentenced him to seven years in Kingston penitentiary with thirty lashes, to be administered three and six months after incarceration.

Coupler Works for Niagara Falls, Ont.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 24.—J. H. Dunn, superintendent of the Gould Coupler Company of Buffalo, is on his way to Toronto to see Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Comptroller of Customs. If Mr. Dunn cannot catch Mr. Wallace at Toronto he will go to Ottawa, where he will arrange with him for the duty to be charged on the product of the company going into Canada in a rough state. Indications denote that if the arrangements with the comptroller are satisfactory the company will locate its finishing plant at Niagara Falls, Ont.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 24, 1895.

On the street here 200 bushels of wheat brought 63 to 64c. for white, 60 1-2 to 61c. for red and 60 to 61 1-2c. for spring. Some 1,500 bushels of barley sold at 45 to 47c., and 400 bushels of oats at 35 to 35 1-2c.

There was no material change in quotations in barley at Buffalo, except that sellers threaten to advance prices 2 to 3c., and base their reasons for the proposed action on the ground that Canadian sellers have oversold and cannot cover contracts that the Canadian values of No. 1 is equal to 70c. here.

Wheat was weak and prices kept slipping away in Chicago and the bulls were in despair. Oats showed no inclination to follow wheat. The firmness was continuous. The action of wheat was without effect on corn.

In East Buffalo in sheep and lambs of the 50 cars on sale only a few lots were of choice stock, and these were Canadas which sold at $4.90 to $5.15 and the best natives at $4.45 to $4.90; values on these were 15c. higher than Tuesday and all good stock ruled stronger.

Business at the New York stock exchange was more active, but the activity was at the expense of values. The decline in the late trading was accelerated by the execution of stop orders. In the last hour a leading room trader bought largely of American sugar, forcing the price up to 90 3-8, and this had a good effect all around. The market closed about steady.

FATTENED IN A JIFFY.

THE PROCESS OF STUFFING FOWLS BY MACHINERY.

The Style of Feeding Known in France as "Engraissement"—A Factory with all Modern Appliances for Conducting the System—No Exercise Allowed.

There is a poultry-raising establishment in Baltimore County at which all the modern appliances for hatching and rearing chickens are in practical operation, says the Baltimore Sun, and where the "stuffing" process of feeding, known for many years in France as engraissement, is used in fattening both chickens and ducks for the market. About 5,000 chickens and as many ducks are annually fattened by this process at this place. The owner of the establishment has spent many years of his life abroad, especially in France, and he has made a thorough study of the methods followed in the land where gastronomy has been reduced to a science and where the inner man is more assiduously considered than anywhere else in the world. And it is because years of experimenting in France have proved that poultry fed by the process de l'engraissement are more toothsome and less expensive to the grower than poultry fattened by the ordinary processes of nature that he has established this place in Baltimore County upon an almost French basis. Incubators are now by no means the curiosities they were a few years ago, when the public paid an admission fee for the privilege of seeing one in operation. Many farmers have improved upon the old-time more or less careless methods of raising chicks or ducklings, but there is no other place in Maryland where no "stuffing" process is in vogue with all its modern, humane, and economical appliances. The process is based upon the simple principle that a fowl will grow fat most rapidly when it is given the maximum of food and allowed the minimum of exercise. Fowls fed by "l'engraissement" are not only given all the food they can eat but all they can hold, and they are not given any exercise.

When the work of feeding fowls in this manner is being put in practice—which is not the case at this season of the year—the interior of the feeding-house is an interesting place. It looks like a large prison on a small scale, with tier upon tier of tiny cells reaching from the floor to the ceiling. In each of these cells is a bird being prepared for market. Its quarters are rather confining, for it hasn't room to turn around in and scarcely room to rise to its feet. Running along in front of those cages, which fit their occupants as if they had been made to order, is a trolley track, high up near the ceiling, and from this is suspended the feeding apparatus proper. It may, by means of weights, be put and may be moved along the trolley track from one end of the building to the other, thus enabling the feeder to put his machine in front of any cell.

The feed, in the form of soft mush, is put in a reservoir holding a gallon or more. From the bottom of the reservoir the food runs through a rubber tube into another receptacle, the capacity of which is regulated by a screw, according to the extent of the meal to be given to the fowls at that special feeding. From the second receptacle protrudes a tin tube about four inches long and as thick as a lead pencil, and this tube is thrust down the fowl's throat and into its craw. This done the pressure of a lever empties the contents of the receptacle into the fowl and it settles down to rest, digest and grow fat until meal time rolls round again. The fowls do not take kindly to this method of feeding at first, but after a day or two of it they seem to relish its novelty and luxury, and begin to crow and cackle in anticipation as soon as the feeding apparatus is brought into use.

The French breed of poultry, notably Houdan, La Fleche and Crevecœurs, are best adapted to this kind of feeding, probably because they have been accustomed to it a long time. At the Baltimore County establishment all varieties of chickens are being used, although this year the owner intends to use nothing but Houdans. He is at present fattening Pekin ducks only. Chickens for broiling purposes are put into the pens at the beginning of January and remain for two weeks, while ducks are kept there three weeks. The bottoms of the pens are covered with finely cut chaff, which is changed every day, and, during the fattening operations, the fowls are kept at an invariable temperature and in semi-darkness. They are fed four times a day. Each meal lasts about two seconds, and in eight seconds they can eat more than they could in two days with the apparatus which nature gave them.

L'engraissement has been practiced in France for many years. Before the improved appliances were invented the operation was carried on in several ways. One of these, called engraissement aux patons, consisted of inserting little cakes of dough into the fowl's mouth, and forcing them down with the finger. In another case, engraissement d l'entonnair, the food, in liquid form, was poured into the bird through a funnel. A third method, still more primitive, called gavage a la bouche, consisted in the feeder's filling his mouth with the food and blowing it down the fowl's throat. As soon after the hatching as they are able to determine, the sexes are separated, and when they are three and one-half months old they are put in the "pens of plenty." Fowls thus treated have been known to double in weight during their confinement in the pens. Their meat is far tenderer and sweeter than that of fowls raised in the ordinary manner, and is devoid of all objectionable stringiness. They are, the owner of the Baltimore County establishment avers, more suitable for table purposes than capons, and do not have to be fed and cared for more than a quarter of the time that capons require.

A SURVEYOR'S LIFE.

ONE OF HARDSHIP AND FREQUENT GREAT EXPOSURE.

Mr. John J. Robertson, Government Surveyor, Arichat, N.S., Tells of One of the Troubles That Beset Men of His Calling.

The life of a land surveyor while in many respects a fascinating one, is one also of frequent trials and great hardship. This is especially the case with government surveyors who are sent into sparsely-settled districts, locating new townships, opening colonization roads, and performing like duties in all sorts of weather. Mr. John J. Robertson, government surveyor at Arichat, N.S., says: In following my profession I have been exposed frequently to the most disagreeable kinds of weather, with wet clothing, wet feet and general discomfort. Some five years ago this culminated in a severe case of rheumatism, which beginning in my feet and legs worked up into my body. I also suffered much from cold feet, which was accompanied by such a profuse perspiration that I was frequently obliged to change my socks several times a day. The pain accompanying the rheumatism was at times almost unbearable, and is needless to say that I tried many preparations alleged to be a cure for this trouble, but without finding any beneficial results. By chance a pamphlet describing the cures wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills came into my possession, and decided me to give this medicine a trial. I think I took in all nearly a dozen boxes, and I must say that judged by results they are one of the most remarkable medicines known. My rheumatism has entirely disappeared, and although I have since frequently been exposed to bad weather, I have never felt better in my life, and it is now upwards of a year since I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which shows that they have effectually reached the root of the disease, and driven it from my system. I cheerfully give my experience with this great medicine in the hope that it may prove valuable to some other sufferer.

STUDYING NATURE.

In a month a caterpillar devours six thousand times its own weight in food.

Darwin asserted that there is insanity among animals just as there is among people.

No worm or insect is ever found upon the encalyptus tree or in the earth penetrated by its roots.

Solitary confinement is calculated, doctors state, to produce melancholia, suicidal mania and loss of reason. Nine months of absolutely solitary confinement are almost certain to result in the mental ruin of the convict.

The reason given why birds do not fall off their perch is because they cannot open the foot when the leg is bent. Look at a hen walking and you will see it close its toes as it raises the foot and open it as it touches the ground.

THE WHEEL.

France derived 950,000 francs last year from the tax on cycles, the number of machines being 182,276.

The bicycle of the khedive of Egypt is a gorgeous machine, almost entirely covered with silver plating.

A young French officer lately, on a wager, made his way on a bicycle to the top of the Pic du Midi in the Pyrenees, 9,540 feet high, and then down again.

The Bell Telephone company, of Cincinnati, O., have mounted thirty inspectors on bicycles. Thirty horses and as many buggies have been displaced thereby.

Wheels propelled by petroleum are being introduced in Paris to take the place of the cycle. They are very costly, one thousand dollars being the price for one.—Hardware.

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 13,996,800,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance

Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

MOTHER'S AWFUL DEED

She Deliberately Drowned Her Two Children in a Tub.

HELD THEM WHILE THEY DIED

After Committing the Horrible Crime She Gives Herself Up to the Authorities—She Killed Them Rather Than Have Them Taken From Her.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Mary McBournie, living at 627 Harrison avenue, gave herself up to the police yesterday, stating she had murdered her two children. They were found dead at her house. The woman is supposed to have killed the children while crazy from over-indulgence in liquor.

Mrs. McBournie said to the police that she murdered the children rather than have her husband take them away from her, as he had intimated he would. She had often stated to friends, she said, that she would rather the children were dead than to be separated from them and had threatened that she would kill them first.

"This morning I kept thinking and thinking of what my husband had said to me about taking the children away and I decided that I would save them by killing them.

"About 8.30 in the morning I went into the room where Clara and Johnnie were sleeping. I took Clara out first and undressed her, took her into another room, where I had a tub of water, and then held her head under the water until she was dead. She did not make much noise nor struggle very hard. I then put her away and went after Johnnie, who was four years old. He was in bed and I told him that I wanted him to go to heaven. He said he did not want to go, but I took him out to the tub and held his head under the water until he, too, was dead. After that I took the two children, washed them carefully, laid them side by side in the bed, closed their eyes and placed coppers on them to keep the lids down, and left the house."

BINGHAMTON'S BANKS.

Two More Close Their Doors—The Citizens in a Panic.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y., Jan. 25.—Two more banks have closed their doors. The citizens had recovered the shock following the suspension of the Merchants' and the Ross private bank and affairs were assuming their normal aspect when the rumor was circulated the Chenango Valley Bank had drawn its curtain. On the heels of the startling report came the announcement that the National Broom County Bank had also discontinued business. The citizens were fairly paralyzed with astonishment and the apprehension of small depositors was magnified by exaggerated stories which were circulated to the injury of other banking institutions. Panic seised the populace and it became apparent that a run upon the banks would be inevitable.

During the day telegrams were received from metropolitan banking institutions to the effect that they would support the Binghamton banks for unlimited amounts.

Attempt to Organize the Clan-na-Gael.

BUFFALO, Jan. 25.—Discouraged but not disheartened, John Devoy is again making an attempt to organize a branch of the Clan-na-Gael in Buffalo. The powerful organization of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which has fifteen divisions in this city, is strenuously opposed to the new organization, and prominent Irish American citizens not affiliated with any organization have been throwing cold water on Devoy's plans. The Catholic church, too, has quietly but not the less effectively contributed to making Devoy's mission anything but a brilliant success. An organization of a Clan-na-Gael camp will, however, be affected, although it is quite certain that neither in numbers nor in character will it have much weight. Devoy has paid secret visits to St. Catharines, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec and will later visit other Canadian points in the interest of his organization.

CAN STAND A LONG SIEGE.

Wei-Hai-Wei Will Prove a Formidable Barrier to the Japs.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Times correspondent in Chee-Foo says: "The Chinese declare that Wei-Hai-Wei has garrison supplies which will enable it to withstand a prolonged attack. The Japanese have withdrawn from Yong-Chow where they landed merely to create a diversion."

A Central News despatch from Tokio says that Gen. Sakuma reports from Yung-Chen, under date of January 21, as follows: "Upon the first arrival of the transports the landing of marines began. The snow was very heavy and deep. The Chinese earth batteries began firing upon the landing party, but after observing the formidable array of ships in the bay, the Chinese troops retreated westward. The first troops that were landed pushed forward and seized Yung-Chen fortress. It was a splendid rush. Field Marshal Gen. Oyama and staff will join us at once."

IN THE U. S. HOUSES

The Arbitration Delegate Appears Before a House Committee.

HAWAIIAN MATTERS DISCUSSED

Mr. Lodge's Resolution Opposed in the Senate—The House Committee Takes No Action in Regard to the Resolutions—An Important Tariff Decision.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—An interesting incident occurred in the Senate yesterday when Mr. Jarvis (Dem., N.C.), who had held an appointment from the governor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Vance, introduced and made way for his successor, Mr. Pritchard, who has been recently elected by the Legislature to fill Senator Vance's unexpired term. Mr. Pritchard is a Republican, and after being sworn in he took a seat next to Mr. Chandler, who subsequently offered a resolution to pay Mr. Jarvis $34 for his last two days' service, which resolution was immediately agreed to.

The Hawaiian question was kept alive by a speech from Senator George (Dem., Miss.) against the Lodge resolution, proposing annexation, and by another resolution offered by Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) declaring in favor of immediate steps for annexation. Mr. Allen's resolution went over till to-day, when Senator Mills (Dem., Tex.) will address the Senate in opposition.

A speech from Mr. White (Dem., Cal.) in favor of the Nicaraguan canal bill closed the speech-making for the day.

The Republican members of the House committee on foreign affairs yesterday endeavored to secure consideration of the several resolutions regarding Hawaiian affairs recently introduced in the House. Mr. Hitt (Ills.) moved that they be considered at once, stating that sub-committees could throw but little light on the subject. Mr. McCreary opposed this and spoke of the importance of the matters. After some discussion the motion was lost and the resolution was referred to sub-committees for action.

After disposing of Hawaiian matters the committee heard W. R. Creamer, a member of the British Parliament, in support of a memorial presented to the committee proposing to submit to arbitration all disputes between the United States and Great Britain. Mr. Hitt, (Ills.,) inquired whether Great Britain would be willing to give arbitration to weaker nations. Mr. Creamer said he could not answer the question. No action was taken.

Attorney-General Olney has decided that goods imported and entered for warehouses prior to the tariff act of 1894 and not withdrawn for consumption within three years from the date of the original importation are unaffected by the new rates of duty. The decision also applies to all goods imported prior to 1894 and then subject to the tariff rates of 1890.

SUNDAY DRINKING IN GOTHAM.

Mayor Strong Asked to Use His Influence Against This Proceeding.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—A committee of Methodist ministers and members of the W. C. T. U. called on Mayor Strong and urged him to close the saloons on Sunday and use all his influence to prevent the passage of a law to legalize Sunday opening. They told the Mayor that they elected him with their work and their prayers and had a right to make demands of him.

Mayor Strong heard them through and then said that no minister in the city wanted the saloons closed on Sunday more than he did, but it was well nigh impossible to close them.

"I don't know that I can do anything," he said. "Our election last fall wiped out bosses in this city and put me here as the representative of the people. I am the representative of the grog shops as well as the churches. You must allow me to talk to the liquor dealers just the same as I talk to you. I don't want to open the saloons on Sunday. I want to stop crime in the city. I want the legislature to see if something cannot be done, and I can stand all the abuse you can give me."

The Mayor told the committee in conclusion that to enforce the law would fill all the station houses, jails and all the houses the city could rent. He could not be won over from his original purpose and was going on in the way he had started to see if he could not get at a law that could be enforced and lessen crime in the city.

To Open Saloons on Sunday.

ALBANY, Jan. 25.—Assemblyman Wieman, of Brooklyn, yesterday dropped in the bill box a bill allowing saloons to be kept open on Sundays between 6 and 8 a.m. and 2 and 12 p.m. A violation shall work a revocation of a license. The bill applies to all cities of over 50,000 inhabitants.

Escaped From the Toronto Police.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—James Langford, a Central prison convict, who was serving a sentence of one year for a highway robbery, committed in Toronto last month, escaped from police headquarters yesterday and got clear away. He had been brought down from the prison to be tried on another charge and was left alone in the cells. He pulled a bar off the passage that leads to the police court, went upstairs, through the court and two halls without being seen, and has not yet been found. The prison coat and vest were left behind. Langford is a smart crook, and has served several terms in prison before.

Resumed Their Marriage Vows.

BUFFALO, Jan. 25.—In 1891 Henry Hermann and his wife Jeannette were separated by judical proceedings on the part of the wife. Since that time Hermann has been a resident of Welland county, Ont. Yesterday he returned to Buffalo and joined his former wife in an action to annul the limited divorce which she had procured four years ago, and Judge Springer on learning the facts ordered that the former proceedings be annulled and cancelled.

Whooping Cough.

For Whooping Cough and all throat affections, chest troubles, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the best combination ever discovered. It promptly relieves inflamation, pain and soreness from whatever cause arising.

BEE-KEEPERS' ASSOCIATION.

Close of the Session—Brantford Chosen as the Place of Next Meeting.

STRATFORD, Jan. 25.—Yesterday morning the Ontario Bee-keepers' Association met for the purpose of concluding unfinished business which consisted mainly in discussion of papers given the previous day by Messrs. Darling and Gemmil. A general discussion on the wintering of bees furnished valuable information as each member gave his experience. Mr. Pettit said it was possible to winter bees as successfully and with much certainty as any other stock and showed how it should be done.

At Wednesday's session a resolution was passed providing each member of the association with a copy of the Canadian Bee Journal. The legality of the resolution was questioned and a motion to rescind it carried. A score card for the judging of honey at exhibitions was adopted and ordered to be recommended to the different societies. Resolutions of thanks to the city for use of hall were passed and the convention adjourned.

The Executive Committee met immediately afterwards and reappointed W. Couse, Streetsville, Secretary, and Martin Emigh, Holbrook, Treasurer. It was agreed to call a special meeting of the association for Toronto during the time of the meeting of the North American Bee-keepers' Association next September.

Brantford was chosen as the place for the next annual meeting of the Association.

AFFAIRS IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Confederation to be Submitted to the People for Decision.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 25.—The legislature adjourned for six weeks. Elections will be held in the interim and arrangements will be completed for the submission to the voters of the question of the confederation of Newfoundland with Canada.

An appeal from the clergy to the outside world which was published yesterday says that about a 1,000 families are now starving in this city.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The greatest fears prevail in the highest circles here regarding Newfoundland. The continuance of the present paralysis would inevitably mean the early bankruptcy of the colony. The colonial office persists in its refusal to lend monetary help. The only hope here is believed to lie with the generosity of Canada in helping the ancient colony out of its disaster, the colony to become a province of the Dominion. Some people urge that some leading English Bank should follow the example of the Bank of Montreal and open a branch at St. Johns.

Snowshoe Races at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—The Canadian snowshoe championship races races came off here yesterday under carnival auspices. The afternoon was cold and the attendance of spectators on the Metropolitan grounds was not large. The 1000 yards dash was run in heats. In the first heat Geo. Paris, of Montreal, won in 11 1-2 seconds, breaking the amateur record of 12 seconds. E. J. Paradis, of Montreal, won the second trial. In the final heat Paris fell and Paradis won in 12 seconds, with Smith, of Levis, second and Carson, of Ottawa, third. There was a strong wind behind the runners. The quarter mile championship was won by Paris in 1 minute 10 seconds, with H. Carson, of Ottawa, second. The one mile was won by H. Gowen, of Quebec, with S. A. Finley, of Montreal, second, time 5.48. The obstacle race was won by G. Carson, of Ottawa. The half mile city championship was won by J. Burns, White Star Snowshoe Club, in 5.52, with W. Curran, O. A. A. C., second.

Skipped With the Funds of the Regiment.

HALIFAX, Jan. 25.—The military authorities have sent telegrams to Boston, St. John, Yarmouth and other places, ordering the arrest of Sergeant Balham and Corporal Hotson, Royal Engineers, who are supposed to have deserted, taking with them a large sum of money belonging to the corps. The sum stolen is $3,000. Hotson is supposed to have shared in the spoils. It is believed Balham took the early train on Tuesday, en route to Philadelphia, where he has a brother. He was pay sergeant of the company. Before leaving he evidently made away with the books, as they cannot be found. The sum stolen included money which was entrusted to him to pay the accounts of the regiment. Yesterday it was learned that the accounts of merchants against the Royal Engineers which were believed to have been paid are unsettled. The military authorities will use every effort to run down the men and if they are located in the States extradition proceedings will be instituted.

Released from St. Vincent de Paul.

MONTREAL, Jan. 25.—Darius Reynolds, the colored man who on June 22, 1891, was sentenced in the court of Queen's Bench by the late Judge Church, to fourteen years in the penitentiary for manslaughter in killing another colored man named Jeremiah Myers, left St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary yesterday a free man. At the time of the sentence Reynolds had been recommended to the mercy of the court, and this fact and his good conduct were no doubt taken into account when the pardon was granted. It is no secret that a young woman has worked incessantly to secure his pardon and has finally succeeded after a great deal of effort. She had petitions signed and sent to the Minister of Justice and also managed to secure the co-operation of influential people.

Scarlet Fever in Halifax.

HALIFAX, Jan. 25.—A great many cases of scarlet fever exist just now in Halifax. The number has grown to an alarming extent within the past few days. The disease has broken out among the children at Wellington barracks and many are afflicted with it. A portion of the quarters occupied by the married men of the regiment is being used as a hospital. There are fourteen cases of scarlet fever at the infectious hospital, which include some of the nurses of the Victoria General Hospital.

Provincial Y. M. C. A. Convention.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 25.—The Provincial convention of the Y. M. C. A. of Ontario and Quebec was opened yesterday afternoon in the John street Presbyterian church with devotional exercises lead by J. J. Gartshore, of Toronto. Many valuable papers were read. There are upwards of 100 delegates in attendance, including two from New York, and the sessions bid fair to be highly interesting.

OPENING UP THE LINES

The Situation in Brooklyn Assumes a More Peaceful Aspect.

JUSTICE GAYNOR'S DECISION

A Mandamus to be Granted to Compel the Companies to Operate Their Cars—Strikers Encouraged by the Decision — Wires Cut by the Mob.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 25.—The sensation of the trolley strike yesterday was a decision by Justice W. J. Gaynor, of the Supreme Court, against the companies in the mandamus proceedings. The Brooklyn Heights company is severely scored for failing to operate its lines. The decision defines the rights of corporations holding franchises from the people in terms that caused great rejoicing in the ranks of the strikers and among workingmen generally. Aside from this decision the day was one of great gains for the companies. Very little disorder prevailed and a good showing was made on many lines.

District Assembly No. 75 played its last card in ordering the electrical workers employed by the companies to join the motormen and conductors on strike. The order was not fully obeyed, and while it resulted in the stopping of three lines, three others which had not been open for ten days were operated. More cars were run on other lines and the presidents declare they have sufficient man to operate their roads.

There was no shooting yesterday. Troop "A" had several lively experiences scattering crowds who were indulging in wire cutting and blockading the tracks.

Thomas Carney, the victim of Wednesday's shooting, died at the Long Island College hospital. Col. Austen, in an official report to Gen. McLeer, says the firing in Hicks street was fully justified. Carney was the second man killed by the troops.

Unless there is a change in the situation the Seventh regiment will be ordered home to-day. Order is slowly being established. Wire cutting still prevails in outlying districts, but with less frequency. Cars are not yet run at night. No one seems to be anxious to take chances after dark.

At 3.15 p.m. the wires were short circuited and burned out for 60 feet on Broadway near Chauncey street. A detachment of Troop "A" quickly arrived at the scene and dispersed the crowd. Fifteen cars were blocked until 3.30, when the lines were repaired.

At 3.30 strikers cut the wires on Fulton street between Hopkins and Rockaway avenue. Mounted police quickly appeared and the wire cutters fled. No arrests were made in either case.

President Norton, of the Atlantic Avenue Railroad Company, and President Partridge, of the De Kalb avenue line, were examined before the grand jury as to the management of the roads, the speed of cars and the hours of labor. President Lewis is to be called next in regard to the collision of trolley cars on the night of January 1. In the accident several people were injured. The cars were going at high speed. The presidents of the two companies were asked about this and it is rumored that a general inquiry into the operations by the trolley lines is going to be made by the grand jury.

The Flushing and Graham avenue line of the Brooklyn city railroad began operations in the afternoon, the first car since the strike began being started over the road at 2.15 p.m. This road operates through the toughest section of the city and it was generally expected that blood shed would follow the opening of the line. Shortly after the first car was started, others were run out and within an hour 15 cars were in operation. The first car made the trip on schedule time. Outside of the throwing of a couple of stones and the jeering of the men here and there along the line the trip was without interest.

Yesterday 150 special policemen were sworn in, making over 500 now on duty. Both the regular members of the force and the specials complain bitterly of the duties required of them and the lack of provision for the comfort.

Only half of the cross town line was opened yesterday. The line runs from Hunter's Point to the city hall and thence through South Brooklyn to the Erie Basin, a notoriously bad section of the city, where the "Gas-house gang" have held undisputed power for a decade past. It is the opening of this section of the road the authorities are nervous about and the opinion has been freely expressed by militia and police officials that a half dozen regiments will be required to pass the cars through. The toughs of this district have openly declared that no car will ever be taken over that branch by non-union men. Already they have begun their preparations to carry out their threats. Behind fences and out of the way corners which abound in that section piles of stones, bricks, barrels and timbers to be used as missiles and barriers are to be found on almost every block.

The trolley wires in this neighborhood present a peculiar sight. All along the route things of the most absurd description are hung upon them. In one place hang six dead cats strung together in twos; in another two tin pails, still further down the line hangs a barrel, old shoes, tattered clothing and undergarments of various descriptions. The trolley decorations prove clearly which way the sympathy of the neighborhood leans and demonstrate that the operation of the trolley cars in that section of Brooklyn will likely be attended with serious interruption.

Wires were cut on Third avenue near the Erie Basin last night. The men who did the work escaped. A crowd of strikers was driven away from the Fifth and Third avenue barns shortly before midnight by militia. At mid-night all was quiet.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 25, 1895.

MR. LAURIER'S GREAT SPEECH.

The speech of Hon. Wilfred Laurier at Montreal, is such as might be expected from such a source, polished, elegant, gentlemanly, candid and single-minded. Naturally it dealt with the tariff, but not in the iconoclastic and unconsidered manner in which many of his opponents expected, and in some cases, hoped would be employed, but in a statesmanlike and broad-minded style. In this connection, the remarks of the Montreal Star, a strong protectionist journal, are worthy of close attention. The Star says, editorially, under the heading of "The Laurier Meeting":

"The assurance that Mr. Laurier gave last evening that, if he be returned to power, he will not attack the dykes of Protection with dynamite, must bring comfort to the manufacturing and industrial classes as a whole. No matter how firmly a manufacturer may be convinced of the wisdom of Protection, he must—if he reads the signs of the times—admit that there is a possibility that Mr. Laurier and his friends may reach before long a position in which the tariff will be at their mercy. Should this occur, it becomes of great moment to him whether Mr. Laurier is an informed statesman or fanatical revolutionist. It is not "business" to ignore the unrest in the country, and the political possibilities that it embosoms. Those who would goad the Liberals into pledging themselves to a reckless onslaught upon the commercial basis of the Dominion are not the best and wisest friends of the most helpless industry in our midst. But Mr. Laurier has not been pestered into petulance. Speaking as to the method in which he would apply his proposed "reform" to the tariff, he said last night:

But, gentlemen, there is a way, and a way of reform. There is, I say, a way and a way of reforming, and as I told you a moment ago I am here speaking on behalf of the Liberal party. I told you that I, and also all my friends, were Liberals of the English school, and we were willing to go for precedents to the old land, which has passed through that ordeal before us. In 1846 Sir Robert Peel carried England over from protection to free trade, and he did it by a gradual process which avoided all disturbance of values and which avoided all financial crises. That is a precedent which, good for England, is good for Canada, and which ought to be still more sensible for Canada to adopt than it was for England, because the interests involved are not so great in Canada to-day as they were in England then, and the step was a much longer one than the step would be here. The step in England was all the way from protection to free trade, whereas we propose in Canada to go from protection to a revenue tariff.

Mr. Laurier could not have been more explicit. The blunder of the divided and hesitating American Democrats is before his eyes. They inflicted upon their unfortunate country a long period of suspense, and a sharp stroke of change. Under the Canadian system, there need be no suspense, for the new tariff goes into force on the day that it is announced; and Mr. Laurier has promised us that there will be "no sharp stroke of change," giving birth to panic and needlessly precipitating commercial disaster."

THE Montreal Star speaking of the visit of the Ontario statesmen to the great Laurier meeting in Montreal says: "Both Sir Oliver Mowat and Mr. Paterson, of Brant, who spoke for the Ontario delegation, were well received and were pleased with their reception. Sir Oliver is now the Premier of Canada, and speaks with a long clean record of success behind him. Mr. Paterson is one of the most popular of the Liberal Parliamentary party, and proved himself to be an estimable man to close a long night of political speaking. We like these Ontario public men down here, and they would be just as welcome if they would come oftener." The Star is a strong protectionist journal, politically, and is naturally a "fair trader" in journalism. If the Star is not careful the Opposition journals will read it out of the party as a mugwump and wobbler.

THE Empire remarks:—"That tariff for revenue only is mentioned but not explained by Mr. Laurier. He does not point out what classes of articles he would still subject to duties." Mr. Laurier, at Montreal, only laid down the broad principles upon which he would conduct tariff reform. The Empire should wait till Mr. Laurier's government brings down the tariff bill at the first session of parliament, after the general elections. It will be time enough then to go into details.

THE Empire is anxious to find the details of the tariff reform, referred to in Hon. Mr. Laurier's Montreal speech. If our contemporary would drop a line to its post-card column, perhaps the Leader of the Opposition would answer it.

A statement is made in a Toronto paper that the Rev. Mr. Madill, ex-president of the P. P. A. does not travel on a pass. Certainly not, he travels on a password.

SULLIVAN'S NEW OPERA

TUNEFUL MUSIC AND FUN FOUND IN "THE CHIEFTAIN."

An Amusing Piece Concocted Upon the Adventures of an English Tourist Who Is Captured by Some Spanish Brigands and Becomes Their Leader.

Brightness, lightness, tunefulness, and local color may be taken as the leading characteristics of the new comic opera at the Savoy theatre, London, by F. C. Burnand and Sir Arthur Sullivan, recently.

The plot may be thus briefly summarized: Peter Grigg goes for a photographic excursion in the Spanish mountains, where he is captured by a band of brigands, whose chieftain has disappeared. The law of these gentry is that if the chieftain does not return within a certain time, any stranger arriving in their midst on a given day is elected ipso facto chieftain, and becomes the affianced husband of the chieftainess. Under pressure of pointed guns, pistols and daggers, Mr. Grigg accepts the inevitable. He is at once established as the affianced husband of Inez de Roxas, the chieftain's deserted wife. The gang has captured, and holds prisoner pending ransom, Rita, a young English lady, to whom Count Vasquez is engaged, and for whose rescue he ventures disguised into the robbers' den. Having sent the ransom, he and Rita are released, leaving poor Grigg with the ladrones. The count then sending money for Grigg's ransom, the poor man is released on parole. Inez and the leading ladrones go disguised in search of their missing chieftain, Ferdinand, who is trying to quit Spain. To avoid recognition, Ferdinand assumes the disguise of a courier, in which capacity he falls in with and conducts Mrs. Grigg, who has come to search for her missing husband. The parties meet at Compostella, where Count Vasquez and Rita, his newly married wife, are also staying, on their honeymoon. The unhappy Grigg, unable to explain to his real spouse the reason of his absence, as that would necessitate his telling her of his affianced Spanish bride, gets his friends to help him get out of the difficulty. This they do by concocting a cock-and-bull story in which Grigg poses as a hero, and his wife is thereby satisfied. Unfortunately, Inez and the ladrones recognize their temporary chief, whom they blackmail under threat of exposure to his lawful spouse. The real chieftain is, of course, recognized, claimed by his wife, and welcomed by his lieutenants, who wish to share in the embezzled funds and new plunder. Mr. and Mrs. Grigg return to their suburban home and all ends merrily.

The play opens with a pretty set showing the brigands' rendezvous. Here enter the two lieutenants, Sancho and Jose. They begin quarreling and are stopped by the chieftainess, who suddenly appears and sings a charming song—"Let others seek the peaceful plain"—with very pretty chorus of "Vive la Reina." To make sure of the "ladrones' law" the gang consult Pedro Gomez, the lawyer and astrologer of the ladrones, who "expounds the law on the usual conditions" and explains how, why, and when the first stranger who comes into their midst is to be elected chieftain. After a pretty trio the bandits clear off and Rita comes on and sings a delightful song about "tinkling sheep bells," the while the Angelus is heard in tuneful tintinnabulation. Presently enters Count Vasques in the guise of a shepherd. After singing in a quintet with the bandits Count Vasquez and Rita join in a fine duet, during which Vasques doffs his disguise and appears in the uniform of a Spanish officer. Having gone off into captivity the tourist Grigg appears on snap shots bent. He explains his objects in an extremely funny song, "From Rock to Rock," and as he is taking a photograph is himself taken prisoner. This scene ends with a very comic trio and a Bolero dance.

The second act opens on a very pretty typical Spanish scene, representing the exterior of a posada, or inn, in a picturesque village on a wind... g stream, with rustic bridge in the rear, and charming landscape as a background. The Count enters and opens with a tuneful tenor song in mock sentimental style, with refrain of "Up in the Early Morning." After a pleasant chorus of gold washers, Marsquita sings a pretty number, "Gold from a Cave." This is followed by a charming song, "Two Happy Gods," with most effective harp accompaniment. The count and Rita then recall their first happy meeting at the Convent des Oiseaux, in Paris, where he, being Spanish and she English, they conversed in French, "so that none of the Parisian visitors could understand" them. Upon this they break out into what was undoubtedly the hit of the evening. This was a duet, "Ah, oui, j'etais une pensionnaire," sung in school-girl French, and in burlesque of grand opera.

As a whole, the opera is bright, tuneful, and gay. In the matter of dialogue and lyrics Mr. Burnand comes well out of the inevitable comparison with precious Gilbertian operas. As regards the music, though perhaps somewhat disappointing in the first act, in the second it is generally very good, and quite equal to Sir Arthur Sullivan at his best.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, acting through the blood, expels every germ of the disease, and in this way positively cures catarrh.

SIR CHARLES DILKE.

The English Statesman in a New and Interesting Role.

Sir Charles Dilke has just been astonishing the good people of Paris by his prowess with the foils, and for the first time has been fencing in public, that is to say, at the various fencing clubs, notably at the head-quarters of the National Fencing Society, to which all the leading masters of the art of tierce-et-quart belong. Although Sir Charles is now going on for his 54th year, says a writer in an eastern exchange, he showed an agility and alertness, and, above all, a suppleness that would have done honor to any young athlete of 20; and carried everything before him, defeating several of the most celebrated maitres d'armes, or professionals, who were simply staggered by the rapidity of his maneuvers, especially with his trick of changing his foil from hand to hand. For he is about the only man I know who can fence as well with his left as with his right hand. This is the result of long practice. For a quarter of a century scarcely a day has passed where the baronet has not devoted an hour to this branch of sport, and it is to this in particular that must be attributed the preservation of his physical and mental faculties. He is, likewise, a splendid oarsman and at home in the saddle, but has a profound and un-English contempt for cricket.

SIR CHARLES DILKE.

In view of the preservation of his powers, I do not despair of seeing him once more occupying a seat on the treasury bench in the house of commons as a minister of the crown, especially if Queen Victoria dies. For the Prince of Wales has all along manifested much sympathy for Sir Charles and has not hesitated to ride up and down the Row with him in Hyde Park of a morning. There is certainly no man in Europe who possesses so great an insight into political affairs, both at home and abroad, the enforced withdrawal into private life after his unfortunate imbroglio with Mrs. Crawford having led him to devote his entire attention and efforts to studying in every phase the great questions of the day, domestic and foreign.

Whatever else may be said of Prince Bismarck, there is certainly no keener judge of statesmen now living, and he makes no secret of his opinion that Sir Charles towers head and shoulders intellectually above his countrymen, nor is any Englishman a more welcome guest at Friedrichsruhe. Gambetta entertained the same opinion with regard to Sir Charles, and it need therefore astonish no one if the abilities which he certainly possesses in such an eminent degree are soon again used for the good of his country, whose people are becoming more disposed to forget and forgive the Crawford episode.

Result of a Neglected Cold.

DISEASED LUNGS

Which Doctors Failed to Help,

CURED BY TAKING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured."—A. LEFLAR, watchmaker, Orangeville, Ont.

Consulted a Doctor

GENIUS AND MADNESS.

Moliere was subject to convulsions.

Schopenhauer was always gloomy and pessimistic.

Ben Jonson and Nat Lee were almost slaves to alcohol.

Paganini, the violinist, often fell into a cataleptic state.

Schiller was a victim of fainting fits and convulsions.

George Eliot had frequent attacks of nervous prostration.

Chatterton was undoubtedly insane when he took his own life.

Shelley is said to have had visions in which he devoutly believed.

Both Kepler and Cuvier died of different forms of brain disease.

Johanna Southcote was a cataleptic of the same variety as Joan of Arc.

Ignatius Loyola had visions which he seems to have regarded as inspired.

The brilliant Southey finally sank into a state of mental stupor, in which he died.

Lord Clive's melancholy finally ended in madness, and he died by his own hand.

Socrates imagined that he had a familiar spirit or guardian angel that conversed with him.

WELL-KNOWN FOREIGNERS.

Alexander Dumas has been fined twice for keeping a vicious dog at his home in Paris.

M. Durnof, the aeronaut, who first opened communication between Paris and the outside world in 1870, is dying in a Paris hospital.

Multafa Bey, formerly private physician to the sultan of Morocco, is said to derive an income of $100,000 a year from his profession.

Countess Alesio, of Turin, Italy, who celebrated her one hundredth birthday recently, accompanied her husband through all the hardships of the Moscow campaign while she was a bride of eighteen.

The Archduke Rainer, of Austria, has a collection of 10,000 Egyptian papyrus documents dating back from B.C. 1200. The collection contains commercial letters, contracts, tax records, wills, tailors' bills, novels and even love letters.

Bismarck said to a correspondent who visited him at Varzin a couple of weeks ago: "I shall never enter public life of any kind again. I am out of the harness forever." As he is verging upon the age of fourscore this is not particularly surprising.

GOVERNMENT RAILROADS.

South Austria owns her own railway system.

The little country of Hesse owns two hundred and twenty-six miles of railroad.

The government of Portugal owns about half the railroads in the country.

The Netherlands own nearly one thousand miles of railroads, all in the best of condition.

There are six hundred and three miles of railway belonging to the Japanese government.

A large per cent of the railways of Italy are owned by the government and leased to corporations.

Victoria, Australia, owns all the railroads in the colony, two thousand three hundred and forty-one miles.

New South Wales owns two thousand one hundred and eighty-two miles of railway, and New Zealand in 1892 owned six hundred and seventy-two miles.

The Healing Art.

Doctor—And how are they to-day?

Fond Mother—Well, the little un's very bad, to be sure. But it don't seem to 'ave done the t'other un' no 'arm as yet!

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A COQUETTE'S WEAPON.

A FAN A DEADLY THING IN SOME WOMEN'S HANDS.

A Fragile Thing to Be So Powerful—Of Priceless Lace or Painted Gauze with Jewelled Sticks It Becomes a Treasure—The Empire Fan.

What a boon fans have been to novelists and artists! In books no less than in paintings have they played a conspicuous part. Heroines have hidden their faces behind them, coquetted with them, etc., and from many a painted canvas does some stately beauty look down upon us with her fan held loosely in her slender fingers. In olden days a fan was considered as indispensable as a handkerchief, and was always worn suspended from the waist by a silken string or a chain, or else from the wrist. Tortoise shell fans of absurdly small size were worn years ago attached to a chain at the wrist. This fashion has again been revived, sad to relate, for there is nothing graceful or pretty about it, and it is, on the contrary, decidedly grotesque, as the chain of tortoise shell is always far heavier than the fan.

Fans are once again assuming importance as a prominent detail of a woman's toilet. There was a time when fans—that is, handsome ones—were not considered absolutely necessary, but now every ball gown is supposed to have a fan to match it, and, as in the olden days, they are often veritable works of art. Expensive luxuries are many of them, for such rare materials are used in their composition. Connoisseurs in beautiful things have always had an admiration for these fanciful trifles, and there is more than one valuable collection of fans in this country and in Europe—fans which have most romantic histories connected with them; fans painted by artists of world wide fame; fans composed of almost priceless bits of lace, and fans with sticks in which are set jewels of great value.

In the Metropolitan Museum in New York is a very large and handsome collection, which is interesting in showing the different styles, no less than in the beauty of the fans themselves.

The fashionable fan this winter is certainly not pretty or graceful. It is what is called the Empire fan, and it is the exact counterpart of those carried at that period—indeed, some were undoubtedly made at that time. With an entire Empire costume—with every detail carefully carried out—perhaps they would look better, but used as they are this winter, with the very complex fashions of this year of grace, they exhibit a most unpleasing anachronism.

The Order of the Garter.

An evening journal, in a dissertation on the order of the Garter, states that it consists of thirty-five ordinary knights and thirty-five extra knights, which is quite wrong. There is no fixed number of extra knights, who are all royal personages, and there were only six of them when the Queen's reign commenced, whereas there are now twenty-three. During the last two financial years £1,320 has been paid by the public to the Dean and Chapter of Windsor and to the Garter officers in respect of fees and expenses in connection with the creation of three extra knights. In all other countries such payments are made by the new knights themselves, but here the taxpayers find the money, and last year the Lord Chamberlain received £2,800 to provide and repair insignia of the various orders of knighthood.

One Use for Wealth.

Lord Aberdeen is reported as telling the following story of himself: He left London at midnight in a sleeping car for the north. In the morning when he was awakened he saw a stranger opposite him.

"Excuse me," said the stranger; "may I ask if you are rich?"

Somewhat surprised, his lordship replied that he was tolerably well to do.

"May I ask," continued the stranger, "how rich you are?"

"Well, if it will do you any good to know," was the reply, "I suppose I have several hundred thousand pounds."

"Well," went on the stranger, "if I were as rich as you, and snored as loudly as you, I should take a whole car so as not to interrupt the sleep of others."—Youth's Companion.

A Reasonable Request.

Husband—My dear, I want to ask you one favor before you go off on that long visit.

Wife—A thousand, my love. What is it?

Husband—Don't try to put the house in order before you leave.

Wife—It isn't hard work.

Husband—Perhaps not; but I think of the expense of telegraphing you every week I want to find anything.

THE CHURCHES.

The Captists in Sweden number 36,291. They have 550 churches.

There are now in Madagascar 1,360 self-supporting Christian congregations.

Gen. William Booth, of the Salvation Army, is about 66 years of age, and is as active and vigorous as many men of 30.

The smallest church see in the world is that of St. Helena, the bishop of which has jurisdiction over three clergymen.

Miss Lucy M. Booth, a daughter of Gen. Booth, has been appointed commander of the Salvation Army in India, with her headquarters at Bombay.

Rev. J. A. Zahm in an article in the American Ecclesiastical Review locates the Garden of Eden in the land intervening between the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates and the Persian gulf.

Twenty-seven million francs has already been spent on the great church of the Sacred Heart at Montmartre, and the building is far from complete. The money has been raised entirely by voluntary contributions.

INDUSTRIAL FIGURES.

The number of idle cotton operatives in Fall River is placed at 23,220.

Almost five-eighths of the steamers in the world are under the British flag.

The Texas Live Stock Journal thinks there are 1,500,000 fewer cattle in that state than there were at this time two years ago.

Estimates by the director of the mint place the gold product of the world at $175,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 over the amount stated in the annual report.

During the past five years the production of tin in the Dutch East Indies and the Straits settlements has increased greatly. The shipments to Europe and America to the end of August, 1894, were 44,118 tons, as against 27,567 tons in 1890. The syndicate which is trying to corner the market will have to obtain control of this source of supply to succeed, as well as of the visible supply, which was over 20,000 tons in August and only 14,000 tons a year ago. Westminster Gazette.

TREES, FLOWERS AND PLANTS.

An orchardist in Pomoma, Cal., has in his nursery sixty varieties of olive trees.

Some of the great trees in Humboldt, Cal., are said by scientists to be nearly three thousand years old.

The thistle, shamrock and rose are the emblems of Scotland, Ireland and England, probably because of the prevalence of those plants in those countries.

About one-third of a crop depends upon the soil, one-third upon the seed, one-third upon care and cultivation, but each one of these must be at its best to get full advantage of the others. If either falls short more than its own proportion the crop is likely to fall short.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY.

Umbrellas made of varnished paper are coming into favor in France.

Durable artificial silk, which is both neat and dressy, is made of waste wool or cotton, by the aid of chemicals.

A pneumatic horse collar finds favor with many horsemen, and the animals themselves seem to appreciate it, as it adjusts itself to every motion of the neck.

Paper indestructible by fire has been invented by M. Meyer, of Paris. A specimen of it was subjected to a severe test—one hundred and forty-eight hours in a potter's furnace—and came out with its glaze almost perfect.

A Berlin Thief Gets Three Years.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Hurd, the electrician, late of Toronto, appeared before Judge LaCourse yesterday and was sentenced to three years in the Kingston penitentiary, for the larceny of $125 from a man named Pollock of Linwood, on New Year's Day. Hurd escaped at the time, but was caught at Detroit and brought back.

A Comfort Sometimes.

When health is far gone in Consumption then sometimes only ease and comfort can be secured from the use of Scott's Emulsion. What is much better is to take this medicine in time to save your health.

Beyond Dispute.

There is no better, safer or more pleasant cough remedy made than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It cures hoarseness, sore throat, coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

ITCHING PILES AND PIN WORMS.

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The private parts are a severe itching, which is worse at night when the heat from bedclothes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer mistakes the cause of the itching, thinking the private organs are affected with some form of skin disease, when in reality it arises from worms. Those who have worms, generally complain of terrible irritation and discomfort at the fundament, accompanied sometimes with slight protrusion. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly relieve itching, heal the sores and ulcers, due to the existence.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, but its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same bloodcurdling itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

The Price of Bread.

The advance in the price of bread has caused housekeepers to do their own baking during the cold weather, and everyone appreciates home-made bread when it is made from good flour. Mason & Co. have the finest bread flour which is being sold at the same price as common flour.

Local for daily EXAMINER, of Friday and Saturday, 25th and 26th of January, 1895.

James Sutherland respectfully intimates to the people of the town and country that he has opened the store, 434 George street, where he will keep a choice and select stock of groceries, fish, fruit and vegetables. He will be pleased to see all his old friends.

Lindsay All Over Again.

He is a young married man, and he dropped into this office Wednesday morning and called out :—"Got two locals for you." "Well, what are they?" "Mrs. —— will spend a few days with her parents at ——." This was his wife. "What's the other?" asked the editor. "Mr. —— is going to get drunk." This was himself, and he went on up town to get a running start on the holiday.—Warder.

Thanks From the Sisters.

Mr. H. LeBrun is in receipt of a letter conveying the most sincere thanks of the Sisters of St Joseph to himself and Mr. Ed. Brown for a barrel of flour sent to St. Joseph's Hospital last evening. Messrs. LeBrun and Brown, it will be remembered, skipped rinks last week for a trophy, consisting of a barrel of flour to be donated for charitable purposes Skip Brown was victorious in the match. Another contest will be held next week for a wager of bread for the town poor.

New Fruit and Grocery Store.

Mr. James Sutherland, for several years book-keeper in the EXAMINER office, has opened out a complete fruit, fish and select grocery store, at 434 George street, opposite the telegraph office. Mr. Sutherland is a well known citizen of the town, with good business ability and worthy of confidence for square dealing and ability to meet the public needs. He has laid in a fine well selected stock and is ready to serve the public. The EXAMINER wishes him every success and bespeaks for him a liberal share of the public patronage.

A Warning.

The post office department calls attention to a practice prevailing in certain parts of the country of printing upon the envelopes or wrappers enclosing printed matter, a request to have such matter returned to the sender in the event of its not being delivered within a certain number of days. This request is contrary to the regulations of the post office department, printed matter not being returnable to the sender. Such a request appearing on any wrapper or envelope enclosing printed communications, means that the documents will be promptly forwarded to the dead letter office.

An American Eagle.

A very large American eagle has taken up its quarters in Mr. Sinclair's woods, near Cambray. A small boy noticed the bird first in the top of a large tree and whistled and clapped his hands with a view to frighten it away. The eagle was not at all alarmed, but turning its head from one side to the other, uttered piercing shrieks of defiance and flapping his wings, drove terror into the heart of the boy, who hurriedly decamped. A sportsman, who was out after the bird, was saluted with "same never on this same mapper" and missed the bird, though he claims he scattered his feathers. All the boys are out with their guns but so far, without success.—Lindsay Watchman.

—The date of the Reform Convention for North Victoria has been changed from the the date first announced to Friday, Feb. 8th, at Coboconck.

—A meeting of cheesemen and farmers has been called by the Lindsay board of trade for Saturday, to consider the advisability of establishing a local cheese board there.

—Michael Heenan, the popular and obliging ball boy of the Oriental, is absent from his post to-day, having sprained his knee last night while tripping the light fantastic.

—The Central Farmers' Institute will meet in eighth annual session in Toronto on Feb. 5th, 6th and 7th. Delegates from both the East and West Riding Societies will attend from Peterborough.

—The town drinking fountain at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets was frozen up last night, but Mr. Sam English was working on it bright and early this morning and soon had it in good repair again.

—The annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association will take place in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, on Thursday and Friday next, Jan. 31st and Feb. 1st. The first session will open at 11 a. m. on Thursday.

—The Rugby Minstrels Company will hold a practice in Jackson & Co.'s piano warerooms to-night, at 7 o'clock, which naturally means 7 o'clock, not 7.30. Every member should be present if he does not wish to experience the sensation of something dropping.

—During the recent cold snap a number of our citizens experienced considerable loss, annoyance and discomfort by the freezing of their water pipes. It is said on excellent authority that this can be prevented by wrapping old newspapers about the pipes, or incasing them in card board coverings.

—The following is from an exchange :—Miss Violet Graves, of Teeterville, aged 11 years, invested 5 cents in pop corn on Christmas, 1893 ; she sold popped corn on Brantford market for 75c.; bought a hen for 25c., and feed for same, 12c.; sold eggs from same for $1.24, and hen for 15c.; bought seed potatoes for seed, 45c.; Paris green, 3c.; plaster 5c.; cultivating, 25c.; digging, 25c.; rent of land, 50c. Then sold potatoes for $12, showing a gain of $12.17 on a 5 cent capital from Christmas, 1893, to Christmas, 1894.

CATHOLIC LITERARY ASSOCIATION ASSEMBLY.

A Merry Evening Spent in the C. O. F. Hunter Street Hall.

The spacious rooms of the Catholic Order of Foresters, on Hunter street, were the scene of the first social of the Catholic Literary Association. The ball room presented a charming appearance, the profuse decorations of smilax, festoon and flags producing a beautiful effect, for which great credit is due to the artistic taste of Mr. J. J. Turner, of town. Dancing commenced at 9 o'clock to the strains Butcher's excellent orchestra and was kept up with undiminished vigor till the "wee sma' hours." The enjoyment was thorough, to judge by appearances, and there was nothing to mar the pleasures of the evening. Provision had been made for the older people to have their fun, small card tables having been provided in adjoining room, which thoughtfulness was thoroughly appreciated, as was shown by the number who availed themselves of the opportunity to enjoy a game of cards. The inner man was carefully attended to by mine host Potvin, who served a nice little supper to any who wished to partake of the good things placed temptingly on his buffet. At about two o'clock, nature or perhaps rather Morpheus began to assert his right and everybody went away delighted with the evening's genuine enjoyment. The committee in charge of the arrangements have every reason to be proud of the unqualified success of their first social, which is hoped by all, who were present, will be only the precursor of several more during this winter.

REV. MR. SYMOND'S LECTURE.

For the Benefit of the Mechanics' Institute, Lakefield.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was but a small attendance at the town hall on the evening of Tuesday, the 22nd, to hear the lecture that the Rev. H. Symond's kindly undertook to deliver for the Mechanics' Institute, in aid of the Library Fund. The audience, however, was thoroughly appreciative, as well it might be, for few abler lectures have been heard anywhere.

Many incidents in the life of Dickens, the great novelist, not generally known were mentioned by Mr. Symonds, who also pointed out in a very forcible manner, illustrating his remarks by carefully selected readings, the author's humour, pathos and extraordinary powers of depicting characters, events, scenes and circumstances, so as to make them living realities to his readers. Nor was the moral purpose that Dickens had in view in most of his works, lost sight of by the lecturer, who, in fact, pointed out that this, even more than the faithful, though curious, pictures of common life in England, is the secret of the great hold that Dickens has on an English-speaking public.

The lecture was followed by a short musical programme, the leading feature of which was a song by Miss Hendren, who has a beautiful and well-balanced voice. Little Miss Doidge also sang very prettily.

PERSONAL.

CURLIANA.

Owing to circumstances the local primaries for the Ontario Tankard have not been started as early this year as formerly but the umpires in the different groups are instructed to make the draws ; so that, with good ice, the champion rinks will all be determined by Feb. 11, which is the last day set for receiving the group returns.

Where Toronto clubs are drawn against outsiders the city rinks must play away from home. Chatham has already come out on top in group 12 and the other 13 outside groups will soon be in the midst of the fight.

On Wednesday a couple of Peterborough rinks played at Prospect Park, with the following result :

The annual meeting of the Victoria Curling Club, (limited), of Lindsay, was held on Monday evening last, at the rink. The president, Mr. Wm. Needler, presided. The directors' statement shewed the receipts to have been $3,261.85, and the expenditures $3,217.52, leaving a balance on hand of $44.33. The capital stock of the club is $3,000, divided into 300 shares of $10 each, and only 38 shares remain untaken. The directors calculate upon at least 75 paying members each year, which, at $5 each, will produce a revenue of $450 ; cost of running the rink, $300 yearly, leaving a balance of $150, which will pay a dividend of 5 per cent. upon the capital stock. The report was adopted. The following were elected directors for the current year :—Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, Wm. Needler, James Keith, J. M. Knowlson and W. McClennan. The directors subsequently elected the following officers: —Wm. Needler, president ; G.H. Hopkins, sec.-treas. ; M. W. Kennedy and G. A. Little, auditors.

HOCKEY.

The Y. M. C. A. hockey team of Belleville has defeated the Ontarios of Port Hope by a score of three goals to two. This is the first defeat the Port Hopers have experienced this year.

The first match in the town league series was played at the rink, last night, between the first and second teams of the Collegiate Institute, resulting in a victory for the former by eight to five goals. The match was of great interest to the Institute pupils, who thronged the sides of the rink. For the first team, Crossley, the captain, played a brilliant game, as did Poussette at cover point, whose quick decisive rushes were loudly applauded. For the second team, R. Watt, W. Ackerman and M. Hamilton did well and W. VanEvery made some very difficult stops in goal. The teams lined up as follows :

J Hamilton	Goal	W VanEvery
S White	Point	O Bradburn
C Poussette	Cover Point	H King
H Lewis	Forwards	N Lewis
B Bellegham		R Watt
W Crossley		W Ackerman
W Davidson		M Hamilton
E Moore	Umpire	M McGill

Referee—Lionel King.

The next match in the series will be played on Monday afternoon next, when Peterborough II meet the first team of the Volts.

The staff of the Ontario bank had decided to hold its eagerly anticipated match to-night with the bachelors from "the Perch," and the puck will be faced at ten o'clock sharp. The two teams will be picked as follows :

Ontario Bank.		"The Perch."
H J Grasett	goal	Wonham
W J Montgomery	point	Parsons
Thompson	cover	Lefevere
V McGill	forwards	Hudson
Hamilton		Strickland
J Crane		Tayler
W D Parker (capt)		Benedict (capt)

Mr. H. B. Dunsford will referee the match, which will be one worth witnessing.

The Peterborough and Volts play their second game in the O. H. A. series at the rink, to-morrow evening, at 7.30 o'clock.

BILLIARDS.

Last night at the Detroit Athletic Club, John Sweeney, the clever billiard player of Detroit, fell before the prowess of George Sutton, formerly of Peterborough, in a four hundred point eight-inch balk line game. It was Sutton's first attempt at this style of game. The Canadian champion won by 400 to 152. The average of the winner was 16.

Sutton won the bank and missed on a kiss. Sweeney scored by a single. Sutton next rolled off ten, the cushions yet being chilled. In the fourth shot he began a little better work, playing carefully, and leaving them hard. His twelfth innings was a magnificent bit of balk line nursing, fully as fine as done by Ives here a week ago. He ran 144, the last dozen being open shooting. Sutton did some clever masse work, but his around-the-table shooting was inferior. Sweeney was in very poor form, falling greatly below his usual work. His draws, his best work ordinarily, were bad, and his judgment of distance poor. George Hersch, of Chicago, was here, and refereed the game. There is talk of a match between he and Sutton. The Canadian champion has declared his intention of playing in the Chicago short-stop tourney. The score :—

Sutton—0, 10, 1, 29, 51, 0, 31, 10, 14, 0, 1, 141, 0, 0, 14, 28, 13, 1, 0, 0, 1, 3, 1, 1, 1, 9. Total 400. High runs, 144, 51, 28. Average, 16.

Sweeney—1, 0, 1, 3, 11, 8, 5, 3, 0, 7, 17, 0, 1, 2 7, 0, 3, 15, 6, 33, 0, 14, 12, 3. Total, 152. High runs, 33, 17, 15. Average 6¼.

DRAINING CAVAN SWAMP.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Considerable interest is being manifested of late with regard to the proposal to drain the Cavan swamp.

Certain interested parties have invited us to look over the ground and into the matter from an engineering standpoint, and express an opinion. Having done this, we trust that you will kindly make this letter public through the columns of your valuable paper, that all interested may fare alike.

The total cost of the work would be, approximately, $9,000 to improve roughly 3,000 acres, or $3 per acre. The present value of the land is about $5 per acre, and it is considered by those who profess to know, that its value would be increased to $20 per acre, at least, by proper drainage—an increase of $15 per acre. It then resolves itself into this: Invest $3 per acre to increase the value of the land $15, a clear gain of $12 per acre. Manifestly a good investment. Each property holder can find the total probable advantage the drainage work would be to himself by multiplying the number of acres of swamp land he owns by $12.

In addition to above, drainage would facilitate the removal of wood from the swamp, enable roads to be built across it, and thus save distance in travel to and from town, etc.

With regard to the precise means of obtaining the drainage of the Cavan swamp, there is a diversity of opinion. It has been proposed to excavate a drain from one end to the other of sufficient dimensions to convey the water to a safe outlet in a creek (that eventually reaches the Otonabee River in the town of Peterborough), at a probable cost of $9,000. However, after having carefully considered the matter we venture to express an opinion that a more effectual and economical means (both as regards first cost and maintenance) of accomplishing the same result would be found in improving the existing sluggish creek through the centre of the swamp, by deepening and enlarging it, particularly at the lower end, straightening any short bends, removing accumulated flood wood, banks, etc.

Yours truly,
RANNEY & INNES,
Civil Engineers and Surveyors.

BOTH WELL KNOWN IN PETERBOROUGH.

Two Well Known Lindsay Curlers Pass Away Within a Week

The Lindsay Watchman speaks in the following terms of two gentlemen, residents of that town, who have passed over to the great majority during the past week. Both had many friends in Peterborough who will learn of their decease with sorrow:

"It is our sad duty this week to have to chronicle the death of two of the oldest and best known members of the club, viz., Messs. John McMillan and John Matthie. The history of the curling lives of these two men would be almost the history of curling in Lindsay. Mr. Matthie was one of those who in the fall of 1876 met and organized the Lindsay curling club. Mr. Wm. Needler and Mr. G. H. Bertram are the only active curlers left of the first members of our club. Mr. John McMillan joined the club in the fall of 1877 and from that time on these two men were most active in the club's affairs, taking part in many of the most important home and foreign matches.

"Mr. John Matthie was one of the famous rinks which played with much success at the Montreal bonspiel, and until the season of '92 he was an active member of the club, playing every year in nearly all the important foreign matches. Mr. McMillan was elected skip in 1881 for the first time, and almost every season since he has been regularly chosen for the same position. He also played in quite a large number of foreign games and always gave a good account of himself. His fellow-curlers recognized his zeal and earnestness in the club's affairs by electing him Vice-President in 1883, and President in 1884.

"These men were known to hosts of curlers of this district outside of Lindsay, and were always heartily greeted by brother curlers wherever they met them. On the ice they were keen, active, skilful players, both withal generous and warm-hearted opponents. Both always worked hard for the success and advancement of Lindsay's curling club, and by their death, the club loses two royal and faithful members, whose places it will be difficult to fill.

AFFAIRS OF THE HEART.

For every widower who marries a widow, there are eleven who espouse maidens.

Of the total population of the Dominion little more than one-third are married.

In Siam the first wife may be divorced but cannot be sold. The other wives may be both divorced and sold.

Marriage is growing popular again in England. The register for the first quarter of 1894 exceeds the first quarter of any year since 1883.

A tribute to a considerate wife was expressed in the will of a physician who recently died in Glasgow. She had deserted him three months after marriage. In his will, made seventeen years later, he left his entire fortune to her, because she had "permitted him to enjoy a peaceful and quiet life."

Three years ago a tiff separated Miss Cora Spire and Mr. Joseph Buchholtz, who were engaged to be married. Two weeks ago they accidentally met in a carriage, while attending a funeral at Sharon, Pa. They were returning from the funeral, when they were married in the carriage by Rev. W. M. Tinke.

A fortune-teller in Brooklyn had among her patrons, recently, a servant girl who was anxious to peer into the future. She listened to most pleasant predictions, and was then told that for twenty-five cents extra she could see a photograph of her future husband. She paid the sum asked, and was shown a picture of Edwin Booth.

HARVEY.

Council Meeting.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The members elect for 1895 met at the town hall, January 21st, having made and filed their several declarations of qualification and office, took their seats at the council board and proceeded to business. After routine communications and accounts were read from R. Ventress for drugs and disinfectants for the premises of diphtheria patients; tenders Times Printing Co. read; tenders for assessorship read; tenders for boarding John Lancefield an indigent, read; letters read from Stratton & Hall, Jas. Dickson and A. Niven, re rectifying site of road allowance between lots 19 and 20, con. 19, Harvey. A bylaw passed, re-appointing the clerk, treasurer, assessor and collector for 1895; a bylaw was passed re-appointing W. P. Chase and John Elliott as auditors for 1895; a bylaw was passed appointing health officers, viz., Robt. Shaw, Esq., reeve, Jas. S. Cairnduff, clerk ex officio, Robt. Renwick, Wm. Walroth and Thos. Kingsborough. The clerk was instructed to notify the country treasurer to remove from his books the arrears of taxes charged against lot 19, con. 9, Harvey. The appointment of a medical health officer was laid over to the next meeting of the council. The time was extended for the removal of timber purchased on road allowances to the parties who bought the same, until further notice. The following account passed and orders drawn for payment, viz., Wm. J. McIlmoyle, deputy-returning officer, poll No. 3, $8; Jas. Coons, deputy-returning officer, poll No. 1, $5; H. A. Cairnduff, deputy-returning officer, poll No. 2, $8; Wilbert Elliott, caretaker town hall 1894, $6; John Kreger, balance for boarding Lancefield, $40; John Kreger, for repairing crossway, $1; John S. Genge, removing three trees off road $0.50; Wm. Weir, salary as treasurer, 1894, $45; Robinson Ventress, drugs and disinfectants for diphtheria patients in three families, $25.05.

The council adjourned to meet at the clerk's office February 11th, to receive and dispose of the auditor's report.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the East Durham Agricultural Society was held in town hall, Millbrook, on Wednesday, the 16th inst. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary and formally passed.

The Treasurer read his annual report, showing the financial standing of the society as follows:—

Total receipts for the year.....$1414 14
" disbursements for the year..... 1400 27
Leaving a balance on the Treasurer's hands of $4.87, and no liabilities.

The Treasurer's report being signed by the Auditors was, on motion, adopted.

The Secretary read a communication from the Minister of Agriculture, Toronto, formally nominating Mr. R. Vance, of Ida, and Mr. W. J. Westington, of Plainville, as eligible to represent Division No. 5 in the council of Agriculture and Arts for Ontario.

Moved by Mr. Jos. Thorndyke, seconded by S. Staples, that this meeting elect Mr. R. Vance to the Council of Agriculture and Arts, which was carried by a unanimous vote.

On motion the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Capt. C. H. Winslow, Millbrook.

1st Vice-President—J. W. Martin, Canton.

2nd Vice-President—Isaac Preston, Bethany.

Directors—James Caldwell, Perrytown; J. W. Walker, Welcome; H. Henders, Yelverton; J. Vance, Bethany; S. E. Ferguson, Ida; R. Vance, Ida; Jos. Thorndyke, Millbrook; George Berry, South Monaghan; H. Staples, Cavan.

Moved by Jos. Thorndyke, seconded by S. E. Ferguson, that C. H. Winslow, H. E. Sharp and J. W. Martin be appointed delegates to attend the meeting of the Canadian Association of Fairs and Exhibitions to be held in Toronto, on the 28th of February, next.—Carried.

On motion of Messrs. W. T. Wood and A. Leach were appointed auditors.

The meeting then adjourned, after which the new board met and appointed Mr. W. Vance secretary-treasurer for the ensuing year.

SALMON SLAUGHTERED.

ENORMOUS CATCHES MADE IN THE HUDSON STRAITS.

Where Some of the Finest Fish in the World Are Taken by the Thousands—The Peculiar Method Employed by Which Tons of Fish are Taken.

"If to see how the magnificent salmon of the Pacific Coast are caught almost takes the heart out of the man who loves to cast the fly for these lordly fish, he would lose it entirely if he venture to Ungava bay, and see how they capture salmon there," said a former agent of the Hudson Bay Company.

"It was only a few years ago that the possibilities of the south coast of Ungava bay and Hudson straits in the way of salmon and lake trout fishing were discovered, and to say that they are now being worked for all they are worth is putting it mildly. The salmon of that high latitude are undoubtedly the finest in the world. They are further north than any other salmon taken on this continent, and the lower the temperature of the water the better the salmon are. The Restigouche, or any of the salmon of the St. Lawrence basin, are far superior to the Oregon salmon, and the Hudson Straits salmon are just as much superior to the Restigouche fish. Besides the salmon the waters of the Hudson Strait coast teem with a deep-sea trout which has not its like on the face of the globe.

"But the method adequate for catching these fish is just as peculiar as the fish themselves are, and it is doubtful if salmon or trout fishing is done in the same way elsewhere. The coast of Hudson straits is indented by thousands of small bays and estuaries, and many rivers traverse it to the bay. At low tide there is little water in any of these inlets, but at high tide the water rushes up into them for long distances. The tides rise twenty-five and even fifty feet. At high tide, in the salmon and trout running seasons, these fish follow with the water into the bays and rivers as fast as the tide goes, and swarm back with it when it ebbs. I have seen the smaller rivers, streams, or rather stream beds, one hundred feet wide, actually choked from shore to shore with the biggest salmon a man ever saw struggling upward with the tide.

"It is not more than eight or nine years ago, that the first attempt was made to establish fisheries there on a large scale. Drawing seines was impossible, and the fish wheels of Oregon were impracticable. So a simple but exceedingly effective trap was introduced. It was not original with the salmon fishermen, the idea being borrowed from the porpoise fishermen of Hudson bay. Immense nets were made from the largest and strongest twine, and of length and depth to suit the inlet to be fished. At low tide the nets are set at the mouths of the bays or inlets, and the top of the net is hauled to the bottom so as to offer no obstruction to the water or fish as they pass upward with the rising tide. Just before the tide turns the line holding the floater side of the net to the anchored side is drawn out. The buoys instantly rise to the surface and the trap is set. When the tide comes back men are stationed above the nets some distance, and with poles and brush beat the water and make noises of various kinds. This is to keep the great body of fish from pressing upon the net at once, and as the fish are exceedingly timid they rush back up stream by the thousand, and will actually be left on the dry land by the receding tide, so panic stricken do they become at the noise made by the men. When the tide has gone out, the dry beds of the inlets will be piled with tons upon tons of salmon or trout. Not salmon and trout, for both kinds are never found in the same inlet. In one the trap may secure fifty or one hundred tons of salmon at a run, while the next estuary below the catch will be trout. I have seen ten thousand salmon taken at one haul.

"I have seen the marvelous salmon runs of the Oregon rivers, but they are no comparison to the tremendous rushes of those Hudson straits fish. It may be that if the latter had big fresh water rivers to explore they would not be massed so thickly along the coast, but the channels they seek are not sufficient to let them all in. If the salmon supply of the world elsewhere should ever become exhausted, it can be replaced easily by the fish of those great northern waters. A thousand big vessels could take on cargoes of salmon and trout there every season without visibly lessening the supply."

An Aged Boundary Dispute.

One of the oldest boundary disputes in this country is that between New Jersey and Delaware over the jurisdiction of the Delaware river opposite New Castle and for some distance above and below. New Jersey insists that her jurisdiction extends to the middle of the river there as elsewhere, while Delaware claims jurisdiction at that point clear across to the New Jersey shore. Charles II. granted to his brother James, Duke of York, about the year 1683, a portion of the Delaware peninsula. The grant specially gave James a circular piece of land twelve miles about New Castle, all islands falling within the circle, and seemingly from the language the bed of the stream. James gave the land to William Penn, and this land afterward became the State of Delaware. It is upon the language of this grant that Delaware claims jurisdiction over the whole river opposite New Castle. The matter was once brought before commissioners from the two states.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

No Tricks

There are two ways of keeping store. One is to cut up antics; water or smoke the cottons; coax trade with damaged goods or bankrupt stocks. The other way is to do legitimate business. Legitimate business, we belive, is to buy and sell for cash entirely new goods at bargain prices, and to save you every possible dollar.

Old or poor goods are unknown here. Uniform methods! No tricks! Not a ghost of a trick with our consent or knowledge.

The newspapers are just now filling up with SCREAMING bargains from the big Toronto fire. Ough! If the weather was not so cold we might start a little bonfire in our back yard, scorch a web or two of cotton and have a big sale of damaged goods—if we did business in that way. But we don't. Tricks like these won't pay. Values such as we have stimulate trade well enough for us, and each day finds plenty of business here because of such values we have in

—Linens and Cottons
—Ladies' Underwear
—42-inch Fancy Tweed Effects
—42-inch Fine Dress Serge
—Lace Curtains
—Dress Goods
—Tam O'Shanters
—Children's Hoods
—Children's Hosiery
—Gloves and Hosiery
—Housefurnishings

We shall be pleased to show you genuine bargains. But see the goods—that's the main thing. Investigate qualities and compare values.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

PEOPLE'S KITCHENS

A Problem That Has Been Successfully Solved in Vienna.

Twenty-five years ago great distress among the working people of Vienna led Dr. Josef Kuhn to investigate the terms on which meals were supplied to them. He found they were charged twice as much as the real cost of their food. He therefore started, in 1872, the People's Kitchen Association, to provide the working classes with nutritive, palatable food at prices they could pay. He and four friends subscribed 500 florins each, and with this capital started a restaurant in a factory district, where good dinners could be had for threepence. The movement spread. There are in Vienna now eight People's Kitchens under this and five under allied associations. An average of 20,000 people are fed by these kitchens every day.

Dr. Kuhn's orginization is a happy combination of honorary or volunteer agency of paid service. Its members are subscribers and number some 400. "The management of the affairs of the association is vested in an Executive Committee, which is chosen at a general meeting of the members. This committee consists of a president, two vice presidents, a treasurer, an auditor, two secretaries, two professional advisers (an architect and a doctor), the local directors, the lady superintendents of the eight kitchens belonging to the association. These are all honorary officials, but attached to the committee are three —a general secretary, a bookkeeper and a kitchen inspector—who are paid. The members of the executive occupy the position of the directors of a public company, and are responsible for the entire working of the kitchens."

The kitchens are open from 6 to 8 for breakfast, from 11 to 11.45 for school children's dinners from 12 to 2 for dinners, and from 6 to 9 for supper. An average breakfast (soup or tea, roll and brown bread) costs 3 cents; an average dinner, 7 cents, with a menu never twice the same in one week, giving choice of three items out of "groat soup, pease, beef with pease, venison with macaroni, raisin puddings," and so on; an average supper, four cents. "Each dish is perfect in its way, carefully prepared, and delicately seasoned. All the ingredients are of the best quality; and they are cooked by highly trained professionals, who rank, in point of skill, with those employed in the clubs epicures frequent."

The school children are received on special terms, and have a menu of their own. They come trooping in with their tickets. "All there are on terms of equality, for brass tickets tell no tales. Those the charitable give to teachers for the children of the poor are just as bright as those wealthier parents buy for their own sons and daughters. The little ones themselves do not know who pays for their dinners. Thus in Vienna a solution has already been found for the problem which is so sorely perplexing our School Boards.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

POULTRY RAISING.

One thing that tends to make low prices from this time on is that a good per cent. of the poultry sent to market lacks much of being in condition, and this, with the quantity, helps to lower prices.

All roosts should be level or parallel with each other. Where a series of roosts is so arranged that the rear roosts are higher than those in front, the hens will always crowd up into the higher places.

Wheat bran should always be scalded before feeding, as it is not relished otherwise. For fattening chicks for market cornmeal that has been scalded will often induce them to eat more and to fatten more rapidly.

When the young poultry are confined in small runs it will be best to change every few days to fresh ground in order to avoid filth. Not only will the chickens enjoy the change, but better health will be maintained.

As soon as the hens begin to moult there is always a liability that they will begin to pluck feathers from one another, and as soon as one hen learns it she teaches it to another. The only sure cure is to kill the hen, and the sooner it is done the better.

Henri Brisson.

M. Henri Brisson, who has just been elected president of the French chamber of deputies, has presided over that body twice before—in 1879 and 1881. His present election marks one more step taken towards radicalism and socialism by the representatives of the French people. Still, it is somewhat inaccurate to call M. Brisson a radical, and even a revolutionist, when he was a writer on the "Avenir" and a friend of Gambetta, Ferry and other students who, in 1855-58, took luncheon in the Rue Jacob, and frequented at night the apartments of Jules Simon, Pelletan, Hyppolite, Carnot and other enemies of the empire. But since that time Brisson has become more sedate, and he represents a political shade or "nuance" between radicalism and opportunism, or blind and obstinate conservatism. He is described by the New York Tribune as a doctrinaire and has often been the target of jokes and caricatures on account of his Calvanist origin and puritan manners. This has prevented him from becoming popular, and from exercising the political influence which was due to his real liberalism, his great intellect, and especially his never-suspected honesty. M. Brisson is not a man to advise and apply any measures outside of the legal and ordinary ones, and is capable of carrying out practically the progressive ideas which he advocates. He is a prominent advocate of the Peace League; and when he was prime minister in 1885 he supported the aggressive colonial policy against Madagascar and Tonquin. M. Brisson will preside over the chamber with suitable dignity and impartiality, but he will lack the personal prestige which increases the influence of a speaker and assists him in maintaining the decorum necessary to debate in a parliament.

New Use for Aluminum.

The adoption by the Prussian Government of boots with aluminum pegs or nails for the use of their infantry suggests a number of new uses for this metal. An enterprising manufacturer of shoes is to have his goods sewed with aluminum threads or fine wire. It is extremely durable, much lighter than any other equally strong material and will neither corrode nor lose its strength from dampness. Another use for aluminum is for the tops of umbrella ribs and the wire and wheel by which they are held in place. It is a well understood fact that many umbrellas are spoiled by the rusting and breaking of the wire that holds the ribs. The adoption of a noncorrosive metal will add greatly to the durability of these articles.—New York Ledger.

According to the examination just made by order of the Greek patriarch, the Byzantine edifices of Constantinople have not suffered severely by the earthquake.

As fasters the sect of Jains, in India, is far ahead of all rivals. Fasts of from thirty to forty days are very common, and once a year they are said to abstain from food for seventy-five days.

Nearly every Japanese paper has a "prison editor." For infraction of the publication laws somebody must go to jail, and so the prison editor's chief duty is to expiate the newspaper's offense by languishing in a cell.

On a territory about the area of Montana Japan supports forty million people in comparative comfort. Reckoning our own area at twenty-four times that of Japan, this country at that rate would support nine hundred and sixty million people.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Europe has only about eight per cent. of the Sunday school attendance of the world.

The Sunday school membership of Germany has increased over eighty per cent. in the last twenty years.

There are 22,000,000 persons, teachers and scholars, enrolled in the Protestant Sunday schools of the world.

There are 25,099 Sunday schools, 81,950 teachers, and 1,635 scholars in the different continental nations of Europe.

In 1874 there were in Germany 1,918 Protestant Sunday schools, with 86,418 teachers and scholars, in 1893 there were 5,900 schools and 784,769 teachers and scholars.

ABOUT ANGEL'S WINGS.

HORIZONTALLY FLYING CHERUBS IN CONFLICT WITH SCIENCE.

Where Painters Are Usually Mistaken—The Laws of Gravity Ignored — Would Need a Different Arrangement to Maintain the Traditional Attitude.

Did you ever notice a flying angel? I do not mean the animated article, but the winged and robed creatures you see occasionally in frescoes and friezes. If so you have doubtless marked the horizontal and unearthly position of the body. The hands are gracefully disposed along the sides, just as if flying were no particular effort, and the feet are trailed straight behind, though no man has ever found out just what holds them there.

It has been so since the time of Michael Angelo and Raphael. Those old masters were probably among the first offenders against physical possibilities. They frescoed the walls and ceilings of ancient cathedrals with ethereal beings with enormous wings sprouting from their shoulder blades and their feet trailing straight out behind.

Since then every artistic Tom, Dick and Harry in the world has followed the impossible lines laid down by the old painters, and although science has been developed and human ideas have changed greatly since Athens was in its prime, the absurd form of the ideal angel has not changed a particle.

Anybody can see by a glance at the pictures that this position in flight is an impossibility. Possibly at a speed of a mile a second and with the wings beating at the rate of a hundred thousand times a minute the position might be maintained. The point of support is the shoulder blades. The centre of gravity is nowhere, apparently.

It may be possible that painters desire to represent an angel doing something that a human being would find impossible to do. At any rate, they have done so. With the wings fastened at the shoulder blades the natural position of the body would be entirely different.

With the wings at the shoulder blades the centre of gravity would extend directly downward from the points of support. It is not very graceful, but it is true to science and the law of gravitation. It will be a long time, however, before painters consent to paint angels in other than impossible positions.

Everybody remembers how reluctant artists were to accept the positions of running horses developed by the camera.

They were so absurd that it was with difficulty that the negatives could be believed. Were it possible to get snap shots at flying angels a similar revolution of art might be brought about.

In order to carry the body in a horizontal position the wings of an angel should be placed in the small of the back and the vertebrae stiffened with a board. Then, perhaps, there would be some sort of an agreement between art and physical possibility.

Some Expensive Postage Stamps.

The philatelic world has been fluttered by a recent important event, for it is announced that the vice president of the London Philatelic Society has sold all his stamps. The affair certainly becomes interesting when we learn the price commanded by the few little bits of paper. A firm which deals in these light and airy trifles secured the vice president's entire collection, and gave no less than $50,000 for it. This, we understand, is the largest price ever paid for a collection of stamps, though it is said that the treasures in this sort recently bequeathed by a member of parliament to the British Museum would have fetched a higher figure if put up at public auction. A London establishment is just now advertising a single stamp valued at $12,500, but whether any intending purchaser will be found willing to receive it in exchange for that sum remains to be seen. The Duke of York, already known as a keen connoisseur, is said to be anxious to purchase this great stamp. Experts declare that there is no better investment for money nowadays than stamps. If that be so they will become an object of fascination to many who at present take little delight in them.—Black and White.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but, stop, I miss,
They gave us every one a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

FOOTBALL DISCUSSED FROM AN UNENTHUSIASTIC STANDPOINT.

A Modern Game That Has One Point of Contact With Baseball—The Qualities That Make a Man Eligible to Become a Football Player.

Modern football is in one respect like baseball, in that it affords abundant facilities to kick on the umpire, but otherwise it isn't like anything else on earth. The young men who participate in the game are selected with great care, nobody being eligible who cannot withstand the kick of a mule between the eyes or in the pit of the stomach. Other requirements are a luxuriant growth of hair, any color, and muscular tissue sufficient to meet a freight train on the down grade and knock it off the track. The football is an oval, leather-enclosed chunk of atmosphere, the possession of which seems to be a subject of continual contention.

Two corpulent youths, called the centre rushes, take the ball between them, each being in a stooping posture, heads together and legs very wide apart. The teams bunch up in the rear of their respective rushes, one of whom, at a given signal from his captain, snaps the ball back between his legs. A secret code of signals, called off by the captain, conveys the information, not only when the ball is to be snapped, but also which player is to take it and attempt to get around or break through the line of the opposition. The trouble begins in the centre of the field, between the goals, which are 330 feet apart. The referee sounds his whistle, the captain whose team has the ball calls off his jargon of numbers and a riot is forthwith inaugurated.

The unfortunate youth who has been selected to carry the ball makes a break at the line of the enemy and it at once pounced upon by the other twenty-one men and the referee, all of whom fall down on him and kill or cripple him if possible. Then the referee, who is provided with a cane for self-defense, pokes around among the wriggling arms and legs, ascertains who has the ball and announces in a fine tenor voice so many yards lost or gained. The fellow who is on the bottom of the pile is brought around with artificial respiration, the team line up and the good work goes on. A broken leg or fractured skull entitles a player to withdraw in favor of a substitute. Occasionally a dispute arises over some technical point, whereupon the partisans of the respective sides flock around the disputants and howl for a rope to lynch the referee. It is entirely immaterial which way he decides. There is always throughout the game a manifest disposition to kill him and every man's hand is against him.

The life of a football referee is not a happy one; it is considered a great joke to accidentally fall on him and shove a No. 9 hobnailed shoe down his throat.

There are a great many fine points about football. One of them is to pick out for slaughter the best players of the opposition. The methods of doing this are varied and unique. The point of an elbow, applied to the pit of a man's stomach when he is running at full speed has been found to be very effective. But it is useless to enumerate further; the foregoing hint is sufficient. A touchdown is made when one side succeeds in carrying the ball behind its goal. This counts four points. After the touchdown the ball is carried out a certain distance into the field and the royal arch kicker of the team attempts to send it over the goal bar. If he succeeds two additional points are secured.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

MEDICAL SCIENCE.

A burning gasjet is unhealthy in a bedchamber, because one gaslight gives out as much carbonic gas as two sleepers.

Sir Andrew Clark, general physician in the largest London hospital, says that seven out of every ten persons taken to the building owe their ill health to drink.

Dr. Roux, of the Pasteur institute, claims to have found a cure for croup. It consists in the injection of serum from the blood of a horse that has been inoculated with the cultivated microbes of croup.

Dr. Goriansky, a Russian physician, claims to have found that the juice of raw cranberries given freely, pure or diluted with an equal part of water, is an excellent means of relieving thirst and vomiting in Asiatic cholera.

Here's a Good Example.

In Manchester, England, the town council is about to put $1,250,000 into clearing the slums. An overcrowded and unhealthy space of five acres in the centre of the city will be taken, the buildings torn down and new model workmen's dwellings erected in their stead, with large areas for playgrounds, and trees and flowers planted in the open spaces.

The Raw, Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nervoline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether internal or external. 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

Tuberculosis in New York State.

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 25.—The state commission on tuberculosis in cattle made its annual report to the state legislature yesterday. During the year the commissioners have visited 21 counties and examined 2,417 cattle, of which they condemned and ordered to be slaughtered 405. The commission recommends a policy of rigorous inspection, first directed in the distribution centres and milk supplies of municipalities and dairies supplying milk to cheese factories and creameries, after which examination should extend to more remote districts.

A Highly Respectable Embezzler.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 25.—In the days when royalty, dukes, earls and knights were the common every-day guests of Dave Isaacs at the Prospect House, on the Canadian side, his chief clerk was Morris B. Pike, a handsome, well-dressed and gentlemanly person. He was known everywhere and highly respected and the intelligence conveyed in a Cincinnati despatch that he had been arrested there for embezzling $14,000 from the International Cement Company, of which he was vice-president, has shocked everybody. Particulars have not been received.

Preparing for War in Central America.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—J. D. Duran, consul-general for Guatemala, is reported to have been recalled by President Barrios. It is said that Duran, who is a lieutenant-colonel in the Guatemalan army, will assume command of the forces on his arrival home. The statement is made here that an alliance has been formed by the republics of Nicaragua, Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala and the allied army of 100,000 men is ready to march to the Mexican frontier.

Fire in a New York Hotel.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—A fire was discovered on the top floor of the Hotel Vendome, corner of Forty-First street and Broadway yesterday. All the occupants of the hotel were aroused, and fled from the building, most of them scantily clad. The fire was put out with small loss. Henry Neville, the English actor, who has come over with Beerbohm Tree, cut his foot on broken glass while escaping from his bedroom on the eighth floor. The loss will be about $25,000.

No Doubt of the Chicora's Loss.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Jan. 25.—Part of the cargo of the ill-fated steamer Chicora is reported to have come ashore, including flour, valises, pantry fixtures, etc. J. S. Morton says in a despatch there is no doubt now that the Chicora went down. Messages to that effect have been sent to the friends of the crew.

Heirs to a Big Fortune.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 25.—J. D. Luttrell has received news, accompanied by proofs, that he has fallen heir to a quarter of an $8,000,000 estate in Ireland, left by his uncle, John Luttrell. The other heirs are Mrs. Luttrell, Alexander Luttrell and Mrs. Mary Dunlap, who reside at Kincardine, Ont.

A Barge Blown to Atoms.

LONDON, Jan. 25.— The barge Petrel loaded with government stores, consisting chiefly of ammunition for Nordenfeldt and gatling guns, blew up near Gravesend yesterday. She had a crew of five men. Three of them escaped by jumping overboard as soon as the fire was discovered. The master and a sailor who remained behind to quench the fire were killed.

Two Children Burned to Death.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.— Two boys, A. Clark, three years old, and Reno Benel, five years old, living in different parts of the city, were playing about stoves during the absence of their parents and the clothing of each caught fire and both were burned to death.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 25, 1895.

On the street here 100 bushels of wheat brought 62 to 63c. for white, 61 to 62c. for red and 60 1-2c. for goose. Some 1,200 bush. of barley sold at 46 to 48 1-2c. and 300 of oats at 35 to 35 1-2c.

At Buffalo the strength in the barley market continues and it is evident maltsters are a little more inclined to take hold as bids have been advanced. Canada barley is particularly strong.

Another low record in wheat was made in Chicago, the close being 5-8c. lower. Corn followed wheat with a loss of 1-4c. The cash market in oats was strong and the futures found motive for firmness in that fact.

At East Buffalo sheep and lambs, 30 cars were on sale of which 20 cars were fresh receipts. Opened strong; only a few Canadas on sale which went at $4.85 to $5.00; bulk of offerings, common class stock and afternoon market became flat, closing weak with a dozen cars unsold. Prime fat Canada sheep for export $3.50 to $4.25.

The liquidation in the low priced issues was not continued in New York, and as there was some covering of short contracts in these and other specialties, the net result of trading at the stock exchange was an advance of 1-4 to 5-8s. London was a buyer of St. Paul, Louisville and Denver and Rio Grande common. In the last half hour of business there was renewed buying to cover short contracts, and as a result the market closed steadier in tone.

The stock markets in London were good. Consols sold at 105 11-16. Americans declined and then rallied on buying on a telegram to the Financial News, reporting the probable issue of $500,000,000 of United States gold bonds.

MRS. ORMISTON CHANT.

THE EMPIRE REFORMER NOT SUCH A CRANK AFTER ALL.

A Nice, Motherly Woman Who Does Not Tackle a Subject Until She Knows Something About It—A Friendly Critic on Her Personality.

Mrs. Laura Ormiston Chant has a champion. He is a writer for a daily paper in Birmingham, and he says, after interviewing her: "Mrs. Chant is delightful; a nice, motherly, merry little body, who does not tackle a subject until she knows what she is talking about. She is the wife of a doctor, who is in sympathy with her objects, and does not mind the hard things said about his wife. For years her house in London has been a refuge for fallen women who show a real desire to return to a cleanly and wholesome life."

Mrs. Chant justified the writer's praise by some eminently sensible things which she said on the subject of amusements. She has been accused of various ancient Puritanical notions concerning entertainment, and it is a relief to have her come out and show herself anything but a crank.

"You know," said Mrs. Chant, "I delight in music and singing and dancing and nice dresses and pretty scenery. It is all so charming to the senses. All that I want is to clear certain of the music halls of the unclean features which debar decent folks from attending and enjoying the performance. A short time ago I was at the Palace in London, and I was charmed and delighted with what I saw. As to the living pictures, they were beautiful, and there were only three to which I objected. It is significant that these were received almost in silence by the audience; all the rest were enthusiastically cheered. The great mass of the audience at music halls do not want impurity on the stage, and they do not applaud it. Not long ago, in the living pictures, when the 'Lost Chord,' was partrayed and the song was sung it was encored three times. The house was wild with excitement.

"Purged of its grossness, I like a music hall immensely. We cannot always be on the stretch. Wagner opera and problem plays do not fill the whole scheme of entertainment. Who could object to coster songs, to the best of the Christy Minstrel songs, to sleight-of-hand performances, to ballets free from suggestiveness, to bright, happy music, really funny comic songs, with a pathetic ballad or two thrown in? The living pictures (save for one or two which might be deleted) are charming—the gratification of one's artistic senses by eye and ear at the same time. The possibilities of such entertainments are infinite. And why should they call us Puritans? It is our opponents who are the Puritans. The Puritans of Cromwell's time said that wickedness was inseparable from dancing and music, and so would have neither. Our opponents also say the two are inseparable, but differ from the Puritans, inasmuch as they will have both. We, on the contrary, would like one without the other."

On the subject of the ballet, Mrs. Chant is equally liberally disposed. She says:

"Do I object to the ballet? Nothing is further from my mind. I can imagine nothing more delightful or artistic than the mummers' dance at the Lyceum, or the ballet of the nymphs in Benson's 'Midsummer Night's Dream.' Behind those there are no suggestions of indecency—nothing in the drapery, nothing in the action, which can offend. When music-hall ballets offend it is because of the motive that is suggested. I don't object to tights, as such. I know that when you dance very vigorously you must not be impeded by clinging petticoats about your ankles, or even about the knees. If need be, I think I could devise a costume which would give this freedom and yet clothe the limbs, although I am not one of those who think it a shame to have legs."

All of which would seem to indicate that Mrs. Chant is a most sensible reformer.

Sure of a Living.

Proud Mother—Little Dick is the most ingenious boy. He'll be a great inventor.

Practical Father—If he has a bent for experiment, I'll make a doctor of him. A doctor gets paid for his experiments; an inventor doesn't.—Good News.

Convincing Proof.

Morton—Are you sure that Penman is really reconciled with his wife?

Crandall—Yes, I am sure of it, for she reades what he writes and he eats what she cooks.—Truth.

TRIAL OF THE A. R. U. MEN.

Debs and His Associates Arraigned on the Charge of Conspiracy.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—The trial of Eugene V. Debs and his associates of the A. R. U. on a charge of conspiracy was begun before Judge Grosscup in the United States circuit court yesterday. The trial is on the indictment found against the strikers on October 21, which is known as the omnibus indictment. There were originally sixty-nine persons named in the indictment for conspiracy to obstruct the mails, but the government counsel subsequently nolle prossed twenty-four of the cases. Four more were dismissed at the opening of the trial yesterday.

The directors of the Union, including Debs, Howard, Keliher, and others were represented by Attorney Gregory. The other defendants were represented by R. A. Wade of this city. Judge Harper and Judge Thoman and District Attorney Milchrist appeared for the government. When the case came up nearly one half of those named in the indictment failed to appear and bench warrants were issued by the court. The afternoon was consumed in empannelling the jury which was not complete when the court adjourned.

FRENCH CABINET CRISIS.

M. Bourgeois Fails in His Attempt to Form a Ministry.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—M. Bourgeois, having failed to form a ministry, President Faure has decided to defer making any further offer of the Premiership until to-day.

All the newspapers agree that M. Bourgeois failed owing to his inability to get a minister of finance.

The Daily News correspondent in Paris says: "The uncertainty and confusion are now worse than at the beginning of the crisis. There is alarming dearth of eligible men. So many have been used up or shelved that M. Bourgeois was driven to solicit the services of men unknown even to their colleagues in the Chamber."

The Standard's Paris correspondent says: "M. Bourgeois' failure has greatly excited the political world, where it is now thought that only two courses are opened—one a homogenous progressive ministry headed by Bourgeois, the other a cabinet d'affaires."

Sent Down for a Year.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—Perry McWain, of Bowmanville, who was convicted on four charges of theft and against whom seven charges were laid by different residents of the city, was sent to the Central prison by Magistrate Denison yesterday for twelve months. He is the man whose good character was vouched for by many prominent citizens of his native town, but they seem to have been misled. McWain, at present, is suffering from a broken jaw which he received by falling through a cattle guard, while walking east along the railroad track toward home.

The Opening of Parliament.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—The general impression in official circles here is that to-morrow's Canada Gazette will contain a proclamation calling Parliament for the despatch of business in the latter week of February or first week of March.

To Reduce Hamilton's Liquor Licenses.

HAMILTON, Jan. 25.—At the meeting of the Markets, Fire and Police Committee a resolution was passed recommending the reduction of liquor licenses to 65 and closing the bar rooms at 10 o'clock at night. This has to come before the council and passed before taking effect.

Short in His Accounts.

GUELPH, Jan. 25.—Wm. Duncan, head teamster for Thos. Halliday, brewer, is short in his accounts about $2,000. Duncan has been laid up with a severe cold and while ill it was discovered that his returns did not agree with the brewery's customers' passbooks. It was his method to receipt for the proper amount in a hotelkeeper's passbook and turn in a smaller amount.

Manitoba Schools Case.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The important announcement is made that the Manitoba Schools case judgment in the Privy Council will be given on Tuesday next.

A Hold-Up in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 25.—Two men held-up the Southbound Cotton Belt train near McNeil, Ark., last night. They went through the express car but the amount of money taken is not known. The men were concealed in the blind baggage car.

The Smallpox Case in Guelph.

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 25.— The report that Miss Turnbull, one of the nurses at the General Hospital, has smallpox, is without foundation. Swartz, the patient who has it, is improving.

Virtue in New England Rum.

Boston can very well do without the reputation of having originated the manufacture of rum, but there has been a time in New England history when rum had a better reputation as a beverage than is now accorded it. The early New England clergy regarded it as a reviver and strengthener on festive occasions, when made into the form of flip and toddy. Dr. Holmes, with this recollection in mind, celebrated its virtues in his lines to a punch bowl. The late Judge Thompson, who was a wit, convulsed the members of the Massachusetts legislature in one of his speeches on the temperance question by declaring that the heroic age of New England was the time when rum was sold at three cents a glass.—Boston Herald.

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 12,960,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

BATTLE IN MANCHURIA

General Sung's Chinese Army Scattered by the Japanese.

FIVE HOURS' SEVERE FIGHTING

The Chinese Forces Make a Stubborn Resistance but Are Compelled to Take to Flight—The Loss to the Chinese Said to Have Been Heavy.

TOKIO, Jan. 26.—Lieut. Gen. Katsura, commanding the left wing of the fifth army, sends reports from Haicheng December 20th, via Antong December 22, that the Chinese army of about 10,000 strong under Gen. Sung, retreating from Kaeping and moving in the direction of Lieoyang was passing not far from the Japanese encampment. Gen. Katsura determined to check and break up the movement, and with that view sent out a considerable part of his division to intercept them. On December 19 Major Gen. Oseko's brigade encountered the Chinese army at Hungwassel about eight miles west of Haicheng. The brigade of Major Oshima came up soon after and joined forces with Oseko's brigade. The united Japanese force was four regiments of infantry and five batteries of artillery, that is, thirty guns.

The Chinese made a very stubborn resistance and the fighting lasted off and on for nearly five hours. The Japanese made four different charges through the enemy, ultimately completely defeating and routing them. The Chinese fled in disorder, partly to the westward, partly in the direction of New-Chang and Yingkok (the latter is the Chinese name for the treaty port and foreign settlement of Niuchang.)

The Japanese guns were well served and the Chinese loss must have been heavy, but of these we have no details up to the present time. The Japanese losses, as reported later, were 8 officers and 52 petty officers and men killed; 11 officers and 345 petty officers and men wounded. Of the wounded 300 have been taken to the hospital, the remaining wounded not being sufficiently bad as to require close treatment.

This was evidently the most serious engagement, away from stone walls and fortifications, which has yet been met with by the Japanese army in Manchuria.

Later reports from Lieutenant-General Katsura, dated Haicheng, December 24, state that Gen. Sung's defeated army, which had fled towards New-Chang, had been there joined by the New-Chang forces under Gen. Ma, and that the United forces had retreated to Tien Chon Tain. Japanese cavalry scouts report a considerable Chinese force at Ta-Shan-Lien between Kaeping and Yingkow; that 5,000 soldiers from Yingkow had joined it. The force is said to be extending its front and had many banners.

American Trade Report.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Bradstreet says: "Special telegraphic and mail advices from the more important distributing centres fail to reveal any marked improvement in the movement of merchandise and products and the conclusion is forced that the general trade situation remains as previously characterized by small volume, low prices, hand-to-mouth sales and the outlook favoring a very conservative trade for some time to come. None of the larger eastern cities report a liklihood of demand to anticipate wants. Business failures in the United States this week continue heavy in number 317 against 318 last week. Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States this week amount to 2,840,000 bushels. Last week the total was 3,564,000 bushels, somewhat larger than usual. One year ago the total was 2,947,000 bushels, two years ago 2,531,000 bushels and three years ago it was 3,557,000 bushels.

NIAGARA RIVER SMUGGLING.

It Still Exists But Not to a Large Extent—An Untruthful Report.

BUFFALO, Jan. 26.—An article sent out from this city does much injustice to Canadian residents on the border. It implies that the Canadian customs officers are lax in their attention to duty and gives a bold statement of customs receipts at this port which is misleading.

The reference to smuggling was clipped from an article in the Courier and the alleged facts, given on the authority of an ex-dry goods clerk, may have had some warrant ten or fifteen years ago. But they have no foundation or very little in fact now.

Petty smuggling possibly still exists, but it is a mighty small affair and confined to villages contiguous to the river, simply because Buffalo is the more "convenient" market. That it does not exist is perhaps due to the fact that it is no longer profitable. Standard articles of wearing apparel and of household consumption are as cheap or cheaper in Canada and except perhaps in cotton goods, there could be but little gained by the petty smuggler buying here and in cottons the difference is not sufficiently wide to make the smuggling by individuals remunerative in any sense.

Hicks Street Residents Denounce the Shooting of Carney as a Cold-Blooded Murder—Wire Cutting Continues in Several Parts of the City.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 26.—No troops have been withdrwan from Brooklyn and though they had a comparatively quiet day of it yesterday there are signs that they will make up for it to-day. The quiet is thought to be the calm before a storm. Disturbances requiring cavalry charges and quick details infantry occurred during the day and evening, but the troops did not find it necessary to fire upon the crowds. Since the battle of Hick street orders have been issued to the militiamen not to fire upon people who fail to obey command, but to arrest them, and only to fire under dire necessary.

The riotous proceedings which have marred the quiet and peace of King's county overflowed into Queen's county and the sheriff of that county was obliged to call for troops.

Justice Gaynor, of the Supreme Court, figured prominently in the day's proceedings. He listened to arguments in the mandamus proceedings and a fair inference from the observations he made from the bench warrants the conclusion that he will grant a peremptory writ compelling the officials of the company to operate their road.

Mayor Schieren drove to police headquarters at night and held a secret conference with Commissioner Wells and Superintendent Campbell. They were informed by the presidents of the three systems affected by the strike, presumably in anticipation of the writ of mandamus, that all lines are to be operated to-day. They know that such an attempt would mean plenty of trouble. The Mayor declined to discuss the nature of the conference.

A portion of the 7th Regiment is under marching orders and it is supposed they are to be moved to Green Point, Erie Basin and other danger points in the morning.

The strikers still stand firm and very few have quit the ranks. The cars were moved on several new lines, and, barring numerous accidents, the companies made a good showing. But the end is not yet.

Rumors of dynamite were current yesterday. An alleged bomb was found on the trolley tracks at Fulton street and Flatbush avenue. A man who failed to given his name carried the bomb to the first precinct station house. The suspicious looking thing was at once sent to Superintendent of Police Campbell who hurried it to the navy yard for the experts there to make an examination. All efforts to explode it failed and the navy officials came to the conclusion that the thing was a hoax.

Wire cutting continued throughout the afternoon and the companies seemed to lack a sufficient number of linemen to repair the damage. The wires were cut on Fulton street near Howard avenue soon after noon, stalling several cars and up to dark no linemen had arrived to repair them. A large crowd gathered but were held in check by a detachment of the 71st regiment. At Driggs and Manhattan avenue yesterday afternoon a mob of 1,000 persons attacked several stalled cars on the Flushing and Graham avenue and wrecked them. At Bedford avenue they demolished six more cars and cut the wires for four blocks. In addition to cutting the trolley wires the strikers or their sympathizers have in many cases cut the wires inside the cars which connect the trolley with the motor causing damage which it will take some time to repair. There were many instances of disorder during the afternoon but there was no shooting. Several arrests were made for stone throwing and wire cutting.

A Gates avenue car was held up at Gates and Hamburg avenues. The crowd tried to overthrow the car, but were dispersed by details of the 7th Regiment and and the 69th Battalion. Two women in the car were badly frightened. No arrests were made. A car from Newtown containing 40 non-union men was held up near Maspeth and a number of the men were induced to join the strikers. A detachment of the 7th Regiment, assisted by the police, captured a few of the non-union men and took them to the Maspeth station of the Brooklyn Heights Company. The strikers claim that 20 men deserted to join them and were sent to their homes in other cities.

At the corner of Gates and Evergreen avenues a motorman of the Greene and Gates avenue line was struck with a stone and knocked down. He recovered shortly and took his car with several windows broken to the end of the journey. The company of militia that was ordered to Maspeth from Ridgewood, which is on the line of King's and Queen's counties, was prevented from going because it was detailed for duty in King's county only. In view of this fact Sheriff Doht, of Queen's, has called on the governor for troops.

A body of residents of Hicks street have petitioned the grand jury to investigate the "disgraceful and murderous" conduct of the militia under Major Cochran and their "shameful conduct in firing on innocent women and defenceless children." The citizens denounce the conduct of Mayor Schieren in allowing the city's streets to be overrun with "irresponsible and murderous militiamen." They characterize the shooting and killing of Carney as a cold-blooded murder at the hands of Major Cochran.

The companies began shutting down their lines at dark. On some lines one or two cars were running an hour or two after dark. On Butler street a car was stoned; one on Flatbush avenue had a window smashed. There were other interferences and at nine o'clock no more cars were sent out. As other nights when the cars ceased to run, disturbances came to an end and quiet settled over the city.

EXPLOSION IN A BREWERY.

The Building Entirely Wrecked—Five Men Known to be Killed.

MENDOTA, Ill., Jan. 26.—A boiler explosion shook this city and the surrounding country for miles yesterday. Five dead men and seven injured are the known victims. The explosion was in the brewery of C. Henning & Sons. The entire structure was wrecked and the work of searching for any more victims is hampered by the furious blizzard which is raging. There is also danger to the searchers from a big chimney which is expected to fall any minute. The loss to the proprietors is $80,000. Until the wreckage is cleared away no one can tell how many lives were lost.

Trial of the A. R. U. Men.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—It was five o'clock yesterday before a jury was secured for the trial of Debs and his associates of the A. R. U. At the afternoon session twelve talesmen were peremptorily excused by the defence, the majority of them acknowledging the prejudice against the defendants. Before adjourning court Judge Grosscup announced that he would hear only one attorney for each side in the opening of the case. Gen. Black, district attorney, will open for the government to-day, and either Judge Harper of Terre Haute, or Mr. Gregory of this city will speak for the defence.

Australia's Governor's Salary.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Standard has this despatch from Melbourne: It is understood that Great Britain cabled to the Ministry in regard to the reduction of the Governor's salary. The retiring Ministry notified Great Britain of a proposed reduction of the salary from £10,000 to £5,000, to which, it is understood, Great Britain agreed. The Assembly's decision was a surprise and is likely to lead to trouble. It is asserted that it is doubtful whether Lord Brassey will accept £5,000. The Premier will move the reversal of the vote with a view to making the salary £7,000.

The Hawaiian Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Sec. Gresham has received a letter from Minister Willis dated January 11 confirming his telegram in regard to the Hawaiian trouble in which, referring to the asate of martial law declared on the seventh, he says most of the sixty arrests were made as a precautionary measure, and he has the assurance of the attorney-general that the cases of American citizens will be promptly investigated and justly dealt with. He also refers to President Dole's gratification at the absence of warships.

Gen. Baratieri's Reception in Massowah.

ROME, Jan. 26.—A despatch from Massowah says that Gen. Baratieri was received magnificently on his return from his victorious campaign against the Mahdists. As peace has been restored in Italian Africa, the government will send either very few reinforcements or none at all. The Lazarists who were expelled by Gen. Baratieri because they excited natives against the Italians have sent to Rome a memorial to the effect that they in no way conspired against the Italian authorities.

Another Armenian Outrage.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople sends this despatch: The Armenians of Tarsus purchased thirty years ago a walled cemetery. The Turks have recently forbidden interments there, pretending that the Armenians used the place as a depot for arms. Troops destroyed the Armenian inscription on the gateway and effaced the words from the crosses on the tombs and covered the crosses with filth. The Armenians protested to the local authorities and reported the outrage to their patriarch.

Killed in a Dynamite Explosion.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Isaac Bartle, foreman of the stone quarry at Long Eddy, was killed yesterday by a dynamite explosion. He was engagod in taking the tamping from a hole in a rock which contained three sticks of dynamite which had missed fire. As Bartle was bending over the hole, digging out the dirt, the dynamite exploded, killing him instantly. The unfortunate man's body was thrown over a six-foot embankment and badly mutilated.

New York State's Canal System.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—The annual report of the state engineer, Adams, for the fiscal year ending September 30th last, has been presented to the legislature. It consists of a statement of the value of the canal system to the state and an argument in favor of its improvement. Mr. Adams recommends: "The deepening of the Erie and Oswego canals to nine feet, and for the Champlain to seven feet wherever possible without radical changes in existing structures."

Contributions to the Home Rule Fund.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Justin McCarthy, leader of the anti-Parnellite home rulers and chairman of their parliamentary organization, has published the financial statement of his party for 1894. According to this statement the party received contributions of £3,000 from Canada, £2,700 from the United States, £490 from Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland, £250 from Ireland and £980 from Great Britain.

The War Fever in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 26.—The arrival of Guatemala's reply to Mexico's final demands has caused a considerable war fever throughout this district. As yet, however, nobody outside the foreign office has seen the reply. Rumors of every sort are afloat, most of them to the effect that the Guatemalan government covers once more the old ground, seeking to evade the issue and secure delay.

M. Ribot Will Form a Cabinet.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—M. Ribot went to the Elysee last evening and told M. Faure that he was making satisfactory progress with the construction of a cabinet. It is believed that M. Hanotaux, the last minister of foreign affairs, ex-Premier Loubet and Deputy Maurice Lebon have consented to serve.

A Cabinet Difficulty in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 26.—M. De Lantsheere, president of the House of Representatives, resigned his office yesterday because the majority failed to help him to defeat the obstructive tactics of the Socialists.

A CATHOLIC PETITION

Rev. Father Allard, of St. Boniface, Brings It to Ottawa.

THE GRIEVANCE IN MANITOBA

The Petition Asks for the Disallowance of the Law Recently Enforced in Manitoba and the Northwest in Regard to Separate Schools.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Rev. Father Allard, of St. Boniface, who has come east with another Roman Catholic petition against the Manitoba school law, has presented the same to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. The document was sent east some time ago by the ecclesiastical authorities of Manitoba for the signatures of the hierarchy of Quebec. It is as follows:

"We, the Catholics of the Dominion of Canada, the loyal subjects of her Majesty, respectfully declare:

"That during the parliamentary session of 1894, a petition asking for redress for the grievances complained of by the Catholics of the Canadian west in school matters, and signed by his Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop of Quebec and by all the other archbishops and bishops of Canada, was presented to his Excellency the Governor-General-in-Council, to the members of the Senate and to the members of the House of Commons. In dignified and truthful language the Canadian episcopacy clearly set forth the rights and duties as well as the grievances of Catholics. They showed that the Catholics of Manitoba, after having enjoyed up to 1890 the right of educating their children in schools conducted in keeping with their religious convictions, were deprived of that right in a most arbitrary and unjust manner. They pointed out that their position was becoming worse as a result of the new legislation.

"They also pointed out the serious infringements made on the rights of Catholics in the Northwest by the ordinances of 1892, which deprived the Catholic schools of their free action and their rightful character. Then decreeing with the authority which belongs to them, and the science which distinguishes them, the doctrine of the Catholic Church in matters of education, they reminded the parents that they have the right and obligation by natural law and divine commandment to educate their children according to their religious belief. They stated that the exercise of this right, and the free carrying out of this obligation, had been guaranteed the Catholics of the Canadian west by the most solemn promises, which were violated to impose upon our co-religionists most vexatious laws, contrary to justice and to all legitimate liberties, which have to-day thrown our country into most deplorable dissensions.

"As our bishops truthfully said in that petition, the sad fate of the Catholics of Manitoba and the Northwest is felt by all the Catholics of the Dominion, and we reiterate their pressing representations and their prayers, and confirm their declaration that the pastors and the faithful are one, and that together they are determined to vindicate their rights by all constitutional means in their power. The pastors have shown themselves to be our enlightened interpreters, and we will be their devoted champions. This is why we protest against the fallacious and disloyal reply of the Government of Manitoba to the order of his Excellency the Governor-General in Council; and adopting the conclusions of the petition of their lordships, the archbishops and bishops of Canada, with them and like them we call for redress of the grievances of the Catholics of Manitoba and the Northwest by the disallowance of the law of 1894 and by all constitutional means."

OFFICERS OF THE P. P. A.

Mr. Busby, of Owen Sound, Succeeds to the Presidency.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—The following officers were elected by the P. P. A. convention: President, Mr. Busby, Owen Sound; Vice-President, Alex. Karr, Forest; Treasurer, Dr. Ovens, Parkhill; Secretary, Jackson Little, Toronto. Only a few of the delegates remained to attend the winding up of the business.

Mr. Busby is a young merchant from Owen Sound, who has been quite prominent in the order for some time. He was looked on as a valuable man at the convention at Hamilton last year. His election no doubt was the result of a compromise, though he is looked on as more favorable to the Madill party than the other. Mr. Alex. Karr is editor of the Forest Standard, which has always been an ardent supporter of the cause of the P. P. A. in the province, and P. D. McCallum in the riding.

A Horseman's Hard Luck.

HAMILTON, Jan. 26.—Mr. John Dyment, the master of Orkney Stock Farm and Racing Stables, has been unusually unfortunate this season. On Saturday he lost a six days' old foal by Dendy Dinment out of Lucy Lightfoot. The baby was entered for the great Canadian Eclipse stake of 1898. The same day he lost Brown Dick, a grand horse, which he valued at $5,000 and which had engagements in the Knowsley Plate of 1895 and the Prince of Wales Plate of 1896 at Hamilton, besides important engagements at the Ontario Jockey Club spring meeting.

Adjusting Fire Losses in Ontario.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—At the monthly meeting of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, held last night, a paper by Henry Lye on the adjustment of fire losses was read by Mr. H. S. Strange, a member of the council. The entire paper was such as will interest every accountant and adjuster in the province, as Mr. Lye's varied experiences were given in detail and hints of a very valuable character were deduced therefrom for their guidance in adjusting fire losses.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 26, 1895.

Suggested a Stroke of Business.

On the journey from Vienna to St. Petersburg, Cumberland, the well-known anti-spiritualist and thought reader, entertained his fellow passengers by guessing their thoughts. One of the travelers, a Polish Jew, who took the whole thing for a hoax, offered to pay Cumberland the sum of fifty rubles if he could divine his thoughts. Visibly amused, Cumberland acceded to his request, and said:

"You are going to the fair at Nishni-Novgorod, where you intend to purchase goods to the extent of 20,000 rubles, after which you will declare yourself a bankrupt and compound with your creditors for three per cent."

On hearing these words the Jew gazed at the speaker with reverential awe. He then, without uttering a syllable, drew out of the leg of his boot a shabby purse, and handed him the fifty rubles. Whereupon the great magician triumphantly inquired:

"Then I have guessed your thoughts, eh?"

"No," replied the Jew, "but you have given me a brilliant idea."—Podmokcer Wochenblatt.

"Lady," said Breezy Byles, "we were on our way, like the migratory lestle birds, to a hospitable winter resort, when with an unparalled generosity you regale us with this pie." Then he finished the second piece and burst into convulsive sobs. "But good heavens, lady, this is a grape pie with seeds in and I have twice been threatened with appendicitis!" and he wiped his eyes with his whiskers.

"Poor man!" said the old lady, giving him a silver dollar; "I never thought of that." Around the corner of the orchard he frescoed the head of the white dog, following at his heels by smashing the pie over his head and sent him back looking as if he had cut his throat with a wire fence.

"Sudden inspiration," said Breezy, "is better than slow wisdom, and a nimble dollar is better than a steady job in a phosphate factory."

REV. DR. TALMAGE A HOST IN HIMSELF.

A Graphic Description of His Methods While Preaching.

A SERMON FULL OF FIRE AND VIGOR TO ILLUSTRATE.

Repentance, Remorse, and the Return of the Godless Sinner to His Vice the Topics of His Discourse—A "Terrible Example" Was Present, and While the Doctor Was Describing the Drinking Habit the Ushers Had to Remove a Drunken Man—Breathless Hearers—His Best Effect.

REV. DR. TALMAGE AS HE APPEARS IN PREACHING.

The last and greatest adventure of his adventurous life was taken by Rev. Dr. Talmage a few weeks since when he announced that he had forsaken Brooklyn forever, and that he would preach in the New York Academy of Music at 4 o'clock every Sunday afternoon. His open sermon was a splendid exhibition of his peculiar methods and power, and the audience was a genuine Talmage audience. Many of the members of his former churches were in the front seats and in the boxes, and, as in the former churches, strangers filled the most of the seats of a vast auditorium. There was the old familiar cornetist, Prof. Peter Ali, and the old familiar organist, Henry Eyre Brown, now playing the piano. The theatre drop curtain was down. There were a table and a much-upholstered chair against the curtain and in the middle of the stage. The piano stood to the right, and a music stand for the cornetist was near it.

Into this very simple stage setting at 4 p. m. exactly walked Dr. Talmage, in a frock coat so long of skirt that it hid his knees, and so long of sleeves that his cuffs were at no time visible. He carried a small teachers' Bible, with flexible leather covers. There was a timid, hesitating round of applause, which he in no way acknowledged. He sat down, covered his face with his hand a moment and then announced and read the first hymn, "I need Thee every hour." Then he prayed, and there was another hymn and a collection.

It was a right generous collection, that showed that the strangers appreciated the fact that Dr. Talmage had come over from Brooklyn with equally fervid and far more convenient oratory. The lesson Dr. Talmage read was the parable of the prodigal son, which he read in a tremendous voice that reached every corner of the vast auditorium, and, as he read, commented upon. It was noticed that while he was reading a young man with a dark mustache, sitting well down the centre isle, rose and staggered up and through the door.

He was gone, as it afterwards appeared, for refreshment at a near-by saloon, until the Doctor had got well into his sermon. After he had disappeared full five minutes a venerable gentleman with an umbrella, caught well towards the middle of the ribs, tip-toed down the aisle and took the vacant seat. Twenty minutes later, when Dr. Talmage was thrilling boxes and stalls with a description of a man in the throes of the drink habit and striving with God for delivery, the young man with the dark mustache reappeared, staggered down the aisle and looked about for the seat he had left.

He looked in vain, and presently got angry.

"I protest," he said loudly.

At this the old gentleman took a fresh grip on his umbrella and shook his head. The drunken man "spotted" him at once.

"I protest," he said, turning towards Dr. Talmage.

"Remain perfectly quiet," said the Doctor, stretching out his arms towards the rising congregation. "Will some one remove this poor benighted soul?"

Two of the ushers in dress suits appeared and took the drunken man, one by either arm.

"I protest," said he again. They constrained him to go up the aisle, and Dr. Talmage said:

"This unfortunate creature gives an illustration of what I have been saying. He is in the toils of a degrading habit. Would to God that not only he, but all such in this house, would throw themselves upon the Almighty this day."

There was prolonged applause at this, and the Doctor went on with his sermon. He referred to the drunken man again in his closing prayer, asking God to save him. The sermon was a fine illustration of Talmage at his best. He took as his text two sentences from Proverbs. The first, "When shall I awake?" to illustrate the fits of repentance and remorse the sinner has; the second sentence, "I will seek it yet again," to illustrate how the godless sinner turns to his vice once more after these repentant fits.

During the sermon Dr. Talmage made many effective pauses after those striking climaxes of word and gesture. Always there was a death-like stillness in the house. In the sentimental parts of the sermon, the Doctor's broken voice and hasty dash of tears from his eyes found sympathy in the many handkerchiefs applied to wet feminine eyes and the quick blinkings of the men.

Dr. Talmage, standing alone on the stage, with the background of an Oriental scene on the curtain, was a host all in himself. His shoulders, his arms, his hands, his legs and feet, but especially his face and voice, were ever forming new combinations. His voice was full and round and had clean play through his wide, mobile lips. His coat fitted him loosely, and was twisted this way and that as his shoulders shrugged or alternately rose and fell or were bent forward or thrown back.

He stamped his foot again and again. He paced from one side of the stage to the other. His arms were now whirling about his head and now flung into a knot upon his chest or against the small of his back.

"Those dissolute companions will play checkers on your coffin-lid," he said, with rasping hisses and both fists quivering in the air. "And chuckle at your damnation," he went on, drawing himself up to shout the words, pointing both forefingers at the floor, stamping his foot and shaking his head.

"He is riding a monster." Dr. Talmage's arms were whirling and his fingers were writhing. "Wild and bloodthirsty!" He threw out both arms, tossed back his head and stamped his foot. "Going at a death-leap!" He imitated the motions of a galloping horse, while his features worked in an agony. "A death-leap!" he repeated in a hoarse voice, and then for a second or two, without any words, he made the gestures of leaping, while his face expressed horror.

Again and again he made these wordless gestures, carrying out in pantomime an idea he had already expressed, while the audience was breathless.

"Lose Heaven!" he said, with arm and forefinger far above his head in menacing gesture. Then he walked a few steps in silence, half-turned from the audience, and again shook his forefinger, accompanying it with a shake of the head. Then he took down his arm, faced the audience and began upon another paragraph.

His best effect was got with his picture of the farm-house from which the boy has gone to make his fortune in the city, and how the old people sit thinking of the boy and how they pray for him. He walked slowly to and fro as he added detail to detail in a quick, jerky voice. Then he gave the invitation to salvation, and described the boy wandering in the graveyard, crying to the two voiceless mounds that could not hear him. At this his voice broke, his hands were clasped in front of his face, and the tears rolled down his cheeks. "Dead! Dead!" he moaned, wringing his hands. "Dead! Dead!"

Here is the sermon in part:

"Oh! what glorious news it would be for some of these young men to send home to their parents in the country. They go to the post-office every day or two to see if there are any letters from you. How anxious they are to hear. Nothing would please them half so much as the news you might send home to-morrow that you had given your heart to God. I know how it is in the country. The night comes on. The cattle stand under the rack, through which burst the trusses of hay.

"Then at 8 o'clock—for they retire early in the country—at 8 o'clock they kneel down and commend you to that God who watches in country and in town, on the land and on the sea.

"Some one said to a Grecian general: 'What was the proudest moment of your life?' He thought a moment and said: 'The proudest moment of my life was when I sent word home to my parents that I had gained the victory.' And the proudest and most brilliant moment of your life will be the moment when you can send word to your parents in the country that you have conquered your evil habits by the grace of God and become eternal victor."

The service lasted an hour and a quarter.

HE WAS AN OARSMAN AND ATHLETE.

A Terrible Case of Kidney Trouble.

Mr. Harry Ball says: "Paine's Celery Compound Saved My Life."

H. BALL.

Mr. H. Ball, the widely known and popular auctioneer, of Chatham, Ont., has a grand record as an oarsman and an athlete. He was the great figure of the "Chatham four," who held the amateur championship of the Dominion. Mr. Ball has also rowed in singles against the best amateurs of the day.

Unfortunately for Mr. Ball that insidious and deadly trouble, kidney disease, was developed to fearful extent. Mr. Ball was confined to bed for four months, and all the able efforts of physicians failed to check or banish the awful disease. The work of banishing disease and cheating death of a victim was left to the life-renewing powers of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Ball writes thus:

On August 6th, 1892, I was so seriously ill I was obliged to take to my bed, where I laid for four months. The doctors here and in Toronto said that my trouble was Addison's disease of the kidneys, and told me that I would never walk again. In November of the same year, I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. After having used a number of bottles I was enabled to attend to business, and felt like a new man. Before using the Compound I was very much reduced in flesh; to-day I weigh over 200 pounds. I can affirm with confidence and honesty that Paine's Celery Compound saved my life.

OVER IN EUROPE.

Windsor castle has been used for a royal residence seven hundred and eighty four years.

The results of the recent expedition to the polar regions prove that north of seventy-five degrees the ice over the whole surface averages six thousand feet in thickness.

The highest spot inhabited by human beings on this globe is the Buddhist cloister of Hanle, Thibet, where twenty-one monks live at an altitude of sixteen thousand feet.

In a ton of Dead Sea water there are one hundred and eighty-seven pounds of salt; Red Sea, ninety-three; Mediterranean, eighty-five; Atlantic, eighty-one; English channel, seventy-two; Baltic, eighteen; Black sea, twenty-six, and Caspian sea, eleven.

A man in Germany recently bought one thousand cigars and had them insured against fire. Then he smoked them and demanded the amount of his policy from the insurance company. The company refusing to pay it, he brought suit and got a verdict.

According to Power, a foreign chemist has devised a sensitive paint which is yellow at ordinary temperatures, but turns bright red on reaching one of two hundred and twenty degrees. It is suggested that this paint may be used advantageously to indicate heat from friction in machinery.

One part of the wedding ceremony among the Babylonians was very significant. The priest took a thread from the garment of the bride, and another from the garment of the bridegroom, and tied them into a knot, which he gave to the bride. This is probably the origin of the modern saying about tying the knot in regard to marriage.—Jewish Messenger.

FOWL, FISH AND SERPENT.

A boa-constrictor, which lives in the Adelaide zoological gardens, caught its fangs the other day in a rug. Being unable to disengage itself, it proceeded to swallow the rug, which was seven feet by six in size.

A sturgeon weighing 1,440 pounds was caught in the Caspian sea two weeks ago. The head alone weighed 288 pounds, and the fish furnished about 120 pounds of roe for caviare. The fish was sold for $160.

The most formidable check to the increase of serpents and venomous insects in the tropical regions is the abundance of ants which, attacking in thousands, will kill and devour animals often of considerable size.

There is a mystery about the method of motion of condors that has never been explained. They have been seen to circle to and fro in the sky, half a day at a time, rising and descending without once flapping a wing.

Ayer's Hair Vigor is certainly a remarkable preparation and nothing like it has ever been produced. No matter how wiry and unmanageable the hair may be, under the influence of this incomparable dressing, it becomes soft, silky, and pliable to the comb and brush.

SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENTS.

Experiments are now being made with compressed hay for paving blocks. The hay, after being pressed, is soaked in a drying oil, which, it is claimed, renders it indestructable.

A new alloy has been invented by a Paris manufacturer, composed of silver and copper. It has great strength, and will resist sudden or long sustained strains. The low price of silver has lately made such an alloy practicable.

Great success has been obtained in Belgium with the ammonia process for sinking shafts through quicksand. The principle is that of freezing the quicksand by an ammonia freezer similar to that used in making artificial ice.

A new thermometer for registering extreme heat is composed of a liquid alloy of sodium and potassium, instead of mercury. The boiling point of this alloy is about 1,100 degrees above, and its freezing point 12 degrees below zero.

IN SCHOOL AND COLLEGE.

The students at Princeton college have abolished "hazing."

Viceroy Li Hung Chang has established at Tientsin an imperial medical college, with a staff of western (English) medical men who assist native Chinese in teaching. A four years' graduated course is required and a well-equipped hospital has been built.

The degrees of bachelor of medicine and of master of surgery have this year, for the first time in the history of the Scottish universities, been conferred on women. One of these young women, who ranked third in a class of sixty-one members, stood first in her class of zoology, practical chemistry, anatomy, history, physiology, surgery, medicine, pathology and midwifery.

MEDICAL SCIENCE.

A burning gasjet is unhealthy in a bedchamber, because one gaslight gives out as much carbonic gas as two sleepers.

Sir Andrew Clark, general physician in the largest London hospital, says that seven out of every ten persons taken to the building owe their ill health to drink.

Dr. Roux, of the Pasteur institute, claims to have found a cure for croup. It consists in the injection of serum from the blood of a horse that has been inoculated with the cultivated microbes of croup.

Dr. Gorfansky, a Russian physician, claims to have found that the juice of raw cranberries given freely, pure or diluted with an equal part of water, is an excellent means of relieving thirst and vomiting in Asiatic cholera.

Poor Digestion

Leads to nervousness, fretfulness, peevishness, chronic Dyspepsia and great misery. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy. It tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and gives a relish to food. It makes pure blood and gives healthy action to all the organs of the body. Take Hood's for Hood's Sarsaparilla CURES.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them. 25c.

The Plain Truth Tells.

Constipation, headache, biliousness, and bad blood, are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters, which acts upon the stomach, liver, bowels and blood, curing all their diseases.

THE MISSES.

Miss Margaret Eleanor Tupper, a daughter of the poet Tupper, has just died in London.

The only daughter of Sig. Crispi, the premier of Italy, has become engaged to Prince di Linguaglossa, a Sicilian.

Beatrice Harraden, after the ships have passed in the night, has a habit of running barefoot on the grass of the lawn to bathe her feet in the morning dew.

Miss Frances Willard lives on the time-lock principle of division of the day—eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight hours for rest and recreation.

Ora Kees and Mollie Kees, two young girls, have started a paper at Grayson, Ky. It is called the Eastern Kentucky Republican and, as its name implies, is republican to the core.

The statement that Miss Philippa Fawcett, the "lady senior wrangler," is about to begin a business career as a civil engineer is said to be unfounded. She has no present intention of leaving Newnham college.

THROUGH EUROPE.

The reading of romances is forbidden by the Koran; hence popular tales are never put in writing among Mohammedans, but are passed from one story teller to another.

One of the three dozen shirts possessed by Napoleon at St. Helena, and divided at his death among his companions, has been sold by auction for one hundred and fifty francs.

Every passenger landed in a French port from a steam vessel coming from a European port, by a decree just issued, is to pay a tax of fifty centimes (ten cents); from any other part of the world he pays a franc.

Brussels has a new executioner. He was a waiter in a saloon, and was dared by his companions into betting that he would try for the place. He won the bet and the place, which carries with it a salary of some twelve hundred francs a year.

NATURAL HISTORY.

The giraffe has a tongue almost eighteen inches long.

The original home of the bison was in the Great Salt lake valley.

The eyeball is white because the blood vessels that feed its substance are so small that they do not admit the red corpuscles.

The horse's eye has a thick, glutinous secretion, because his eye being large and much exposed to dust, the viscid secretion cleanses it more effectually than would a more watery agent.

A living specimen of the largest and most deadly snake known (Ophiophagus elaps) has been added to the zoological gardens of London. It grows twelve to fourteen feet in length, and is hooded like the cobra. It occurs in India, Burma and the East Indian archipelago, living in forests and jungles and readily climbing trees.

PAINTING AND ARTISTS.

Rosa Bonheur is over seventy years of age, and not finding her easel sufficient to occupy her time and consume her energy, she has taken up with photography as an additional work.

Miss Dhanbai Fardonjer Banajee, aged eighteen years, of Bombay, is the first woman to go from India to Paris for art study. She has succeeded in having one of her pictures hung in the Paris salon.

After many repaintings and alterations Alma Tadema has finished his magnum opus, a picture of ancient Rome in festival, which has already been bought by a dealer in Berlin for one hundred thousand marks. It is called "Spring," and contains more than one hundred figures of celebrants and spectators, a procession in honor of the gods of flowers and fertility moving along toward the temple.

A Comfort Sometimes.

When health is far gone in Consumption then sometimes only ease and comfort can be secured from the use of Scott's Emulsion. What is much better is to take this medicine in time to save your health.

Beyond Dispute.

There is no better, safer or more pleasant cough remedy made than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It cures hoarseness, sore throat, coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

The Dominion Elections.

That the Dominion Government are about to spring the general elections on the people is quite evident. The Cabinet ministers are holding meetings all over the country and this is considered to be a sure sign of their near approach. Hon. Mr. Oulmet, Minister of Public Works, when interviewed in Montreal yesterday, said that there would be another session before the elections. Yet whatever date the Cabinet decides on for election day it will in no way intesfere with the Sons of Canada Carnival on Friday, Feb. 22nd. The prizes are on exhibition in Gough Bros. window. Get your costumes ready.

"The Roses of Love."

In the February number of The Ladies' Home Journal, appears a song—"The Roses of Love," written especially for that publication, by Mr. Reginald de Koven, the celebrated operatic composer, of "Robin Hood." The words are written by Mr. J. Carlon, of this town. Both words and music are daintily conceived and expressed, the music being skillfully and tunefully adapted to the lyrical delicacy of the words. This song de Koven considers one of his best recent compositions, and the pains he has taken to give a fitting earning to the words is no little compliment to the co-apposer of the latter.

YOUNG WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Report of the Ottawa Convention.

Usual Gospel service this evening, led by Miss Kennedy. All young women invited. Delegates attending the Ottawa convention returned last evening with a better knowledge of the work of the Young Women's Christian Association, also with fresh inspiration and courage to go forward in the work. Meetings were held in Ottawa's beautiful new hall just opened in October. This being the first Dominion conventions it was a very important one, as the basis of all future work was to be laid. Nearly all the local associations were presented. The programme was as follows :

Monday evening—Reception to delegates. Mrs. (Dr.) Edward in her address gave us a very cordial welcome, which was replied to by Miss Watson, of McGill University, Montreal Y. W. C. A.

Tuesday morning—Report from local association, followed by a helpful talk of the work from 11 to 12. Miss Botterald, B.A., of Montreal, gave an excellent Bible reading on "Personal Work."

Tuesday afternoon papers were read and discussed on the "Spiritual Work," by Miss Botterald, and on the "Educational Work," prepared by Mrs. Hoodlers, of Hamilton, who was unable to be present, through illness.

Tuesday evening, consecration meeting, led by Mrs. Gordon, of Ottawa, and those present will not soon forget this meeting

Wednesday morning, two papers were read on the true basis of membership, by Mrs. Stevenson, of Montreal, and Miss Wright, of Ottawa. Discussion followed from 11 to 12. Miss Botterald continued her good Bible readings on personal work, taking Christ as an example.

Wednesday afternoon, — Resolutions passed and election of officers. Resolved, first, that the list of membership be placed on evangelical basis. This was carried unanimously. As a result, all joined in singing the doxology. Also resolved that a travelling secretary be appointed. Miss Wright was selected. Peterborough will be her first place to visit. We hope it will be in the near future.

Resolved that conventions be held annually, Hamilton being the next place of meeting. Election of officers as follows :

President—Mrs. Hoodless, of Hamilton.

Vice-presidents—One from every province, where there was an organization : Ontario, Mrs. Jeffries, of Toronto ; Quebec, Mrs. McCougal, of Montreal ; Halifax, president of local association.

Recording Secretary—Miss Scott, of Toronto University.

Corresponding Secretary — Miss Botterald, Montreal Y. W. C. A.

Treasurer—Miss McDonald, Toronto.

This session and convention was closed by all joining hands and singing, "Blest be the tie that binds," and prayer. All the sessions were opened and closed by singing and prayer. The chief characteristics were as follows—harmony and the social element, and last and most prominent special manifestations of the power of the Holy Spirit. Mrs. Edwards in her address of welcome, launched the keynote, which continued through all the sessions. The convention was not largely attended, but proved to be a great blessing, and must bring forth fruit.

PROTECTION THAT PROTECTS.

Assessment System—Mutual Principle.

J. O'Donnell, Esq., Special Agent of the Provincial Provident Institution, Peterborough, Ont.:

DEAR SIR,—Permit me to convey, through you, to the Company you represent, my grateful acknowledgment of the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, which has just been handed me. Between four and five years ago I insured in the P.P.I. for $1000, half that amount being payable in case of permanent disability. Up to the present time it has cost, outside of entrance fees, less than fifty dollars to keep the policy in good standing. For more than two years past I have been a helpless cripple, unable even to feed myself, and my case has been pronounced hopeless. Being a poor labouring man with a family, and having the misfortune to lose my oldest boy about a year ago, you can readily understand what a blessing $500.00 is to us at the present time. Since being disabled it has been at the cost of great hardship and personal sacrifice on the part of my wife and children that we have been able to procure the bare necessaries of life. Recently I applied for a Disability Claim, and the settlement made by the Company has been prompt and generous, a fact which you may be sure is thoroughly appreciated by myself and family. It was a fortunate thing for us that the agent induced me to take out a Policy, and that the said policy contained a disability clause.

Thanking you, and wishing the Company continued success in its beneficent work, I remain,

Yours truly,
his
JOHN X PUE,
mark.
Witness,
BERT PUE.

Mrs. R. Pope is the guest of Miss Maggie Young, Young's Point.

—The promotion examinations in the Public Schools begin on Monday.

Misses Ettie and Agnes Jones, Omemee, are the guests of Mrs. James Stubbs.

Miss Annie Sproule will spend a couple of weeks in Lindsay visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. Will Dixon has commenced an engagement with Mr. Madill, druggist, Hunter street.

Inspector Mackeron, of the post office department, was in town on an official trip yesterday.

Mrs. Costello has returned home, after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. McFarlane, at Young's Point.

—William Robinson was, to-day, found "not guilty" of perjury in connection with the Balmoral liquor case.

Mr. Will Knapp, of Peterborough, took first prize for the best boy in costume at the Lakefield Carnival the other night.

Miss Annie Fawcett leaves Monday for a tour through the eastern towns and cities. She has been engaged to sing at I.O.O.F. concerts in Marysville, Odessa, Kingston and a number of other towns during the next week.

Mr. J. O'Donnell has just received his appointment as local special agent for the Provincial Provident Institution. Mr. O'Donnell is well up in insurance, and being an old citizen of Peterborough, should do a large business for an institution whose merits are so well known as those of the Provincial Provident.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Within six days, there have been four deaths in St. Andrew's congregation, all adults. Mr. McWilliams was at three funerals on three consecutive days.

—Mr. J. D. Tully has considerably enlarged his drug store by having a partition taken away between it and an adjacent unused stairway. The walls and ceiling of the annexed portion have been done up in light wood, thereby considerably enhancing the attractive appearance of the rear end of the store.

—Quite a number from here attended the Millbrook carnival last night. A prominent member of the Peterborough Hockey team was pressed to start in the mile race to make up the requisite number of starters. He borrowed a pair of skates and went in and won the prize—a handsome cigar case.

Railway Tracks Blockaded—Freight Trains Cancelled—Country Roads Demoralised.

The citizens of Peterborough had thousands of tons ofs now to shovel from the sidewalks this morning, as the snow-ploughs had more than they could do to keep the roadways open without paying any attention to the sidewalks. The two big road levelling machines belonging to the corporation and to the Street Railway Company came in useful and the street railway track along George and Charlotte streets was sufficiently be cleared during the earlier part of the day, as few, if any, who could avoid the snow drifts, cared to hazard theexperimence.

BUSINESS WAS DEMORALIZED

It is an ill wind which blows nobody good and though considerable damage has been done by the heavy and almost unprecedented fall of snow, yet abundant work has been provided for the unemployed for many days to come, not only in clearing away the drifts from the roadways and sidewalks, but in relieving the roofs of the heavy weight of snow which is threatening many buildings with collapse.

Great difficulty is experienced in making a disposition of the snow on the principal streets as being thrown up on the sides, both from the sidewalks and the street railway tracks, and it has reached a height which will make it dangerous to traffic if any more is thrown upon the huge piles.

A number of busloads of young people went over to

THE KEENE CARNIVAL

and when no word was received from them in town by ten o'clock this morning, their parents were almost distracted with fear induced by the belief that in attempting the return trip they might have been snowed in on the road. Before noon, however, all the different busses had reported at their different headquarters. The majority of the drivers decided not to attempt the home trip until the storm had somewhat abated, and accommodation was sought and obtained at different farm houses along the route. The best teams with the lighter loads were kept from pushing on through by the fact that one in the middle of the road and matters could not be sufficiently straightened out to enable the boys to clear the way for the sleighs in the rear to pass.

The trains were all late and quite a number have been abandoned. All freight traffic over this divisions of the C. P. R., and Grand Trunk has been discontinued and the trains cancelled. The big snow ploughs and the passenger trains have the tracks to themselves and along the lake shore, it is said that the snow is mountains high.

The morning trains from here to Belleville and also the one running out to Lakefield had both to be abandoned this morning for the first time in the recollection of the authorities. The G.T.R. snow plough from Lindsay worked its way over to Peterborough at an early hour with behind it and was sent on down to Port Hope. On the way the Port Hope train was met ploughing its way up to Peterborough. It arrived in here just an hour and forty minutes late. The morning train which Conductor Staunton brings up from Belleville was about five hours late, having experienced great difficulties in surmounting the difficulties caused by the tremendous drifts in the cuts.

The passengers who came up from Port Hope this morning state that the quiet little lakeside town was almost blotted out of existence during the night, and that the great storm experienced here raged in Port Hope with twice the vehemence.

The C. P. R. is running two engines on all its trains, to-day, and experienced even more serious difficulties than the Grand Trunk, as may be seen from the fact that the express from Toronto, due in Peterborough at midnight, was station until half past eight, this morning. A report was current to the effect that the train in question was so hopelessly snowed in that it had been abandoned and that a local from here had gone up in the wake of a snow plough with provisions for the passengers. Such was not the case, however, although on account of the delay experienced, a hearty breakfast was provided for the belated passengers here, this morning, by Station Agent Bamford.

The local from Havelock was two hours late in getting up to Peterborough, this morning, with two engines, but probably made up some of this time before reaching Toronto, as on the division have opened up the rest of the route fairly well. No freight trains will pull out of this point on the line to-day, and as far as can be ascertained there are none to be allowed out on this division.

The market was the slimmest for a Saturday that has ever been in Peterborough for years and even those who braved the snow to get in with their produce did not reap a proportionate benefit by any means, as many a housewife, living in the suburbs, after viewing the snowy expanse which lay between her and the centre of the town, decided that a plain Sunday dinner would have to "go" for once and did not venture forth. Prices therefore did not range above the average.

THE BUTTER MARKET

had but few baskets in it and would have been even more sparsely filled if the Havelock local had not brought a few farmers wives from that vicinity.

Driving on the main streets has become extremely dangerous and not a few upsets occurred this morning though with no serious result. It would be a spirited horse indeed, which would run far to-day. The horses on the snow ploughs had to be changed at intervals all day as the work of sinking above the knees at every point proved a rapid sapper of stamina. The county councillors were not deterred from attending the morning session of that body by the snow, and with their teams and light cutters came skimming in over the snow from two directions, some of them reporting that the roads were so completely blocked as to necessitate the taking to the fields to make their way into town.

COUNTY COUNCIL IN SESSION.

THE WORK OF THE COMMITTEES DEALT WITH.

An Evening Session—Several Reports Presented.

FRIDAY, Jan. 25th.

The council went into session at 5.30, the warden in the chair and all the members present.

After routine

Mr. Hawthorne, chairman, presented the report of the committee on

PRINTING

which was adopted as follows:—

The Committee on Printing beg leave to report as follows:

1. That Mr. Hawthorne, Reeve of Dummer, be chairman of this committee.

2. That the County Clerk be instructed to grant to the Norwood Register and Lakefield News, alternately, the printing of the list of convictions and the assessment schedules required by law to be published, at the same price as last year.

3. That all the other county printing be divided by the clerk between the EXAMINER, Review and Times, in as equal a manner as possible, and that the division of such printing, and the terms thereof as arranged between the interested parties and the County Clerk, be confirmed, save and except that the County Clerk, in his judgment, is to apportion to the Lakefield News and Norwood Register a fair proportion of printing which he shall consider those offices to be entitled to, and the County Clerk is directed to instruct the printers to cut down, as far as possible, the blank spaces heretofore existing in the minutes of the proceedings of the council, and to place in pages all tables that can be inserted conveniently.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. HAWTHORNE,
Chairman.

County Council Chambers, Peterborough, January 25th, 1895.

Mr. Forster, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on

APPOINTMENTS

as follows:—

The Committee on Appointments to office beg leave to report as follows:—

1. That Mr. Forster, Reeve of Monaghan, be chairman of this committee.

2. That Mr. John Breckenridge, of Asphodel, be re-appointed trustee of the Norwood High School.

3. That Messrs. Sanderson and John Carnegie be members of the Board of Audit of Accounts in connection with the Administration of Justice.

4. That Mr. John E. Belcher be re-appointed County Engineer.

5. That Dr. A. E. Yelland be re-appointed Gaol Surgeon at same salary as last year.

6. That Mr. Henderson Nesbitt, be re-appointed caretaker of the Court House and grounds at same salary as last year.

7. That Mr. W. S. Kelly be appointed caretaker of the Mud Lake bridge and swing at same salary as last year.

8. That Mr. John Flood be appointed overseer of the Pigeon Creek bridge at same salary as last year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOS. FORSTER,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, January 25th, 1895.

Report adopted.

Mr. Buck, chairman, presented the report of the committee on

SCHOOLS

as follows:

The Committee on Schools beg leave to report as follows:

1. That William Buck, reeve of Asphodel, be chairman of this committee.

2. That the County School Inspector be requested to follow the system of teaching reading recommended by the Education Department at Toronto and to instruct all teachers under him to adopt and to pursue the same, and until the particular system of teaching reading encouraged by the Inspector, called by him the phonetic alphabetic system of reading is approved of by the Education Department, your committee places on record its entire disapproval of the same, and direct that it be discontinued.

3. That the report of the County School Inspector be adopted.

4. That the County School Inspector be directed to state in his future report the date when and the length of time which he spends in examining each school.

5. That Messrs. J. C. Brown, County School Inspector, John Davidson, M.A., principal of the Norwood High School, and William Evans, principal of the Lakefield public school, be the County Board of Examiners to examine teachers and give certificates in accordance with the statute in that behalf.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. BUCK,
Chairman.

County County Chambers, Peterborough, January 25th, 1895.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Moloney, chairman, presented the report of the committee on

ROADS AND BRIDGES

as below:

The Committee on Roads and Bridges beg leave to report as follows:

1. That Mr. John Moloney, Reeve of Douro, be chairman of this committee.

2. That the report of the County Engineer be received.

3. That Messrs. Middleton, Moloney, Anderson and Forster be a special Committee on Roads and Bridges, and that the reeve of each township be added by the above committee as a consulting member thereof, in all matters affecting the roads and bridges of such township.

4. That the special Committee on Roads and Bridges be instructed to take into consideration the matters mentioned in the County Engineer's report with respect to the Bobcaygeon, Pigeon Creek, Nassau Locks, Lakefield and Douglas River bridges, with power to take such action as they see fit.

5. That the matter of repairs to the Keene station bridge be left in the hands of the Reeve of Otonabee, with power to act as he sees fit.

6. That the matter of Comstock's bridge in the Township of Asphodel referred to in the County Engineer's report be referred to the special Bridge Committee with power to act.

7. That the matter of the Kismount bridge be left in the hands of the Warden, with full power to take such action as he may see fit with respect thereto.

8. That a special grant of $60 be given to each of the municipalities of Burleigh, Harvey, Galway and Chandos, for expenditure on roads and bridges therein, and that the respective reeve of each such municipality be commissioners for the expenditure of the same. Each to furnish to the council a certified statement in detail of the manner in which said moneys are expended.

9. That a special grant of $100 be given to the Township of Dummer for expenditure on roads and bridges therein in case that the conditions under which the grant of $100, recommended by paragraph 8 of the January, 1894, report of this committee, be not complied with.

JOHN MOLONEY,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, January 25th, 1895.

Mr. Anderson, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on

as follows:

The Committee on Bridges beg leave to report as follows:

1. That William Sanderson, Reeve of Otonabee, be chairman of this committee.

2. Your committee recommend that no action be taken with respect to the communication from the clerk of the County of Grey, asking this council to petition for amendment to the Railway Act abolishing the street patrol cattle guard.

3. Your committee recommend that the petition of the Millfield Association of Peterborough, be granted, and your committee request the County Clerk to forward to the Association a copy of the resolution of this council, passed on June 12th, 1894, and reported in the minutes of the proceedings of the council for 1894 on page 181, wherein this council expresses its willingness to erect and maintain such an institution, provided the town of Peterborough will co-operate therein.

4. Your committee recommend that the County Engineer forthwith bring to the attention of the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham the resolution of the joint committee of Wallace Point Bridge, passed on Dec. 27th, 1894, recommending the Dominion Government to assume control of the swing bridge at Wallace Point and request such council to pass a memorial according to the tenor of such resolution.

5. Your committee recommend the council to pass a memorial to the Dominion Government with respect to her assumption of the swing of the Wallace Point Bridge in accordance with the tenor of the resolution of such joint committee.

6. Your committee recommend that this council pass a memorial to the Dominion Government asking them to assume control of all swings in bridges over the Trent Valley waters and further recommend that the town of Peterborough be requested to pass a memorial in similar terms.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. ANDERSON,
Chairman.

County Council Chambers, Peterborough, January 25th, 1895.

Report adopted.

Mr. Middleton presented the report of the Committee on

COUNTY PROPERTY,

which was adopted as follows:

The Committee on County Property beg leave to report as follows:

1. That the County Engineer be instructed to have the vault lock in office of County Crown Attorney repaired.

2. That the Warden procure a new flag for the use of the Court House Building.

3. That the gaoler be instructed to procure such lumber and material as he may require for the repair of gaol kitchen.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. MIDDLETON,
Chairman.

County Council Chambers Peterborough, January 25, 1895.

THE DETONATING CAP.

Deputy-Reeve Aunger, of Belmont, has an interesting letter in the Campbellford Herald, this week, on the properties of the "detonating cap," in answer to a communication which appeared in the Herald last week. He says:

"DEAR SIR,—I notice in last week's issue of the Herald, "Reader's" letter in reference to "detonating cap," as I called it in the Herald under head of Blairton News. He asks if the proper name is not "dynamite cap," as it is, as he understands, charged with that combustible.

In reply, I would say I gave the cap its proper name, inasmuch as detonate means to cause to explode; the cap causes the cartridge of dynamite, dualin and all other kinds of such blasting material containing nitro-glycerine—to explode. The cap is not charged with dynamite, as "Reader" supposes, but it contains 18 to 20 grains of fulminate of mercury.

It is generally claimed that nitro glycerine—the only explosive ingredient in dynamite—is exploded by the concussion of the cap, but some appear to have grounds to claim that explosion is caused by the cap communicating to it the exact temperature or heat required. For instance, in a table prepared by M. Champion, showing the temperature to which the nitro glycerine may be subjected, I quote the following: "At 365° F it boils, passing off yellow vapour, at 465° detonates with difficulty, at 494° it detonates, i.e., explodes very perfectly and violently, at 512° it explodes feebly, same as 465°, and at 548° it explodes very feebly with flame. At a dark red heat nitro-glycerine assumes the spheroidal state and evaporates without explosion, while I have known some caps to explode in the cartridge, together with the tamping out of the drill hole and having failed to detonate any part of the cartridge either by shock or heat.

In returning to what our reply calls for, "Reader," appears to doubt that the shell of a cap at its explosion travels at the rate of twenty thousand feet in a second. That such is the velocity of the cap is the statement of Prof. George M. Mowbray, and he adds, "nitro glycerine explodes with far greater or far more rapid velocity."

Again, "Reader" says a second is too short a time for such a feat to be accomplished in." I fail to agree with him for more reasons than one. Often when blasting in open cuts, when the rock was not wanted for filling, and to save drawing it away, and not caring if it went to Ballahack, we have over-charged our holes a little, and hurled fragments of rock, well up into the hundreds of pounds, scores of yards away in a second, with common rock powder, which has only a force of one to ten of nearly all other explosives.

Our senses are about as incapable of measuring such degrees of velocity as they are of the conception of the division of a second into millions of parts.

A HOME PROVIDED.

The Children's Aid Society Looks After the Lad.

The Review last evening was rather premature in making its appeal to the public for succor for an unfortunate lad, who had applied for shelter at the police station. At the time the article in question was written, the Children's Aid Society, which was completely ignored by the Review, had taken the case in hand, and was making provision for the lad's future welfare.

He was taken to a hotel for the night, and this morning was installed in the Peterborough Protestant Home. To-day arrangements are being made for the boy to go to a farmer, who is willing to take such a lad, and provide him with a comfortable home.

How Portugal Will Get a Navy.

Portugal proposes to obtain a modern navy in a novel manner. First class shipbuilders are to be asked how many vessels of specified types they will supply a year, for twenty years or less, in consideration of $550,000 a year and certain monopolies. The award will go to the firm that will offer the most in the least time and for the shortest period of monoply. The government shipyards will be closed and one yard established at Lisbon, to which all the existing machinery and operatives will be sent. The plant, material, and fuel will be free from duty; all repairing work for the government, both in Europe and the colonies, will go to the new establishment. The cruisers are to be of wood, copper sheathed, and of the pattern of the Japanese Yoshino, of 4,200 tons and twenty-three knots. There are to be ten destroyers, of the Havoc type, but with twenty-eight knots and a radius of 4,000 miles at ten knots, and a large number of torpedo boats and gunboats.

Her Advice.

"I suppose," observed the tramp, bitterly, "you would like to have me get off the earth. But I cannot."

"Have you tried soft soap?" asked the woman in the blue gingham dress, dispassionately.

Equal to the Occasion.

Bob—What did the lecturer say when you threw those cabbages at him?

Dick—Oh, he said he had hoped the audience would be pleased, but he really hadn't expected they would entirely lose their heads.

DIED.

JOHNSTON—At the family residence, Cavan, on Friday morning, January 25th, 1895, Edward Johnston, aged 69 years.

Most smokers like a cool, mild and pure smoking tobacco. Clegg's mixture has these qualities, and in consequence is gaining in favor every day. Try it. E. B. Clegg, Peterboro street.

TORONTO'S PROPOSED NEW HOTEL.

The Globe in referring to an article in the EXAMINER, objecting to the granting of Provincial property in Toronto as a site for a proposed new hotel, assumes to treat the matter as a fair business transaction, in which the Province would be recouped for the gift by the increase in value of adjacent property, consequent upon the erection of a large hotel. But our big contemporary did not add proof to assumption, nor cite any evidence in support of its contention that the Province would in any way be a gainer by granting the free site in question. Certainly in its own city the Globe has evidence, notably in the Palmer House, that the existence of a large hotel has not added value to the property in the vicinity in the shape of pretentious business or other buildings, such as one would expect would be erected on a valuable site. Experience in the past has failed to show that erection or existence of hotels has the effect of increasing the value of property in their neighbourhood, and it is reasonable to assume, in the absence of any direct evidence, that the erection of the Toronto hotel will not result in giving a factitious value to the lands in the vicinity. The EXAMINER objects on principle to the provincial property being alienated on speculative grounds. Such barter should be beneath the dignity of the University Trustees.

HOCKEY.

One of the most interesting hockey matches of the season was that played at the Charlotte street rink last night between the staff of the Ontario Bank and the "Perches" of Ashburnham. Promptly at the appointed hour (10 o'clock) the referee, Mr. "Lee" Dunford, sounded the gong and the players of both sides lined up on the ice. The Perchers were captained by Mr. Benedict, and the Ontario's under the supervision of Mr. W. D. Parker. Before The playing started. Lawyer W. F. Johnston, who drew up the challenge, read aloud the agreements entered into, and also the amount of the bonds for their due performance.

The roll of each side was called by the captains and the following were found to be the sides:

Perches.		Ontario.
Wonham	Goal	Crane
Parsons	Point	Montgomery
Lefevre	Cover point	Thompson
Anderson	Forwards	Mowill
Strickland		Hamilton
Taylor		Hudson
Benedict		Parker
J P Hurley	Umpire	H J Grassett

At the conclusion of the roll call, Benedict and Parker faced and the puck was started on a very uncertain journey, first it would go down to the Perche's home, then to the Ontario's poles, and the large number of spectators were wild with excitement. After considerable playing, the Ontarios managed to score a goal by a very fine shot from McGill. The Perches soon after placed a goal to their credit and they kept up with the opposing team and when time was called, managed to come out on top by one game. The result, 4 to 3 in favour of the Perches, was heralded with cheers from the ladies in the gallery.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Captain Parker played a very fast game, his only fault being that he was too anxious to occupy too much ice. This was enjoyed by the ladies who would shower bouquets on him when he would perform the feat.

Capt. Benedict was also the recipient of many bouquets from his admirers. His "rushes were innumerable and were loudly applauded.

Montgomery, by very clever playing, succeeded in scoring two goals for the Ontarios.

The referee was kept busy deciding "off sides."

Hudson bids fair to become one of the crack forwards of Ontario—or rather of the Ontario team.

Wonham and Parsons attended to the scoring for the Perches.

The Perches contemplate challenging the Bachelors of Belleville and Lindsay to a game.

After the match an oyster supper was partaken of by both teams in the dining rooms of the Palace Restaurant.

Millbrook and Keene will play in the former place on either Tuesday or a week from that day.

A ladies' Hookey club was organized in Millbrook on Thursday evening. They will have the use of the rink on Saturday afternoon.

The Trent Valley Canal hockey team played in Lakefield, last evening, and defeated the team of that place by a score of 7 goals to 3. The teams lined up as follows:

Lakefield.		Peterborough.
Bell	Goal	Guy
Isbister	Point	Pousette
Lampiere	Cover Point	Adams
T Ridpath	Forwards	Logan
J Clark		McGill
J Ridpath		Ackerman
S Ridpath		Crossley

Crossley was unfortunate enough to lose his grip containing his boots and skates, when returning from Lakefield last night. An obligation will be conferred if the finder would return them to the Peterborough rink.

CURLIANIA.

The first curling match that has been played in Millbrook this season took place on Thursday between Port Hope and Millbrook, and resulted in favour of the home team by 16 shots. The following are the rinks:

Millbrook.	Port Hope.
RINK NO. 1.
A A Smith,	Griffin,
C H Winslow,	Rosevear,
C Nesbitt,	Mousel,
W T Wood, skip....20	S Petterson, skip.....11
RINK NO. 2.
W Collins,	H Rosevear,
H M Wood,	Scott,
D Hampton,	Peacock,
G Hetherington, sk..19	Henning, skip.....12
Total.....39	Total.....23

Majority for Millbrook, 16 shots.

These are the same rinks Millbrook sends to Peterborough next Wednesday to play for the Tankard.

The Tankard rinks of the Thistle and Granite divisions of the curling club, had a practice game last night with the following result:

Thistles.	Granites
W G Ferguson,	Dr Boucher,
C McGill,	W Salisbury,
T Rutherford,	G W Hatton,
S Ray, sk.....15	T E Attrill, sk.....9

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs, will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for these first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

This Will Make The Furs Fly!

Men's and Boys' Im. Fur Caps, ..50c., worth $1

Special Reductions all over the store in our Regular Stock.

FAIRWEATHER & CO.,

Furriers, &c., Corner George and Simcoe Sts.

No Tricks

There are two ways of keeping store. One is to cut up antics; water or smoke the cottons; coax trade with damaged goods or bankrupt stocks. The other way is to do legitimate business. Legitimate business, we belive, is to buy and sell for cash entirely new goods at bargain prices, and to save you every possible dollar.

Old or poor goods are unknown here. Uniform methods! No tricks! Not a ghost of a trick with our consent or knowledge.

The newspapers are just now filling up with SCREAMING bargains from the big Toronto fire. Ough! If the weather was not so cold we might start a little bonfire in our back yard, scorch a web or two of cotton and have a big sale of damaged goods—if we did business in that way. But we don't. Tricks like these won't pay. Values such as we have stimulate trade well enough for us, and each day finds plenty of business here because of such values we have in

—Linens and Cottons
—Ladies' Underwear
—42-inch Fancy Tweed Effects
—42-inch Fine Dress Serge
—Lace Curtains
—Dress Goods
—Tam O'Shanters
—Children's Hoods
—Children's Bootees
—Handkerchiefs
—Gloves and Hosiery
—Housefurnishings

We shall be pleased to show you genuine bargains. But see the goods—that's the main thing. Investigate qualities and compare values.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

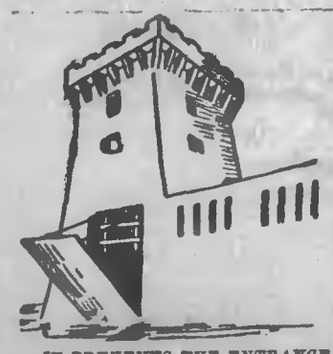
C. POWELL.



IT PREVENTS THE ENTRANCE of disease—pure blood or an active liver. How explained? The circulation of the blood is the great highway over which the germs of disease travel, the liver is the quarantine through whose gate any dread disease may or may not pass, as the liver chooses.

Are you watchful? Is your blood in order and your liver active, so as to repel disease? If not, you will find in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery just the help you need. It comes to your assistance when you have such warnings of impure blood and inactive liver, as pimples, boils or carbuncles; or a feeling of lassitude, weakness and despondency. When your flesh is, from any cause, "reduced below a healthy standard," you've only to take the "Discovery," which will set all the organs into vigorous action and builds up both flesh and strength. Avoid nauseous preparations of Cod liver oil. They add fat, but not wholesome flesh or healthy tissue.

A TALE TOLD THE EDITOR.

MR. THOS. STRANG SPEAKS THAT SUFFERERS MAY READ AND LIVE.

Attacked With La Grippe, the After Effects Developing Heart Trouble—His Friends Thought Him Near Death.s Door—After Many Failures He has Once More Regained the Blessings of Perfect Health.

From the Comber Herald.

Strangfield is a post office corner about six miles from Comber. It was named after the highly respected and well known family of Strangs. The neighbourhood is a quiet one, being inhabited by a church-going, sober, industrious people. Among the people of that neighbourhood none is better or more favourably known than Mr. Thos. Strang. Mr. Strang is a man of middle age and a bachelor. A few days ago, he related to the Herald the story of his recovery from an illness which he believes would have resulted fatally, but for the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The origin of Mr. Strang's trouble was la grippe, which developed into heart disease. He laid for months with every nerve in his frail body unstrung. He tried many medicines, but none seemed to materially benefit him. He would rally at times and endeavour to walk, but his system being reduced and weakened he would frequently fall prostrate to the ground, and his friends had to carry him into the house. This terrible state of things lasted for months, and all the while he was getting weaker, and even the most hopeful of his friends feared the worst. Mr. Strang was strongly urged to try the world-renowned Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and consented to do so. A neighbour was dispatched to the Comber drug store for a supply. In a few days after beginning their use he began to improve. In a couple of weeks he was able to walk around, and to-day Mr. Strang is rejoicing and telling the same old story that hundreds of others are telling in this fair Dominion—the story of renewed strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Strang is now a sound man. Quite frequently he walks to Comber, a distance of six miles, to attend church. He informed the Herald that he was only too glad to give his experience so that suffering humanity may also reap the benefit and thus be released from the thraldom of disease and pain. To his benefactors—for such they are—Mr. Strang feels that he owes a debt of gratitude. With him the days when beads of agony stood on his brow have passed away, and his body has been regenerated anew by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The after effects of la grippe and all troubles due to poor blood or shattered nerves, speedily yield to a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cure when other medicines fail, and no one should suffer for an hour without giving this great remedy a trial. Sold by dealers or sent by mail postpaid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Why He Got the Worst of It.

A curious incident regarding a strait occurred during the Russian war. It would have been ludicrous, if anything can be ludicrous connected with war. Commodore Elliot was blockading a Russian squadron in the Gulf of Saghalin, on the east coast of Siberia. Thinking he had the Russians in a cul de sac, he complacently waited for them to come out as the water was too shallow for him to attack them. As the enemy did not come out he sent in to investigate, and found, to his astonishment, that Russians and ships had vanished. While he had been waiting for them in the south they had quietly slipped ont by the north, teaching both him and the British government a rather severe lesson in geography, as it had been thought that Saghalin was an isthmus, and they were totally unaware of a narrow channel leading from the gulf to the sea of Okhotsk.

Exactly.

"Lemme see; what is the French for 'yes!'"

"Oui."

"Wet Oh, you and I."

"Yes; O, U and I."

"I have been a victim to terrible headaches," writes C. F. Newman, Dug Spur, Va., "and have never found anything to relieve them so quickly as Ayer's Pills. Since I began taking this medicine, the attacks have been less frequent, till they have ceased altogether."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

PUTTING BOTH FEET FOREMOST.

She—Why have you those loops on the reins, George?

George—Merely to tell you, dearest, how much I love you.

SOME FRESH ANECDOTES.

All Told Without an Undue Waste of Words.

A very ignorant and wealthy woman who was fond of talking about her "art gallery," one day met at the house of an acquaintance a lady who had not called on her, although they lived in the same town. "Come and see me, do!" said Mrs. B——, the patron of art, as the other lady was taking her leave. "Thank you very much," was the non-committal reply. "We've got a new picture, too. That ought to tempt you to come, if I can't." "I should be very glad, indeed, to see it." "Such a lovely picture! Sometimes it seems to me I could look at it all day long." "What is the subject of your picture, Mrs. B——?" inquired the hostess. "Jupiter and ten," was the reply. It was "Jubiter and Io."

He Had Written Many Falsehoods.

A member of the Chamber of Deputies, much given to long speeches, one day found another deputy conversing in the lobby with a man whose face seemed familiar to him, but whom he could not remember. He fancied the man must be an intruding journalist. "Pardon me," he said to the other man, "but whom have we here?" "Allow me to introduce to you," answered the deputy, "the man who has written more falsehoods and stupidities than any other man living." "Indeed!" said the great man; "then my supposition was correct that he is a journalist?" "Not at all; he is the official stenographer of the Chamber.

A Frenchman's Story.

Some Frenchmen were boasting of their "affairs of honor," when one of them, a Marseillais, declared that he had inflicted upon an antagonist the most dreadful fate that a duelist had ever met. "How was it?" asked everybody. "I was at a hotel, and I chanced to insult a total stranger. It turned out that he was a dancing master. 'One or the other of us,' he declared, in fearful wrath, 'will not go out of this room alive!' 'So let it be,' I shouted in response; and then I rushed out of the room, locked the door behind me, and left him there to die!"

The Way to Millbank.

A Canadian, traveling in England, on one occasion happened to be in the neighborhood of Millbank Prison, and fancied that he would take a glimpse at that famous place of detention. "Can you tell me the way to Millbank?" he asked of a stout tradesman whom he met. "Aye," answered John Bull; "knock me down and rob me pockets, and you'll soon enough be on the straight road there!" Then, without vouchsafing any further information, he passed on with a chuckle.

Baked Eagles.

"John Phœnix" (Lieutenant Darby) was standing on Montgomery street one day, a way back in the '50's (writes a Los Angeles reader of the Argonaut), when a delivery wagon, labeled "Eagle Bakery," came along. Phœnix hailed the driver, and, going up to the wagon, said: "Give me one." "One of what?" said the driver. "One of those," replied Phœnix. "Those what?" said the driver. "Why one of your baked eagles." It is old, but good.

The Agnostic.

I do not know where heaven may be,
When parted from the girl I love;
There's naught about that's sweet to see,
And the dun clouds hang low above.
When she I love is far from me
I do not know where heaven may be.

To solve the mystery of life
In vain I try when she's away,
Then these few years of wrong and strife
Seem useless; and the flinty way
We tread with tears and gloom is rife,
When she's away, what use is life?

But when I'm with her, then I know
That heaven is shining in her eyes;
That life is given me, to go
Holding the little hand I prize
Life's purpose then is plain to me
Nor do I doubt where heaven may be.

In Hamilton.

She—I do hope, Edwin, you will not have to walk the floor with the twins to-night. You are so good-natured about it, too—you never lose your temper.

He—My dear, we must be prepared to make these little sacrifices if we expect to catch up with the Greater Toronto.

A Dangerous Woman.

"What did the phrenologist say when he examined your bumps?"

"He said that my wife had a very well-developed muscle."

After La Grippe.

After La Grippe obstinate coughs, lung trouble, etc., frequently follow. There is no remedy so prompt, and at the same time effectual and pleasant, as Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites, which is the latest and best combination of anti-consumptive remedies. Price 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Relief in Six Hours.

MAN NOT FROM MARS.

Mr. W. Q. Judge, F. T. S., Thinks Mankind Came From the Moon.

HE various views on the subject of Mars are important if true; in any event they are interesting. But I was sorry to see a recent writer denying the possibility of the earth becoming cooled and forming on the outside a crust, on the ground that the learned professors might not be able to make a pot of molten steel cool off in just the same way. We have many examples in nature, and some in physiology, showing how fluid masses, moving in the equivalent of space for a mass of molten new matter, can accumulate to themselves an outer crust and move as balls or spheroids in the general mass to which they were before homogenous. This happens in the digestive tract, as when small masses of serum or mucous become covered with a tough skin, under which the inside is perfectly fluid. It similarly takes place in those cases of crystalization in which the hard stone holds in its centre a quantity of uncrystallized fluid and some only partly changed. And if to this we add the facts well known about volcanoes and the melted material they throw out, as well as the observations of vast subterranean fires seen in the bowels of partly active volcanoes, there is sufficient ground for believing that the earth was once a mass of fluid in space.

We have to believe in one of three theories, it seems to me. That the earth and all planets were created especially and as they are by some deity, or that it is all a matter of chance, or, lastly, that evolution, which is in one sense a process of condensation, brought into visible existence planets, comets and suns. The last is the theosophical theory.

In respect to such remote globes as Mars we have no means of knowing much by observation, and those Theosophists who believe in the Adepts depend in that matter upon what the latter have said so far as it can be understood in view of what we know here. These Adepts have stated that Mars is not now inhabited, but is in a period of obscuration so far as human life and energies are concerned. These obscurations occur at regular periods separated by enormous stretches of time, and they apply to the earth as well as to Mars. While the obscuration holds the planet rolls in the sky, but man is not there. He has gone on to another body invisible to us where he continues the evolution of those parts of his complex nature which relate especially to that other globe. So there may well be atmosphere on Mars and polar ice with equatorial heat, without any sentient population. The presence of atmosphere does not prove the presence of a population; the absence of atmosphere only proves the absence of air breathing beings. There might be a population of beings on such an apparently airless body as the moon; they would be breathers of electricity only and not visible to us.

Mystery of the Moon.

The explanation of the genesis of the earth is a revelation of what was called in the East a mystery of the moon. The earth is held by the Adepts to be the child of the moon and not its parent. This theory is no more wild nor fanciful than the modern one, that the earth, while cooling, threw out into space a mass of matter which is now our moon. There is the difficulty about the latter that if it be the fact, why did not the moon develop into a smaller earth with similar beings. It does not resemble a child of the earth, but it looks very like what the Adepts say it is—the dead body formerly used by the energies now at work on our globe. It is the dead corpse of the entity—the collection of energies—now imprisoned on the newer earth, just as if a man should now find in some churchyard, or in Egypt, the corpse or mummy used by him in a former life.

Let me restate it. There was once no earth of ours. We as souls in bodies adapted to that life were on the moon and she then rolled in the sky apparently unchangeable, but all the time undergoing with us her evolution. Long ages passed and the globe reached her time of death, which must throw her energies into space and cause the souls (ourselves) to travel further, seeking another "mansion in the heavens." The throes of physical death then drew out of the moon nearly all her forces, which projected into space in the form of a subtle electricity, sought for and found a spot in space where they could revolve and evolve a new earth.

A Neutral Spot.

This would be a neutral spot, of which there are uncountable numbers in the sky. The forces there revolved and by cosmic chemistry and dynamics gradually condensed invisible matter in time a visible mass of molten matter revolved in space. It grew denser on the surface and at last became an earth. We, meanwhile, as souls, were involved in the whole process. This left the moon as a corpse. At first it was large, but rapid absorption by its child, the earth, contracted it during the ages that have followed, until now it is smaller than we and compelled to circle with us about the sun until complete absorption shall have dissipated the whole mass.

The races of men have to go through their evolution on the earth until they have circled round a mighty planetary chain, of which earth is a member, seven full times, and when they are finished there will be no moon in the sky, for she will be a thing of the ancient past.

Mars is a globe like ours and hence visible, but he has six companions also, making his family. And the sun is the great father or centre for them all. In the case of both earth and Mars, where a great human race flies off to an adjoining member of the family to develop one of the great human characteristics, the globe, which is for a time deserted, goes into a period of obscuration, or becomes an arable field, so as to prepare for the returning human life wave.

Mars in an Obscured State.

In the case of Mars, it is said the planet is in the "arable" or obscured state because its souls have for a time gone elsewhere for their own good. In time, after many, many centuries, the earth will be in a similarly obscured condition, and then perhaps the returned Martians will be speculating on what is the matter with us if they shall not know more about the Cosmos that we permit ourselves to learn.

My conclusion, then, is that we came from the moon before she had contracted to her present size; that as we are all spiritual beings, we arrived here as souls do along the subtle superelectrical current which are not known to science, but are suspected by those who know the reality of the soul life and have had some experience with the telepathic communication which bridges distances no matter how great.—William Q. Judge, in New York Herald.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.
SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE
Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best.
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand! Ma rufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

The British Museum Cat.

One of the best-known and most popular domestic pets in London is the British museum cat. It is just about twelve months ago since the animal, which has apparently strayed from somewhere, attached himself to the porter's quarters, facing Great Russell street. Being a huge, gray, beautifully marked cat he was encouraged to remain instead of being unceremoniously driven off, as assuredly would have been his fate had he been possessed of fewer personal attractions. From the first the animal has been a favorite with the attendants and the general public; now he constitutes one of the attractions of the great establishment and is eagerly sought for by occasional visitors, both adult and juvenile.

Lately the cat has considerably extended the sphere of his rambles. He occasionally invades the reading-room, where he receives the attention of a stroking from even the most reserved and studious habitues. At nights the animal parades the galleries and by an odd fancy seems to prefer the Egyptian room, where so many embalmed sanctified specimens of his tribe are exhibited.—The London Chronicle.

A Wire Fly Wheel.

Among the most recent and novel applications of wire, perhaps none has greater interest in the mechanical world than that presented by the new wire fly wheel lately erected at the Mannesmann Tube Company's works, Germany. Heavy fly wheels driven at high velocities obviously present dangers of breaking asunder from the great centrifugal force developed. The wheel at the factory mentioned consists of a cast iron hub or boss, to which two steel plate disks or checks, about twenty feet in diameter, are bolted. The peripheral space between the disks is filled with some seventy tons of No. 5 steel wire, completely wound around the hub, and the tensile resistance thus obtained is far superior to any casting. This huge fly wheel is driven at a speed of 240 revolutions per minute, or a peripheral velocity of about 3.8 miles per minute, which is nearly three times the average speed of any express train in the world. The length of wire upon such a constructed fly wheel would be about 250 miles.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FASHION'S MIRROR.

Short jackets cut square in front are used for little girls from four to ten years of age.

Slashings in sleeves, showing a different material underneath, are seen on many of the new models.

The divided skirt for bicycle riders is an accomplished fact, since it has received the sanction of fashion.

The new sleeves for autumn are no smaller than those now worn, but there is a tendency to do away with berthas and the extreme revers trimming, which add such breadth to the corsage.

You will be quite correct, says an authority on dress, if you have your new costume made with a velvet bodice, and skirt and sleeves of heavy crepon. The former may be a direct contrast to the latter if you wish, or of the same color and tint, although of such diverse material. Velvet bodices will undoubtedly be one of the features of the coming season, and will be made without sleeves, the latter almost invariably matching the skirt.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

China has an academy of manner that prescribes etiquette for the whole empire.

In Hong Kong, according to recent statistics, the population averages only 366 women to every 1,000 men.

If the United States had as great a population relatively as Japan it would have a population of 960,000,000 people.

Mrs. Marth C. Fisher, of Washington, D. C., having use for a baby carriage when living in Japan with her husband in the the early days, invented what is now known as the jinrikisha. Wheeled vehicles had not being in use, and the little two-wheeled baby carriage attracted great attention.

Japanese workmen bathe the whole body once a day, and some of them twice. Public baths are provided on every street. They are fed by a constant current of cold and hot water. The bather plunges in, remains immersed some ten minutes, then comes out and receives a warm douche of fresh water.

THINGS IN GERMANY.

Germany's proportion of suicides is larger than that of any other European country.

The number of telephonic stations in Germany was 1,504 in 1881, had increased at the beginning of the present year to 63,558.

An international matrimonial paper is about to make its appearance in Berlin, Germany. The new journal will be printed in three languages—German, English and French.

Great discontent is shown in Germany at the large number of pensioned officers in the army. Since the present emperor ascended the throne in 1888, 4,000 have been forced to resign.

Eisleben, the birthplace of Martin Luther, is sinking into the moor upon which it is built. Measures have been taken in recent years to drain the bog, without avail, and the inhabitants are seriously thinking of abandoning the town.

Reformers of South Huron.

BRUCEFIELD, Ont., Jan. 26.—The annual meeting of the Reform Association of South Huron met yesterday for the purpose of electing officers and transacting other business. A fair attendance, considering the state of the roads, which in many cases were almost impassible. Mr. A. Mustard, Brucefield, was elected President; Jas. Snell, Londesboro, Vice-President; Thos. Fraser, Brucefield, Secretary; Mr. Geo. Walker, Tuckersmith, treasurer. Mr. Mustard, the newly elected president, briefly addressed the meeting. He called on Mr. John McMillan, M.P., who was present. Mr. McMillan responded in a speech of considerable length, dealing with the more important issues that are before the country. He dealt fully with the tariff. Mr. McLean, M.P.P., who was present, delivered an address of some length, containing many good points and suggestions and was well received. The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Laurier and McMillan.

The Y. M. C. A. Convention.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 26.—Yesterday's session of the Y. M. C. A. convention was of a highly interesting and diversified character. It consisted of three excellent addresses, namely, "The present outlook for railroad work in these province," by W. J. Orr, St. Thomas; "The worker and his Bible," by James Gibson, Ottawa. These papers were read in the absence of their authors. A pointed discussion took place on them, which took up the time until four o'clock, when Mr. Fred S. Goodman, of New York, gave an instructive Bible reading, which was much appreciated. The evening session was well attended. Prof. Canfield again led the service of song, after which College Evangelist F. S. Goodman, of New York, gave a long and able address on "College work in our association." The session was wholly devoted to college work, which interesting department was very fully discussed and its rapid growth and further expansiva commented upon. Many practical and helpful suggestions were made.

Trade in the Dominion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Bradstreet's says: General trade in the Dominion continues of moderate proportions. Toronto professes to find the outlook for business fairly satisfactory, but at Montreal no such prospect is in view at this time while collections are slow and spring goods are being ordered more slowly than one year ago. Halifax announces some little encouragement in trade circles with a moderate sorting up business. Canadian business failures number 38 this week against 64 last week, 48 in the week a year ago and 42 also two years ago. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $18,489,000 this week compared with $21,150,000 last week and $17,838,000 one year ago.

Escaped From the Asylum.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—Joseph Daigneault, of Sherrington, arrested on a charge of forgery and arson and removed from the St. Johns jail to the Longue Pointe asylum, has escaped. He has been seen making for the frontier. Officers are after him and hope to catch him. The medical men are convinced that Daigneault was only shamming insanity.

Accident to an Aged Guelph Woman.

SOME YANKEE CITIES.

Philadelphia has 2,000 miles of regularly laid out streets, and 100 miles of street car lines. It produces every year $500,000,000 of goods.

Durham, N. C., is one of the greatest tobacco manufacturing points in the south. One firm there makes 300,000,000 cigarettes every year.

Buffalo has a city hall that cost $1,350,000. Over 90,000,000 bushels of grain have passed through Buffalo going east in a single season.

The latest census report shows that there are more marriages in Brooklyn, in proportion to its population, than any other city of the union.

Forger Quigley in Court.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—When Edwin O. Quigley, who pleaded guilty to three indictments for forgery of various city bonds aggregating, it is estimated, more than $200,000, was arraigned for sentence before Recorder Goff yesterday, the recorder remanded him until to-morrow. He did this at the request of Assistant-District Attorney Davis who said there were still several unexplained features of Quigley's forgeries that would have to be inquired into by the state.

Fatal Accident to a Sleighing Party.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 26.—A special to the Telegraph from Lewiston states that a sleighing party was struck by a train near Kreamer, on the Lewistown division of the Pennsylvania road, yesterday. Isaac Ronning and his son were killed. A lawyer named Patterson had both legs cut off and Miss Burns' had one leg taken off and an arm broken. Two others named Hummel were severely injured.

RUTLAND, Vt., Jan. 26.—Jas. Flannigan, of this city, shot himself through the brain in Shrewsbury after a fight in which his shoulder was dislocated.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 26, 1895.

On the street here 800 bushels of wheat sold at 63 to 63 1-2c. for white, 61 to 63 for red, and 60 for goose; 1,500 of barley at 47 to 48 1-2c., one load of peas at 61c., and 400 oats at 35 to 35 1-2c.

The stocks of barley in sight at Buffalo were considerably reduced yesterday. A local consumer took out a large quantity and 13,000 additional went out by rail. The expected advance in quotations was made equal to about one cent on superior grades.

There were liberal sales of barley at Buffalo and more could have been sold at the same prices, but sellers would not meet the demand; 5,000 bush. Canada sold by sample at 64c.; No. 1 Canada held at 66c.

Wheat made another low record in Chicago, closing 1-8 to 5-8c. lower. Corn was firm and closed unchanged. Oats were sustained by the active demand in the cash market and closed 1-4 to 1-2c. higher.

At East Buffalo in sheep and lambs there were 35 cars on sale. Only a few Canadas; market 10 to 15 higher. Best lambs $4.90 to $5.25; good mixed sheep $3.75 to $3.90; export $3.50 to $4.25. Most of the Canadas now arriving are in bond for the English market and are consigned with a sale privilege here to exporters.

On the New York stock exchange there was a decline in prices during the opening hour, but a recovery followed promptly and a considerable part of the list was by the afternoon selling above the closing price of Thursday. This tone of increased strength continued up to the close. It affected almost every stock upon the list but it was made on light trading, apparently the buying in of small "sorts." Sales on the board, taking the matter as a whole, were hardly above the average.

There was a general reaction in stocks in London due to the unsettled affairs in France and the approach of the settlement here, followed by the usual Paris monthly settlement which will be heavy. Investment stocks were especially weak.

Grafton's great Mark-Down Sale is in full blast.

OTTAWA'S CARNIVAL.

The Allegorical Drive and the Storming of the Ice Palace.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—The allegorical drive yesterday afternoon was one of the greatest affairs ever witnessed in the city. The drive formed on Cartier square at two o'clock sharp. From the square the cars passed down Kent street, where they were shown to their different sections by members of the committee.

The procession was in charge of the gentlemen of the Ottawa Riding Club, with Mr. T. C. Bate as grand marshal and Messrs. R. Brown and A. H. H. Powell as assistant grand marshals. After the procession formed it took the following route: Proceeding north up Maria across the bridge to Theodore, Theodore to Nelson, Nelson to Daly, Daly to Cumberland, Cumberland to Church, Church to Dalhousie, Dalhousie to St. Patrick, St. Patrick to MacKenzie avenue, along MacKenzie avenue through the living arch to Wellington, Wellington to Lyon, Lyon to Lisgar, Lisgar to Kent, Kent to MacLaren, MacLaren to Metcalfe, Metcalfe to Maria, where it was dispersed.

Thousands witnessed the drive along the route. It is calculated that some ten thousand people reached the city yesterday by the different lines of railway running into the city.

The storming of the ice palace, which was the event of the week, was witnessed from Parliament hill and all the points from which Nepean Point was visible. The attack was made from the Hull shore and was very successful in every particular.

A Steamer Fast in the Ice.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Jan. 26.—The steamer Wisconsin is fast among ice hummocks in Lake Michigan, four miles out from this port. The steamer Osceola made several attempts to get to the vessel but failed. The icebound vessel is in no danger of going to pieces unless it should be struck by a gale.

A Compositor's Terrible Crime.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—William H. McGrath, a compositor on the Philadelphia Times, aged 31, shot his eight-year-old daughter Lillian, killing her instantly, and then put a bullet through his head. He died an hour later. He had been made insane by an attack of grip.

A BAD SCALP DISEASE

Scaly Eruptions on Head. Bleeding When Hair Was Combed. Physicians Tried. No Success. Cured by Cuticura.

Our little daughter of four years was troubled with a disease of the scalp. It looked at first like a heavy dandruff which we undertook to comb off, but found that these lumps would start bleeding. We applied to different physicians without success, until at last tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and by using your CUTICURA with CUTICURA SOAP, this scaly raised eruption entirely disappeared after three applications, and had no more trouble with it for a year, when it showed up again. We applied it as before, after which it has never given us any more trouble. Am well pleased with the success we had with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and would cheerfully recommend them in similar cases.

EDWARD KRANICH, Plantsville, Conn.

ITCHING AND BURNING

I have been troubled with Eczema for years, had the best medical help in Boston, and all failed to give me relief from that intense itching and burning. The first application of CUTICURA gave me immediate relief, and at the end of a week the sores were well.

MARIETTA DURGIN,
30 Tremont Street, Chelsea, Mass.

CUTICURA WORKS WONDERS

CUTICURA REMEDIES cleanse the system by external and internal medication of every eruption, impurity and disease, and constitute the most effective treatment of modern times.

No Tricks

There are two ways of keeping store. One is to cut up antics; water or smoke the cottons; coax trade with damaged goods or bankrupt stocks. The other way is to do legitimate business. Legitimate business, we belive, is to buy and sell for cash entirely new goods at bargain prices, and to save you every possible dollar.

Old or poor goods are unknown here. Uniform methods! No tricks! Not a ghost of a trick with our consent or knowledge.

The newspapers are just now filling up with SCREAMING bargains from the big Toronto fire. Ough! If the weather was not so cold we might start a little bonfire in our back yard, scorch a web or two of cotton and have a big sale of damaged goods—if we did business in that way. But we don't. Tricks like these won't pay. Values such as we have stimulate trade well enough for us, and each day finds plenty of business here because of such values we have in

—Ladies' Underwear
—48-inch Fancy Tweed Effects
—44-inch Fine Dress Serge
—Lace Curtains
—Dress Goods

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 13,996,800,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance

Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

AN ALIEN LABOR LAW

Welland County Council Wants Our Workingmen Protected.

TO MEMORIALIZE PARLIAMENT

A Resolution Urging the Government to Preserve Canadian Labor for Canadian Citizens — Americans Work in Canada at Starvation Wages.

WELLAND, Ont., Jan. 28.—The Welland County Council, on motion of the reeves of Fort Erie and International Bridge, unanimously adopted a resolution to memorialize Parliament to enact an alien labor law. The resolution is as follows:

"That in view of the general depression existing at present among the laboring classes and mechanics in this Canada of ours, owing to the fact that Canadians are excluded from employment in the neighboring republic of the United States without first declaring their intention of becoming citizens of that state and to the fact that large numbers of workingmen and mechanics are continually coming from the neighboring States to work in Canada at starvation wages, thus shutting off our own citizens from their means of subsistence; therefore, be it resolved that this council memorialize the Dominion Government to enact such legislation upon this subject as shall preserve Canadian labor for Canadian citizens."

FROM THE CAPITAL.

Close of the Carnival—The New Penitentiary at Alexandria.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—The carnival closed on Saturday night with the hockey match. It is declared by all to have been a great success. The outside visitors to the winter carnival during the present week have numbered at the lowest estimate 10,000 people, the same number as was claimed by the last Montreal carnival. Among the 10,000 are not included farmers from the surrounding district, who visited the capital with their wives and families. If numbers therefore go to make up success, and they certainly contribute in a large measure, the Ottawa carnival has been connected with anything but failure.

Dr. J. Macdonald, of Cape Breton, was sentenced recently to three months imprisonment under the Speedy Trials Act for certain defalcations in connection with the Government savings bank. It is now stated that the Government intends prosecuting Macdonald for forgery. The finance department has handed the case over to the justice department.

Douglas Stewart, of the Department of Justice, has returned from Alexandria, where he was with a view of purchasing the site selected for the new reformatory. He asked the parties for their price, but as they were too high the property will be expropriated by the Government.

A Bad Rear-End Collision.

ST. JOHNS, Que., Jan. 28.—A somewhat serious accident occurred on the Central railroad bridge here on Saturday. A freight train hauling in got stalled and was cut in two on the bridge, the forward part hauling into the yard. The conductor went back with his lamp to signal the incoming passenger train, but owing to the storm the signal was not seen and a tail-end pitch-in occurred. The van and a freight car took fire and were nearly totally destroyed. The fire department was called out and, laying some five hundred feet of hose, soon extinguished the fire. One car was toppled over to the ice below and two others were derailed on the bridge. A brakesman named Aldrich, who was on top of the car, was thrown on to the ice below and is thought to have a hip broken.

Sidney, C. B., Has Another Mystery.

SIDNEY, C.B., Jan. 28.—A second girl affair has been brought to light at the mines. Margaret McPherson, 16 years old, a daughter of Kenneth McPherson, piper, Little Glace Bay, was found early Saturday morning between Glace Bay and Port Morien, drugged and lying in a pond with her feet frozen in ice. The girl is still unconscious, consequently nothing definite is yet known concerning the manner in which she came to be in this predicament. Her feet will have to be amputated. Suspicion rests upon one man who together with his family were at one time inmates of the poor house. It is thought, perhaps, that this case may result in the solving of the Roche mystery

Y. M. C. A. Services in Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 28.—Despite the snowstorm on Saturday afternoon five sectional meetings of the Y.M.C.A. convention were held at which the exercises were highly interesting. The evening session was devoted to brief addresses on the "Needs of the Hour." Yesterday there was a very full programme, which commenced at 7.30 a.m. with a consecration service in the association rooms. Many of the city pulpits were occupied at both morning and evening services by ministers of the convention. In the evening a great farewell meeting was held in the Bridge Street Methodist Church. The meeting was of an interesting character and very impressive.

The Constant Drain on the Treasury Calls for Immediate Action — English Papers Comment Seriously on the Grave Financial Outlook.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The President and Secretary Carlisle spent several hours together at the White House yesterday. Mr. Carlisle brought with him financial data bearing on the depleted treasury gold reserve and with this as a basis the President began the preparation of a message to Congress. It is understood that it will treat principally of the continued drain of the gold reserve and remedies for stopping it. The message will, it is said, be short and vigorous and will be delivered to-day.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Daily Graphic says: "The United States' finances are drifting into a serious condition. It seems best to issue a large gold loan which would be favorably received in Europe."

The Standard says: "It took six months to exhaust the proceeds of the last bond sale. The next may go in three weeks on the present lines. The States are likely at no distant day to find themselves head and ears in debt, the currency depreciated to any imaginable discount and all the industries of the country in a state of collapse. Mr. Cleveland knows this but the chosen representatives of the people appear to be ignorant of the peril. Amateur professors of statecraft in Europe and at home are urging Mr. Cleveland to the redemption of the overgrown paper currency by a huge gold loan issued partly abroad. It is impossible to get a law authorizing such a loan through the present house and the temper and tendency of the next house nobody knows. The only steps seems to be another sale of five per cent. currency bonds for gold. This will last till the special session of the new congress can be summoned in March to deal with the currency. The prospect is cheerless but Americans have a trick of suddenly acting on a decision when it is least expected. If they can make up their minds to do so they can end their money troubles in a month."

AN INSANE MOTHER'S DEED.

Crazy Over Religion She Attempted to Burn Her Baby.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Crouching in a cell at the Franklin street station, mumbling at times unintelligently to herself, and alternately shrieking and cursing, while her eyes are blazing with the unnatural light of insanity, is Minnie Gotel, wife of John Gotel, an employe at the Central Car Shops in East Buffalo.

On Friday morning in their pretty little home at 18 Empire street this woman attempted a tragic act, sickening in its revolting details. Between nine and ten o'clock a clergyman living next door was passing when a woman ran from the house and excitedly implored him to enter.

"Come quick, for the love of God," she cried. "Come, come." And turning she ran in through the hall, followed by the minister. With feet that scarcely seemed to touch the floor she flew through the hall and sitting room to the little kitchen in the rear. The minister ran up the steps and just as he entered the hall a cry of anguish rang through the house. At the kitchen door a sight met his eyes which made his heart stand still. Over a stove was a half-dressed woman with wild looks and dishevelled hair. She had taken the lid from the stove and was trying to force the naked body of a baby girl on to the hot coals. Already the little one's feet had been pressed against the glowing fuel and the odor of burning flesh filled the room. Rushing to the woman's side, he hurled her back and grabbed her baby from her arms.

Mrs. Gotel's insanity was brought on by worrying and brooding over religious matters. She was ill for some weeks following the birth of her baby, and during the time her sister cared for her. The latter is a Spiritualists, and she, after much persuasion, got Mrs. Gotel to believe in the mysterious rappings, seances and other spiritualistic manifestations. When the woman grew better she followed up her new belief with all the ardor of a convert and attended meetings whenever an opportunity presented itself. She thought and talked of nothing else. Her mind weakened under the strain and it was whispered about in the neighborhood that she had become crazed from religion.

She exhibited no signs of violence, however, and her husband and friends believed the difficulty was of a temporary nature and would wear off as she became physically stronger.

A Millionaire Tried for Murder.

UNION, Mo., Jan. 28.—Millionaire Doctor Arthur Duestrow, of St. Louis, is on trial for the murder of his wife and 4-year-old son whom he shot in February last. Repeatedly the State has tried to bring on the trial but enlargements have been secured until now. Ex-Governor Charles P. Johnson is defending the doctor and trying to prove insanity. Eminent expert testimony is being put in for the defence, who have unlimited money behind them, and claim that Duestrow is a victim of paranoia. The accused is living luxuriously in the jail. Governor Johnson gets $50,000 for handling the case, beside which $30,000 has already been spent in preparing the defence.

Agreed to Die Together.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 28.—Walter C. Wright shot his wife Annie in their rooms, 427 Essex street. He then turned the weapon upon himself and the lifeless forms of both were found in bed next morning. Upon a note found in the pocket was a statement that the couple had agreed to die together and wished to be buried in one grave.

A Heavy Loss in Coal.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 28.—Capt. McKinley, of the McKinley Company, received a telegram from a captain of the tug barge Committee, stating the entire tow of coal, consisting of eighteen boats, was lost in the lower Ohio river. The accident happened near Hickman. The details are not known. The loss will be about $40,000; insured.

CIVIL WAR IN COLOMBIA

A Revolution, Planned for Some Time, at Last Breaks Out.

BOGOTA IN A STATE OF SIEGE

American Merchants in These States Have Cancelled All Orders for Goods—The Revolt, it is Feared, May Spread into the Isthmus of Panama.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The Tribune says rebellion has broken out in the United States of Colombia which is of such importance that the agents of New York merchants in that country have telegraphed orders to stop shipments of goods and cancelled all orders for the present. The revolution is the result of long premeditated scheme against the government which assumed definite form by the death of President Nunis.

The uprising was arranged for in the states of Santander, Cauca and Cundinamarca. The last named state is under the immediate control of the Federal government and the capital, Bogota, is situated in it.

On Friday the revolution broke out in Cundinamarca. It had then assumed such proportions that the entire nation was placed under martial law and the national troops have started for the scene of the rebellion. Bogota has been placed in a state of siege as the revolutionists are said to be approaching the capital. Gen. Rafael Reye, who did such good work in subduing the revolt of 1885, is thought to be in command of the government forces. Despatches state that the State of Tolima was also in revolt. Cundinamarca and Tolima are the two interior states of the republic.

It is feared that the revolt may spread to Panama and the transit across the isthmus be interrupted. This would cripple the Pacific mail and the Colombian lines of steamships and tie up the Panama railroad. President Ciro, of Colombia, telegraphs that he is able to subdue the revolutionists and that order would be restored in a few days.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Official notification of the revolution in the United States of Colombia has not yet been given to the heads of departments in Washington and in the absence of it they decline to discuss the situation.

MEXICAN-GUATEMALAN DISPUTE.

War Seems Inevitable Between These Two Republics.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 28.—The morning newspapers preserve silence as to the government's programme in the dispute with Guatemala. At the departments all inquirers are met with absolute refusal to discuss the situation, although an official statement in the near future is hinted. Guatemala's reply to Mexico's final demands is still a cabinet secret although numberless wild rumors as to its contents are spread hourly. There was a report that Senor Mariscal, of the foreign office, had received notice from Guatemala that she was ready to grant Mexico's request as to the frontier lands and to indemnify the country of the expenses incurred incidentally to the dispute. This report was denied officially. An extra force of men were working in the citadel all night. The Twenty-fifth Infantry regiment is here preparing for heavy marching.

Finance Minister Limantour whose influence is great, energetically opposes war with Guatemala mainly on economic grounds. On the other hand President Diaz's policy is very popular, and both state governments and private individuals offer help to such an extent that a war could be carried on cheaply. Gen. Agramonte, Col. W. J. Degrass, Col. R. C. Pate and other members of the G. A. R. offer their services to form a foreign battalion. War stores are constantly passing from the citadel to the depot and important developments are hourly expected. It is said, however, that Guatemala will withdraw her claim to the disputed territory, if Mexico will forego indemnity. The report that the Rothschilds have offered President Barrios pecuniary assistance is discredited here. The ministerial organs maintain absolute reticence as to the situation and there is no inkling as to the tenor of Guatemala's reply.

A MINE ON FIRE.

Five Hundred Men Barely Escape Death While in the Mine.

HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 28.—At the fire in Hasle mine slope on Saturday morning some 500 men barely escaped being cremated. They were at work at the slope and a heavy fall took place, closing up the air chamber. This reversed the current and brought the deadly fumes back upon the men who were working below. Seventeen men were carried out entirely overcome. Medical aid was summoned from town and every attention given the sufferers.

All the men were from Wilkesbarre, being sent here for the purpose of fighting the fire. Several members of the city department were overcome, but recovered after being taken to the surface.

The most exciting scenes were enacted both on the surface and within the mine. The damage done will exceed $300,000.

M. Ribot and His Ministry.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Some of the papers denounce the Anglomania of M. Ribot and predict disastrous results from his administration. Nevertheless M. Ribot went to the Palace of the Elysee on Saturday and definitely accepted the task of forming a ministry. The Temps says that M. Ribots ministry probably will be: Premier and Finance, Ribot; Foreign Affairs, Hanotaux; Interior and Public Works, Poncaire; War, General Jamont; Commerce, Senator Hugot; Colonies, Chantemps.

A Terrific Sou'wester in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—There are nine scows and at least two barges adrift off this coast or driven ashore as the result of the terrific southwester which is raging since Saturday evening. On two of the scows which got adrift are two men each. Yesterday three tugs were sent to Gravesend Bay to save nine deck scows which with the mooring scow to which they had been secured, broke from their anchorage Saturday night and were driven high and dry on Coney Island inlet. There is a man on each of these scows.

PROTECTION THAT DOES NOT PROTECT.

There has not been wanting abundant evidence of the paternal care with which the Dominion Government looks after the interests of the protected manufacturers who are able and willing to contribute to the "sinews of war," while the workingman is graciously permitted to look out for himself. An instance of the natural results of this indifference to the interests of labour has come to our attention. Mr. O. Humber, of Peterborough, who has been lumbering in the Manitoulin district has returned to town and speaks in no mild terms of the outrage perpetrated by the Dominion Government, permitting not only skilled workmen as well as ordinary workmen, to come from the United States and work upon mills and limits owned or controlled by Americans, to the almost total exclusion of Canadian workmen, who, if they do get work, have to accept it at starvation wages. He even instanced the case of where a mill was erected last year, and not only were American millrights and mechanics employed, but the very machinery was imported into this country so abundantly blessed of the N.P., and so abundantly taxed besides. This is a palpable instance of protection failing to protect. Why the government in this case has even failed to protect the William Hamilton Company, of Peterborough, which furnishes the best saw mill machinery on the continent.

A tax on raw material used in manufactories is a strange way of protecting some manufacturers, whose fundamental staples have to be imported — such as pig iron, taxed $4.48 the long ton, and coal, taxed 60 cents per ton, not to mention other articles. The people are taxed to the chin in the name of protection, which in this case at least, as in many others is not furnished.

The Conservatives at the last provincial general elections denounced the government in no measured terms for not preventing, which it could not do, the importation of American labour. Let these gentlemen show some of that solicitude now on behalf of the workmen of Canada, and explain why protection does not protect in the matter of saw mill machinery as well as labour.

In the matter of protecting labour, the Government has not taken the first step. Canadians as Canadians are excluded from the United States labour market, while American labourers in hordes are allowed to enter Canada and compete with Canadian labour, and not only compete with, but outclass it in obtaining employment. The Dominion Government has not only done nothing to protect labour, but even smothered a bill introduced by one of its own supporters to meet just such cases as that in question.

A GOOD RECORD.

In another column will be found a synopsis of the annual report of the Temperance and General Life Assurance Company. The report indicates a prosperous condition in all respects. There is reported an encouraging increase in the volume of business done, indicating a corresponding increase in popular favour. There is a gratifying increase of assets over liabilities of four and a half per cent., and one gratifying feature of the assets is that the Company has not a single dollar's worth of real estate on its hands, nor a single dollar of interest overdue and unpaid, and all this with a handsome sum, representing net profit, of $57,796.14 available for permanent investment. There are several other features worthy of special attention in this report and the careful perusal of it is recommended to the reader. The satisfactory condition of the company's affairs can, to a large extent, be accounted for, if a lithe company's agents have shown the energy and enterprise of the Peterborough agent, Mr. H. P. Lindsay, who wrote no less a sum than $300,000 of new business last year. The excellent showing made by the company, as shown by their report, will equip Mr. Lindsay for even more successful work in its interests during the coming year.

Pins for Insects.

It may not be generally known that the nature of the pins used in fastening the specimens in collections of insects is a matter of great importance. Ordinary brass pins, even when well thinned, are very liable to oxidize in the body of the insect, and often thus destroy rare and valuable specimens. Black varnished pins are almost as bad, as the glaze soon cracks, leaving the metal exposed. Even plated pins do not appear to resist the action of the compounds developed in the body of the insect, though solid silver ones will, so that cheap silver may at least be a boon to the entomologists. A bronze pin has found favor of late, but is far from being a perfect fastener. The latest thing is a nickel alloy, which possesses decided advantages of the common kind, whose basis is brass.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Don't be Imposed upon.

When you ask for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Go to a reliable dealer. He will sell you what you want. The ones who have something else to urge upon you in its place are thinking of the extra profit they'll make. These things pay them better, but they don't care about you.

None of these substitutes is "just as good" as the "Discovery." That is the only blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and strength-restorer so far-reaching and so unfailing in its effects that it can be guaranteed. CHIEF ARDAGH IS DEAD.

He Succumbs to the Injuries He Received at the Globe Fire.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Richard Ardagh, chief of the Toronto Fire Department, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the effects of injuries received at the fire of January 6, when the Globe and other buildings were destroyed and one fireman killed.

It will be remembered the chief was actively at work early in the fire and was on the third flat of the building immediately south of the Globe and unexpectedly found his means of exit cut off. He had to jump to save his life. He was 68 years of age and weighed 235 pounds. His injuries, although very serious, were not considered fatal, and half an hour before his death he undertook to smoke a pipe. Suddenly he called to his wife and complained of a feeling of suffocation and in a short time died from heart failure. Mr. Ardagh had been chief of the fire brigade since 1876 and joined the force in 1847.

In Search of a Missing Man.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—A letter was received at police headquarters from Joseph H. Charles, of 4 Wilton avenue, Toronto, Canada, asking that search be made in this city for John T. Charles, who has disappeared. The letter states that the missing man left South Africa in September last and went to Liverpool, whence he sailed for New York. He arrived in New York in December and on the 20th of that month his father received a telegram from him stating that he would be home on December 24. Nothing has since been heard from him. The record of accidents and arrests was searched, but no account of the missing man was found.

Severe Cold in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 28.—Yesterday was the coldest day of the winter here. At seven o'clock in the morning the thermometer registered 26 degrees below zero and at seven o'clock in the evening it was still 10 degrees below zero. The cold wave extends from St. Paul to the Rockies. In Manitoba it is even colder than here. All points reporting show temperatures far below zero. The coldest point at night was Qu'Appelle, which has a temperature of 20 below zero.

Fatal Accident in Springhill Mines.

SPRINGHILL MINES, N. S., Jan. 28.—Another fatal accident occurred here on Saturday. While Wm. Orne was cutting coal in the East Slope, he was buried beneath a fall of stone. On being extricated it was found that the injuries about his head were of a serious nature. His head was fearfully cut, one eye was out and his lower jaw shattered. He was removed to his home where he died. He leaves a wife and one young child.

Fierce Gales Off Newfoundland.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 28.—Fierce southwesterly gales swept the coast Saturday night and yesterday. It is expected that considerable damage to shipping was done along the coast. The Allan liner Corean left here at daylight bound for Liverpool and must have experienced the full brunt of the storm.

The France-Canadian Steamers.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—It is stated that the regular service of the new line steamers between Belgian and French ports and Canada will begin in April. The steamers will run to Montreal in the summer and to Halifax in winter.

Mr. Laurier to Speak in Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Mr. Laurier has decided to address a public meeting in the city on the evening of February 5. Mr. W. Paterson (Brant), Hon. G. W. Ross and Mr. Gibbons, of London, will be with him.

DEMOCRACY IN ENGLAND.

Burns' Speeches to be Used to Offset the Spread of These Principles.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The executive committee of the Conservative Association proposes to distribute broadcast copies of the speeches of John Burns on the condition of labor in the United States and as an offset to the prevailing spread of democratic principles in England. The Clarion, which is far and away the most widely circulated labor paper in England, says apropos of this proposal that Albert Edward (Limited) is infinitely preferable to Pullman, Tammany & Co.

The agitation against the House of Lords has affected the Socialists very slightly. They declare themselves it is better to be robbed by old and gentlemanly dukes with the courtesy of ancient usage, than to be garrotted by manneriess brigands who have not yet outgrown the brutality of the mercenary baseness of their business.

Death of M. de Giers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 28.—M. de Giers died on Saturday of inflammation of the lungs, complicated by neuralgia of the heart. He was somnolent throughout Saturday. At six o'clock in the evening he fell asleep and he died without waking. The Czar, the Grand Duke and Duchess Vladimir, most members of the diplomatic corps and all the ministers attended the service of prayer held in his memory yesterday. The funeral takes place Wednesday. The semi-official St. Petersburg Journal says: M. de Giers has been the actual director of Russia's foreign office since the Berlin congress. He had been the faithful, enlightened and sincere executor of the pacific intentions of three sovereigns. He was an ardent patriot and a talented and tireless worker.

Death of Professor Cayley.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Prof. Cayley died on Saturday night. Prof. Arthur Cayley was born at Richmond, Eng., in 1821, was educated at Cambridge and entered the profession of law. In 1863 he became badlerien professor of pure mathematics at Cambridge. He was corresponding member of several academies in the continent and received numerous degrees from continental universities in recognition of his work. In 1882 he delivered a course of mathematical lectures in John Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Fourteen Armenians to Diet.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—A despatch to the Globe from Vienna says: Despatches have been received from Constantinople stating that the court of cassation has confirmed the sentences imposed in November last by the tribunal at Erzinghain upon 58 Armenians, which condemns 14 of them to death. The confirmation of the sentences has greatly exasperated the Armenians in the vicinity of Erzinghain.

The New Czar.

The new Czar is believed to be of more liberal inclination than his predecessor. The events preceding and surrounding his accession have brought him into contact with western ideas and influences. When Alexander III. came to the throne he was ten years older than his son now is. He had been married fifteen years. He had lived amid the agitation and turmoil which distinguished the stormy reign of Alexander II. His opinions and bent had been formed. He found himself Emperor through a bloody assassination which sent a thrill of horror through the world. These things confirmed the predisposition of his own mystic nature toward a reactionary policy. The circumstances under which the present Czar succeeds to the crown are different. He is younger and more plastic. The associations of his auspicious marriage are calculated to broaden and liberalize his mind, and it will be strange if they do not make him more open to the spirit of national progress. All indications within the few weeks of his reign point in that direction. The reports that orders have already been given contemplating a general system of elementary education, the enlargement of the powers of local self-government vested in the Zemstvos or provincial assemblies, and the development of the local representative system into a national parliament, must be received with reserve. These are too great changes—especially the latter, which involves the vital question of absolutism—to be undertaken without full premeditation, and it would be extraordinary if a young monarch suddenly thrust into the dazzling rulership of more than a hundred millions of people should venture upon such radical reforms. But the steps which are sure and known, the acts of grace attending his accession, the modification of proscriptive measures, the recall of oppressive Governors—all are hopeful indications. While his real character and policy are yet to be tested, there is much to encourage the belief that he will aim at internal pacification and progress.—Charles Emory Smith in North America Review.

Mark Twain's Criticism.

There is only one expert who is qualified to examine the souls and the life of a people and make a valuable report—the native novelist. This expert is so rare that the most populous country can never have fifteen conspicuously and confessedly competent ones in stock at one time. This native specialist is not qualified to begin work until he has been absorbing during twenty five years. How much of his competency is derived from conscious "observation?" The amount is so slight that it counts for next to nothing in the equipment. Almost the whole capital of the novelist is the slow accumulation of unconscious observation—absorption. The native expert's intentional observation of manners, speech, character and ways of life can have value, for the native knows what they mean without having to cipher out the meaning. But I should be astonished to see a foreigner get at the right meanings, catch the elusive shades of these subtle things. Even the native novelist becomes a foreigner, with a foreigner's limitations, when he steps from the State whose life is familiar to him into a State whose life he has not lived. Bret Harte got his California and his Californias by unconscious absorption, and put both of them into his tales alive. But when he came back from the Pacific to the Atlantic and tried to do Newport life from study—conscious observation—his failure was absolutely monumental.—Mark Twain, in North America Review.

A Monument Always.

No one will claim that Pullman affords a complete solution of the Labor problem, or an entire conciliation of the employer and the employed. It may be when the workingmen are sufficiently educated and taught personal responsibility and capitalists are sufficiently awake to their privileges and opportunities, some method may be devised by which laborers will be permitted to participate in the profits of business. But this will be impossible until they are content to accept the sliding scale, when its movement is down as well as up. No scheme, so far as suggested, seems to do away entirely with the operation of the law of supply and demand. Changes in social conditions will suggest modifications of the working plan of Pullman. Doubtless the crisis just passed will lead to a better understanding of the relations between the managers and their hands. But, whatever the future may bring forth, or however far short of the ideals of speculative philosophers, Pullman will always stand as one of the most noteworthy and valuable contributions to the well-being of workingmen and the adjustment of the industrial world upon lines of justice and generosity.—Charles H. Eaton, D. D., in To-Day.

ANECDOTES OF RUSKIN.

He Wanted to Marry Sir Walter Scott's "Di Vernon."

Some more interesting details of "Ruskin at Corpus" appear in The Pelican Record for December. The writer, "C.P.," says:

One night when he was showing up Turner's picture of Richmond in Yorkshire, our late good bursar, himself a Yorkshireman, explained that at a certain point in the picture a railway bridge was now thrown across. Ruskin was heard to mutter under his breath the single word "damnation!"

Two of Mr. Ruskin's remarks on the Prayer Book service are recalled:

He though the phrase "requisite and necessary" in the exhortation "a thorough piece of Cockney English" and that the petition in the prayer of St. Chrysostom that we may have "in this world knowledge of Thy truth, and in the world to come life everlasting," was, if I may use a slangy expression, rather a large order.

About Mr. Ruskin's M.S. treasures were the original MSS. of three of Scott's novels. Ruskin had a great admiration for Scott, as his conversation often showed:

He said Scott was the only novelist who told a story for the pure love of story-telling, without any purpose of attacking an abuse, ventilating a grievance or airing a theory. He was enthusiastic for Scott's heroines, especially for Di Vernon. The only trouble, he said, was that he wanted to marry her himself.

Result of a Neglected Cold.

DISEASED LUNGS

Which Doctors Failed to Help,

CURED BY TAKING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured."—A. LEFLAR, watchmaker, Orangeville, Ont.

Consulted a Doctor

HOW TO TALK TO MEN.

Conversational Methods Suggested by a Socially Successful Woman.

There is a Turkish legend that gives a good index to this part of social ethics. A mendicant was dying. He called his son to his bedside and said: "My boy, you must go through life trusting to yourself now. I can leave you no money, but much wisdom and this mirror. Carry it always with the back to your face, presenting the mirrored surface to the world." Years passed on, and the boy mendicant became a rich merchant. God had poured into his coffers as he walked through the world, his shining shield reflecting all he met.

Contentment came with these riches, then curiosity. Why, he thought, am I so loved? What do I do that men should call me fair and agreeable? What occult magnetism do I possess to so easily compel this flow of riches? And he turned the mirror for the first time toward his own face. He was charmed. It gave back his features beautiful and glorified. He saw himself in its shimmering surface a creature fair to behold, agreeable to be with—a laughing, enchanting picture! Lost in rapture and love for himself, he paused in his way thereafter to gaze into the exquisite depths of his father's gift. Gold there was none left. People passed him by unsmiling. He wondered, when not absorbed with self, why this condition was, and he died poor and forgotten.

The legend is to society as the laws of the Pundit to the Brahmans. It explains all. Go through life reflecting people, not as they are, but as they wish to be, and the good things of the world are yours. Why present to any man an ugly image of himself when his faults can be ignored and his virtues pleasingly presented without seeming ostentation or flattery? Some veritist may exclaim that such an attitude is not a fair one—but how prove his theory? There need be no "toadying," no cringing, no "playing for favors," but the brighter side of each man's life suggested to him by conversation.

Said a society woman, known for her tact and quantity of friends, when a St. Louis Republic reporter queried as to her social tactics: "I have a plan—possibly not original, but certainly successful—of ignoring the especially pleasant thing a man necessarily knows about himself. Each one has a particular accomplishment that this world invariably 'tacks' to his name. He is pleased, of course, to possess this one accomplishment, but, rest assured, he secretly wonders if it can be the sum total of his attraction. So I try to discover some other quality. I find if he has the virtue of dressing well; then I also discover some immensely clever remark of his. I make a point of mentioning it to him.

"If, on the other hand, he is clever, then I particularly admire a certain suit of clothes, or the fashion in his ties. If he dances well, then I find that he has made some good business deals. Be perfectly sure, my dear, he will think you vastly more appreciative than any other woman and the undefined gratitude he feels as the bright side of himself you have reflected back brings you many a delightful attention. This is not hypocrisy in me, nor silly vanity in him. I love to be treated after that manner myself and my gratitude is equal to the man's."

A third point is to remember, if possible, what a man talked most interestingly or earnestly to you about the last time you met. It shows interest in a most subtle way. Naturally this is no easy task if the lapse between visits are long and you meet a goodly number of men. But if it is possible to remember the result will prove its wisdom. "As you once said" has a penetrating charm for the listener, be it man or woman. A final bit of advice is one of the well-known arts of conversation—paradoxical as it may seem—be a patient, sympathetic listener. For it is essentially true that he who proves you a clever talker by his attention will impress you more with his cleverness than had he talked.

After La Grippe.

After La Grippe obstinate coughs, lung trouble, etc., frequently follow. There is no remedy so prompt, and at the same time effectual and pleasant, as Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites, which is the latest and best combination of anti-consumptive remedies. Price 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

That hacking cough can be quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Price 25 cents.

WORN BY MARIE ANTOINETTE.

The Tiara of Diamonds Now in the Possession of Mrs. Bradley Martin.

Quite a flurry has been occasioned in the social world of New York by the purchase of a queenly crown by a well-known lady of the "150." Mrs. Bradley Martin, the mother of the Countess of Craven, is the fortunate possessor of the diadem, and it is asserted by a writer in The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette that during the current season in New York she will wear the trophy at the theatre, which is sufficient to warrant her to be the cynosure of all eyes. The tiara of diamonds which will grace her brow was once worn upon the dainty head of Marie Antoinette, and it fell into the hands of the French Government, from which it was purchased for a few thousand francs or so, and will teach the unappreciative Americans not to overlook the glories of royalty. The new owner has distinguished herself by a love of gems, and created a sensation some time ago by wearing a sash that was literally covered with diamonds and jewels. She always buys a half-bushel or two of precious gems while abroad, and is said to have given a couple of barrels of them to her daughter, who was secured by English nobility.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin and their three sons returned from Europe a few days ago and intend to spend the winter in New York. They will throw open their town house on West Twenty-second street, where they will remain until spring, at which time they will return to their house in Scotland. From last August until Dec. 1 they were at their country seat, Balmacaan, among the hills of Scotland, where Mr. Martin, his sons and their guests spent most of the time in shooting. Mr. and Mrs. Martin intend to entertain as lavishly as ever this winter. While in Europe they are said to have equalled all previous records set by rich Americans in the entertaining line.

Horrors of Nagging.

It is the peculiarity of the nagger to enormously exaggerate everything, even if she do not invent her grievances. Forgetfulness on the part of a husband is annoying, as it is in any one, but it is not a crime. A continual stream of scolding lasting three or four hours over the failure to post a letter will cause any man to consider the effect disproportionate to the cause. If the husband be healthy, if he is not cursed with a highly nervous organization, what happens? The first thing is that any love he may have ever had for his wife dies, drowned in the flood of words. Having murdered his love for her, the wife keeps up the nagging; he speedily begins to look on her as being a nuisance, from this to dislike and then to positive hatred is not a long journey. If there be children, the husband may continue to live with her for their sake, but it is an awful home in which to bring up children. The man quickly learns that he has in his physical strength something in which he can claim sanctuary. He may not actually beat her, because the restraining influences of his training have not lost their hold on him. Perhaps it would be better for her if he did for physical fear of a whipping might be sufficient to make her control herself. While he may not lift his finger to her he will invariably become brutal, except in such cases as I shall hereafter mention. In such a contest the woman has no chance. He may not be, he probably is not able to give the rapier-like thrust of sarcasm which comes so easily to her, but he can use the bludgeon of abuse and profanity with terrible effect. The nervous condition the woman has created in herself by nagging, itself renders her powerless before this weapon of her husband. Such a family is hell on earth. It was the son of such a household who said in the simplest and most matter-of-fact way when he heard of a wedding: "Another life quarrel commenced." What a comment on his parents!—Dr. Cyrus Edson in North American Review.

Plenty of Gold in Sight

There are no indications whatever of a falling off in the future of the productiveness of the gold mines of this country, although, considering the rapid growth of the South African production of gold, it is difficult to predict how long the United States will maintain its supremacy as a gold producer. New mines will, of course, be discovered here, but the discovery of such mines is still more likely in Africa. Much will depend on their relative richness. So far as can now be seen the greatest hope of a largely increased gold product of the United States in the future lies in the removal of all restrictions on hydraulic mining in California. That has already been done to some extent by the so-called Caminetti act, passed March 3, 1893. If means could be found to remove all restrictions on this class of mining—and that may be a possible achievement—it has been estimated that the deposits in that State would add something like $500,000,000 to the gold stock of the world.—Robert E. Preston, in North American Review.

Ships That Pass in the Night.

"When I began my work again I had no idea of inventing a story about Petershof; but as I bent lazily over the blank sheet of paper memories of the Kurhaus came crowding over me, and much to my own astonishment, the first chapter contrived itself. But that did not help me greatly, for I could not think what to make out of the characters which I had thus casually introduced on the scene; but I went on in a dull kind of way, not knowing from one sentence to another what I was going to say next. And, indeed, it was not until I arrived at the thirteenth chapter that I felt I was beginning to take hold of my people and to form some vague idea of what might possibly be done with them. But for all that, it was a very vague idea; and, indeed, the dimness of purpose pursued me to the last word of the book. The great drawback was that I could not use my hand for more than a quarter of an hour or so at a time; and in consequence of this hindrance my work seemed to me hopelessly disconnected, done in such snatches, and without the advantage of continuous application. But, with the exception of a word here and there, I made no alterations, and the pages stand just as I originally wrote them."—Beatrice Harraden, in McClure's.

The receipts at the Western Yards today were 40 car loads. The demand was rather slow, and the feeling easier, in consequence a few loads were shipped East. The quality of offerings was fair, but some loads of inferior stuff sold as low as 2c per lb. Good to choice butchers' cattle, averaging 900 to 1100 lbs., sold at 3c to 3 1-4c per lb. Small lots of the very best brought 3 1-2c. Stockers are quoted at 2 1-2c to 3c. Milch cows dull and unchanged at $20 to $40 each, and calves brought $4 to $6.50 per head.

The demand for sheep and lambs was fair, with prices firm. The best sheep sold at 3 1-2 to 3 3-4c per lb., medium at 3 1-4c and rams at 3c. Lambs brought 3 1-2 to 3 5-8c per lb. for the best, and inferior $1.75 to $2.25 each. Hogs are firm, with receipts of 1000 head. The best light bacon lots sold at $4.10 to $4.15 per hundred, thick fats at $4, stores at $3.75, sows at $3.50 and stags at $2.50 to $2.75.

A Kind Word for the Sparrow.

The sparrow has several characteristics that are altogether admirable. Very few of the creatures who navigate the air or walk upon the ground show greater capacity or willingness to take care of themselves. The sparrow, like the despised rat, has no little merit as a tiny scavenger, and like the rat, where man goes he follows.

It is safe to say nothing has been made in vain. Even those creatures which are esteemed by man as vermin have their place and their use in the wise order of providence. This is none the less true because we cannot penetrate the wisdom of creation. Despite the persecution of his enemies and the vagaries of the weather, it will be observed that the sparrow flourishes. The merciful men and women who look after the vagrant birds and dogs and other creatures who mutely appeal to human sympathy these frosty and inclement days will not go without their reward.—Philadelphia Record.

Happens Once in Every 2,500,000 Years.

A remarkable freak in moon phrases was noted in the month of February, 1866, a month which has gone into astronomical annals as "the month without a full moon." In that year January and March each had two full moons, but Febuary none. A writer in a leading astronomical journal uses the following language in describing it: "Do you realize what a rare thing in nature it was? It has not happened before since the beginning of the Christian era or probably since the creation of the world! It will not occur again, according to the computations of the astronomer royal of England for—how long do you think? Not until after 2,500,000 years from 1866."

A Utilitarian.

The Vicar—And how do you like the new chimes, Mrs. Weaver? You must be glad to hear those beautiful hymn tunes at night! They must remind you of—

Mrs. Weaver—Yes, that be so, sir. I've took my medicine quite regular ever since they was begun.

THE GEORGE MATTHEWS CO. (Ltd)

Vigorously Conducted.

As stated in Saturday's EXAMINER, Wm. Robinson's was acquitted on the charge of perjury preferred against him before the County Judge, day before yesterday. Mr. E. B. Stone appeared for the defense, which was vigorously conducted. Mr. Stone attacked the reliability of one of the witnesses, whom he was successful in proving to have been drunk on the occasion, when he thought Robinson sold liquor to him at the Balmoral Hotel. County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution.

Grand Carnival Masquerade Ball.

A novel and interesting entertainment in the shape of a Grand Carnival Masquerade Ball will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Friday, February 15th. The affair is expected to be unusually brilliant and amusing, and the management are sparing no pains to achieve that result. The proceeds over and above expenses will be donated to local charity. It is hoped and requested that as many as possible will come in fancy dress to contribute to the effect of the scene. Special costumes, however, are not necessary, provided a certain amount of colour is used in the dress. All should wear small masks of black or fancy velvet, silk or calico. Prizes will be given to the best dressed gentleman, the best dressed lady, and the best comic costume. Music will be furnished by Butcher's orchestra and the Battalion Band. Dancing will commence at 8.30 p.m., and at midnight all the dancers will unmask. The well-known caterer Mr. William Bowman will provide refreshments all evening. Tickets $1.00, admitting gentleman and lady, or two ladies, can be procured at Stratton's Bookstore, Salisbury's Bookstore and the Street Railway Office. The number of tickets is limited to 250. Procure costumes, secure tickets and come to the social event of the season.

THE STORM FIEND RAGED WITH UNABATED VIOLENCE.

All Day Yesterday the Drifts Kept Piling Up on the Railway Tracks.

Saturday's big storm raged with renewed violence and unabated vigor all day yesterday and, in consequence, the streets were almost impassible and pedestrians were glad to avail themselves of the street railway tracks, which were kept cleanly swept all day. Big drifts gathered like magic in front of gateways and the citizens were kept on the alert all day to avoid being snowed in. While drawing a snow plough one of the Ashburnham corporation horses fell into a C.P.R. culvert and was just a moment before a big railway snow plough with a couple of engines behind it came tearing along.

RESCUED WITH DIFFICULTY,

The C.P.R. sent out no freights yesterday and the passenger trains and the snow ploughs monopolised the entire line. This morning freight trains were sent out in all directions, and the passengers trains were running very close to schedule time, the noon express being only twenty minutes late.

The Grand Trunk is in rather a bad way, the storm seeming to have vented its spite and spent its fury all along this particular line. The road between Port Hope and Whitby, on the main line, is reported to be in a terrible condition and men have been sent from all the stations in the division to of snow with the shovel, the snow ploughs not being able to cope with the effects of the storm in this particular locality.

The Port Hope train due here at 8.30 a.m. was 3 hours late and as yet no Belleville trains have either come in or been despatched from this point since Saturday. The snow ploughs are trying to force their way through now between here and the City of the Bay. Lakefield, for the present is cut off from the world as the line between Peterborough and that point is so hopelessly snowed under that it will be days before railway communication will be re-opened between the town and village. The Toronto G.T.R. train, due here at 11.30 a.m. did not leave Toronto and ran into Peterborough at about two in the afternoon. The Saturday evening train from Port Hope did not get into Peterborough until Sunday evening at a quarter after nine o'clock.

UNTIL TEN O'CLOCK,

The Port Hope Guide says: The train going north did not leave the station here until 9 o'clock, instead of 7.15. She had two engines attached. The local from Peterborough due here at eight, did not arrive until nearly nine, and had two engines which were completely enveloped with snow. In coming in, the train went through a snow drift, that broke the cab windows, smashed the glass water guage and for a moment the engineer hardly knew where he was was.

HOCKEY.

The Peterboroughs won their second game in the Ontario Hockey Association series on Saturday and by a victory so decisive as to prove beyond a doubt that the team is getting into better shape every day.

Saturday evening's match was with the Volts and the goals stood 11—1 in favour of the Peterboroughs. The score was a surprise to many as the Volts have been practicing assiduously lately and were considered to have improved wonderfully since their last defeat, and so they had. Their combination work showed up at times well, but the Peterboroughs were too fast for them, and though the defense of the Volts did some most brilliant work, the game went against them in spite of their plucky fight.

The Edison boys played two men at cover point which weakened their forward line considerably without materially aiding the defence, the result being that the men were prone to get into each other's way when defending their flags. The two teams lined up as follows :—

Peterboroughs.		Volts.
Dixon	goal	Cluxton
Montgomery	point	Thorne
Parsons	cover point	Wilgar / Adams
Lefevre, Phelan, Wonham, King	forwards	Moore, Dunford, Moore
Wasson	goal umpire	Hillier
Referee		R Strickland

The goals were scored in the following order :

FIRST HALF.

Peterboroughs,	scored by	King	in 2 minutes.
"	"	Phelan	½ "
"	"	Lefevre	1½ "
"	"	King	5 "
Volts	"	Wilgar	½ "
Peterboroughs,	"	Wonham	½ "
"	"	King	15 "
"	"	King	3 "
"	"	King	2 "

SECOND HALF

Peterboroughs,	scored by	Lefevre	in 13 minutes.
"	"	Wonham	8 "
"	"	King	2½ "

When the puck was faced, it was secured by Phelan and was rushed down the Volts' flags like a shot, but Wilgar quickly relieved, and with a most brilliant dash brought the struggle into the territory of the Peterboroughs. Montgomery was in readiness and cleverly took the puck out of the melee and passed it to Phelan who carried it back to the goal of the Volts where, King on receiving it, shot it between the flags with his usual promptitude.

On the puck being again faced it was once more secured by Phelan who, by exceedingly clever manipulation, carried it through the defence of the Volts and scored in half a minute.

In the third game Lefevre gave evidence of being on the ice for a purpose, and showed by his work that the left wing need be no longer regarded as a weak point on the forward line. Lefevre was considerably handicapped this season in playing with a team to whose play he was unaccustomed, and it was thought after the first few games that this weak point would bring disaster on the Peterborough's. Such, however, was not the case, as Phelan, Wonham and King were a trio of such dash and brilliancy as to carry everything before them without having to rely greatly on the new man until he was broken to harness. Saturday evening, however, he showed up well in his position and Peterborough now undoubtedly possesses as clever a team as ever she did, and one upon which she can place the fullest reliance to carry off the intermediate honours for 1895.

In Cluxton and Thorne the Volts have two good men on the defence and both did some splendid work in Saturday's game. Wilgar is a player of great dash and energy and he deserves great credit for the game which he played against Phelan, keeping that man pretty busy watching him during the evening.

General Manager Stevens of the Electric works took a couple of snap shot views of the players when they were engaged in particularly exciting struggles.

The Peterborough defense played a hard, strong game all evening and the relieving of Montgomery and Parsons was characterizen by great dash and coolness at critical moments. Dixon, too, made some splendid stops, but he was not called upon very often to exert himself.

The Peterboroughs play in Lindsay this evening and an easy victory is anticipated, although the Lindsay men are said to be fast this year. A number of the members of the club as well as the team will go up to the sister town this evening.

The second team of the Peterboroughs play the Volts this evening in the town league series.

THE TURF.

At a meeting of the Driving Park Association held Friday afternoon it was decided that ice races should be held on the Little Lake, at Peterborough, on or about February 10th. A sufficient fund has already been raised to make the matter a certainty, and purses will be offered which will prove an attraction for the best horses in Canada to-day. The matter is in the hands of a most competent committee and the affair will be boomed for all there is in it. The local sports have been fitting their horses all winter and when they come together an exciting race will be witnessed. Coming immediately after the big race meets a fine lot of horses will without doubt be induced to come to Peterborough by the size of the purses which will be hung up. Special excursion rates will be made into town for the event.

CHURCH CHIMES.

An orange social will be held in the George street church Tuesday evening.

Rev. Mr. Galbraith addressed the scholars of the Charlotte street Sunday school yesterday afternoon.

The Charlotte street church choir sang the anthem "We Thank Thee O Father" in noticeable harmony last night.

The Epworth League of the George street church will hold a temperance meeting in the church this evening.

Mrs. Seward took the solo in particularly clear voice in the anthem, "They that Trust" in the George street church last night.

The regular quarterly services will be held in George street church next Sunday. A Love Feast will be partaken of in the morning.

In the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday, Miss Fawcett and Miss Flossie Hall took the solos in the anthem, "The Lord is my Light."

Miss Annie Fawcett sang the solo "O Rest in the Lord" very sweetly while the offertory was being collected in the Charlotte street church last evening.

The choir of the Baptist Mission sang the anthem "Was it for me the Saviour Died" in good voice at last evening's service, Miss Lillie Miller taking the solo part most acceptably.

Rev. Thomas Manning, of Whitby, was unable to conduct services in the Methodist churches of the town yesterday, as announced, on account of there being no Saturday evening train leaving Port Hope for Peterborough.

Mr. J. J. Reeves, who, two years ago, used to take the Sunday services of the Park street Mission regularly, was again present yesterday, and delivered two strong sermons during the day. In the morning he spoke from Rom. v. chap., 20th verse, "Moreover the law entered that the offense might abound, but where sin abounded grace did much more abound." The theme for the discourse was, "The mission of law and the mission of grace."

Yesterday the congregation in St. Andrew's church was much below the usual by reason of the inclement weather and impassable condition of the roads. The pastor, however, preached two excellent sermons, which were highly apareciated by those present. His text was Matt. 5, 8: "Blessed be the pure in heart for they shall see God." and John 10, 9: "I am the door; if by Me any man enter in he shall be saved and shall go out and in and find pasture." The music by the choir in the evening was superior. The anthem sung was "Seek ye the Lord." The solos were taken by Mrs. Jones and Mr. H. King. During the offertory a quartette, "One Day Nearer Home," was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Jones, Miss Fowler, Mr. King and Mr. Mulligan.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's church will be held on Tuesday, the 29th inst. The ladies will serve a free tea to the congregation from 5.30 to 7.30. An excellent social time is expected. The business meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

Couldn't Feel the Elephant.

An elephant was sent to Nagerboil for the purpose of piling timber by the Dewhin, who requested the wife of a missionary there to be good enough to see the animal fed, and thus prevent its keeper from abstracting its food. It was therefore brought to the house for this purpose, and at first all went on correctly, but after a time it was suspected that the amount of rice was getting smaller and smaller, so one day the keeper was remonstrated with, and of course protested against the imputation of having taken it, adding in true native phraseology, "Madam, do you think I could rob my child?" The elephant looked on most sagaciously, and at this stage of the proceedings quietly threw his trunk around his keeper and untied his bulky waistcloth, when the missing rice fell to the ground.—Exchange.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL INAUGURAL SESSION.

NO GRANT TO THE RIDING AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

The Town Market Bylaw Receives Attention — Complimentary Resolutions — The Council Adjourns.

SATURDAY, JANUARY, 26th.

Council met at 9 o'clock a.m. All the members present.

After routine:

A SPECIAL GRANT.

Mr. Aunger, deputy-reeve of Belmont, ably presented the claims of the townships of Belmont and Methuen for a special grant to be used on the roads of these townships.

On motion of Mr. Aunger, seconded by Mr. Shaw, a special grant of $50 was voted, Mr. Aunger to be commissioner for the expenditure of the same.

NOMINATED FOR THE SENATE.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Middleton, that this council is of opinion that this district should be represented in the Senate and that James Stevenson, Esq., is a fit and proper person to be appointed thereto, and that the Warden and Clerk be authorized to prepare a memorial to the government setting forth the claims of this county and urging Mr. Stevenson's appointment.—Carried.

CONDOLENCE.

Moved by Mr. Casement, seconded by Mr. Burnham, that the county council of Peterborough now assembled do hereby express their deep sorrow and regret at the death of the Right Honourable Sir John Thompson, premier of Canada, and for the loss the country has sustained thereby, and they sympathise with Lady Thompson and her family in their affliction and that the Warden, Mr. Burnham and the Clerk be a committee to prepare a suitable address to Lady Thompson.

The MATTER OF MARKET FEES.

Mr. Middleton, chairman, presented the following report of the Special committee, respecting the market bylaws of the town of Peterborough, as follows:—

Your special committee appointed to consider the Market By-laws of the Town of Peterborough beg leave to report as follows:—

1. Your committee met a special committee of the town council who discussed with us our objections to the present bylaws, and who asked us to place in writing any reasonable amendments which we would consider fair and desirable.

2. Your committee consider that in many respects the town bylaw is not in itself over-exacting, but that in the interpretation thereof the town officers overconstrue the bylaw to their own advantage. For instance, a farmer brings in a load of say 20 hogs. For weighing this load, which only requires one draft, the market clerk taxes him 5c each hog or $1 for the load. In order to obviate the state of things your committee would recommend that section 16 of town bylaw, No. 434, be amended as follows, viz:

For each load of hay, including market fees	$ .15
For each load of straw, including market fees	.10
For each head of cattle, horses, etc	.10
For all other drafts up to 5 lbs	.01
" over 5 lbs up to 20 lbs.	.02
" " 20 lbs up to 100 lbs	.05
" " 100 lbs	.10

3. Your Committee would also recommend that the said bylaw be amended so as to make no charge for a market toll on each waggon, sleigh, etc., with oats, barley or peas for sale.

4. Your Committee would recommend that a copy of this report be sent to the town council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. MIDDLETON, Chairman.

County Council Chambers, Peterborough, January 26th, 1894.

The report was adopted.

On motion, the Clerk was instructed to procure the usual supply of ice for the Court House.

FINANCE.

Mr. W. H. Casement, chairman, presented the report of the Finance Committee, as below:

The Finance Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. That Mr. W. H. Casement be chairman of this committee.

2. That the application of the Children's Aid Society for the consent in writing of each reeve to the appointment of Finch W. Miller as constable for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of the Children's Protective Act be referred to the June session of this Council.

3. That the application of the Children's Aid Society for a special grant be referred to the June session of this Council, and in the meantime the Reeves are requested to take the opinions of their constituents with respect to the same.

4. Your Committee recommend that a special grant of $75 be given to both the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies of the County of Peterborough.

5. That the annual and special grant of $75 to the Directors of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society be renewed for the term of of five years.

6. That a special grant of $10 be given to the Prisoners' Aid Association.

7. That the Clerk be instructed to procure a "writ of exection" book for the Sheriff.

8. That the accounts from C. R. D. Booth, of Hart & Riddel and Peterborough EXAMINER be left in the hands of Warden and County Clerk, with power to pay same, if correct.

9. Your committee recommend that the account of the Peterborough Review ($6), be paid, and that the County Clerk call the attention of the County Judge to the rule of this Council which requires that all supplies for which this council is compelled to pay should be ordered through the County Clerk.

10. Your committee recommend that the memorandum hereto attached of accounts paid by your Treasurer on the authority of the Warden, etc., or under contract duly entered into be confirmed.

11. Your committee recommend that the cheque of the Town of Peterborough, $34.75, in settlement of their account re. Pigeon Creek Bridge for 1893 be accepted.

12. Your committee recommend that the account of W. P. Chase, $8.10, be paid, and your committee further direct that Mr. Chase allow no person to use the Gannon's Narrows ferry in any case when he considers it dangerous to do so on account of weather or otherwise.

13. Your committee recommend that no action be taken with respect to the request of the Ontario Rifle Association for a special grant.

14. Your committee acknowledge receipt of the report of the executors of the Foley Will.

15. Your committee acknowledge receipt of the report of the County Police Magistrate.

13. Your committee recommend that the auditors of this county audit the accounts of the Police Magistrate from time to time.

17. Your committee recommend that the County Clerk make a formal demand upon the town of Peterborough for two certain fines collected by the Town of Peterborough and paraible to the County, and that the Warden be empowered to take such measures for the collection of the same as he may be advised.

Your committee recommend that the following accounts be paid:

W. H. CASEMENT, Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, January 26th, 1895.

On motion to adopt the report,

Mr. Johnston moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Lancaster, to strike out that clause of the report making a grant of $75 each to the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies.

The amendment carried.

After some questions respecting the Foley will matter by Mr. Moloney and explanations by the county solicitor,

Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Casement, that the county solicitor be requested to make a special statement of the circumstances of the Foley will case and the result of the application to the courts on behalf of the county—Carried.

The report as recommended was adopted.

CONFIRMATORY

A by-law was adopted authorizing the warden and treasurer of the county to borrow money to meet current expenses, and by-laws to confirm the reports of the several committees were duly passed.

THE DATE OF THE JUNE SESSION.

Mr. Anderson drew the attention of the council to a reference from the June to the January session respecting the matter of placing the date of the June session one week earlier in order to avoid conflicting with the county court sittings. No action was taken, therefore the date remains the second Tuesday in June.

Council adjourned.

THE TEMPERANCE & GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Synopsis of the Annual Report Which Was Submitted at its Annual Meeting on 23rd inst.

(Detailed reports can be had on application at head office or to any agent of the Company).

The report shows an income from premiums after deducting payments for reinsurance of $129,199.34, and from interest of $13,475.72, being an excess in total income of $16,020.84 over the previous year's income.

The net death losses were 16 for $22,099, which was a loss rate of 3.8 of the average number of lives at risk, and 4.02 per $1,000 of the average amount of insurance in force.

Briefly stated, the Company's cash income for the year was $142,675.06, while its net death losses, payments for surrendered policies and expenditures for all other purposes amounted to $86,881.92, leaving the handsome sum of $55,793.14 from current cash income for permanent investment.

Referring to its assets, the report says: "We did not have a single dollar's worth of real estate on our hands or a single dollar of interest overdue and unpaid.

"Our assets at the end of the year amounted to $365,566.71, being an increase of $67,144.38 over what they were at the end of the previous year."

The liabilities were $294,826.99, being an increase of $47,467 03 over the previous year. This was an increase of 41.5 per cent. more in assets than in liabilities.

One thousand eight hundred and thirteen applications for $2,100,000 of insurance was received, and 1,034 for $1,883,725 were approved.

At the close of the year the Company had 4,793 policies in force on 4,519 lives for $5,877,958.51, as follows: There were 3,650 policies in the Temperance Section for $4,256,879.51 and 1,143 policies in the general section for $1,021,079.

A division of surplus to the amount of $6,726.44 was recommended to take place amongst the policies entitled thereto, those in the Temperance Section being entitled, according to the experience of the Company, to one-third more on similar policies than those in the General Section.

A dividend of 5 per cent. was declared on the paid-up capital.

The concluding sentences of the report are as follows:

So far this year, not only has the payment of our outstanding and deferred premiums been more prompt and satisfactory than in any previous year, but the amount of new insurance applied for has also been in excess of any previous year's record.

We have pleasure in referring again to the loyalty and efficiency of all the members of our office and field staff. They have our fullest confidence and deserve our highest commendation.

Independent audits have been regularly made by the Company's Auditor, and by the Auditing Committee of the Board, whose certificates are attached to the Financial Statement, and are warrants for its correctness, and for the correctness of our accounts.

By Section 9 of our Act of Incorporation, all the Directors retire, but are eligible for re-election.

GEORGE W. ROSS, President. H. SUTHERLAND, Manager.

CONDITION DECEMBER 31ST, 1894.

4,793 policies in force on 4,519 lives for	$5,877,958 51
Assets at present value	365,566 71
Liabilities	294,826 99
Surplus to policy-holders, not including $40,000 uncalled guarantee capital	30,739 72

The following gentlemen were elected Directors: Hon. G. W. Ross, LL.D., Hon. S. H. Blake, Q. C., R. McLean, Esq., P. H. Burton, Esq., Thos. Caswell, Esq., barrister, Wm. Watterworth, Esq., George H. Wilkes, Esq., W. H. Bowlby, Q.C., LL.D., J. Lyons Biggar, Esq., W. Nattress, M.D., Joseph A. Fite, M. D., Joseph Williams, Esq., A. J. Wilkes, Q. C., LL.B., J. A. Robertson, M.D., H. M. Pellatt, Esq.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors the former officers were unanimously re-elected.

Stock in the Temperance and General is held at 125, with no sellers.

The Peterborough agency put in about $200,000 worth of new business last year—a proof not only of the popularity of the company, but of the energy and industry of the District Agent, Mr. H. P. Lindsay.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action: but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs, will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

THE ANNUAL MISSIONARY SERMONS.

DELIVERED BY REV. DR. GALBRAITH, PRESIDENT OF THE TORONTO CONFERENCE.

Although the Weather was Stormy Large Congregations Assembled in the Charlotte Street and George Street Methodist Churches Yesterday.

Rev. Dr. Galbraith, the eloquent president of the Toronto Conference, preached missionary sermons in the Charlotte street Methodist church in the morning, and in the George street church at night. His text was taken from the sixth verse of Revelation xiv.: "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people."

REGARDING THIS VISION,

Mr. Galbraith, in words clothed in language of the most ornate and flowery description, explained that the angel in question was thought by some to refer to Luther, the man of the reformation. Others again were of the opinion that the great Wesley was the one referred to, while still others inclined to the belief that the Bible societies and their work bore the closest resemblance to the illustration. The speaker himself was strong in asserting himself as confident that the allegory was not intended to be restricted to any one man or society, but was a sweeping statement which included the advancement of the entire Church of God, which regarded the world as its Alma Mater, and mankind as the Alumni. The flying angel, he thought, should only be compared to

THE CHURCH OF GOD

in its entirety, which is fulfilling the vast commission which God gave to His disciples, when He instructed them to go forth and preach unto all the world.

No reference, he continued, such as that contained in the text, could be more appropriate to the Church of God since the Reformation, and in the present century. "The Church is a mighty angel, borne on the pinions of love, and is proclaiming throughout all the world the unsearchable riches of the Word of Christ."

Continuing, Mr. Galbraith stated that the Church since its inception had enemies of as many hues as Joseph's coat. They had tried in vain to deny the truth of its heavenly origin, and now stand as unperishable memories of Jehovah's wrath.

The speaker then briefly reviewed the foreign mission work of the world. The two great obstacles, he stated, which the missionaries had to work against, were the influence of the slave trade and the liquor traffic. In Africa alone, while the different churches sent out 114 Missionaries every year their work was almost counterbalanced by the fact that 8,000,000 gallons of rum was imported into the country during the same period. The missionaries, he explained had made more progress in Japan than in any other heathen nation upon earth. Since the introduction of Christianity into the country, Japan's power had rapidly risen until at the present day her sway in the East

WAS ALMOST AS GREAT

as that of Great Britain in the West.

In closing his sermon Dr. Galbraith gave a brief resume of the work which had been accomplished in Christendom since the opening of the present century. In 1800 the Bible had been translated into the languages used by only one-fifth of the known inhabitants of the earth, at present it could be read by nine tenths of the people. Then only $20,000 a year was subscribed for foreign mission, now the sum had reached the enormous amount of $12,000,000 per annum. Then there was scarcely a heathen nation accessible to the missionaries, now every principal nation on earth had thrown its doors open to the word of God.

The Rev. Doctor's sermon was of an hour's duration, but he received the closest attention from the announcement of his text until he brought his interesting discourse to a close.

PROTECTION THAT PROTECTS.

Assessment System—Mutual Principle.

J. O'Donnell, Esq., Special Agent of the Provincial Provident Institution, Peterborough, Ont.:

DEAR SIR,—Permit me to convey, through you, to the Company you represent, my grateful acknowledgment of the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, which has just been handed me. Between four and five years ago I insured in the P.P.I. for $1000, half that amount being payable in case of permanent disability. Up to the present time it has cost, outside of entrance fees, less than fifty dollars to keep the policy in good standing. For more than two years past I have been a helpless cripple, unable even to feed myself, and my case has been pronounced hopeless. Being a poor labouring man with a family, and having the misfortune to lose my oldest boy about a year ago, you can readily understand what a blessing $500.00 is to us at the present time. Since being disabled it has been at the cost of great hardship and personal sacrifice on the part of my wife and children that we have been able to procure the bare necessaries of life. Recently I applied for a Disability Claim, and the settlement made by the Company has been prompt and generous, a fact which you may be sure is thoroughly appreciated by myself and family. It was a fortunate thing for us that the agent induced me to take out a Policy, and that the said policy contained a disability clause.

Thanking you, and wishing the Company continued success in its beneficent work, I remain,

Yours truly,
his
JOHN X PUE,

CAVAN.

The Late Edward Johnston.

On Friday morning Mr. Edward Johnston, a very highly respected resident of Cavan, passed away to rest. His death was somewhat sudden, the cause being paralysis, of which he had an attack on Tuesday, January 22nd at 2.30 p.m. Previous to this, Mr. Johnston had been apparently in excellent health. The deceased gentleman was a native of Farmanagh County, Ireland, from which place he removed to Canada in 1847. He settled at first in Otonabee, and after spending some time in different parts of the district, settled permanently in Cavan, lot 17 in the 12th concession. He was united in marriage to Miss Mary Cooney, daughter of the late Sergt. Benjamin Cooney, a veteran of Waterloo. His wife died on Nov. 11th, 1891. There is a family of five—three sons and two daughters, all living at the homstead. Mr. Johnston was in religion a Methodist, and in politics a staunch and advanced Liberal. He never sought office and contented himself by discharging faithfully all the duties of his station, as citizen, friend and neighbour, winning in a very large degree universal respect and esteem, as was testified by the large attendance at his funeral, which took place on Sunday afternoon at 1.30 from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

Miss Melville is giving reductions this week in stamped linnen goods, such as splashers, tray cloths, pillow shams, etc., etc. 361 George street. Stamping done to order.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

IN WINTER QUARTERS.

THE CLOSE OF THE LAKE NAVIGATION SEASON OF 1894.

Business Continued Well Into the Winter—Good Weather in December—The Record of Disasters of the Year.

Navigation on the Great Lakes has been continued well along into the winter this year. Lake vessel owners, who have experienced a season without precedent in low carrying charges, have seemed loath to put their craft in winter quarters, particularly as December has given excellent sailing weather, and Chicago grain shippers were willing to pay high prices for the first time since the panic of 1893. Not many years ago when the bulk of freight on the Great Lakes was carried in schooners, the last week in November was supposed to be the end of navigation, and the vessel which was still out on December 1st was an object of grave suspicion to the underwriters. Of late years the schooners have been displaced by large steamers, both of wood and steel, and a year ago the underwriters recognized the change by extending insurance to December 5th. Last fall a further extension to December 10th was tacitly acknowledged by the underwriters, although that action was not in accordance with their general agreement.

But whether navigation stops early or late, there are always some tardy ones at the finish. The last lumber boats at the big mills on Lake Superior had to be loaded in a heavy snowstorm, hundreds of men working night and day till the final cargo was on board. The harbors were then frozen up and powerful tugs were required to break a way into the open lake through the ice for the belated craft. When the last steamer went into Escanaba, the greatest iron-ore shipping point in the world, for the closing cargo, a way had to be broken through several inches of solid ice before she could get to her dock. The danger of poking a hole through the steamers's side by bucking the ice is a very serious one, and many craft have gone to the bottom in this way. At the opening of navigation two large steamers were lost in the ice at the Straits of Mackinaw.

In wintry weather the Straits is a dangerous spot of the lakes. With westerly gales, a tremendous sea bowls through the narrow passage between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. The channel is lined on either side with deceptive reefs, and once the captain is well in the Straits, there is nothing to do for him but to run the gauntlet in the teeth of the gale. Vessel owners and underwriters feel comparatively safe when their boats are reported passing that perilous locality.

The season closes with several mysterious disappearances of lake vessels still unaccounted for. The boats disappeared leaving no trace behind. It is supposed that they were swamped in a gale and went down so quickly that their crews had no time to escape.

The winter month of December furnished better sailing weather than lake-faring men, until the last week, had since the second week in October. During most of that month and all of November the wind was blowing a gale from some point of the compass all of the time, but with Thanksgiving the blustering came to an end. Early in December the underwriters announced that they would take insurance so long as the weather continued good. During the first week in December Chicago grain shippers loaded nearly 2,500,000 bushels of corn on lake vessels, bound for New England and seaboard points. All of this was of the new crop, which had been hurried from the cornfields of the west in order that it might be shipped by water, thus avoiding the high rates which the railroads charge as soon as their great water competitor is locked in ice.

It is a peculiarity of the lakes that there is no telling where ice is first to stop the boats. Sometimes it is in the Straits, oftener it is Lake St. Clair, and once in a score of years it is the head of Lake Erie which freezes up earliest on the arrival of cold weather. Up to the middle of December the great water route was as free of ice as in midsummer. The government left its lightships and its beacons and buoys in place full 10 days later this year than formerly.

While a large fleet has thus been enab'ed to continue in service, a much larger fleet had been placed in winter quarters at Chicago. This port is the Mecca for vessels of all kinds, on account of good profit to be made in storing grain during the winter, before taking it to Lake Erie and Lake Ontario when navigation opens in the spring. Before the panic came it was the habit of Western people to buy their winter coal early in the summer and put it in the cellar. For two years past they have quit that practice and now buy their fuel from time to time as they need it. In consequence the vast amount of coal required throughout the West for the winter is still on the docks along the Chicago and Calumet rivers. They are all filled to overflowing, and a large quantity is being stored on the vessels which brought it until a place can be found for it on the docks.

For the officers and crew of the steamers which have gone into winter quarters, it is the first time of rest since their boats started out last April. Nowhere in the world are boats kept so constantly in motion as on the Great Lakes. Every invention and facility to be secured are put in service for the rapid handling of cargoes. Steamers carrying one hundred thousand bushels of wheat have been loaded the past season in forty-five minutes, and in an hour from the time they showed up alongside the elevator they have been ready to put out on their voyage again. At the end of eight months of such ceaseless work under high pressure, with every minute computed whether in port or in the open lake, going into winter quarters means a great deal to those who man the lake fleets.

Chicago River, the narrowest and crookedest stretch of dirty water on earth, is completely filled with boats hailing from every fresh-water port. It requires the constant service of several harbor masters to keep the channel open between them, as they line the dock on either side. A trip up the river on a tug shows a remarkable change in marine architecture which lake boats have undergone in the present decade. Huge steel crafts carrying 4,000 tons are to be seen at every turn.

TWO OLD WOMEN.

Both Lived for More than 100 Years and Use Tobacco.

Mrs. Charity Wright lives a few miles east of Canton, Ill. Her maiden name was King and she was born in the State of North Carolina in the year 1790, but soon thereafter removed with her parents to Pennsylvania. She is one of the few pensioners of the War of 1812. She and Bryant Wright were engaged to be married just as the declaration of war against Great Britain was promulgated. The nuptials were postponed and Mr. Wright entered the army and contributed his share to the service of his country. Immediately at the close of the war the wedding took place and the two enjoyed each other's confidence and love for more than 67 years, or until the death of Mr. Wright in 1880.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright came to Illinois in 1836 and settled in Canton Township on a piece of congress land, using the land scrip given to all soldiers of the War of 1812 to enter the land with. For the last 2½ years Mrs. Wright has been in a partially paralyzed condition and requires constant attendance. Aside from this affliction she is in a fair state of physical preservation. Mrs. Wright, like Mrs. Bordner of Lewiston Township, who is 105 years old, is a constant user of tobacco. She has smoked for over 90 years and enjoys nothing so well now as a pipe of good tobacco after a cup of strong Java coffee.

Salisbury on Rosebery's Plan.

"The disgust they have excited, both in respect to the rights of property and the integrity of the empire, is a serious hindrance to Lord Rosebery's dream of fashioning a new second chamber warranted to exhibit Gladstonian proclivities. The classes among whom the candidates for Liberal peerages have hitherto been found, have deserted his party, because of the monstrous transformation which the teaching of his party has undergone. He must dig deep and search far before he finds a couche sociale with the dispositions that he wants. I doubt if he will find it in any large abundance, unless he digs in Celtic soil. Of course, his second chamber may be so constructed that it will turn out to be a mere replica of the House of Commons, and in that case it will exhibit the oscillations which have marked the history of opinion in that assembly. But if it resembles the House of Commons in the origin and basis of its authority, it will insist on also possessing the same powers and the same functions. It will demand a voice in questions of finance, and the power to dismiss Ministers; and it will be able to extort compliance with its demands by precisely the same methods as those by which the House of Commons in past days has built up the fabric of its own authority."

Lord Salisbury point-blank denies Mr. Asquith's statement that the Conservatives have on the stocks a scheme of reform for the House of Lords, but after recalling proposals to this end supported him twenty-five, and again five or six years ago, he goes on to state that "it is very likely that if circumstances were favorable"—in the event of a sufficiently large majority being returned to the lower house?—"renewed attempts in this direction would be made on the same or on different lines." He considers it safe to predict that no measure diminishing the scope and importance of the present functions of the upper house would ever be accepted by that house. Lord Rosebery apparently "means to so alter the House of Lords that it shall always defer to the House of Commons whenever Gladstonians are in office. Mr. Asquith and the other Ministers wish, on the other hand, to enthrone the House of Commons as absolute sovereigns sans phrase."—Lord Salisbury, in the National Review.

GAS MOTOR ON SHIPBOARD

SUCCESSFULLY APPLIED FOR THE PURPOSE OF NAVIGATION.

Economy of Room and Cost—A 350-Ton Craft Which Moves Along Without Noise or Smoke.

A novel method of using coal gas in navigation has been successfully tried at Havre, France, by Mr. Capelle for a syndicate of capitalists. An iron boat of 350 tons was built, a vertical gas motor of 40 horse power furnishing the power. Coal gas, compressed to a pressure of 1,400 pounds per square inch, is stored in steel tubes placed between decks and a regulator situated between the gas reservoir and the motor reduces the pressure of the gas entering the motor to the flow ordinarily required. Trials have been made with this boat in presence of the Mayor of Havre and the harbor officials and the result was absolutely conclusive

This new boat, christened L'Idee (The Idea), has been over the course from Harfleur to Rouen and behaved perfectly. It was a source of wonder to all to see her wending her way among the large vessels in port at full speed without noise and without smoke. The captain has full control over his vessel from the bridge. He can change her course, slacken or increase her speed, and stop or even go backward almost instantaneously, thanks to the reversible screw.

Before long a flotilla of 60 similar boats will perform a regular service between Paris and Harve and Paris and Creil. Gas works are building along these routes and will supply the gas according to the needs of the service. The cost of power will be more economical than any other; but the chief saving will be effected in the comparatively small room taken up by the motor, allowing considerably more freight to be taken in. A remarkable fact worthy of notice is that pure coal gas compressed to a pressure of as high as 2,000 pounds per square inch does not show an appreciable condensation.—La Nature.

Underwear Made From Peat.

Underwear is now made in Paris of peat. This sounds like a joke, but there is nothing of the Munchausen order about it. It has been known for some time that peat has certain antiseptic qualities. A dead body which was buried in peat for over a century was found in a state of perfect preservation. Peat is used in the northern countries of Europe for surgical bandages, and the favorable results obtained by the Russian surgeons with peat bandages have induced the French army department to use it in the French hospitals. It has also been found that peat fibres, in combination with other material, possesses wonderful absorbing properties. This has led Dr. Rasurel to use peat fibres for the making of underwear in the place of flannel. The new material has proven very effective, absorbing perspiration and rapidly drying. Dr. Rasurel calls his fibre a "real hydraulic pump," and pronounces it an excellent preventive of colds. The new textile is already largely used in France.

Aluminium Barrels and Casks.

Aluminium may be profitably used, according to W. R. Taylor, of Rochester, in the manufacture of casks, jugs, car boys, water tanks, mineral water bottles and syphons, milk cans, firkins, fermenting and evaporating pans, cocks and taps, pumps and bar fittings, and various culinary utensils. In the case of large vessels the sheets of metal should be strengthened by hoops or wooden staves, or by means of a layer of solidified wood pulp. One important advantage claimed for aluminium is that it and, for the most part, its alloys are non-corrodible.

Regular Habits and Long Life.

In his recently published work on the 'Distribution of Rainfall Over the British Isles," G. J. Symons states "that the great majority of rainfall observers live to a good old age." To say the least, a regular observer would probably be led almost instinctively to introduce his systematic habits into the rest of his affairs and thus promote the healthy mind, which, with a healthy body, is the main factor in longevity.—Invention.

Portable Search Light.

The Commissioners of Police were recently experimentalizing on the Thames at night with an arc search light deriving its current from a Skrivanow primary battery, and they have now, we understand, successfully adapted that battery to portable glow lamps for domestic purposes. A battery of small size, but considerable power, is placed in the base of a lamp standard, the glow lamp being mounted on the top in place of the ordinary burner. Most of the usual forms of duplex, moderator and other lamps of that class can be utilized in this way.—Invention.

Punching Steel Boiler Tubes.

Steel tubes for boiler work are punched by a new German process from the hot metal. A bar of steel is placed in a matrix of sufficient strength, and having a hole the exact diameter of the tube; then, without allowing time for the steel to cool, a mandrel with a rounded end is forced lengthwise into the mass. Tubes nearly 8 inches in diameter are thus produced, the pressure necessary to operate the mandrel being 180 tons. The tube is finished by drawing and redrawing to the thickness required.

Sun Baths to Beautify.

Pale-faced children and bilious-yellow, cold-blooded women need sunshine bathing. There are two ways of taking it—on foot and horseback. The best is the saddle, but unfortunately, horseflesh is too precious for beggars to ride. Given the opportunity, any able-bodied child will play its little self strong and pretty. Any woman who wishes can walk in beauty. It is only a question of will. A walk from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. will hurt the footwear and the doctors. Many, many times to walk home will do the tired bread-winner more good than her dinner, for the physical fatigue will produce deep sleep, and the prophets said, centuries ago: "Sleep is as good as a feast."

A TRIO OF HAPPY CITIZENS.

Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidences of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, because the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakable cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

Whee God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
So lingering was poor Pa's disease.
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but step, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A little will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

THE SEEDING OF CLOVER.

SOME OF THE DISADVANTAGES OF BROADCASTING.

The Appropriate Fertilizers—Sulphate of Potash Good, But Wood Ashes Cannot Be Excelled—Value of Clover in Restoring Land.

It is when the snow is on the ground that some farmers seed clover on wheat land, but it is doubtful if seeding too early is of any advantage. It is true that broadcasting the seed over the surface covers every portion, and the rains carry it into the soil, but there are periods in the early spring when the ground is as hard as rock, and if the seed is not washed away it will be clustered in spots, leaving others bare, as is witnessed every season. It is not the case that all farmers venture to seed down their clover until the season is warmer, but the rule is to sow as soon as it can be done. The proper method is to harrow the wheat with a smoothing harrow, sow the clover seed and harrow the field again, which does not injure the wheat, but enables the seed to be better covered and secure lodgment. Plenty of seed is important, as the birds destroy a portion, some of the seed may be worthless, and a portion is also destroyed should a warm spell of weather be followed by severe cold. These causes have prevented good strands of clover, although the failure of the seed was attributed to something else.

FERTILIZERS FOR CLOVER.

Clover is a nitrogen gatherer. That is, it procures the greater proportion of its nitrogen from the full nitrogen of the atmosphere, and by its own roots, which take up nitrogen as ammonia and nitric acid, when the rains bring these substances down from the air and carry it into the soil. Any nitrogen as fertilizer is therefore of but little value for clover, but the crop is greatly benefited by potash and lime. Land plaster (sulphate of lime), which is sparingly soluble in water, gives excellent results on some soils, but land that has been heavily limed with air-slaked lime in the fall should be in excellent condition for clover, provided it is not deficient in potash. An application of a hundred pounds of sulphate of potash will often prove sufficient to induce a large yield, but wood ashes, which contain both lime and potash, cannot be excelled for clover.

CLOVER AS A LAND RESTORER.

Leaving the value of clover as a hay crop aside, it is one of the best crops known for restoring the fertility of the soil. Its roots, which contain nitrogen largely, restore that substance to the soil, and it is a practice with many to cut the first growth for hay and plow under the second growth, followed by an application of lime. If this is done, the only forms of fertilizers required by the farmer will be potash and phosphates, which will keep the soil well supplied with plant food in fair proportions for nearly all other crops. Red clover is a biennial, but the new crimson clover, which is an annual, may be sown in the fall and plowed under in the spring, being well adapted on soils that will not produce red clover; but where red clover can be grown it should be given the preference, as it cannot be surpassed in the many advantages which it possesses by any other crop grown upon the farm.

MIDWINTER FARM TALK.

Plowing on Warm Days—January Fertilizing—Notes.

There are always a few warm days during the winter when the frost comes out of the ground, and on some lands plowing can be done. If land is plowed, and the frost penetrates, the lumps and clods will be broken, and, if preferred, the land may be cross-plowed in the spring, which will permit of thorough harrowing. One point in favor of turning up the soil in winter is that the cutworms are brought to the surface and exposed, which destroys them.

Fertilizers of certain kinds, if not applied in the fall, may be applied in January. Ground bone cannot be put on the ground too soon, as it dissolves very slowly. Strawberries may receive such a fertilizer now; with the potash salts during February or March, and the nitrates in April. If dissolved bone is used in place of ground bone it will be early enough to apply it in March.

Many substances which go into the manure heap add nothing thereto, but serve as absorbents, which save the valuable portions of the manure and avoid loss.

Driving a horse in winter to give it exercise is beneficial if not overdone, but in such cases the horse should be well rubbed down on his return and covered with a light blanket until cooled. Horses may take cold in the stable when brought in very warm, especially if cracks permit cold draughts to enter. The blanket should always be used on very cold days as a protection.

As soon as the lambs come in they must have plenty of milk. Each ewe and her lamb must be observed. If nourishment is lacking the lamb will not thrive. Ground oats make the best food for young lambs that are eating in the trough.

Do not keep the cream too long or the butter will be bitter. Old cream and fresh cream should not be mixed. When churning the cream the temperature should be regulated by warm or cold water, as necessary. If the conditions are correct the butter should come quickly.

Many fruits are self-pollenizing, and fail to give a crop. The remedy is not to depend on a single variety, but to have several kinds growing them close together wherever it can be done.

The reason why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so much more effective than other remedies for colds and coughs is because it is the most skilful combination of anodynes and expectorants known to medical science. It is in every respect a scientific medicine.

Federation in Sight in Australia.

MELBOURNE, Victoria, Jan. 28.—A crowded meeting in favor of Australian federation was held here. The Chief Justice of Victoria, Mr. Madden, presided, and among those present were the Premiers of New South Wales, South Australia and Victoria. R. H. Reid, the Premier of New South Wales, made a speech, during which he advocated the abolition of hostile tariffs and urged the Australian colonies to federate now, before they are compelled to do so in a hurry. Much enthusiasm was displayed throughout the meeting.

Two Actions Against Sergeant Redmond.

QUEBEC, Jan. 28.—Clerk of the Peace Brunel has been instructed to take two actions against Sergeant Redmond, of the city police force, who was nearly killed while trying to test freshly distilled whiskey in his house. The first action is for having an illicit still in his house and the second for distilling illicit whiskey.

A Schooner's Steward Killed.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 28.—A. M. Cook, aged 22, steward on the schooner Carrie C. W., which was fitting out for seal fishing in the Pacific, was fatally crushed between the wharf and vessel while repairing a fender broken during Saturday night's storm. He lived only a few hours.

Nearly Cost Him His Life.

QUEBEC, Jan. 28.—Mr. Arthur Lapointe, an organist of this city, was nearly killed while handling a loaded revolver. He was struck by a bullet just below the heart. The doctors succeeded in extracting the bullet, and Mr. Lapointe is in a fair way to recovery.

An Earthquake in Montana.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 28.—A distinct shock of earthquake was felt in this city yesterday. Windows and doors rattled and the shocks were felt in all parts of the city. The vibration lasted only a moment.

Petosky Swept by Fire.

PETOSKY, Mich., Jan. 28.—The business portion of Boynt City has been nearly wiped ont by fire, the United States hotel, several store buildings, two saloons and one dwelling house being destroyed.

Destitution Among Ohio Miners.

MASSILOON, Ohio, Jan. 28—Two hundred miners' families are reported to be starving in East Greenville, a quarter from which help has not hitherto been sought. The relief committee has just left Mayor Schott who will issue a specially urgent appeal.

Carried Into the Lake on the Ice.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Jan. 26.—Four men named John Robinson, Cullen, Alf. Wilkinson and Walker Wigle, with two teams, were cutting ice on the lake here, when the ice suddenly broke up and carried men and horses out in the lake. A boat from the shore went to their rescue, and they were landed safely on shore, but the horses were drowned.

Killed by Falling Walls.

GREEN SPRINGS, Ohio, Jan. 26.—The Jaynes Block on Centre street, a two storey brick structure, partly finished, was blown down. The falling walls caught Elmer Zane and his wife who were passing burying both in the debris. They were quickly taken out. Zane was in a dying condition and Mrs. Zane is probably fatally hurt. Zane lived but a short time.

KAISER WILHELM'S BIRTHDAY.

The Celebration of the Emperor's Birthday an Imposing Affair.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—Emperor William has made his birthday celebration a great spectacle. Apparently his object has been to dazzle the people and dispel their suspicions of strife between him and the other allied monarchs in Germany. Only on supreme occasions has the city seen such a gathering of crowned heads. The Kings of Saxony and Wurtemberg, the Grand Dukes of Baden, Hesse and Oldenburg and the Dukes of Saxe-Coburg Gotha and Mecklenburg-Schwerin are here. In fact, every noteworthy German prince, except the regent of Bavaria, has come to lend pomp to the fetes. With the princes and suites there have arrived many families of the court nobility, who have filled the big hotels and overflowed into the private palaces of high Berlin society.

All the big buildings were ablaze with electric lights arranged in patriotic designs. At 6 o'clock in the morning 101 artillery salutes announced the opening of the birthday festivities. Then the massed bands of the garrison regiments marched through Unter den Linden and up to the Lustgarten, where they played the reveille. The streets through which they passed were filled with early risers, among whom were hundreds of excursionists from nearby towns. The Emperor began the day by attending religious service, after which he, all the allied monarchs, the princes with their families and their suites went to the arsenal. There the royal visitors and the assembled officers of all the troops stationed near Berlin heard an imperial order to this effect:

"With a view to giving the troops a visible sign of the proud memories left to them by the glorious war twenty-five years ago, all military standards and flags whenever unfolded between July 15, 1895, and May 10, 1896, shall be decorated with fresh oak leaves. Moreover the first guns of all batteries which took part in the campaign between between July 15, 1870, and May 10, 1871, shall be wreathed in oak leaves whenever used or displayed in public during the period already named."

As the day advanced the crowds in the streets increased. The police did not enforce the Sunday closing law and many shops did an enormous business The Emperor was cheered loudly whenever he appeared in public.

The Reichsanzeiger publishes this letter which the Emperor has addressed to the Berlin city government: "It is a quarter of a century since the German nation in obedience to the summons of its Princes repelled unitedly the foreign aggressors and gained those glorious victories for unity and the fatherland, which led to the re-establishment of the Empire. As a lasting monument to the glorious past I will erect out of my own purse, statues of Brandenburg's and Prussia's princes from the Margrave Albert to Emperor William I. in Victoria Avenue in the Thiergarten. Each statue will be flanked with figures of the men especially renowned in the period in question."

The Emperor will decree that the ministry of education award annually a costly jewel to be worn on a neck chain to the winner in a contest of German song. Only men's glee clubs will be admitted to the contest. Several consolation prizes and decorations also will be given.

BROOKLYN'S TROLLEY STRIKE.

Railway Officials Claim That the Men Are Beaten.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 28—The city of churches had a comparatively quiet day yesterday. The troops were ready for any gatherings that might be reported, but were not ordered out in any numbers. In various outlying places, as well as on many built-up streets, wire cutting and stone throwing were indulged in and a number of arrests were made. The Greenpoint cars lost many panes of glass and the cross town cars were not run to South Brooklyn and the Erie Basin district.

The strikers do not congregate in crowds and the men are keeping well within the bounds of the law. A number of benefits are advertised and well patronized and the concensus of opinion among the strikers, both conductors and motormen, is that a firm front and a steadfast position on their part will win the fight. Officials of the railway companies claim that the men are beaten and that they can run their cars to the full capacity with the men they have.

The saloons in the vicinity of the stations were closed yesterday under strict orders from the police.

A Fight With Striking Glass Workers.

MARTIN'S FERRY, Ohio, Jan. 28.—A riot was precipitated here by the arrival of three non-union men at the Buckeye glass works from Wellsburg. When they got off the train at the works a mob of 100 captured them. Two of the new men were recaptured by the company's guard and safely lodged in the works. William Blankenson, the third man, was taken across the river, where his cap was found yesterday. Thirty shots were fired. A rioter is reported to have fallen and to have been hustled away in the darkness.

An Explorer Killed by Indians.

HERMOSILLO, Mex., Jan. 28.—Charles Brenemann, a German scientist, and three Mexican guides who accompanied him, are believed to have been killed by the Seris Indians on the Triburon Island. Brenemann and party left Guayamas about six weeks ago for the Indian country on an exploring expedition, refusing to heed the advice of persons who were acquainted with the cannibalistic character of the Seris tribe and the rough country.

Own a Good Piano

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

The Plain Truth Tells.

Constipation, headache, biliousness, and bad blood, are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters, which acts upon the stomach, liver, bowels and blood, curing all their diseases.

TRAINING WILD BEASTS.

The Strange Effect of Colors on Some Animals.

"Wild animals are much more pronounced in their likes and dislikes of colors than men are," said Edward Darling, the lion tamer, the other day. "To get the best results from animals when giving performances you must surround them with the colors which are not obnoxious to them. Now, take Mr. Mehrmann, for instance. He has two leopards in his group of animals which he has trained that have to be kept chained continually while they are not performing. The reason for this is that a leopard has an aversion for spots of any kind. Mr. Mehrmann has the misfortune of possessing two dogs very much spotted and whenever the leopards get a good opportunity they make for these dogs. Their lives would not be worth much if it was not for the vigilance of their master. It is strange, too, for the other dogs, which are of a solid color, get along splendidly with the animals. They play with them like kittens, but let one of the spotted dogs come about and immediately the leopards assume a warlike position. This aversion to spots seems to be general through the animal kingdom. The only time I have ever known a lion to attack a dog was when a spotted one was placed in his cage, and he never ceased until he had finished him.

"In training animals there are many little points which are of great importance that would be overlooked by the ordinary person. So a trainer must be observing. Once I had a lion that utterly refused to sit upon a pedestal which was provided for it. I beat the animal time and again for refusing to get upon it, but with no effect.

"I was about to give the beast up as one impossible to train—as an abnormal animal mind—when one day, by accident, the pedestals I had been using were misplaced and I could not find them. I had to substitute others. Imagine my surprise when my baby lion, when commanded to mount to his place, obeyed without hesitation. I thought I had conquered at last and felt much elated. The next day my own pedestals were found and when I ordered the lion to mount one he showed the same obstinacy. No being I could do would make him get up. He growled and purred, showing the utmost displeasure. I began to reason about the matter and finally came to the conclusion that it was the color of the pedestal that the animal objected to. The pedestal was painted a brilliant red, while the other one I had used on the day I was successful was blue. I put my theory to a practical test and discovered I was right. The lion would do the trick without the least protestation when I used the blue pedestal, but would refuse to even touch the red one

Ermine Coming in Fashion.

Fashion exerts considerable influence on the fur market, as any one can understand who observes how sealskin jackets come and go in feminine favor. A most striking example occurred in the case of ermine fur. For many years this beautiful fur was quite out of favor; nobody wore it, nobody asked for it, and by-and-bye, the skins practically disappeared from the market. Then, a year or two ago, a demand for ermine mysteriously sprang up and began to grow. The fur merchants, looking about for supplies, saw nonc coming forward, and, of course, the price stiffened.

The Chinese, who in former years used to supply nearly all the ermine sent to London, were asked why they did not now send on skins. Their reply was that they had long ago given up catching them, because they were unsaleable when sent to market. But they set to work anew, and at the spring sales this year 10,000 skins were received and sold at double as much as they would have brought a year ago, and probably considerably less than they will bring a year hence, if fashion keeps this skin in favor over the winter.

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 13,996,800,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance

Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

TALK AT THE CAPITAL

Mr. Sutherland Thinks an Election Will be Held Before a Session.

IN THE RAILWAY COMMITTEE

Several Matters Before the Department Discussed—Proposed C. P. R. Line Between Ottawa and Montreal —The Mayoralty Protest —The Carnival.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—It is learned that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is about to make another move in connection with the completion of the proposed line between the capital and the Canadian metropolis, known as the Montreal and Ottawa Railway. The engineers who have been engaged for some months on the building of the C. P. R. at Mattawa, will, it is said, be shortly withdrawn from that line to complete the survey for the unfinished portion of the Montreal and Ottawa Railway, west of Point Fortune. The idea is to make all preparations for the pushing of construction work as soon as the snow has left the ground next spring. If the C. P. R. open this long delayed branch, the North Shore line to Montreal will probably be abandoned, as the lease under which the road is now held has already expired since construction work on the Mattawa branch is completed for the year, the engineers should be in a position to begin their survey within a couple of weeks.

James Sutherland, M. P., the chief Liberal whip, who was in the city for the past two or three days, has left for Toronto. Mr. Sutherland is of opinion that there will be a general election before a session. He, of course, has got no official information on the subject, but judging from the look of things he anticipates that the result of the Government's long deliberation of the subject will be an early appeal to the country.

The Railway Committee of the Privy Council met yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, when there were present Messrs. Caron, Ouimet, Tupper and Daly. As Minister of Justice Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper made his first appearance as a member of the committee. The first case called was the Main street crossing of the Grand Trunk and the Hamilton, Grimsby and Beamsville Electric Railway. John Hoodless and O. Fergus, Q.C., for the electric road, objected to the expensive system of protection which the Grand Trunk proposed they should maintain. After hearing both sides Sir Adolphe Caron said that the usual protection required would be left to the Government chief engineer.

The protest against the return of Mayor Borthwick by the friends of ex-Ald. Cluff, is still going on. The first legal step was taken to-day, when an application in the matter was sent to Toronto.

There were only five cases of drunkenness and disorderly conduct before the police magistrate during the past week. Those who were opposing the carnival on moral grounds cannot find much in that to maintain their contention. Rev. Mr. McIntosh, of the Congregational Church, preached yesterday on the carnival. He pronounced himself strongly in favor of it, and the pleasant exhilirating week's sport which it gave.

HARTY WINS KINGSTON.

A Very Large Majority Elects the Lately-Appointed Minister.

KINGSTON, Jan. 29.—A great deal of excitement was caused by the election contest here yesterday. Not for many years was such interest displayed in an election.

HON. WM. HARTY.

Many pluces of business closed down for the day and both employers and employes worked hard for their respective candidates.

The total vote polled was: Harty, 2,268; Smythe, 1,881. Majority for Harty, 482. This is the largest majority ever accorded a parliamentary candidate in this city.

TOPICS OF CANADIAN INTEREST

Canadian Pacific Officials Interviewed With Regard to Emigration in Canada—Advertising Canada in England by the High Commissioner.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The splendid wheats of Manitoba have been recently very much to the front, in consequence of the exhibition, through the instrumentality of the High Commissioner for Canada, at the leading corn exchanges of the country, of official samples of the various grades of this cereal. They have attracted a great deal of attention, both from their hardness, weight and general appearance; and there is little doubt that almost any quantity could find a market in the United Kingdom. One large importing house stated recently that the Manitoba wheat of last year's crop, handled by them, is the finest quality that has ever been received on the market, and that the millers appreciate it more generally and are using it more freely than they have ever before done. Another merchant writes that the Manitoba wheats are of finer quality than they have had for a number of years. It is stated that the intention of Sir Charles Tupper to offer small sample bags of the wheat to farmers, millers and others who may apply for them, with the object of directing the attention of agriculturists to the quality of the cereals, and to the suitability of the country for farming purposes, and of creating a still greater demand for the wheats in the United Kingdom.

Affairs in Newfoundland.

The deplorable state of affairs in Newfoundland has been attracting a good deal of attention. It is generally recognized that something must be done, not only to alleviate the distress that exists there, but also to place the affairs of the colony in a more satisfactory condition. No one, however, seems to be able to suggest anything of a definite character, but it is felt that little or nothing can be done until there has been some impartial and independent enquiry into the causes that have led to the present crisis. The general impression seems to be that in order to reduce the current expenditure and to bring about a financial equilibrium it will be necessary to suspend the existing constitution and for a time at any rate to administer the affairs of the island as a crown colony. If this leads to the entry of the colony into the Dominion, so much the better for everybody concerned and for the empire, but nothing is likely to be done in that direction on the part of the Government here unless the feeling in the colony is favorable to the union. It is doubtful, however, whether the adoption of any or all of these suggestions would give any immediate benefit to the working population, who must have employment if they are to maintain themselves and their families; and they cannot emigrate, as many ought to do, if things do not improve, unless assistance is forthcoming from somewhere.

Our Cattlemen.

The men who come over from Canada with cattle are a frequent source of worry and difficulty. Under the new arrangements they are entered on the ships articles and get their discharge papers on the completion of the voyage. They are, however, entitled to a return voyage, but are often induced to "sign off," as they term it, for a small sum of money. This is especially the case with the cattlemen on "tramps" and irregular steamers. The consequences is that in a few days the men are without their return funds, their return passages and drift into a deplorable condition. Some measures should be taken to prevent cases of the kind, and it ought not to be difficult. Many people think if the steamship companies can be induced to abandon the signing-off system and hand to men, in every case, not the money for their passages, but the actual passage ticket.

Making Canada Known.

A few weeks ago a statement appeared in one of the educational journals to the effect that sets of lantern slides could be obtained from the High Commissioner's office by school masters and others desiring to deliver lectures on Canada. As the result a very large number of applications have been received, and the twenty sets of slides, valuable works are engaged almost continuously during the remainder of the winter season. The lectures are not only delivered to the school children, but are even more largely used for evening entertainments in the villages and country districts, and especially in what are known as the evening continuation schools. The value of this work in directing the attention of the public to the advantages of Canada as a field for emigration can hardly be overestimated. It serves to supplement in a very useful way the dissemination of the literature on Canada, which has been arranged in such a thorough manner in the last few years, both by the Government and the steamship and railway companies.

That Very Absorbing Topic.

Mr. Daldy's reply to Mr. Edgar's letter is not regarded in Canadian circles here as strengthening the English side of the question. What he and those associated with him apparently desire is that there should be one copyright law in Canada for Canadians and another for British authors, publishers and printers—an absurdity on the face of it. He repeats that he has more than once stated that Canada has full right to legislate on copyright for her own authors (which, by the way, is not true), and that what Canada now wants Great Britain to do is to legislate against authors in the United Kingdom in the interests of Canadian printers, by repealing a most important future of the Imperial act of 1842.

Mr. Daldy ought to know by this time that Canada desires nothing of the kind. What she wishes is that the power conferred upon her by the British North American Act, to legislate on copyright in Canada, whether for Canadians, for other subjects of Her Majesty or for foreigners, should be made absolute subject of course to the veto clause contained in the statute. This cannot be the case until the Act of 1842 is modified, so far as Canada is concerned. It would and ought to have been done in 1867 when the Confederation Act was under discussion but for an oversight. As the matter stands now Canadian legislation on copyright has little or no force whatever, as the consequence of the insistence on the part of a few individuals on the right of England to interfere in the domestic legislation of a self-governing possessions of the empire, by maintaining the Act of 1842. Mr. Daldy goes on to state that he is informed very few people in Canada are interested in the matter. This is a bold statement in view of the perfect unanimity of the two Houses of the Canadian Parliament on the subject on several occasions. It would be equally fair to state and far more true that it has no public interest in England outside Mr. Daldy and his friend.

Emigration to Canada.

Very naturally Messrs. Allan Bros. & Co. and the officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in the United Kingdom take considerable interest in the promotion of emigration to Canada. They have, therefore, been interviewed with regard to the movement in the last year, and as to the prospects of emigration in the coming spring. Messrs. Allan Bros. state that, unfortunately, there is nothing favorable to report on the last year's emigration, but that the interests of the steamship companies and Canadian railway companies are identical with those of the Government and that every possible step has been taken to promote a desirable emigration to the Dominion. They add that they have been subjected to a war of rates brought about through misunderstanding with the continental lines, their normal rate of £5 to £5 being reduced to £3. Notwithstanding the lower fares emigration has not increased, but on the contrary decreased. They do not hope for any improvement until things are in a more prosperous condition in Canada, as emigration largely depends on the success of those who have already gone out, whose reports have great influence one way or the other. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company's agents generally endorse the views of the shipping company and add that so far as last year's emigration is concerned, while the result has been confessedly unsatisfactory, it certainly cannot be attributed to any falling off in the efforts of the various parties interested in directing emigration to Canada.

A VERY SERIOUS WRECK.

Two Persons Killed and About Thirty Injured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 29.—Vandalia train No. 2 was wrecked at Cateville, 26 miles out. Two persons were killed and about thirty injured.

The train was running at full speed and was about 10 minutes late. It had just passed the town and was rounding the curve when the track spread. The private car of President W. R. McKeene, which was in the rear, jumped the track, the rear two cars going down the embankment 10 feet before the train could be stopped.

The smoker left the track but did not go over. The rear two cars caught fire but were extinguished when the work of rescue began. Mr. Morton, of St. Louis, died soon after being taken from the car. In his pocket were found letters giving his name and showing that he had come from St. Louis. He was carried to a school house unconscious and lived about 20 minutes. The other person killed was Mrs. Towers. The injured were carried up the embankment to houses alongside the track and soon townspeople and physicians gathered to give assistance.

WAR MAY BE AVERTED.

Guatemala Makes Concessions to the Republic of Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 29.—Last evening it was known that the Guatemalan minister had been instructed to make concessions. Neither he nor any member of the cabinet would comment on this report. Late last night the opinion gained ground that the war will be averted.

A Brutal Parent.

QUEBEC, Jan. 29.—At Chicoutimi lately a boy, five years of age, a son of a noted citizen of the town, while playing with matches, set fire to a mattress. The boy's father, enraged at his son's accident, tried to burn his hands by forcing them into a stove but the child resisted. Frenzied with rage at having failed in his brutal attempt the brute ignited three package of matches and held the poor boy's hands over the flames until he fainted with pain. On recovering his senses the boy again had his hands roasted. His mother, attracted by his cries, fainted on seeing her boy undergoing such savage torture. At last some one succeeded in rescuing the boy from his inhuman father. His hands are so badly burned that the flesh falls off by pieces. The man will be arrested.

The U. S. Dry Goods Trade.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The week opens with no material change in the leading conditions of the dry-goods market. The best results comparatively in cotton goods are again reported in printed and woven-patterned wash fabrics, and these secured much more freely through the road dedand than through the store trade. Staple cottons continue quiet all around, but there are more enquiries from buyers as to business possibilities than of late. The business actually transacted shows continued irregularity in prices, but not a weaker market than was noted last week. Business reports from outside markets continue good although some quarters rather less enthusiastic than were recent reports.

Labor Riots in Buda Pesth.

BUDA PESTH, Jan. 29.—A serious riot occurred at Szegedin, growing out of the arrest of a labor agitator and a number of his followers. The police having the prisoners in charge were attacked by a crowd of workingmen, who endeavored to set the prisoners free. The police were getting the worst of the fight, when the Hussars were called out and charged upon the rioters, many of whom were wounded. The police and military arrested the ringleaders and took them to jail with the prisoners they had sought to release.

A Murderer Electrocuted.

SING SING, Jan. 29.—David Hampton, murderer of Mrs. Ahearns, was yesterday executed in the electric chair. He betrayed unusual nervousness as he entered the death chamber. His teeth chattered as he turned his eyes away from the chair that awaited him. He had fairly to be lifted into the seat. At a sudden signal the current was turned on and the man lay lifeless in his fetters. He was half dead with fright before the electricity finished him.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1895.

THE FARMERS' COUNCIL AND THE FARMERS' SOCIETIES.

The recent action of the County Council in refusing a grant in aid of the funds of the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies gives additional point to the remark so often made that the want of unity and co-operation amongst farmers is a distinct detriment to their interests. In view of the fact that the great majority—18 out of 21—of the County Council is composed of farmers, the action referred to is quite inexplicable. No one can understand why a body of farmers representing an agricultural constituency, refused financial assistance to societies carried on almost exclusively in the interests of the farmers. One cannot think that the gentlemen, who voted for the rejection of the application for a grant, voiced the real sentiments of the thinking and progressive farmers of the townships they represent. Their action may commend itself to those farmers who have an unaccountable loyalty to old methods, who carry on farming on the same plan as their forefathers, who still plow in the same furrow, and who cannot be pointed to as successful tillers of the soil; but it is pretty certain that it will not meet with the approval of the more broad-minded of the ratepayers and the more advanced farmers of the townships, whose representatives voted against the grant. There must be a mistake or misunderstanding somewhere, for, as it is, Peterborough county enjoys an unenviable distinction. While her representatives in the County Council refused a petty grant of $75, see what other counties were doing—Wentworth county was voting $400 to each of its agricultural societies, Grey county, $750; Frontenac, $600; Bruce, $400; Brant, $700; Lanark, $850, and so on throughout the province. The refusal of the grant seems all the more singular from the fact that last session a deputation from this county waited upon the Ontario Government asking that the government grant to agricultural societies be increased. The Ontario Government has been most liberal in its encouragement to the farming interest, and it is to that encouragement that the most of Ontario's prominence in agriculture and dairying is due, and it will not be thought strange if the claims of a county, that asks one year for an increased Government grant, and the next refuses to help itself to the extent of a little $75 grant, should be considered unworthy of, or indifferent to, increased financial assistance. It is to be hoped that the gentlemen who opposed the grant last Saturday will, between now and the June session, consult their constituents, and come back with enlarged ideas as to their duty to the great farming interests of the country. They certainly must change their minds when they reflect that the grant they are asked for goes back directly in the form of prizes to their fellow-farmers, that the riding societies are conducted for and by farmers, and are therefore worthy of every possible encouragement. The farmers of East and West Peterborough are certainly in need of some new friends when a farmer's council goes back upon them.

TO THE LIBERALS OF EAST AND WEST PETERBOROUGH.

The Liberals of both the East and West Ridings of Peterborough are reminded that it is high time that steps were taken for calling conventions to nominate candidates for the representation of the ridings in the House of Commons. At present opinion is pretty evenly divided as to whether there will be another session of parliament before the elections are brought on. In the present condition of doubt on the subject the only safe way is to be ready for the elections, be they soon or later. No mistake can be made in adopting such a course. The supporters of the government will, of course, be kept well informed as to the probable date of the election, and the only way in which Liberals can lessen the disadvantage, such a situation presents, is being ready with their candidates and with as complete an organization as possible. It is generally conceded that Mr. Jas. Stevenson will again be the candidate in the government interest for the West, and Mr. John Burnham for the East, and their friends are, doubtless, quietly pushing the interests of their candidatures. Liberals should place their candidates in a similar position with respect to their friends and supporters. Especially in a riding of the extent of the East should a candidate be in the field. Therefore, meetings should be called at an early date, and definite action taken. All over the country Liberals are placing candidates in the field, and preparing to make a gallant and determined fight in the interests of economical and honest government. Never before, for years, have the prospects for the Liberal cause been better, and never before were the Liberals of the country, as a body, preparing for a more gallant and determined fight with as promising hopes of victory. The political situation in its very uncertainty suggests the wisdom of prompt action, and we are sure the Liberals of East and West Peterborough will not fail to see the plain duty of immediate action which confronts them.

A MATTER FOR DELIBERATION.

It is understood that a petition or "round robin" is being circulated by Warden Pearce with the object of committing the members of the County Council to the support of a proposition to abolish the county police magistracy. Would it not be more in accordance with the modern mode of dealing with public matters, to have a proposition of this kind submitted to the open council, so that the matter could be publicly discussed? And would it not be the proper way to give due notice, so that members could make themselves familiar with the facts and put themselves in a position to intelligently discuss the proposal? It may be that while Mr. Pearce, with an exceptional experience as justice of the peace of over twenty years, might find himself in a position to discharge the duties of a police magistrate as respects the village of Norwood, Mr. Casement might not feel himself in a similar position as regards Lakefield, and it is also doubtful if Mr. Burnham, with his acknowledged competency, would feel inclined to perform magisterial duties in Ashburnham. It is doubtless within the province of the County Council to consider the matter of abolishing the county police magistracy, but it may be submitted that the better way of openly dealing with the subject in open council is the only proper manner in a self-governing community. In view of the fact that there is an agitation now going on to thoroughly organize county constables throughout the province in the interests of rural justice, it is evident that action taken in the direction under mention should only be taken after the fullest and freest discussion and most dispassionate consideration.

THE AGED MADE STRONG.

MR. GEO. CRAWFORD NOW THOROUGHLY ENJOYS LIFE.

Paine's Celery Compound Gave Him Health, Strength, Appetite and Regular Sleep.

GEORGE CRAWFORD.

No discovery in medicine has ever done half as much good for men and women of advanced years as Paine's Celery Compound. This wonderful medicine of nature gives true life-power to the weak and declining; it makes rich blood, braces the nerves, strengthens the limbs and muscles, gives a healthy appetite, and promotes natural sleep and rest. Mr. Geo. Crawford, of London, Ont., a gentleman of 79 years of age, writes thus:

"After using eight bottles of Paine's Celery Compound I wish to let you know the results. I had a painful fulness and an unnatural heat in the top of my head, and it felt as if something was rolling through it. I had dizziness, I slept little and irregularly, was troubled with restlessness and uneasy dreams, and my appetite was bad. I am now vastly changed by the use of your medicine; I sleep well and relish my food, and my nervous system is greatly renewed. I feel my whole system better. I cannot expect at seventy-nine years of age to be as I was at thirty, but Paine's Celery Compound has done wonders for me."

THE WEATHER ON MARS

VISIBLE EVIDENCES OF A WARM SPELL ON THE PLANET.

An Extensive Thaw Observed Which Indicated a Summer Season in the Southern Hemisphere of Our Neighboring World—The Fun of Astronomers.

Among the most interesting observations of Mars during the recent opposition were those relating to the gradual disappearance of the snow cap surrounding its southern pole. The disappearance was due, of course, to the fact that it was summer in the southern hemisphere of Mars, and the polar snows melted more and more rapidly as the sun rose higher upon them. Yet, although the reason was plain, and because it was plain, one could not watch the process without experiencing a strange feeling that amounted almost to awe. It is quite easy, says the Scientific American, to think dispassionately of the possibility that some things may go on in other worlds just as they do in this one as long as your eyes have not confirmed what is in your mind; but when peering through a telescope you actually behold such occurrences, the effect is startling. It is like coming suddenly in broad daylight upon the scenery of a dream. On June 1 the snow around the south pole of Mars was 2,400 miles across. A snow cap of proportionate dimensions on the earth would, in the northern hemisphere, extend as far south as St. Petersburg, the southern point of Greenland and Mount St. Elias in Alaska. By July 1 the diameter of the snowy area had diminished to about 1,500 miles. On August 1 it was only 1,100 miles and on August 31, the date of the summer solstice in the southern hemisphere of Mars, the snow cap was but 500 miles across. But heat accumulates in a Martian summer after the sun has begun to decline, just as it does upon the earth, and accordingly the melting of the snows continued after the solstice was passed. At the end of September the diameter of the snow-covered region was only about 350 miles, and at the opening of November it was less than 200 miles.

Now comes a curious fact. About the middle of October it was reported that the polar snow cap of Mars had vanished; some of the largest telescopes failed to reveal a trace of it! Yet it is not probable that it has actually entirely disappeared. The explanation of the apparent disappearance is no doubt to be found in the fact that as the snow area diminished it left the pole uncovered by receding to one side, for previous observations have shown that on Mars, as on earth, what may be called the "pole of cold" does not correspond in location with the pole of the planet's axis. Schiaparelli's observations in 1877 and 1879 showed that the centre of the snow cap during its minimum in those years was displaced toward that side of the pole corresponding to an areographic longtitude of about 40 degrees. With the other side of the planet turned toward the earth the snow cap would have been invisible, being, so to speak, hidden behind the pole. This is apparently what occurred in the middle of October last. The south pole was then free from ice, and the centre of the snowy region was displaced, as in 1877 and 1879, along the meridian of 40 degrees. But it was on the other side of the planet which was at that time presented toward the earth during the best hours for observation, and consequently no polar snow was seen; not because it had no existence, but because it was concealed.

It is probable, however, that at its minimum the snow cap was exceedingly small, perhaps less than one hundred miles in diameter. No such rapid and extensive disappearance of snow and ice ever occurs upon the earth, although the advocates of an open polar sea may find encouragement in the fact that the uncovered south pole of Mars corresponds in color and general appearance with what are believed to be the water areas of that planet, while what remains of the snow cap in such circumstances rests apparently upon a mass of land, perhaps no more than an island rising out of the polar ocean. Owing to the larger eccentricity of its orbit, the extremes of temperature on Mars are greater than upon the earth, although the total amount of the solar heat received by the planet is less than half as much as we get. But more important than these differences is the rarity of Mars' atmosphere, which has been so clearly demonstrated by the recent spectroscopic observations of Prof. Campbell. It may not be scientific, but it is certainly human to ask whether it is probable that human beings resembling ourselves were included in the field of view of our telescopes last autumn, while we watched the southern snows of Mars sparkling to the sun and melting away at his ardent touch. If such beings are there they must exist in an atmosphere less than one-quarter as extensive as the earth's.

House Unearthed Near Pompeii.

A valuable discovery has been made at Pianella-Setteimini, near Pompeii, on the property of a certain M. Vincent de Presco. A house has been unearthed which was covered at the time the city was buried, and it is said to be in a more perfect condition than any building yet discovered. It contains several large apartments, and three bathrooms with the basins in sculptured marble, and with leaden pipes ornamented with bronze faucets. The three rooms correspond, says a writer, in describing the discovery, to the "calidarium, tepidarium and frigidarium, which were always to be found in ancient houses of the first class. In consequence of the eruption of Vesuvius, A.D. 79, the Pompeiian houses brought to light heretofore have been roofless, almost without exception. Fortunately, however, that on the property of M. de Presco is perfect, and archaeologists are happy over that fact. The roof measures almost forty-four feet in length."

A Story of Lord Cockburn.

Lord Cockburn, after a long stroll, sat down on a hillside beside a shepherd and observed that the sheep selected the coldest situation for lying down. "Mac," said he, "I think if I were a sheep I would certainly have preferred the other side of that hill." The shepherd answered: "Ay, my Lord, but if ye had been a sheep ye would have had mairs sense," and his lordship never tired of relating the story and turning the laugh on himself.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. E. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the variloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

TWO CLASSES TO SATISFY.

Lactated Food Eminently Satisfactory to Both.

It should be remembered that the manufacturers of Lactated Food have two classes of people to satisfy and please. Mothers who have young babies to nourish, must be convinced by results that Lactated Food is the best for their darlings. When the little face has a bright and healthy glow, when there is steady growth from week to week, when there is heartiness, happiness and good nature, then are mothers satisfied that they are using a food that is indeed a life-giver.

The physicians of our country also require to be convinced by results. Knowing the great interest that the medical profession take in prepared foods, the manufacturers of the popular Lactated Food use every precaution to maintain the high standard of their food, and to insure perfect satisfaction to the profession who recommend it so freely.

Every tin of Lactated Food is fully guaranteed, and mothers are assured that there is never the slightest variation in strength or quality. Mothers will be careful to see that no other food is substituted when the Lactated is asked for.

They laid thee in thy cradle high,
Unto the star of morning nigh,
Tusitala.

They looked to windward and to lee
Over the warm world and the sea;
They saw none other like to thee,
Tusitala.

Ever those simple hearts that ache

Hits From Edmund Russell.

All artistic dress should be related to poise of the body. The correct poise is a straight line on the front from forehead to toes, chest up, stomach held in—the line of youth, beauty and health.

Have perfect freedom for the neck; it is as bad to look choked as to feel choked. An ugly neck will lose wrinkles, gain in grace and expression if emancipated from high collars and given a chance to redeem the past.

Clothes should touch the body as lightly as possible. In Oriental dress, as a clever dame discovered, a woman can do anything. She can even run upstairs with a baby under one arm, a cup of tea in her hand and play an accordion on the way.

Women have brought disfavor and opposition upon going without corsets by discarding them grossly. The object of leaving off corsets is to remove pressure and add beauty and expression to the body. There are bust-supporting waists which assist this freedom and grace.

Tights are convenient, but exert an injurious pressure, as they clasp the body too closely. So far as we get rid of pressure, we add to personal comfort, and thus to personal grace, power and influence.

Beware of princess gown unless you have studied body poise. Examine the statutes from Minerva to Psyche and then observe how few women carry themselves to harmonize with the trying lines of the princess garment.

Nearly all belts are commonplace and ugly. They contradict all graceful curves and expression of the body. Wide, crumpled scarf belts are good, but girdles are better. In artistic dress every perpendicular line helps, every horizontal line hurts.

The voluminous puffed sleeves are perhaps good for style, but bad for beauty and personality; they efface the shoulder line, one of the most beautiful lines of the body. Beautiful dress should rise above the commonplace terms "styles" or mere "prettiness."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

LANGUAGE OF THE HEN.

POSITIVE EVIDENCE THAT SHE HAS ONE THAT IS UNDERSTOOD.

Biddy's Notes of Warning—Her Calls to Dinner — Her Happy Singing When Everything is Bright and Happy—Other Methods of Communication.

The ordinary domestic fowl affords the most positive evidence of the possession of a language that is understood, says a writer in the Pittsburg Dispatch. There are many decidedly different calls, which if taken down in a phonograph and repeated in a henhouse or yard would produce interesting results. I need but mention a few calls to illustrate the range of sounds in the domestic fowls. On a warm day, when hens are released from their coop, when their minds are undisturbed and all nature looks bright and inviting, they sing as they feed—a continuous repetition of kerr-kerr-kerr, with various modulations. The rooster never utters it, nor the mother hen; it is the song of the happy-go-lucky of hen creation. Now let a hawk appear in the sky or any disturbing element; an entirely different sound is heard. The hen stops, stretches her head upward, and, with the cock, utters a decided note of warning in a high falsetto, k-a-r-r-e! And if the enemy still comes on it is repeated, and every bird in the vicinity lowers its head and runs to cover. The sound says in the gallus language, "An enemy is coming, run!" and run they do, the kerr kerr-kerr being discontinued only when all danger is past. Note the joyous call of the hen that has laid an egg. Cut-cut, cada-cut! comes oft repeated from the hen house, and other envious hens are informed beyond any question or mistake that Mrs. Gallus has laid an egg.

Now, when the eggs are hatched we have other and maternal notes. There is a deep, monotonous cluck, cluck! that is a warning to others and a general admonition of the chicks to remain near, but it is not a call Note the difference when the mother or proud cock finds a worm. The cock appears to be greatly excited, and he pretends to peck at it, make the gulleless hens believe that he is about to devour the bonne bouche himself; all the time he is saying cut, cut, cut—come, come, come—rapidly, which causes all the hens to run pell-mell in his direction, to find in many instances nothing, being merely a device to call the flock away from some rival. But in the case of the mother the little ones always find some tidbit which she has discovered.

I will not attempt to produce the baby talk of the old hen to her chicks, but it exists in great variety, and is suggestive of tenderness, affection and solicitude. When the hen has her brood beneath her ample folds she often utters a sound like c-r-a-w-z-e of half warning and contentment. And when an intruder enters the coop after dark she utters a high, prolonged whistling note like w-h-o-o-e, softly repeated, indicative of wonder and slight alarm.

If now the fox or coyote or other enemy seize her how quickly comes an entirely different cry—a scream of terror and alarm, c-l-a-k-k-i-o-u, repeated again and again, and so full of meaning that the owner, some distance away, reaches for his shotgun and answers the signal of distress.

The Popular Woman.

There is a certain style of woman whose popularity one wonders at. One is told "she is clever," but a close acquaintance shows her to be but coarse. One asks how it is that she is sought by women who appear refined and do not say, at least as far as we know, the sort of things she does. Yet she seems to have a mysterious attraction for those one considers her superiors. She undoubtedly affords amusement to women of supposedly greater culture. She herself is often of good family and well assured position, but sometimes poor and anxious to keep her hold on old friends, and she does it by a bold effrontery and a certain intuitive knowledge that for all a seeming refinement some few among her acquaintances can be amused by vulgarity which they call wit. And she plays "down to her audience" by telling the vulgar story, the bold jest and the innuendo which they think themselves clever to understand, but at which they do not blush. They thoughtfully appreciate her doubtful tales and secretly admire her courage in relating them. They will not, however, show their enjoyment of them without a poor little laughing protest, but this protest, which salves their conscience, really whets the tongue of the woman to more daring stories, which is exactly what they want. They love the bold speaker who caters to a hidden coarseness in themselves. They are both happy and entertained as long as they cannot be accused of saying the objectionable things themselves. They are not, however, above describing their amusing friends as "coarse-minded," although they enjoy her indelicate speeches and jokes and prove the fact by constantly seeking her society. Accuse any of these women of a lack of refinement and they will instantly deny the charge, and perhaps add that they "had been shocked at the speeches" of the said friend.

This is, however, but a mean subterfuge. Why do women with pretensions to cultivation lower themselves by making paltry excuses? Simply because they know that they enjoy hearing some of the vulgarities they have thought. They will never admit so much, for they are not proud of their inward vulgarity, but if they want the outside world to believe in their delicacy of mind they should shut their ears to so-called humor which is merely a cover for rank vulgarity and underbread insinuations, and as discreditable to the constant hearer of them as to her who says them.—Montreal Witness.

Superstitions in North Germany.

During an eclipse all hidden treasures are open, and if you are wise enough to carry a primrose with you, you will be able to help yourself to any of them. No witchcraft will ever harm you if you carry a water lily head about your person, and, if you should chance to dream of lilies, you will soon be happily married. If you eat double cherries you will have twin children, and if you are afraid of lightning take heed to keep in your house a plant of morphine or livelong. Sow peas on Wednesday and Saturday if you do not want them eaten by birds; put blue marjoram in the baby's cradle when empty, to keep witches at a respectful distance, and if you don't want your last baking to go moldy, you must take heed not to bring cornflowers into the house. Stars are souls, and when one falls a baby is born. When a baby dies, God makes a new star.—All the Year Round.

WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED.

The Sort of Examination Johnnie Must Pass on Going to School.

New pupils in the schools of the future will have to submit to this examination:

Teacher—Johnnie, have you got a certificate of vaccination for smallpox?

"Yes, sir."

"Have you been inoculated for croup?"

"Yes, sir."

"Been treated with diphtheria serums?"

"Yes, sir."

"Had your arm scratched with cholera bacilli?"

"Yes, sir.

"Have you a written guarantee that you are proof against whooping-cough, measles, mumps, scarlet fever and old age?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you your own private drinking cup?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you promise not to exchange sponges with the boy next to you, and never use any but your own pencil?"

"Yes, sir."

"Will you agree to have your books fumigated with sulphur and sprinkle your clothes with chloride of lime once a week?"

"Yes, sir."

"Johnnie, you have met the first requirements of the modern sanitarians and may now climb over yonder rail, occupy an isolated aluminium seat and and begin making P's and Q's as your first lesson."

Modest Mosquito Story.

We were all telling mosquito stories at a New York summer resort when one particularly audacious man said: "Oh, that's nothing. I was off the coast at Barnegat last summer on a fishing trip, and while we were on deck early in the evening, smoking and chatting, a great cloud of mosquitos, all of them monstrous birds, came out from the shore and settled on the boat, and do you know that in fifteen minutes they had stripped it of every inch of canvas and left the masts bare as beanpoles," says Harper's Monthly.

We held up our hands in deprecation at this tale, when another of the party exclaimed: "Well, don't be astonished. I can vouch for that. It was only a week after that I was on a trip along the coast when the same swarm of mosquitos came after us."

The first speaker didn't seem to appreciate this unexpected support, for he muttered: "Humph! They did, eh? Well, how did you know they were the same mosquitos, eh?"

"How did I know?" repeated the other, with a chuckle. "How did I know? Why, they all had on canvas overalls."

The Japanese War Correspondent.

An order has gone forth from headquarters of the Japanese army, says a London journal, enumerating a long series of conditions on which alone these unfortunate journalists will be permitted to perform their duties. Among these is a rule that controlling officers alone are to prescribe the places correspondents are allowed to visit, as well as the time when they may do so. Correspondents must, moreover, always carry "in the hand" their tickets of permission. As to their letters, they must in all cases be laid before the controlling officers for examination at a time to be fixed by them; their remarks must, moreover, be strictly limited to past events, must not mention in any case the strength or distribution of the Japanese forces, and must on no account state the place or time of sending out the letters.

ITCHING PILES AND PIN WORMS.

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female, the primary symptoms are a severe itching, which is worse at night when the part becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer presents a haggard appearance from loss of sleep, caused by the frantic scratching. Sleep penetrates the parts that they are sore—blood and mucous discharges follow, and if not relieved by some prompt and effective medicine is attended. Fistulas are positively inherent with this disease, causing untold pain, irritation and anxiety. These are every one symptoms of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and perfectly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and tissues, dry up the moisture.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its intense itching symptoms are exactly the same as in Itching Piles; the same intolerable itching; the acute pruritus, especially after retiring, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment cures both. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

RUSKIN AND HIS WORKS CONSIDERED LAST NIGHT.

The Fortnightly Club Listens to an Interesting Paper Contributed by Mr W. H. Murray.

There were almost one hundred and fifty persons present last evening at the public meeting of the Fortnightly Club held in the County Council Chamber, the accommodation of which was taxed to the utmost.

The paper of the evening was read by Mr. W. H. Murray, and his subject was "Ruskin." Mr. Murray said the general opinion of Ruskin was that he was rather the "high priest of the beautiful" than an apostle of ethical progress. He is not only a great art critic but is himself an artist of very high rank. He had, in his versatility, sought to throw upon life the light of a few great principles rather than by a specialized narrowness to probe deeply into fundamental causes. Truth first, then beauty was his motto. Everything good in life, and, therefore, in art, was dependent upon the purity of the moral mould of the individual. As an opponent, Ruskin was narrow, but in the end, always frank and fair. Of great power of mind and, therefore, of great openness and candor, his life was one long lesson fraught with the test of teaching. As a poet, he was a reverent lover of nature, but was far from being a sentimentalist. Rather was he a great idealist, who gave the fruits of his prolific imagination for food to the people whom he delighted to serve. Like a prophet, he has received most recognition and acknowledgement from abroad. He found early in life that he was not to be either poet or painter, but the evangelist of the revival of art. He wrought to make each workman an individualist—his work, the product of his mind, not merely of his hands, and he deplored the degradation of labour in making it weary with the daily round of shallow imitation. Ruskin's political economy rejects the so-called laws of political economists, preferring to found every day life upon something higher than profit and loss, or supply and demand. With all his circumstances he is gradually obtaining the long deferred acknowledgment of his spotless sincerity and his concurrent wisdom. Mr. Ruskin closed his able analysis with a quotation from Ruskin upon his return from agnoticism to gnosticism. The large audience testified their appreciation by liberal applause.

Mr. Sheriff Hall was entirely out of joint with Ruskin, and spoke somewhat sarcastically of the learned critic's certainty of everything, and he wrote upon everything. Especially, the speaker said, was this apparent in that mass of contradictions called his political economy. The speaker was of the opinion that the world at the present time was not wholly bad, as Ruskin held, but much better than the times to which he referred, and for which he longed.

Dr. Spiers delivered an interesting address on human life and matrimony.

Mr. Dumble spoke principally in praise of the paper of the evening. He defended Ruskin's appreciation of Venice and the Venetian painters. These painters were fair exponents of the capabilities of the Venetians, though, of course, they did not represent Venetian life as it really was. Ruskin undoubtedly saw more as a poet than as a painter.

Mr. Murray was very effective in his reply, and said that he preferred to show the sun, rather than the spots upon the sun. Ruskin's underlying principles were great and sound. With reference to his contradictions, the speaker said, that almost every great question could be answered by yes and no. A star did not guide them in detail—over hills and dales, but in the main Ruskin like a star shines from a great altitude. The lesson they required to learn was that "man does not live by bread alone."

One or two references of an ill-considered nature in the speches might have been left out with profit to the audience.

The tone of the speeches was generally either slightly optimistic or slightly pessimistic. The optimists were of the opinion that the rise of the general mass from servitude to freedom politically was a suresign of the progress of the age. Others were of opinion that whilst the people were emancipated nominally, they were really the slaves of corruption in high places. The heroes of the present day are the heroes of finance, and it is with little less than wonder, if not with impatience, that the honours paid to a truly great man were heard of the other day. We are sacrificing goodness for gain. We profit now by the thoughts and deeds of the good and great of antiquity, how much of such profit could they obtain from us.

England is pre-eminently the home of the individual. There we see individual freedom and individual greatness. The great ones of the people who have never sought to be leaders are men above reproach. In Canada we have the freedom of the masses, but the individual is the slave of the machine. In England the leader rises because the people need him. In Canada he is more apt to rise because of the efforts of the clique.

The Carnival Ball.

The grand carnival masquerade ball to be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday, Feb. 12th, promises to be the most brilliant social event of the season. The proceeds, over and above expenses, will be jointly donated to the two hospitals of Peterborough. A large number of tickets have already been sold, and many handsome costumes are in preparation. The prizes for the best dressed gentleman, the best dressed lady, and the best comic costume, are on exhibition at Mr. J. McClelland's jewelry store. They are exceedingly handsome, and well worth competing for. Owing to numerous requests from the public, it has been decided to open the gallery to spectators. A limited number of tickets, at 50 cents each, for this purpose can be secured at Stratton's and Sallsbury's bookstores, and the Street Railway Office. Music by the Battalion Band and Butcher's orchestra. Refreshments, all evening, served by the well-known caterer, Mr. William Bowman. Dancing to commence at 8.30 p. m. At 12 o'clock the floor will be open to any of the spectators who wish to join in the dance. Come in costume, if possible, to add to the effect of the scene, and compete for the prizes. Tickets, $1.00, admitting gentleman and lady, or two ladies together, to the floor. Tickets of admission to the gallery, 50 cents each, for sale at Stratton's book store, Sallsbury's and the Street Railway Office. 2d

THE KINGSTON ELECTION.

Hon. William Harty, Commissioner of Public Works in the Ontario cabinet, was yesterday returned for Kingston by the magnificent majority of 432 votes. The cordial congratulations of the EXAMINER on the occasion are cordially joined in by the citizens of Peterborough, where Hon Mr. Harty was an honoured resident and business man for many years; and this sentiment is not confined to the members of the political party with which the honourable gentleman is associated, for broad-minded Conservatives, who have very pleasant recollections of Mr. Harty's sojourn in Peterborough, heartily joined in the felicitations, which so emphatic a recognition of his abilities as a representative and a Cabinet Minister, call forth. Kingston has abundant reason to be proud of its representative in the Government and the Legislature. The efficient grasp of the duties of his position, which he has shown since his assumption of his portfolio, amply justify the wisdom of Sir Oliver Mowat's selection of a successor to one of the best,—and the best in his special department—Cabinet ministers the Province has ever had. The result of the Kingston election shows that the Ontario Government has lost none of its popular favour. The temporary factional influences—the momentary prejudices aroused by designing demagogues, have lost their power and the people, after a few months of calm deliberation, still retain the opinion that in the Ontario Government the Province possesses the best governing body it ever has had. The late contest in Kingston was a most energetic one; the Opposition left nothing undone that would make for its success, and the result shows that, though popular appreciation of good government may be temporarily affected by factional cries, honest sentiment is ultimately sure to find expression. Hon. Mr. Harty had a strong opponent—a learned doctor of the law and an able and popular citizen of a constituency of decidedly Conservative complexion. But the people did not want a party triumph—they wanted good government and cast their votes accordingly.

THE Globe says Dr. Smythe is a Marter too.

SIR OLIVER'S appeal to Kingston for a supporter met with a Harty response.

THERE'S no trouble with icy sidewalks in Kingston to-day—plenty of Grit about.

DR. SMYTHE'S majority of one is but a tiny spark in his brief blaze of glory as an M.P.P.

THE Smith family in Kingston declined to vote for a candidate who couldn't spell his name right.

PRESENT Kingston Conservative opinion of Mr. Harty's friends—methinks, they did protest too much.

THE Empire has filed away its demand for a special session of the legislature for use after the Dominion elections.

THE Kingston fight was keenly conducted—both parties "put in their best licks." The Opposition got worse licks than they bargained for.

MR. MARTER, the leader of the Opposition, cuts both ways. He went to London and Hobbs was elected; he stayed away from Kingston and Harty went in by 432.

DR. SMYTHE thinks he would have been elected by a good majority if he could have got out his vote—but the authorities of Rockwood Asylum and the Penitentiary were obdurate.

THERE was, says the Empire, a sound of mirth in the Globe end of the office last night, which betokened Harty satisfaction. [The lion and the lamb still "bunk in" together in the Empire office.

WHEN the news of Mr. Harty's election was received in town last night, a large number of citizens assembled at the EXAMINER office, including several Conservatives, and requested Mr. Stratton to send a congratulatory despatch, which was done as follows :—

Hon. Wm. Harty, M.P.P., Kingston :

"Citizens of your old home, Peterborough, join me in heartiest congratulations on your magnificent victory.

THE EFFECT OF THE GREAT STORM.

THE COUNTRY ROADS IN BAD CONDITION.

The Railroads Blockaded—The Belleville Branch is Still Snowed in and the Engines Have Been Ditched.

The mails to and from Lakefield have to be transmitted these days by way of the stage line running to the north country, as the G.T.R. spur line to the village is hopelessly snowed under and men cannot be spared at present to clear the tracks, as all hands are busy trying to open up the Belleville branch. A snow plough made its way up from Belleville as far as Campbellford, but just after passing that point on the line a

BIG DRIFT WAS ENCOUNTERED.

A powerful engine was attached to the snow plough and an attempt was made to remove the drift, but it was of proportions too huge to be so easily disposed of and the snow plough and engine are both reported to have jumped the track. The latest intelligence states that both are still in the ditch.

Last night a snow plough was despatched from this end of the line with instructions to try and work a way through. About four miles south of Peterborough a drift twenty feet in height was encountered and the snow plough made at it with a rush, only to be thrown from the track, together with the engine, and COMPLETELY TURNED ABOUND.

All night long a gang of men laboured at the derailed iron steed and this morning it was once more on the tracks. The snow has now become so packed that a shovel brigade will have to clear the tracks between Peterborough and Campbellford. The trains on the other branches of the Grand Trunk are now all running on time, as are those on the C.P.R.

The Port Hope Guide speaks as follows concerning the blockade between Peterborough and that town:

"The experience of the last three days and three nights of the railway, locally, has not been equalled in the annals of the road. On Saturday morning the local came in from Peterborough, with two engines, an hour late, and proceeded to Toronto. The train usually leaving here at 7.15 a.m., went out immediately after, but no more trains arrived from the north. About six o'clock Saturday evening a train went out in charge of Conductor Britton, but got stuck in the cut of Bletcher's crossing. The train due here at 10.10 arrived at Garden Hill about half an hour late, but could not come through as Britton's was not heard from. Yesterday morning a gang was taken out, and at one o'clock in the afternoon had succeeded in getting the track clear enough to enable it to go north. But the track behind where she lay had to be shovelled out, and it was about eight o'clock last night before Saturday night's train arrived here. This morning the 7 did not leave till after the local, which was late, came in, and Conductor Britton's train, usually arriving here at 9 a. m., arrived at 3 this afternoon, and went out again as soon as could be got ready. This afternoon's one o'clock train was cancelled.

AT THE OTHER SIDE

On the main line all freights were cancelled on Saturday, and the 11.05 mail train did not arrive until 5.30 p.m. Saturday night's local got here on Sunday morning and went north yesterday after the Midland was cleared. But Saturday night a blockade occurred. A live hog train was stuck in the snow between Newcastle and Newtonville. All sorts of reports have reached here about hogs eating one another, hogs being smothered, etc., but these we cannot verify, as nothing official has been received at 3.15. Just as we go to press word is received that through passage has been affected, the snow plough and engine attached having just arrived from the west. Since yesterday morning no communication has been had with the west by railway, but the east has been tolerably well open. Passenger and mail trains were able to proceed no further west than here.

ABOUT ONE O'CLOCK

The roads leading into town were well-nigh impassable, that of the Toronto road being in reality so, and teams coming in that way could proceed no further than Welcome."

Station Master Hayden states that the line is now fully opened up between Peterborough and Port Hope.

FIFTY-THREE CRIMINALS TO BE DISCHARGED IN FEBRUARY.

They Have Completed Their Terms in the Central Prison.

The local police department this morning received from Warden Massey, of the Central Prison, a list of prisoners who will be discharged from that institution during the month of February.

Amongst those whose names are on the list are Bernard Ryan and Thos. Murphy, who were sentenced from Peterborough to 12 month terms, the first for receiving stolen goods, and the latter for larceny. Their sentences expire on the 18th, both being sent up from here on the same day.

The two men were observed endeavouring to sell odd pairs of boots here one Friday afternoon last February, and the police arrested both as suspicious characters. As vagrants the pair were remanded for a week to await developments, and on the following Monday word was received from Norwood, stating that a boot and shoe store had been burglarized there and a portion of the stock carried off. One of the prisoners confessed to the crime and the other as his accomplice in disposing of the goods, was sentenced as a receiver of stolen goods.

HOCKEY.

The second match in the series of the town League was played last night between the Volts and 2nd Peterborough's. The puck was faced at 7.15, and the teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough.		Volts.
R Fife	goal	F Adams
A Ferguson	point	R Thorne
F Jones	cover point	Bert Cluxton
O Shortly	Forwards	H Moore
E Wasson		W Moore
S Adams		H B Dunsford
R Davidson		W Wilgar
L King	umpires	R J Hiller

Referee—Mr. W. Crossley.

The game on the whole was very interesting, the teams being pretty evenly matched. The play was fast throughout, both teams being bent on victory, which determination at times caused considerable rough play. The games were scored as follows:

Won By.	Scored By
1 Volts	W Moore
2 Town	S Adams
3 Volts	H B Dunsford
4 "	H Moore
5 Town	F Jones
6 Volts	W Wilgar
7 Town	S Adams
8 "	R Davidson
9 Volts	W Moore
10 Town	E Wasson
11 Volts	H B Dunsford
12 "	H Moore
13 Town	O Shortly

Score, 7—6, in favour of Volts.

The brilliant defence played by Mr. F. Jones elicited loud applause, his clever stops, though unique in their way, saved the Peterborough's goal several times. R. Fife did some good work in goal, as well as E. Wasson on the line.

R. Thorne, of the Volts, played his usual good and steady game, ably seconded by Bert. Cluxton at cover. W. Wilgar played the game of the evening, in fact the victory for the Volts is due chiefly to Messrs. Wilgar and Dunsford's determined rushes.

We hear on good authority, that another electric team is shortly to meet the Volts, when no doubt an unusually interesting game will be played—"Greek meeting Greek," and we expect to see sparks fly.

The Peterborough's did not go over to Lindsay last night to play, as at the last minute a telegram was received stating that the Lindsayites were not in condition to play, the Collegiate Institute of that town having worsted them badly the previous evening.

Berlin's Cowardly Assault Case.

BERLIN, Ont., Jan. 29.—Bishop, the man so brutally assaulted by three of the firemen Saturday evening, lies in a precarious state. Dr. Lackner fears brain fever or other complications may set in. The greatest astonishment is expressed on all sides that no arrests have been made, and it may not be surprising to see a mass meeting of citizens called to enforce just treatment and vindicate the good name of Berlin. It would appear that the assault was premeditated and well organized, as while Massel, the driver of the town fire wagon, was doing the pounding and kicking, the other two stalwart cowards, Seibert and Denges, were acting as guards and prevented for a considerable time any interference by outsiders. The question is also being passed round, "Where were the protectors of the town at this time?" Unless immediate action is taken to place the guilty ones under arrest, the citizens may yet have to take the law into their own hands.

GALT, Jan. 29.—The Conservative convention of South Waterloo held their meeting yesterday in Preston for the appointment of a candidate to contest this riding at the next general election. Mr. George Clare, of Preston, received the unanimous nomination of the convention. In the evening a mass meeting was held in the town hall, which was addressed by Hon. G. E. Foster, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. J. C. Patterson, Hon. J. Costigan, Hon. Clarke Wallace and Hon. Dr. Montague.

Twelve Charges Against MacDonald.

SYDNEY, C.B., Jan. 29.—D. G. MacDonald, who has held the office of agent of the Government Savings Bank here, was yesterday committed for trial on nine charges of embezzlement and one for forgery and one for uttering a forged cheque for $875. MacDonald is already undergoing a sentence of three months in jail for similar irregularities in connection with his office.

Another Hamilton Breach of Promise.

HAMILTON, Jan. 29.—Miss Henrick, a servant girl, has caused a writ to be issued against Austen Cole, real estate agent of this city, for damages for alleged breach of promise of marriage. Plaintiff's parents live in North Bay, Ont., but she has resided here for several years.

BOARD OF HEALTH FINAL MEETING.

THE MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER PRESENTS HIS REPORT.

It is Received and Adopted and will be Sent to the Provincial Board of Health—The Extension of the George Street Sewer.

The last meeting of the Board of Health of 1894 was held yesterday afternoon in the town clerk's office, with the following members present: Messrs. J. J. Hartley, chairman, Benj. Shortly, Chas. Stapleton, Henry Deane, Robt. Innes and Dr. Clarke, M.H.O.

The Medical Health Officer submitted the following most comprehensive report:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Health of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—In presenting my report for the year 1894, I am glad to be able to say that the sanitary record has been a satisfactory one. No serious epidemic has visited us. The death rate of 1893 was 14.1 per thousand, an exceptionally low one. That of 1894 is somewhat higher, being 15.7 per thousand, a rate, however, considerably lower than the standard aimed at by sanitarians. The percentage of infectious disease is about the same as in former years, although the occurrence of some of these cases has a significance to which I shall refer later on. The amount of sanitary work done has been large and the organization better than in any year in which no special sanitary inspector was appointed. There have been fewer complaints, which is usually a good test, of the efficiency with which inspections have been made.

The points to which your officer's attention has been directed are as follows:—

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

No complaints have been heard except in reference to Matthew's packing house to which I refer by name as an explanation can thereby be given of the nature of the alleged nuisance. Formerly, although much was carted away, a certain amount of the blood and refuse of the animals found its way into the river, where it became to a certain extent offensive, especially when the water was stirred up by passing boats. Of late a desiccating apparatus has been placed in the establishment which dries and reduces all the offal, blood included, to a powder, which is used for fertilizing purposes. The fumes in this drying process are somewhat pungent, and although carried well above the building, in certain conditions of the atmosphere float around, and while not positively detrimental to health, are to a certain extent disagreeable. The work has been done as much as possible at night, and the company is putting in a condenser, by which the vapors are passed through water, and thereby deprived of much of their offensiveness. I have inspected the factory several times personally, and received frequent reports from the Sanitary Inspectors. I can say that the company is doing all in its power to keep down nuisances.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE AND EXCRETA.

This is now carried on very thoroughly, no hitches having taken place, as in the previous year. The only cause of complaint has been the violations of the regulations, as to scavengers avoiding main streets, and doing their work at certain hours of the night.

PURITY OF WATER.

I have analyzed a large number of samples from wells, and find it of greater average purity than in former years, owing, no doubt, to the more thorough removal of garbage. The supply from the Water Company has always been good and is now better since the construction of a new pumping-station higher up the river. But it cannot be too often repeated that where diptheria is prevalent all water used for drinking purposes by young children should be boiled.

ICE.

I have received no complaints as to the quality of ice sold in town, nor is there any suspicion of disease caused by impurities in it. I have examined, as requested by the Board, samples from time to time and have never found it unfit for use. The fears expressed that the discharge of the Edison sewer into the lake would destroy its usefulness as a source of ice supply, have so far proved unfounded. The expert evidence at the recent arbitration between town and townships (which ought to be printed) showed conclusively the remarkable effects of sunlight, oxidation and sedimentation in purifying water once polluted with sewage. The bacteriological evidence showing that the water of the river receiving at King street the sewage of about 1,200 people is practically pure at the C.P.R. bridge, ought to reassure us as to the pollution of ice. The place selected for cutting is a long distance from and out of the direction of the current from the sewer.

MILK SUPPLY.

Fewer complaints have been made as to watering milk than during the preceeding year. There have been no complaints as to its purity and no evidence of disease from its use.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Thirty-seven cases of scarlet fever were reported during the year of which four proved fatal. Twenty-six cases of diphtheria occurred, with nine deaths. Eighteen cases of typhoid fever occurred, with six deaths. There is no doubt that but for the present measures of isolation and disinfection there would have been a widespread epedemic of scarlet fever and many lives would have been lost. The old impression that scarlet fever is a disease which children ought to have, and be done with, is rapidly passing away, and it is to be hoped that one of the possibilities of the near future is the total extinction of a disease that has slain thousands. Regarding typhoid fever I wish to call special attention to the fact that several severe cases have occurred in the central parts of George street. This means a great deal more than double the number of cases occurring here and there throughout the town. It means that the central parts of the town are becoming so congested as to be ripe for an epidemic, unless something be done to avert it. It means that the necessity for a system of sewerage has become imperative. This Board may be called upon to say whether on sanitary grounds sewers should not be constructed on certain streets, and it is to be hoped they will realise their responsibility and speak with no uncertain sound.

The Provincial Board of Health now send down blank forms to be used for the annual report. These contain a series of questions to be answered and deal very exhaustively with the sanitary condition of municipalities. I have filled one out and will send it to the Provincial Board with this report.

Below will be found the Sanitary Inspector's report for the year.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
J. CLARKE, M.D.,
M. H. O.

GEO. I. ROSZEL,
Chief of Sanitary Police

Regarding the outbreak of typhoid on George street, Dr. Clarke stated, on being questioned by Mr. Shortly, that he attributed it to the fact that the George street sewer did not extend further than Adam Hall's and the merchants above that point therefore allowed the ground to absorb the dirty water, slops, etc., from their stores.

Mr. Stapleton and Mr. Hartley both thought that arrangements should be made for a scavenger to call, every day at least, at these stores and remove boxes and barrels in which the refuse in question could be placed.

The Medical Health Officer explained that in case the Board of Health saw fit to recommend to the council the extension of the sewer, that body could take action without being required to call for a vote of the people on the question. It was decided, however, to await developments in the outfall sewer matter before recommending such a course to the council.

The Medical Health Officer stated farther that at present there were four cases of infectious disease in the town, namely, two of diphtheria, one on Park, and the other on Elm street, and two cases of scarlet fever on George street.

Whyte's dam came in for some severe condemnation, but it was decided to leave the matter over for the consideration of the new Board, which will meet next Monday at five o'clock in the afternoon.

On motion of Messrs. Stapleton and Deane, the report of the Medical Health Officer was received and adopted, and ordered to be forwarded to the Provincial Board of Health as the report of the local Board.

THE ANNUAL MISSIONARY SERMONS.

DELIVERED BY REV. DR. GALBRAITH, PRESIDENT OF THE TORONTO CONFERENCE.

Although the Weather was Stormy Large Congregations Assembled in the Charlotte Street and George Street Methodist Churches Yesterday.

Rev. Dr. Galbraith, the eloquent president of the Toronto Conference, preached missionary sermons in the Charlotte street Methodist church in the morning, and in the George street church at night. His text was taken from the sixth verse of Revelation xiv.: "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people."

REGARDING THIS VISION,

Mr. Galbraith, in words clothed in language of the most ornate and flowery description, explained that the angel in question was thought by some to refer to Luther, the man of the reformation. Others again were of the opinion that the great Wesley was the one referred to, while still others inclined to the belief that the Bible societies and their work bore the closest resemblance to the illustration. The speaker himself was strong in asserting himself as confident that the allegory was not intended to be restricted to any one man or society, but was a sweeping statement which included the advancement of the entire Church of God, which regarded the world as its Alma Mater, and mankind as the Alumni. The flying angel, he thought, should only be compared to in its entirety, which is fulfilling the vast commission which God gave to His disciples, when He instructed them to go forth and preach unto all the world.

THE CHURCH OF GOD

No reference, he continued, such as that contained in the text, could be more appropriate to the Church of God since the Reformation, and in the present century. "The Church is a mighty angel, borne on the pinions of love, and is proclaiming throughout all the world the unsearchable riches of the Word of Christ."

Continuing, Mr. Galbraith stated that the Church since its inception had enemies of as many hues as Joseph's coat. They had tried in vain to deny the truth of its heavenly origin, and now stand as unperishable memories of Jehovah's wrath.

The speaker then briefly reviewed the foreign mission work of the world. The two great obstacles, he stated, which the missionaries had to work against, were the influence of the slave trade and the liquor traffic. In Africa alone, while the different churches sent out 114 Missionaries every year their work was almost counterbalanced by the fact that 8,000,000 gallons of rum was imported into the country during the same period. The missionaries, he explained had made more progress in Japan than in any other heathen nation upon earth. Since the introduction of Christianity into the country, Japan's power had rapidly risen until at the present day her sway in the East

WAS ALMOST AS GREAT

as that of Great Britain in the West.

In closing his sermon Dr. Galbraith gave a brief resume of the work which had been accomplished in Christendom since the opening of the present century. In 1800 the Bible had been translated into the languages used by only one-fifth of the known inhabitants of the earth, at present it could be read by nine tenths of the people. Then only $20,000 a year was subscribed for foreign mission, now the sum had reached the enormous amount of $12,000,000 per annum. Then there was scarcely a heathen nation accessible to the missionaries, now every principal nation on earth had thrown its doors open to the word of God.

The Rev. Doctor's sermon was of an hour's duration, but he received the closest attention from the announcement of his text until he brought his interesting discourse to a close.

THE MAKERS OF BOOKS

STORIES THAT ARE INTERESTING AND SOME OF THEM FUNNY.

An Excellent Yarn About Harry Furniss—Lord Tennyson's Mail—The Oddities of Bulwer—Mrs. Browning and Her Discriminating Dog Flush.

Mrs. Browning wore her thick, brown hair in ringlets, which hung down on each side of her cheeks; she struck me then as being all eyes and hair, not unlike a spaniel dog. Could that frail, little lady, attired in a simple gray dress and straw bonnet, and the cheerful gentleman, in a brown overcoat, be great poets? They had brought with them their little son, Penini, he had long, flowing, fair, curly hair, and wore white drawers, edged with embroidery. These peculiarities impressed me, for I thought he looked like a girl. The trio were followed by a beautiful brown dog, with golden eyes.

I approached her feeling very shy. What was this great woman going to speak about to a little girl like me? But I was soon put at my ease; she kissed me, and, turning to Penini, placed his little hand in mine, saying: "You must be friends, you and Pen. He is my Florentine boy," stroking his head lovingly. "Has he not got beautiful hair—so golden—that is because he was born in Italy, where the sun is always golden."

The tea things were brought in. On the tray was a big plum cake. The dog wagged his tail, and then Mrs. Browning said to me: "Flush is a dear old dog; I love him. When I was so ill about a year ago, Flush never left my side, day or night. Every time I put my hand out of the bed I could always feel his curly head and cold nose."

Flush now looked up in his mistress' face with intense devotion in his wistful eyes. We gave Flush some slices of bread and butter, which he accepted, but, instead of eating them, he disappeared underneath a big, yellow satin divan. When I presented him with a piece of plum cake he swallowed it there and then with much gusto.

I remember that Mrs. Barrett Browning whispered to me that if I looked under that divan I would find the bread and butter hidden there. She said that Flush was far too polite a dog to refuse anything offered to him, but from personal observation, she knew that he could not eat bread and butter when he saw any chance of getting plum cake. Penini and I crept on all fours, and looked under the divan, and there we found the slice of bread and butter.—Temple Bar.

Bulwer's Oddities.

Bulwer's appearance was decidedly what is generally understood by "aristocratic," or what the French call "distingue." Tall, slim, with finely cut features, prominent among which was a long aquiline nose, with an abundant crop of curly brown hair and a full beard, the first impression he produced, aided by a careful toilet, was one of ease and elegance. At a dinner table, where he liked to speak, and, if possible, to speak alone, he was certainly useful as well as ornamental, with his large blue ribbon and star of the Order of the Bath. There was a certain naivete, strange as that word may sound, when applied to so conformed a man of the world in his vain and very apparent struggle against the irresistible encroachments of age. He did not give in with that philosophical resignation which might have been expected of one so clever, and, in some respects, so wise. He fought against it tooth and nail. Lord Lytton's hair seemed dyed, and his face looked as if art had been called in to rejuvenate it. A quack in Paris had pretended to cure his growing deafness, a constant source of legitimate grief to him. He was radiant one autumn on his return to town because he thought he was cured, but not for long. The copious use of snuff was no doubt part of the attempted cure, of which the most palpable results were large dark red or blue pocket handkerchiefs, quite out of harmony with his otherwise elegant toilet. His expressions of regret at his impaired digestive organs had something ludicrous about it; he would point with a sigh to a rosy-cheeked American apple and say: "To think that there are people who can eat that!"—From Rudolph Lehmann's Recollections.

Lord Tennyson's Mail.

Here is a curious freak of Lord Tennyson's imagination, based on fact: "Look at this pile, which, on my return from abroad, I find heaped on my table. I ought to have thanked you before for your generous lines—but look at the pile—some three feet high—and let that apologize for my silence—and believe me, tho' penny-post-maddened, yours ever, A. Tennyson." The words followed the drawing by Alfred Tennyson of a kind of pyramid of letters specifying the nature of the letters on his table: "Anonymous insolent letters," "letters from America, Australia, from monomaniacs, etc.," "letters asking explanation of particular passages," "begging letters of all kinds," "subscriptions asked for church building, schools, Baptist chapels, Wesleyans, etc.," "newspapers—gracious or malignant" "printed circulars of poems asked for subscription" "presentation copies of poems," "printed proof sheets of poems," "MS. poems," "letters for autographs," form the two sides of this curious and unique sketch.

People who pester a man of letters do not think of the vast aggregate made up of many single applications of various sorts. Each post used to bring to the house fifty or sixty letters. Mrs. Tennyson and Hallam Tennyson were far too much occupied with the task of wading through these piles of unsolicited correspondence.

A Story of Harry Furniss.

Here is a funny story, though he did not tell it to me himself, that went the round of the New York clubs when Furniss visited the States two years ago. Be it known that American journalists and American statesmen affect to read Punch as a production absolutely devoid of humor, and inasmuch as it is a paper written "by gentlemen for gentlemen," it probably fails to secure general appreciation in journalistic America, though in certain circles it is as popular in the great Republic as it is here. Two men were quarrelling violently in a club smoking-room.

"I tell you I saw a man sitting here an hour ago laughing over a copy of London Punch."

"Impossible!" replied his companion. "I don't believe there is a man in America who could laugh over London Punch."

The discussion waxed furious, and at last bets were made on the subject. Suddenly a thought struck the second man.

"What was the fellow like you saw reading Punch?"

"A little, sandy-bearded man, with a rather bald head and a big moustache."

"Ah!" replied his interlocutor, "now I see. Why that was Harry Furniss himself."—Strand Magazine.

A Murderous Plant.

A Canadian climber, the physianthus albens, has received the name of "cruel plant" from its treatment of butterflies. It flowers in the month of August and the butterflies, attracted by the perfume, hover around it in large numbers and push their trunks into the corollas to sip the honey. A pair of sensitive vegetable pinchers in the heart of the flower grips the delicate proboscis, and in spite of struggles to get free the butterfly hangs suspended until it dies. Apparently the plant has nothing to gain by the death of the insect, as it is not "carnivorous," like the Venus fly-trap. In fact, if the butterfly were allowed to come and go it would tend to foster the species by assisting cross-fertilization. It appears, however, that the "cruel plant" came originally from Brazil, where the butterflies are much stronger and extricate their suckers from the trap. We may add that another Canadian plant, the Cnicus discolor, is charged with cruelty. The flower has a gland which secretes a liquid capable of liming insects which are fond of it. Moreover, they seem to be stupefied and poisoned by it, and no reason can as yet be assigned for the deadly consequence.—New York Advertiser.

How to Treat Ink Spots.

Ink stains are hard to deal with, but much may be accomplished as to their disappearance if they are only treated in time. One good remedy is to tear blotting-paper to pieces and hold the rough edges on the ink when it is freshly spilled. If there is no blotting-paper at hand cover the spot with Indian meal, or liquid ink may be absorbed by cotton batting. When ink is spilled the first care should be to prevent it from spreading.

Another way of preventing ink stains is to immediately wash the stained article in several waters and then in milk, letting it soak in the milk for several hours. Another manner of removing all ordinary ink stains is to wash the article immediately in vinegar and water and then in soap and water. No matter what is used for removing ink, the stain must be rubbed well.

Photographic Color Printing.

According to the Photographic Times the most successful of recent attempts at photographic color printing by the chromo-gelatine process requires three negatives. One of these is a photograph of all the red, another of all the yellow, and a third of all the blue-violet in the colored plate or object to be photographed. Plates are made from these photographs, and they are printed so as to recombine the colors and form a fac-simile of the original.

No Tricks

There are two ways of keeping store. One is to cut up antics; water or smoke the cottons; coax trade with damaged goods or bankrupt stocks. The other way is to do legitimate business. Legitimate business, we belive, is to buy and sell for cash entirely new goods at bargain prices, and to save you every possible dollar.

Old or poor goods are unknown here. Uniform methods! No tricks! Not a ghost of a trick with our consent or knowledge.

The newspapers are just now filling up with SCREAMING bargains from the big Toronto fire. Ough! If the weather was not so cold we might start a little bonfire in our back yard, scorch a web or two of cotton and have a big sale of damaged goods—if we did business in that way. But we don't. Tricks like these won't pay. Values such as we have stimulate trade well enough for us, and each day finds plenty of business here because of such values we have in

—Linens and Cottons
—Ladies' Underwear
—42-inch Fancy Tweed Effects
—42-inch Fine Dress Serge
—Lace Curtains
—Dress Goods
—Tam O'Shanters
—Children's Hoods
—Children's Bootees
—Handkerchiefs
—Gloves and Hosiery
—Housefurnishings

We shall be pleased to show you genuine bargains. But see the goods—that's the main thing. Investigate qualities and compare values.

EXPLORING LINGUISTIC BYWAYS.

An English Philologist Superintending the Get-Up of an Enormous Dictionary.

The most common method of preserving the linguistic peculiarities of race or class, next to calling upon "the oldest inhabitant," have consisted in the chance references of wandering novelists, and, in the case of some peculiarly far-reaching dialect, standard writings, or an occasional classic. The plan of a distinctively dialect dictionary is of quite modern origin. The first idea of such a work was a repository for the best, the purest, the simplest and most approved forms of the language, the pyrotechnical explosive of the rude and the twittering phrases of society being alike ignored. Dr. Joseph Wright, a deputy professor of comparative philology at Oxford, and a leading member of the English Dialect Society, has taken upon him the work of editing what is to be called an "English Dialect Dictionary," says the Boston Journal. The work is intended to be very thorough. The society was organized in 1873, and since that time occasional volumes, some seventy in all, chiefly glossaries of the macaronics of various districts, have been issued. In spite of this, and the collections of the society, the undertaking is still a very arduous one, and will not be completed, it is thought, for ten or twelve years. Taking into account the years of work already given by the society in various ways, the work will represent, when completed, at least thirty years of research and compilation.

The material that accumulates in such a work is voluminous almost beyond belief. A recent English writer tells of a visit to Professor Wright's dictionary den, where he saw over a ton of paper slips, each slip being devoted to a word and its description. It cost $9,000 to arrange these in alphabetical order. There are already 200 pounds on the letter "S" alone. Much of the district work is done by committees and secretaries. Each individual of the committee reads some work, and the secretary notes the results. Of course there is much of the dialect that has never yet been seen on a printed page, and is almost extinct. Such as this the compiler is particularly anxious to save. As each word is taken up it is located geographically, and also negatively, where the absence of it is peculiar, and the shades of meaning, derivation, examples and authority will be noted. The compilation of such a work is a much more laborious undertaking than that of preparing an ordinary English dictionary, when reference would be had to hundreds of standard books and previously published lexicons. With Professor Wright's work, the most valuable words are found only in the very byways and hedges of the literary field. And not the least of the task is the final decision, whether the source of information is trustworthy, or suggests the case of a schoolmaster who offered sixpence each for any uncommon dialect specimen, and received so many it was feared the boys were inventive neologists rather than truthful students.

The scope of the undertaking is immense. It will include all the patois, the vernacular and colloquialisms of scores of districts, whose present inhabitants are not always of the race found there 200 years ago, which is the age limit under which the work is being made up. Natives have been found willing and anxious to aid in the work. Citizens by adoption apparently care but little. The information already obtained counts over a million of the half-sheet slips, designed to save the final labor of the editor. The reading of one set of works by a competant man added 10,000 to this number. As soon as enough subscribers have been secured, the publication will begin, in semi-annual parts, to be followed by a general supplement, taking up all unfinished matter.

A Few Thoughts on Light.

Man has invented artificial light; he inferred it from natural light. He has in the same way invented artificial truth, inferring them from supreme truths.

The sun appears every day illuminating space to show us the heavens.

In Madrid the gas is lighted every night that we may see the earth.

Man is to God what a box of matches is to the sun.

Human price can also write its Genesis. It can begin like this:

"One day a man said: 'Fiat lux,' and there were matches."

Henceforward a blaze of light which illumines us perfectly.

The light invented by men is worth more than the light created by God; let us see how:

A thousand sunbeams cost nothing; one box of matches costs a half penny.—Scribner's Humor of Spain.

A Female Executioner.

Since the death of Seyffert, the Vienna executioner, the authorities have received scores of applications for his place, of which the most curious is that of a pretty woman, who sends her photograph with the following letter:

"I am eighteen years old and possess great physical strength. My sex and above all my beauty fit me for the employment I solicit. The fact is that the last person on whom the condemned man fixes his gaze is the executioner, and nine times out of ten is repulsively homely. How much more consoling it would be for a criminal, before entering into eternity to have the knot adjusted by the soft hands of a woman, whose bewitching glances would cause him to forget for an instant the terrors of a moral agony worse than death!"

Instinct Stronger Than Reason.

A man on a Lake Huron steamer had the only specimen of black rattlesnake I have ever met with. It was about the size of an ordinary garter snake and as vicious as satan. It was confined in a strong box covered with thick plate glass. When anyone would touch the glass with his finger the snake would strike the under side opposite the finger as quickly as a stroke of lightning. The experimenter would always jerk away as suddenly. There was not a man on board, however muscular and free from nervousness, who could keep his finger to the glass when the snake would strike, although knowing that it could not possibly touch him. Strong men would try it again and again, certain of their ability to endure the test, but with the same result.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidences of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, because the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakable cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest,
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Pearl,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but step, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they scarce did come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

USES OF CRANBERRIES.

A Half Dozen Ways to Make Them Palatable and Toothsome.

There is no acid more corrective than that of the cranberry, and it should be seen frequently upon our tables.

Cranberryade—Take a pint of cranberries and add one quart of boiling water, and stew one-half hour in a porcelain-lined dish, then press and strain. Add to the juice one pound granulated sugar, and let it come to a boil twenty minutes. This will be in the form of a thick syrup. Skim and bottle for use. Take a tablespoonful to a glass of water, and you have a delicious, cooling drink, with just enough acid to it to greatly help the appetite.

Baked Cranberries—In an earthen dish put four cups of cranberries, and cover them with water. Cover the dish and put it in the oven. Bake until the berries are soft, then stir in very carefully, two cups of sugar and bake fifteen minutes longer.

Jellied Cranberries—Cook one quart of cranberries until they are soft. Add one full pint of sugar and cook until the juice thickens. Wet a dish or mould in cold water and fill it with cranberries. When cold they will turn out nice and firm.

Cranbery Sauce—To one pound of cranberries, after they are picked over and washed, allow one pound of granulated sugar and half a pint of water. Put the sugar and water into a porcelain kettle and let it come to a boil; then put the berries in. After they begin to boil, allow full ten minutes for boiling; then pour all into a mould, which you have dipped into cold water; this will prevent the jelly from sticking to the mould. Let it stand all night or longer; it will then turn out like jelly, and it will be found to be sweet and yet tart. A larger quantity may be prepared, as it will keep as well as any jelly.

Cranberry Pie—One pint of chopped cranberries, one and one-half cups of sugar, one half cup molasses, one half cup of water, one tablespoonful of flour. This is sufficient for two pies. Bake with two crusts.

Cranberry Pudding—One pint of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt mixed thoroughly together. Add sweet milk to make a soft batter. Stir in one cup of coarsely chopped cranberries. Steam one and one-half or two hours. Serve with a sweet sauce.

Cause for Embarrassment.

"What," asked the indulgent husband, "are you going to do with an inconsistent woman, and how are you going to teach her never to make threats?"

All of which means that his wife had just been telling them something that amused them, but not her. She has not lived in her present house long. One of the things that she believes in—and a very good belief it is, many husbands will say—is that the woman who is at the head of the house should do her own marketing. She dropped in at her butcher's in the afternoon, when she was on her way to a matinee at the opera, and gave an order. Another of her principles is to pay spot cash for everything she buys, and to run no accounts, but on this day she had forgotten her pocketbook.

"I did not ask them to charge it to me," she said. "I did not want them to do that. I explained that I had forgotten my pocketbook, and that they were to send the purchase to my house, and on the next day when I came again I would pay them."

"And would you believe," she said, opening her eyes, "that they refused? And I said to them, 'Very well, then, send it around, collect, and I shall not come here to buy anything more.'"

So far so good, but——

"And do you know," she said, with the most innocent smile in the world, "that I went there the very next day, and have been going there ever since because it's the best shop and the most convenient. And they looked very funny when I came in and gave my orders as usual, I think they must have been embarrassed.—New York Tribune.

A Hint for Young Writers.

Of all the varied reminiscences of Robert Louis Stevenson, there was none that struck me as more quaintly significant, writes Miranda, in the Lady's Pictorial, than the statement that the great novelist's weird conception of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" was traced by its author to "an injudicious supper of bread-and-jam." We have all heard before of lobster, and toasted cheese, and pork chops as infallible agents in the production of ghastly dreams; but who would have suspected the apparently innocent bread-and-jam of possessing such dire properties? When we remember how gruesome was the central idea of the Jekyll and Hyde story, it becomes evident that the lamented novelist's recipe must be one of peculiar potency. Other writers who are desirous of producing weird or terrible stories will doubtless take the hint. De Quincey is said to have believed thoroughly in the pork chop, taken at supper-time, as a quickener of the imagination. But, bread-and-jam is a still more inexpensive and, apparently, an equally efficacious stimulant.

What Armenians Believe.

Armenia, like Poland, is split into three parts, and in a greater or less degree each division of Armenia, which is essentially a Christian country, partly of the Gregorian rite and partly in communion with the Church of Rome, is oppressed by the power which rules it. Turkish Armenia is in the hands of Sunnite Mohammedans, Persian Armenia is in the hands of Shiite Mohammedans, and Russian Armenia is in the hands of the orthodox Greek Christians. The Russian church is intolerant, still more so is the Shiite Mohammedan regime, but the active and persecuting intolerance of neither approaches that of Sunnite Mohammedans. Nevertheless, in spite of all obstacles Armenian christianity and Armenian progress generally have managed to flourish astonishingly. After the vatican council the Armenian United church was threatened with disruption on the hard question of papal infallibility, but Mgr. Hassoun, who was rewarded for his exertions with a cardinal's hat, succeeded in healing the schism before it became serious.—New York Advertiser.

The reason why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so much more effective than other remedies for colds and coughs is because it is the most skilful combination of anodynes and expectorants known to medical science. It is in every respect a scientific medicine

MARSHAL CANROBERT DEAD.

He Was the Last of the Marshals of France—His Career.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—Marshal Canrobert died yesterday morning. He had been unconscious for several hours previous to his death.

Francois Certain Canrobert, Marshal of France, was born June 7, 1809, at St. Cyr, in the Department of the Lot. He entered the military school at St. Cyr in 1826 and was made a sub-lieutenant. He became a lieutenant in 1833 and was made a captain for his gallantry in Africa in 1835, when he was wounded. In 1846 he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and in 1847 was made a colonel. In 1848 he commanded an African expedition against the Arabs and Kabyles and in recognition of his victories was created general of a brigade. In 1850 he again led the French troops to victory against the Arabs, and Louis Napoleon, then President, made him one of his personal aides-de-camp. Upon the formation of the Army of the East in 1854 he was made commander of the first division in the Crimea. Six days after the first battle in the Crimea Marshal Arnaud resigned and Canrobert succeeded him as commander of the Army of the East. He greatly distinguished himself in the fight at Inkerman on November 5, 1854, and was wounded while heading the famous charge of the Zouaves.

In May, 1855, owing to ill-health he resigned and returned to France. Subsequently he was sent by Emperor Napoleon on a mission to the Courts of Denmark and Sweden and at the beginning of the Italian war in 1859 received the command of the third corps of the army of the Alps and covered himself with glory at Magenta and Solferino. Gen. Canrobert was afterwards made field marshal grand cross of the legion of honor and an honorary knight of the grand cross of the bath.

In June, 1863, he commanded at the camp of Chalons and in October of that year succeeded Marshal de Castellane as commander of the fourth corps at Lyons.

Subsequently he was appointed commander-in-chief of the army of Paris. When war was declared against Prussia in 1870 he was commanding an army corps. Marshal Canrobert was shut up in Metz with Marshal Bazaine and upon the capitulation of that fortress was sent as a prisoner to Germany. After articles of peace had been signed he was received favorably by President Thiers, but was not appointed to any command. In 1873 and again in 1875 he declined the offer of a candidature for the Chamber of Deputies, but in 1876 he was elected to a seat in the Senate for the department of Lot, his term expiring in 1879. He was defeated for election. Later in the same year he was elected a senator for Charente to fill a vacancy. Since the expiration of his term he has lived in comparative retirement.

What may be regarded as his best public appearence was when he attended the funeral of Marshal McMahon, Oct. 22, 1893. In 1860 Marshall Canrobert married Miss Clara Macdonald, a Scotch lady by whom he had two sons and one daughter, all of whom survive. Mme. Canrobert died a few years ago. With the death of Marshal Canrobert the last of the officers bearing the title of Marshal of France has passed away.

A PECULIAR CASE.

A Toronto Man Meets With a Strange Affliction.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Mr. R. H. Bethune, general manager of the Dominion Bank, attended a meeting in the Bank of Montreal on Friday. He sat for nearly an hour with one leg thrown carelessly over the other and when the meeting was over he attempted to rise from his chair but found it impossible to do so. He found he had not the power to move one leg from the other and he called for assistance and the manager of the bank tried to force the members apart, but was unable to do so. Finally a sleigh was called and Mr. Bethune was carried to it and taken to his home, 184 College street, where he has remained in the same position ever since.

There is no trace of paralysis and Mr. Bethune has the sense of feeling still. It is a most peculiar case and the attending physicians cannot give any good reason for the phenomenon. They say, however, that the affliction will pass away in a few days and that no further inconvenience will be suffered by Mr. Bethune.

A Fire in Exeter.

EXETER, Ont., Jan. 29.—About 9 o'clock last night fire was discovered in James Greive's tailor shop. Being a frame building, by the time the fire company arrived the inside of the building was one mass of flames. The fire brigade went nobly to work and by continuous exertion they soon had the fire under control. The stock, which was partially saved, was insured in the Lancashire Fire Insurance Company. The building was gutted.

Fire in a Hamilton School.

HAMILTON, Jan. 29.—Fire created a mild panic in Market street Primary school yesterday. When the discovery was made the teachers forgot the fire drill and allowed the children to get out helter skelter. They also sent to Hess street school, quarter of a mile away, to telephone for the firemen, when there were half a dozen telephones much nearer. No one was hurt, however, and the damage was slight.

Own a Good Piano

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "M——," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for these four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

BROOKLYN CAR STRIKE

The Old Hands Looking for Work From the Companies.

STRIKE PRACTICALLY ENDED

Although Strike Leader Connell Says It is Not Over—Nearly All the Trolley Lines Are in Operation—Cost of the Strike to Both Sides.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 29.—Beaten at every point except the one doubtful victory in the courts, the strikers practically surrendered to the trolley railroad companies yesterday only to be told that their places are filled.

President Norton, of the Atlantic avenue system, contemptuously spurned the offer of his old men to return and threw their formal letter in the waste basket. President Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights Company, sent a formal reply, in which he courteously informed his old men that he would take them back as individuals upon his own terms as long as he had vacancies to fill. President Wicker, of the Queen's County and Suburban Company, replied also, offering his men as individuals what places remain on his lines. Of the 7,000 men who went out on strike on January 14 there are places left for less than one-third. It is not at all certain that these will accept the places.

Strike leader Connelly delared that the strike is not over by any means and that the men tendered their services in order to remove all questions of fact as to the ability of the roads to obtain men and thus furnish a new basis upon which to apply for a peremptory mandamus against the companies. The men say they have funds and will fight the companies by boycott until they give in.

The strike is practically over, as the companies have gradually resumed the operations of their lines until to-day every important one is in operation. Acts of violence were less frequent than during the days of last week, but they indicate that the safety of the public is far from being established. Early in the day the troops of the First brigade began leaving for their homes. Gen. McLeer and the civil authorities reached the conclusion that the peace could be maintained by the second brigade with its 2,900 men.

The strike has lasted fifteen days. It has cost the railroads $500,000. The troops have cost the city $189,000. The strikers have lost $90,000 in wages and the roads in loss of revenue $298,000.

The general paralysis of business has amounted to a loss of many millions to the general public. Two lives have been sacrificed and many people injured.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Cleveland Sends His Message to the Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The first and most important matter that came before the Senate yesterday was the President's special message on the subject of the financial condition of the treasury and urging prompt and effective action by Congress to restore confidence and for the prevention of business disaster and universal disturbance. Most earnest attention was given by the senators to the reading of the message, and it was immediately, without discussion, referred to the Committee on Finance, which meets today. Several hours were occupied in the discussion of the House bill (passed July 16, 1894) to disprove the treaty made with the Southern Ute Indians. The bill was finally passed with some not very important amendments.

The message from President Cleveland to Congress upon the financial condition of the government was read to the House almost immediately after it assembled yesterday. At the conclusion of the reading Mr. Springer (D., Ill.) presented his new bill to revise the currency and banking system and it was referred to the committee on banking and currency for examination and report.

The House is committee of the whole continued the discussion of the bill to repeal the differential duty of 1-10 of a cent a pound on sugar imported from countries paying an export bounty on that article.

The committee rose and Mr. Wilson endeavored to secure unanimous consent for an agreement to close general debate after two hours debate to-day, but Mr. Grosvernor, (R., O.) objected. It is probable, however, that a vote on the bill will be read before adjournment to-day.

To Succeed Sir Ambrose Shea.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—A Nassau, N.P. correspondent says it has been announced that a new governor to succeed Sir Ambrose Shea, has been appointed and will soon arrive. He is Sir William Haynes Smith, and he is a man of considerable experience in colonial affairs.

Diamond Swindling in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—There have been diamond robberies in Maiden Lane by means of fraudulent memorandum orders, and the swindlers got away with diamonds to the amount of $25,000. Ten or twelve houses have lost $2,000.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 29, 1895.

In the local grain market there is nothing to attract attention. The receipts are very small and prices are unchanged.

After much irregularity wheat closed firm in Chicago with grain of 1-2c to its credit. There was a drive on corn which forced the price down 3-4 to 1c.

Buffalo reports the visible supply of barley at the opening of the week's business had declined from 2,316,000 to 2,071,000 bushels and is at present but 45,000 bushels in excess of the quantity in sight a year ago at this date.

The Buffalo stocks have decreased from 1,139,362 bushels last week to 843,782 bushels this week and stocks here now do not exceed those in sight at this date a year ago. Shipments out were 27,000 bushels. The market was dull with holders firm at quotations.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offerings were 110 cars and 25 cars more came in too late for market. Three cars Canada lambs on sale. Fancy Canada sheep quality and weight $4.00 to $4.25.

A fresh attack was made on the New York stock market at the start on heavy withdrawals of gold from the sub-treasury and the engagement of $4,500,000 for shipment to Europe. Subsequently it was steadier and just previous to the publication of the president's message on the treasury situation the whole list moved up rapidly under covering for the account of professional operators who expected a sharp rally to follow the President's recommendations.

Thousands of cases of rheumatism have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This is abundant reason for belief that it will cure you.

UNCLE SAM NEVER PAYS

A DEBT IF HE CAN HELP IT BY HOOK OR BY CROOK.

He Owes All Classes of People for Every Sort of Thing, But Will Not Balance Accounts So Long as He Can Avoid It.

Our government makes money in divers scaly ways, says the Chicago Times. For one thing, it's the worst hand to pay its debts of anybody, public or private. It will cheat you every chance it gets. It will refuse to settle up at times. Then it will refuse to pay after it's settled up. It owes all sorts of people for all sorts of things. It has never paid for the Dolphin. It owes still for the dome on the Capitol. It owes white men, negroes and Indians. It owes Americans and foreigners. Everything it can get out of paying in the way of debt it invariably does. Millions are due to people from the government on claims which have been passed on, allowed, and ordered paid. In a myriad of instances the lucky fellow never knew it, never found it out. Nor is he notified by the government. Indeed the effort of Uncle Sam is to keep him in ignorance and as a result never be called on for the money. It is an open, iron rule in the Treasury Department that if an employe or clerk notify anybody that money for any cause is coming to him from the government the good-natured informant is to be instantly dismissed. So much does the Nation dislike to pay its honest debts that it would incontinently decapitate a clerk who opened the eyes of some ignorant creditor to the fact that money was coming to him. Now that may not be a pleasing statement for a proud American to believe, but we have investigated and declare that that's about the way it stands.

There is one source of money making constantly flowing a profit to the Nation which depends on the misfortunes of others rather than the concealment of active dishonesty of the government. This is when money is lost or destroyed by private individuals. It all goes to the public credit.

Uncle Sam can figure out pretty well before the beginning of a fiscal year that so many thousand dollars will be put to his credit on "profit and loss" account before the year is over. The profit will come from bonds and bank notes destroyed and never presented for redemption, from money orders which are lost and never duplicated and from stamps which are not put to the use for which they were intended. These profits are never cast up, because debts of the government are seldom outlawed. But they are as real as though they were credited to Uncle Sam on the books of the Treasury. Of course, it is no fault of the government that this profit accumulates. Every effort is made to find the man to whom the government is indebted, and every reasonable opportunity is given to him to claim the amount of the indebtedness. In the case of a lost or stolen bond, he has simply to prove ownership and give an indemnity bond to protect the Government against loss. In the case of a Treasury note injured by fire, he has to send in the charred remains, and the Treasury experts will decipher, as far as possible, the value of the pile (its original value) and the money will be restored to him. In the case of a money order, both the remitter and the remittee are advised again and again that the money remains unpaid. Still, claims against the Government aggregating many thousands are left unpaid every year, and the total of even the last thirty years will run up far into the millions. Even in the matter of unpaid money orders the Government has just made an accounting of $1,800,000, earned in the last thirty years and now turned into the Post-office Department fund, probably never to be repaid to its owners.

The greatest source of unearned income, of course, is the destruction of Treasury notes. Nearly $15,000,000 have been made by the government up to the present day, as nearly as can be estimated, by the destruction of Treasury notes.

Here is the statement in detail of the notes and certificates issued by the government estimated to have been destroyed beyond all possibility of redemption up to Jan. 1, 1891: United States notes, $5,410,541; silver certificates, $417,004; gold certificates, $200,000; national bank notes, $6,394,555. Total, $12,452,100. Huntington, the chief of the loans and currency division of the government, estimates that not more than $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 have been destroyed since January 1, 1891. The carelessness which prevailed during the war period, he says, was responsible for a large amount of the missing money, and the destruction, while it increases in proportion to the amount of money issued, is not so great proportionately as it was at that time. It amounts probably to less than $500,000 every year.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE ISLAND THE FRENCH ARE INVADING.

The History of Madagascar Wrapped Up in the Congregationalist Body in England—Resources and Government of the Island Ruled by Queen Ranavalona II.

The city of Tamatave, Madagascar, which is now occupied by the French, is built on a long, narrow peninsula of sand, having an eastern direction, with very deep bays on either side, that on the north forming the harbor in which ships of the largest size can find a secure anchorage. On the peninsula are the houses of the British, French, American, German and Italian residents, with their consulates. The street in which they reside is known as Royal street. The rest of the city is largely made up of little houses and stalls covered with thatch, huddled together in utter disregard of all sanitary precautions and in a way to give every facility for the whole place being consumed by fire. Close to the bazaar stands the chapel of the London Missionary Society and the church of the Bishop of the Church of England. At the northwest of these buildings is the Hova fort, now occupied by the French.

The history of Madagascar for the last fifty years has been very largely bound up with the work of the Protestant missionaries of the Congregationalist body in England. It was under the reign of a good king named Radama, at the commencement of this century, that Protestant Christianity was introduced into the island. But in 1828 Radama died and was succeeded by his widow, Ranavalona. This cruel Queen persecuted the Christians for nearly a quarter of a century, and the persecution did not cease until the death of the Queen in 1862. The Christians are now estimated to number one-fourth of the entire population.

The monarchy of Madagascar is elective, and on April 1, 1868, the choice of the Hova Government fell upon a cousin of the cruel Queen, who assumed the name of Ranavalona II. The new reign began with the inauguration of a liberal constitution, and Christianity was recognized as the national creed. The idols of the people were destroyed.

The trade and commerce of Madagascar are open to the whole world, and in one year the importations of cotton sheetings consisted of 3,000 bales of a value of $300,000.

It is a great mistake to suppose that the Malagasy are a people basking in a burning heat, with only a few shreds of muslin upon them for the sake of decency. When the cold east wind of the dry season is blowing many of them find even stout American sheetings too thin for comfort. Printed calicoes sell in all parts of Madagascar, but it is not easy to hit the native taste in patterns. The Malagasy is reluctant to be guided by the fashions of Europe.

The whole foreign trade of Madagascar, both import and export, does not fall far short of $7,000,000 annually, and the wants of the country are daily increasing. Among the articles of export are crocodile skins, india rubber, wax and coffee.

The cultivation of the silkworm is an occupation particularly suitable to the women and children of Madagascar. And very beautiful silk is manufactured on the island. This branch of trade is capable of very great development, as silk cocoons can be produced to meet almost any demand.

The productions of the country are such as may well excite the cupidity of a foreign conqueror. Silver and copper exist in certain portions of the island, and specimens of gold sand have been brought from the central provinces. The interior districts abound with iron, and iron ore is so abundant in the mountain of Ambohimangivo that it is called by the natives the "iron mountain."

The valleys of the island are exceedingly fertile. They are clothed with a rich and luxuriant verdure and abound with rice, the staple food of the natives.

The rivers of Madagascar are numerous and many of them are of considerable width. The gloomy and unbroken solitude of some parts of the sublime mountain scenery of Madagascar is enlivened by cataracts of various size, form and elevation. Mineral waters have also been found and the natives tell wonderful stories of the cures effected at the medicinal springs. The hot springs near the small and charming village of Ambohizanahary, "The village of God," have a great reputation.

Herds of horned cattle constitute the principle wealth of the nobility, and the grazing grounds in the country are extensive. There is no reason why, under efficient management, Madagascar should not compete with New Zealand in the meat markets of Europe. The sheep of the country appear to be aboriginal, and their flesh is considered to be somewhat inferior to the mutton of Europe.

Until the reign of the "good King Radama," about sixty years ago, horses were unknown in the country, but the king introduced them and established breeding paddocks with considerable success. The crocodile is regarded by the Malagasy with superstitious reverence and is called the "King of the Waters."—Cor. New York World.

An Elephant

ON THEIR HANDS!

We're decidedly opposed to buying damaged goods or ancient Job Lots, just because they are cheap. They cast suspicion on an otherwise first-class stock. Merchants who dabble in such merchandise generally find they have an elephant on their hands.

We have no "elephants" on on our hands. Nor do we allow percentages to our clerks for forcing off out-of-season or unsaleable goods. Our care is for our customer's interest, at every point, and at points not always manifest. We find the choicest goods go first.

We want to emphasize the better values in store for you here. Every price is less than regular goods usually sell for. If careful buying and cash payments and small expenses count for anything. You're sure to get genuine goods here for less than anywhere, especially in the following special lots:—

Lot 1—Dress Goods.
Lot 2—Cloakings,
Lot 3—Flannelettes,
Lot 4—Toweling.
Lot 5—Table Linen,
Lot 6—Hosiery,

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 13,996,800, 660 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance. Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

JAPS MAKE AN ATTACK

They Advance on Wei-Hai-Wei and Meet With Defeat.

ATTACKS BY LAND AND SEA

The Land Force Surprised the Chinese but Were Driven Back—Large Forces of the Celestials Move Up to New Chang—The Peace Negotiations.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Times publishes the following from its Shinghai correspondent: "The Chinese military and naval commanders telegraph via Che Foo that the Japanese fleet advanced upon Wei-Hai Wei in two divisions of 19 ships early on the morning of the 26th. Their search lights betrayed their presence. The guns of the Chinese fleet and shore battery opened fire when the first division was 1,000 yards off the Chinese fleet. The fastest Chinese warships and torpedo boats dashed against the enemy and drove them off after heavy firing. The first Japanese division sailed to the nothwest and the second division to the south. The Chinese claim that they damaged several ships.

"The Japanese made a simultaneous land attack from Ninghai. This was a surprise, but the Chinese repelled them. The Chinese lost 27 sailors. On the Japanese side more than 300 were killed or wounded. It is stated that several foreigners are assisting the Chinese."

The Central News correspondent in Tokio says: "Gen. Nogi reports from Huntsai that there are 10,000 Chinese near New-Chwang and that 11,000 Chinese are advancing from Tapinshan."

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The European edition of the New York Herald contains the following despatch from Shanghai, dated January 29: "The Herald's special correspondent with the advance troops of the Japanese second army in Manchuria reports that the Japanese forces reached Huntsai on Monday evening. Scouts reported that the enemy's forces in the vicinity of Yinao have been materially increased. The scouts are unable to proceed beyond Laopong. The Chinese appear to have advanced along the whole line."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—No information has yet been received in Washington of the arrival at Hiroshima of the Chinese commissioners who, together with Hon. John W. Foster, of the United States, acting in an advisory capacity, are daily expected there. According to the programme announced at the date of their departure from Pekin they should now be at their destination. From advices that have reached here officials do not anticipate any satisfactory or substantial result from the meeting of the commissioners. The Chinese, it is said, are not empowered to act definitely in the premises; they have power only to propose or to receive terms of peace which must be referred to the Tsung-Li-Yamen for approval. This being the case, it is said the Japanese will not spend much time with them, believing that the Chinese are chiefly endeavoring to secure delay.

Will Uphold the Autocracy of the Czar.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Private despatches from St. Petersburg say that the Czar was called upon yesterday by delegations representing the nobility of the principal cities and many provincial and district assemblies who congratulated him upon his recent marriage. In replying to their congratulations the Czar said he had learned that in some of the provincial assemblies voices had been raised proposing that the assemblies have a share in state affairs and expressing other absurd desires. He therefore wished everybody to understand that he devoted all his powers to his dear country, but that he was firmly resolved as was his dear father to uphold the autocracy of the Czar.

Incendiary Fire in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 29.—The Mechanics' Institute, one of the chief buildings in the city, was almost wholly destroyed by fire. The building is a fine seven storey stone structure on the corner of St. James and St. Peter streets, and, in addition to the library, one of the oldest and most extensive in the country, is occupied by a number of offices. The fire first started about six o'clock, but was early put out. Another alarm was sounded shortly after nine. The fire had spread through the upper stories and spread downwards. The library was badly damaged and the whole of the building was gutted with water. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary and suspicion rests on the caretaker, who was recently discharged. He has been arrested. The damage by the fire at the Mechanics' Institute is estimated at about $50,000 to $60,000. The main loss is to the Mechanics' library, which is badly damaged by fire and water, and it will be almost impossible to replace many of the volumes. The top floors of the building, which was occupied as offices, were almost totally destroyed.

THE BROOKLYN STRIKE

Strikers Invoke the Law to Assist Them in Their Struggle.

LAWLESS ACTS LESS FREQUENT

A Few Minor Disturbances Take Place—On All Sides the Companies Must Face Court Proceedings—32 Stone-Throwers Appear in Court.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 30.—The strikers are playing a double game. Through counsel they have appealed to the Attorney-General to move against the Brooklyn Heights Company to revoke their charter for failing to operate the road. Through the agency of lawless mobs they have continued cutting wires, assaulting non-union employes, blockading tracks and otherwise preventing the cars from operating. On the one hand they invoke the law of the land; on the other they defy it even though there are 3,000 troops here to aid the police in preserving order. Were the proceedings in the courts brought by citizens acting in good faith for the benefit of the community the officers of the companies would undoubtedly be uneasy as to the result. They now treat the matter lightly and will make answer that the very men who ask the aid of the law are themselves law-breakers whose acts have made necessary the calling out of the national guard.

The withdrawal of the First Brigade was followed by many small disturbances. President Lewis declared with much emphasis that it was a serious mistake to withdraw the brigade. He said that he had received anonymous information that if the remaining troops are disbanded Sheol will break loose. He had a bodyguard of detectives about his person, and President Norton never moves without an armed guard at his side. On the other hand the Mayor, Gen. McLeer and other officials believe that quiet is restored and turbulence at an end. Master Workman Connelly still insists that the strikers are not beaten. There are no signs of a break in their ranks. Only a few of them have made personal application. The formal tender of their services by Mr. Connelly was a move upon which to base an application for a new writ of mandamus. This was made against the Atlantic avenue company yesterday and was the first proceeding in court against that company. Similar steps are to be followed against the Brooklyn, Queens County and Suburban.

The Brooklyn Heights company was served with formal notice in the mandamus proceedings. They have 20 days to answer. They have also to appear before the Attorney-General at Albany to-day in the application for action looking to the forfeiture of their charter. In addition to this warrants are to be applied for to-day before Justice Tighe for the arrest of the officers of the line for violating the ten-hour law which is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $500 for each offense or imprisonment for three months. There are 1,600 employes who threaten to bring action. Still further proceedings which are on the programme are suits by each ex-employe for one week's salary and suits for damages by merchants whose business has been prostrated.

While the strikers are pulling all these strings to give trouble to the companies and force them to surrender there are other complications. The board of aldermen is seeking for some means of demolishing the companies, the labor organizations have decided not to ride in their cars, the grand jury is looking into the loss of life and limb due to violations of the laws regulating the speed of cars, the board of arbitration has gone to Albany to report upon the causes of the strike and a new committee from the legislature is on its way to investigate the whole matter. All in all, the lot of the trolley magnate is not a happy one.

The companies made a good showing in the number of cars run and lines operated yesterday. They have shown that all they need is time to engage and break in new men and protection for the men and property of the roads. Snow and cut wires in the early morning gave them some trouble, but by noon about two-thirds of the number of cars operated previous to the strike were in operation. Cars ran close to schedule time all day and later at night than has been attempted in two weeks.

Only once yesterday were the troops called out. At about 3 p.m. a gang of men placed a wagon on the track of the Fifth avenue line at Twenty-first street and mobbed the crew of the first car which arrived. The militiamen rushed to the rescue at double quick. The mob scattered in all directions.

There were many accidents due to the inexperience of motormen. Trolley car 1310 of the Halsey street line ran into a coach at the corner of Fulton and Oxford streets. Two ladies who were in the coach, the Misses Anderson, aged 20 and 22 years respectively, received concussions and suffered from the shock, and the driver of the coach, Henry Day, had his ribs fractured. The driver was taken to the Homeopathic hospital and the ladies to their home. The coach was damaged to the extent of $500. The motorman was arrested.

In the police courts yesterday 29 men were arraigned charged with stone-throwing, wire cutting, track obstructing or otherwise interferring with trolley roads. They were all held for trial.

A Former Montreal Man Missing.

NASHUA, N. H., Jan. 30.—A. A. Lunn, who came to this city from Montreal, opening a broker's office in Whiting's Block as agent for Devers & Co. of Boston, has disappeared. It is claimed that he left town for Boston. An agent of the company appeared from Boston and an examination of the accounts took place, and it was found that they were short to the amount of more than $1,000, although the figures are not completed by the examiners. His family cannot account for his absence.

To Compete With Grimsby Park.

HAMILTON, Jan. 30.—Owing to the opposition to the proposed extensions of the H. G. & B. electric railway to Grimsby Park and Beamsville, the company has decided to abandon those projects, and to secure a park for itself on the Lake Shore between Stoney Creek and Winona. If a suitable location can be found, the company will try to have a park that will compete with Grimsby park as a summer resort.

THEIR APPEAL GRANTED

Decision of the Privy Council in the Manitoba Schools Case.

THE GOVERNMENT'S POSITION

They May Grant to the Catholics of Manitoba Remedial Legislation—The Decision, it is Thought, Will Help to Settle the Question of Dissolution.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The judicial committee of the Privy Council yesterday allowed the appeal of the Roman Catholics of Manitoba in the case of Brophy v. the Attorney-General of Manitoba, but they refused to give the costs to the appellant. The judgment, which was delivered at great length, means that the Dominion Government are possessed of power to grant the Roman Catholics of Manitoba remedial legislation for the support of their Separate schools, abolished in 1890, when the Manitoba School Act was passed, doing away with all but state schools.

The scene of the conflict in this connection will hereafter be on the floor of the House of Commons at Ottawa. In the presence of Baron Watson, Lord of Appeal-in-Ordinary; Lord MacNeaghten, Lord of Appeal-in-Ordinary; and Lord Shand, a member of the judicial committee of the Privy Council, the Lord Chancellor, Baron Herchell delivered the judgment allowing the appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in the case of Brophy and others against the Attorney-General of Manitoba, rendered on February 20, 1894, and known as the "Manitoba School case." The announcement that no costs were allowed was generally expected on account of the way the case was instituted.

Mr. Edward Blake, M. P., leader of the Canadian Liberal party from 1880 to 1891, and formerly Premier of Ontario; and Mr. J. S. Ewart, of the Manitoba bar, were counsel for the appellants. Mr. Cosens Hardie, Q. C., Mr. Haldane, Q. C., and Mr. Brady appeared for the respondent.

The decision of the Privy Council, when announced, created the greatest interest among Canadians in London, who, knowing the importance of the case, had been eagerly watching for the result. The Lord Chancellor's delivery of the exhaustive judgment of the appeal lasted nearly an hour. He said their Lordships were of opinion that the enactment with governs the present case is the second sub-section of the Section 22 of the Manitoba Act, reading as follows: "2. An appeal shall lie to the Governor-General-in-Council from any act or decision of the Legislature of the Province or of any provincial authority, affecting any right or privilege of the protest of Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to education." Therefore, their Lordships held that the Roman Catholics' appeal to the Governor-General-in-Council was admissable by virtue of that enactment, inasmuch as the school acts of 1890 abolishing separate schools, affected the rights and the privileges of the Roman Catholic minority within the meaning of the section.

Their Lordships decided further that the Governor-General-in-Council had power to make declarations or remedial orders asked for in the petitions, and that also the appeal was well founded. It was not for the Privy Council to intimate the course that may now be pursued, but their Lordships declared that certainly it was not essential that the statutes, repealed by the act of 1890, must be re-enacted. All legitimate ground of complaint would be removed, if the education system were supplemented by provisions removing the grievance upon which the appeal was founded, or in other words granting funds for the support of the Separate schools in the province. Leading up to this judgment, their Lordships reviewed at great length the circumstances which the act was passed, and also its exact scope.

It was noted that the decision of the Council in the case of Barrett v. the City of Winnipeg seemed to have given rise to some misapprehension. In 1867 it was pointed out the union of the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick took place. Among the obstacles which had to be overcome in order to bring about that union, none perhaps presented a greater difficulty than the differences of opinion which existed with regard to the question of education. The existing state of affairs in Canada at Confederation in the matter of school laws was then explained and the Manitoba school question and situation fully discussed. The historical records were unearthed and the case most exhaustively dealt with, after which the judgment above given was delivered.

Dissolution is Talked Of.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—The whole talk in official circles is dissolution.

This is a result of the judgment in the Manitoba School case. It is thought now that the Quebec ministers who have so far been opposing dissolution before a session will now agree to it rather than face the school issue, which will certainly be raised as soon as the House meets.

CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

A Writer in the Daily Chronicle Strongly Champions It.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Robert Barr writes to the Daily Chronicle: "The proposed Canadian Copyright Act is far more generous than the Act which England accepted with such gratitude from the United States. The very thing which objectors fear in Canada is done daily in libraries in London. Why is that right here and wrong in Canada?"

Sir Richard at Waterford.

WATERFORD, Ont., Jan. 30.—A large number of strangers were in town for the political meeting which was in every way a success. The speeches of Sir Richard Cartwright and the Hon. John Charlton were the features of the meeting. The opera house was comfortably filled, Mr. A. M. Little occupying the chair.

Glenwilliams Accept Cuts.

GRIMSBY, Ont., Jan. 30.—The Mc-Master, who courageously shaded young Turner in Glenwilliams a short time ago, was further reduced to $40 until February 2nd. Turner is now showing slight signs of improvement.

The Daily Examiner is delivered to all parts of the Town for 15c. a week, 60c. a month, $3.50 for six months.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1895.

THE Montreal witness says:—"Laurier, Mowat, Paterson—Three potent names.

Laurier holds, Mowat entertains, Paterson fires. Laurier makes facts eloquent; Mowat pierces with a subtle wit; Paterson makes the blood flow like lava. Laurier is argumentative, Mowat reminiscent, Paterson impassioned. Laurier, for the most part, is cool; Mowat, airy and persuasive; Paterson rises to the full height of a noble fervour, bringing his audience with him, playing on feelings and aspirations, and anger and hope as the wind plays upon an instrument. He infects the vast audience with his own passion, catches an inspiration from the upturned faces upon which he has written great emotions that play in eye and show in colour in the cheek. With splendid voice, with dramatic gesture, with a vehement scorn, or passionate appeal, he demolished protection arguments, lifted the audience up to clear heights, from which one saw the panamora of prosperity and liberty and justice stretching before the eye all over the Dominion.

OUR evening contemporary, in a reference to a note in the EXAMINER showing that even protection does not protect, in order to give point to its objections, assumes something entirely apart from the facts — namely, that the Liberal policy would destroy our manufactures. Hon. Mr. Laurier was very explicit on this point in his great speech at Montreal. While promising to manufacturers the great boon of raw material, he proposes to reduce taxation wisely and gradually — to make such changes in the tariff as will "while not doing injustice to any class, promote domestic and foreign trade, and hasten the return of prosperity to our people." The manufacturers know they have nothing to fear from Mr. Laurier, and they hail his proposal to grant them free raw material very gladly. The Review unnecessarily and gratuitously raises the cry of "wolf."

As a recent despatch has shown, Mr. Justin McCarthy has reported that the contributions to the Irish Parliamentary fund for the year 1894 amounted to £12,492 of which sum £5,253 came from Ireland £3,046 came from Canada, £3,715 from the United States, and the remaining £1,478 from England, Scotland, Australia, New Zealand, Siam and Newfoundland. Canada thus contributed one-fourth of the entire fund, her liberality being no doubt to a large extent due to the influence of the member for South Longford, Hon. Edward Blake. The contributors will do well to remember this year that charity begins at home.—The Mail. What can a protective journal be thinking of to suggest the necessity of charity, in the eleemosynary sense, in a country basking in the sunshine of perennial N.P. prosperity.

EVEN wild, wide and weird Algoma did not sympathize with the similarly wild, wide and weird constituency of Muskoka that originated the reversible Marter. The leader of the Opposition doesn't seem to have an embarassing number of friends. He seems about as little in evidence these days as the god Baal, which failed to "come to the scratch" at the prophet's call of time.

MR. MARTER expressed decidedly revolutionary opinions of the London election. Has he any new policy on the head of the Kingston contest?

IT was a buy election in Kingston last June; it was a bye election this time.

ALGOMA is shockingly democratic—it has rejected its King.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

All the side lines are completely blockaded as a result of the recent snow storm. There was no school in S. S. No. 1 on Monday, the teacher being unable to get to the school on account of the roads being impassable.

We would like to know why it is the Grange and Patrons of Industry are allowed to hold their meetings in the school house, while the R. T. of T. have to drive away to the town hall to hold theirs? The temperance cause is one that should be supported in every possible way, and the trustees are doing a very great wrong if they do not allow the R. T. Society equal privileges with the other societies in the township.

An energetic committee is making preparations for a grand concert to be given in the town hall about the first of March. We understand that talent from a distance of the highest degree is being secured for the occasion. The chairman of the committee informs your correspondent that this will be the best concert ever given in North Monaghan. Watch for the posters. The High Park band has now a fine new drum, which is indeed a beauty, and adds much to the appearance of this popular musical organization. The boys are now in need of funds to purchase a new tuba, and we trust that the public will not be slow in lending a helping hand to assist in equipping the band with a good set of instruments. The boys intend giving several free concerts in the town hall during the summer months.

OTONABEE.

Council Meeting.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The old council re-elected made declaration and qualification of of office Jan. 21st, when Reeve Anderson took the chair. The following officers were appointed: D. P. McFarlane and A. Shearer, auditors; Creighton Matchett, assessor; Wm. Drummond, collector; J. M. Drummond, clerk and treasurer; John Dinsdale and John Bell, inspectors; Dr. Shaw, medical health officer; W. Anderson, John Lancaster, A. Weir and J. M. Drummond, local board of health. Jas. Armstrong, Jas. Metcalf, A. McDermott and the Agricultural Society were granted remission of taxes. On motion of Messrs. Johnston and Deyell, the following persons to be allowed until further notice the following sums for charity: Jas. Armstrong and wife, $2 per week; Mrs. Barry, $1 per week; Jas. Metcalf, $3 per month; A. McDermott, $3 per month. The committee appointed at the last sitting of the council to get further legal advice and consider the advisibility of conveying the original allowance for roads to Wm. Lang. Jas. Fife reported that they had consulted another lawyer and he gave a direct opposite opinion from that of the first one consulted as to the conveying the road allowance to Jas. Fife. On motion of Messrs. Johnston and Deyell that in view of the difference of opinion of the two lawyers consulted, that the resolution passed on the 19th of November, 1894, by this council, conveying to Jas. Fife the original road allowance across the 5th concession between lots 21 and 22, conveying to Wm. Lang the original road allowance on the east half of the 6th concession, between lots 21 and 22, be rescinded and that the above described original allowances for roads remain in possession of the municipality. Messrs. Riddle and Buchan, of South Monaghan, and Mr. Smithson, of Otonabee, were present and presented the following petition signed by 68 ratepayers of Otonabee: "To the municipal council of Otonabee—We, the undersigned ratepayers of the township of Otonabee, believing it would be in the interest of a large number of the ratepayers of this township to have a new road opened through Mr. R. Deyell's property to the Otonabee river opposite the end of the new road recently opened by the township of South Monaghan, said road to be in lieu of the unoccupied part of concession line, we [illegible]ld, therefore, humbly petition your [illegible]rable body to have the same opened [illegible] public highway and to transfer the unoccupied part of concession line to Mr. Deyell in lieu thereof." Mr. Riddel stated, in support of the petition, that South Monaghan had on hand now $800 and intended raising $2,000 more, and the Dominion government had put $1,700 in the estimates to aid in erecting a bridge across the river at this point. There will be 300 feet of marsh on the Otonabee side which they intend filling six feet high and putting up a railing so soon as Otonabee will grant the new road. This proposed road will greatly lessen the distance from the eastern and centre parts of Monaghan to Peterborough, and will take the bulk of the traffic from the Wallace Point road, which is nine miles from Peterborough, and the proposed bridge only seven, and will lessen the wear on the Otonabee roads. They only ask the council to convey the unoccupied concession line to R. Deyell, and perform the necessary acts to have the new road opened; Monaghan will pay the difference demanded by R. Deyell. On motion of Messrs. Lancaster and Weir it was laid over until next meeting of council. The following accounts were passed: John Dinsdale, sanitary inspector, $5; Dr. Shaw, visiting John and Duncan Mather and Hendersons, re scarlet fever, $5; Thos. Fox, gravel, $4.38; J. M. Drummond, salary, $24; refund, postage, $20; Municipal World, $1; Government returns, $5; registration, $13.30; axe for L. Hall, 50c.; School Section No. 13, crossing in front of school house, $1; John Edwards, two cords of wood for J. Metcalfe, $4.50; H. H. Burnham, gravel, $3.50; David Nelson, repairing crossing, $1.50. Council adjourned to 19th Feb. next.

DOURO.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

The council of the township of Douro for 1895 met at the town hall, Douro, on Monday, Jan. 21st, at 10 o'clock. After filing the necessary declarations of qualification and office, the several members took their seats, and on motion of the reeve, proceeded to business. The minutes of the December meeting were read and confirmed. Township officers appointed:—Maurice Condon and Chas. Curtis, auditors at a salary of $8 each; Wm. Condon, assessor, at a salary of $50; Patrick Ryan, collector, salary $50; Board of Health, the reeve and clerk, ex-officio members, and Wm. Leeson, Jas. McCligott and W. J. Bullock appointed by the council; J. R. Fraser, M. H. O.; John Quinn, Sanitary Inspector. Moved by Mr. McCliggott, seconded by Mr. Leeson, that part of a resolution of council passed on the 30th day of August, 1894, authorising the treasurer to pay cost of search for plans of subdivisions of lands be rescinded, and that the treasurer pay on the reeve's order the sum of $14 for procuring plans of subdivisions of land in the township. The collector's time for collecting the balance of taxes unpaid was extended to the first day of Feb. Orders on Treasurer: To Peter Hamilton, $30 for four road scrapers, obtained in 1894, at $7.50 each. The reeve, clerk and Mr. McCliggott were appointed a committee to draft bylaws forming statute labour divisions, and defining the duties and powers of overseers of highways, pound keepers and fence viewers in the municipality. The reeve (the custodian of the Treasurer's bonds) submitted same for the approval or otherwise of the council. After being examined and deemed satisfactory, the reeve was authorized to take charge of same, Moved by Mr. McCliggott, seconded by Mr. Walsh, that Jas. McCligott be elected deputy-reeve for 1895. Moved in amendment by Mr. Leeson, seconded by Mr. Bullock, that Wm. Leeson be elected deputy-reeve. A bylaw confirming the election of Wm. Leeson, deputy-reeve, was read and signed. On motion the council adjourned to the 11th day of Feb next, then to meet at 10 o'clock a.m.

THE HOP MARKET.

The demand for hops is still very slow, and holders say it is absolutely impossible to make sales, except at prices which show a loss to both receivers and shippers. The last sale we heard of was a lot of about seven bales of Prince Edward county at 7 cents, the quality being reported very choice. Holders, however, are not forcing sales, but simply waiting the casual enquiries that turn up. Brewers, as a rule, have stocked up well with low priced hops, ranging from 6½ to 8cts per lb. Advices from New York report recent account sales of both States and Pacific Coast hops from London, netting shippers all the way from 7 to 13cts., while less desirable parcels netted from 3 to 5cts. per lb.—Montreal Trade Bulletin.

THE FINANCIAL CRASH

IN NEWFOUNDLAND AND ITS MANIFOLD CAUSES.

The Signs Visible Long Ago—Due in No Small Measure to Party Strife and the Action of the Firms in Great Britain—A Fast Bank Clerk.

Portents of the financial typhoon which has swept over the island of Newfoundland had been observable for a long time, but nobody could have imagined its destructive force would be anything like so great as it has proved to be. Both the Union and Commercial banks were in difficulties as far back as 1891 from giving greater accommodation than their capital warranted, but they were tided over through the instrumentality of Sir William Whiteway, who, at the time, was at the head of public affairs. He procured for them a loan of $250,000, which, such is the elasticity of trade in Newfoundland, was paid in a year.

The great fire of July, 1892, brought into the colony between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. This made the business of the banks more than usually brisk. The citizens of St. Johns put forth considerable energy, the banks made advances, and within two years after the 1892 disaster the greater part of St. Johns was rebuilt, with as fine a class of stores and public buildings as any city of equal extent and population on this side of the Atlantic. Many of the private dwellings, also, are far superior to those the fire swept out of existence.

As the money from foreign insurance companies became expended tightness in financial circles began to be felt.

Party strife, too, had its share in bringing about the present dreadful state of affairs, and the affairs of the Island prove that politics and business do not pull well together. Some of the members and leaders of the Rump parliament, made a desperate fight to hold the reins of power for the sake of their salaries, others did so in order to keep control of the savings banks, one-half of the three millions therein deposited being used, through the Commercial and Union banks, to carry on their private affairs.

PREMIER JOSEPH GREEN.

This would not be so objectionable, from their standpoint, at least, if the capital of the banks warranted the the enormous overdrafts, which in the case of Duder, for instance, one of the directors of the Commercial Bank, aggregated five times the whole capital of that institution.

The ledger keeper of the Commercial Bank was generally known in the metropolis as a fast young man. He drove fast and kept fast company. He was a favorite with his intimates and an inveterate flirt. He had jilted two or three St. Johns young women.

It was announced that, having sown an abundant crop of wild oats, he was about to settle down to the joys of married life, as became a bank accountant. A house was rented, furniture purchased and the happy day named, but the bridegroom came not.

His disappearance was the sensation of the hour. He had been seen ascending Signal Hill—he couldn't leave the boys—and the story went abroad that rather than be one of the party to the tying of the marriage knot he had preferred to throw himself over the cliff or take a plunge in one of the lakes on the summit of Signal Hill.

A reward of $200 was offered for the body of the supposed suicide. The lakes were dragged, but the corpse was not found. The young man has turned up in Bermuda.

The ruse was a great success. No one dreamed that his accounts had anything to do with his mysterious departure.

The crash of the Commercial Bank has naturally caused inquiries to be made into its working, and the discovery has been made that Charley's ledger is in a state that only an expert can decipher. Yet enough has been discovered to learn that he helped himself and loaned to some of his intimates the modest sum of $80,000.

This mouse played while his masters were amusing themselves in the noble art of politics.

Finally Sir Terence O'Brien called upon these men of straw to resign their portfolios, and after a strong attempt at fusion they did so.

The leader of the opposition, D. F. Greene, P.C., was called upon to form a government. He did so with A. W. Haney, head of the firm of Haney & Co.; P. J. Scott, W. H. Harvard and J. B. Thompson as colleagues. This government is merely provisional, it being understood that Sir William Whiteway will become Premier when the necessary legislation shall have relieved him from the disqualification imposed by the Court, which every one now regards as a huge political blunder.

At the meeting of the legislative, Mr. Haney said the cause of the disaster could be traced back two years. He said that much of the blame for the present calamity should be attributed to firms in England and Scotland connected with the trade of Newfoundland.

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the variola, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

DE LESSEPS AND HIS INLAND SEA.

The Great Promoter's Scheme to Restore Fertility to Northern Africa.

The late Count de Lesseps was at one time engaged in a daring and attractive engineering scheme, with which the public is not generally familiar. Its object was to create a new sea and thereby restore to fertility and civilization a large part of Northern Africa.

Mr. Max de Forest, a former officer in the French army, met his famous countryman at this time.

"I met Count de Lesseps," he said, "in 1881, at Gabes, in Southern Tunis, where I had been ordered with a squadron of cavalry. Shortly after my arrival he came with a surveying party to make soundings for the proposed interior sea. I had orders to place at his disposal both men and horses, and the discharge of this duty brought me into almost daily communication with him until his departure.

"The interior sea at that time aroused all his enthusiasm. He brought to bear the same persuasive powers that he used when promoting the Suez and the Panama canals and enterprises. To sceptics he always replied: 'It can be done and it will be done, if the Government will give me the money to do it with.'

"Its proposed area embraced the entire plain lying to the southward of the boundary line drawn from Gabes, via Gafsa to Tamersa. The practicability of the scheme was supported by many facts. It was proved that an inland sea had covered in ancient times the area which it was intended to flood. The level of the land was generally below that of the Gulf of Gabes. Innumerable underground streams of fresh and salt water are found in the southern part of Algeria and Tunis.

"The water was to be supplied to the inland sea from the gulf of Gabes. The tides would have a minimum depth sufficient to allow of the passage in all directions of light boats. But the most valuable result of the scheme, it was held, would be to restore the ancient fertility of the country and to oppose a barrier to the sirocco, the deadly burning wind which piles up the desert sand about the oasis and finally buries them.

"M. de Lesseps dwelt on these benefits with boundless enthusiasm and imagination. Buried cities would be unearthed and the colosseum of El Djhem, now a crumbling ruin, but once approaching that of Rome in size, would be accessible to admiring tourists.

"M. de Lesseps left the work in the hands of the general staff of the French army, by whom it is now supposed to be carried on. Whether any progress is being made I do not know."

The Irish Elk.

Perhaps nothing enables the layman to realize the existence of the great Atlantean continent so well as to be brought face to face with some of the remains of that great arena of man's past development. There were giants in those days, as Scripture tells us, and the mighty hunters had mighty game for their prey. The Irish Elk, which stands about fifteen feet high, is one of the best known of these monsters. Its remains are very common in the lake deposits of Ireland, which is the last surviving remnant of Atlantis. The Irish Elk is not a true elk, but intermediate between the fallow and the reindeer. The deer family, so far as discovered, do not extend beyond the Upper Miocene. However the submerged strata have not been investigated. The first warning to the doomed continent came in Eocene times and the final catastrophe in the Miocene period. Has anyone considered the possibility of the enormous antlers having been developed as weapons of defence against the attacks of the aerial monsters of early days?—Toronto Lamp.

AN IMPRESSIVE SCENE.

CAPT. DREYFUS DEGRADED IN THE PRESENCE OF 5,000 TROOPS.

He is Deprived of His Military Rank and Insignia at the Paris Ecole Militaire—He Protested His Innocence—Hooted by a Vast Crowd.

Captain Dreyfus, an artillery officer in the French army, detailed for duty at the Ministry of War, was arrested on the charge of having betrayed important secrets of the Ministry of War to a foreign government. The actual facts of the accusation against him were kept secret, but it was reported that he had betrayed or sold certain important military information to the German Embassy in Paris. This provoked an indignant denial from Berlin and a diplomatic protest from Count von Muenster, the German Ambassador to France. A guarded denial of the report made to the French Chamber of Deputies by the Minister of War was followed by a reiteration of the charges in a number of Paris papers, which aroused violent protest on the part of the Berlin press.

Meanwhile Captain Dreyfus was kept a close prisoner and not allowed to communicate with his friends. A court martial was appointed to try him on the charge of treason, and it had hardly opened its sitting before it was decided to conduct its proceedings with closed doors. What took place and the nature of the evidence offered is but imperfectly known, but by the close of the second day's sitting the accused was found guilty of treason and the severest penalty applicable in time of peace—imprisonment for life in a fortress and degradation from all military rank and honors—was pronounced upon him.

The formal degradation of Captain Albert Dreyfus, who was recently sentenced to deprivation of his military rank and title, and to confinement in a fortress for life, for having divulged government secrets, took place recently on the parade ground of the Ecole Militaire, Paris, in the presence of 5,000 troops and a number of newspaper representatives and others. Some time before daylight detachments from all the regiments in the district of Paris were on the march to the parade ground. These detachments comprised new recruits, veterans and men of all grades of service, and as they arrived at the Ecole Militaire they took the positions assigned to them. The weather was clear and bright, but cold.

At half-past eight A. M. General Darras, commanding the troops, arrived. He was assisted by Colonel Fayette and a major of the Paris garrison. The troops formed a square, facing the main entrance to the parade ground, where was stationed a band composed of drums and bugles. The Thirty-ninth regiment, having Captain Dreyfus in charge, was one of the first bodies of troops to arrive at the parade ground. At precisely nine o'clock the prisoner was led out from the left wing of the square. He was accompanied by a squad of artillery and soldiers. He was pale, but with a firm step he marched, with his sword in his right hand, to the centre of the square, where he was awaited by General Darras. He halted before the General and stood at "attention." The adjutant of the Republican Guard then read the verdict of the court-martial which had condemned Captain Dreyfus. He flushed, somewhat, but showed no sign of losing his composure.

After the reading of the verdict General Darras addressed the prisoner, saying: "Dreyfus, you are unworthy to carry arms. In the name of the people of France we degrade you."

The adjutant then walked up to Dreyfus, and took from him his sword, which, with a quick, sharp movement, he broke across his knee, casting the pieces upon the ground. He then cut the buttons and insignia of rank from the uniform of the condemned captain, and threw them also upon the ground. At this point in the proceedings Captain Dreyfus was for a moment moved by a sense of his humiliation, but he quickly suppressed his emotion, and shouted in a loud voice, "Vive la France!" Continuing, he said:—"You have degraded an innocent man. I swear that I am innocent." He seemed about to speak further, but his voice was drowned by the rolling of the drums, which was not loud enough, however, to drown a ringing shout from the crowd in the rear of the soldiers of "A mort le traitre!" (Death to the traitor!)

The ceremony up to this time had lasted just four minutes. The drums then beat, and the degraded man began his march along four sides of the square, in what is known as "le parade de l'execution." The scene was very impressive, and many of the younger soldiers turned their heads away.

Captain Dreyfus marched in a firm and soldierly way, and, with a quick, short pace, and when he reached the delegation of officers from the reserves raised his hand and said:—"Tell the whole of France that I am innocent." Turning to the left from the position of the reserve officers he came before the members of the press, to whom he said in a firm voice, "I declare that I am innocent."

The end of the march was reached at twenty minutes past nine, after which the condemned man was taken to the barrack gate and turned over to the civil authorities. A large crowd of people had gathered at the entrance of the parade ground, and from among them came not one word of sympathy, but the cry of "A mort le traitre!" was taken up by them until the miserable man was out of the hearing of his tormentors. Dreyfus was received from his escort at the barrack gate by four gendarmes, who placed him in an ordinary prison van, and at half-past nine the troops marched out of the parade ground to their respective quarters.

Generally speaking, out of every hundred men that are thus degraded weep like children during the ceremony, but Dreyfus went through it

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

The Fate of a Roller Skater in Mr. Editor's Town.

Two weeks ago, when Prof. Fairchilds D. Lancy reached this town and gave out that he intended to establish a roller-skating rink for the winter, we sent him word to please call the Kicker office. He called, and we found him to be a well-dressed man, who parted his hair in the centre, waxed his mustache and wore the habitual smile of an end man. He informed us that he had leased the old stage stables on Chippewa street and would expend $600 in fitting up a rink, and that he had assurance of a successful season. We put on our most fatherly demeanor and advised him so abandon his enterprise at once. He was warned that he didn't know our people and was preparing for a calamity. We got down our county map and pointed out the spot where a dancing master was planted last year, the route taken by the chap who hung out his manicure and chiropodist sign, the wilderness into which the chicken incubator man disappeared never to be heard of again. It was no use. The roller skating professor was set in his ways and bowed himself out to go on with his enterprise.

Saturday night last there was a grand opening of the Palace Skating Rink. Although we dropped in at an early hour, we found the place crowded. On the front seats, as usual, were the forty or fifty men who wear a gun on each hip and decide the fate of a public entertainment. We had only to look into the faces of half a dozen of them to realize that Prof. Lancy would fail in his project of crowding the Twenty-first Century into the basket holding the Twentieth. No one was saying anything, but every man's face wore a hard and stony expression.

THE SIGNAL.

We found the professor in his dressing room and plainly told him that there was going to be a thunderstorm and a stampede of the herd, and he was likely to be the only one hurt. He was still set. We were politely informed that he knew his gait, and there was nothing left for us to do but to retire and wait for events. Ten minutes later he appeared in fancy costume and began his exhibition. He had cut just one single pigeon wing when old Jim Hewson, who invariably leads the shooting at public performances, pulled his gun and fired. That was the signal for a general fusilade. The rollers were shot from under these skates and before the professor could count ten, and as he gathered himself for flight the bullets were clipping his boot heels and carrying away straps and buckles. The last seen of him he was headed for the hills and covering eight feet every jump, and at the present writing the Palace Rink is being turned into an arena for the exhibition of bucking broncbos and lasso throwing. We are sorry for the professor, who went to an expense of several hundred dollars, and who will probably wander in the hills until he drops dead, but when a man is set in his ways, and thinks he knows his gait he must be left to take his chances. Fifty years hence our citizens may gather at a rink and roll themselves to and fro and back and forth on roller skates and call it a good thing, but the professor was half a century ahead of the game.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and sometimes alarming disease, often the result of impure blood, and should be attended to at once. It commences with a severe itching of the parts affected, which, after scratching, produces moisture. When the disease is allowed to progress, ulcers form, which discharge a large amount of offensive matter. Then the patient suffers all the tortures that only can be realized by those who have had them. Dr. Chase's Ointment will instantly relieve, and in a few days cure any case of Itching Piles. It will positively only instead, but also heal and restore permanent health to the affected parts.

The Rugby Club Minstrels.

An enthusiastic meeting of the above organization took place last night at Jackson's music room. It must be most encouraging to the management to meet with such a hearty response to the call for members. The choruses, solos, quartettes, etc., promise to be very considerably above the average, while the end men's songs are of the latest, and will undoubtedly be one of the features of the evening's whole performance. The next practice will be held on Friday evening at 7 o'clock sharp. Members are particularly requested to be on time.

About Our Accounts.

January, 30th, 1895.

All persons having accounts or claims against A. Mercer & Co. will confer a favour by sending them in for settlement before the 15th February to enable us to close our books for the past year.

Likewise, we respectfully request all persons indebted to us, either by current account or past due account, to call and settle their bills promptly before 15th February. It is absolutely necessary that these claims be paid on or before that date.

We hope that this request will be sufficient.

The Carnival Ball.

The grand carnival masquerade ball to be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday, Feb. 12th, promises to be the most brilliant social event of the season. The proceeds, over and above expenses, will be jointly donated to the two hospitals of Peterborough. A large number of tickets have already been sold, and many handsome costumes are in preparation. The prizes for the best dressed gentleman, the best dressed lady, and the best comic costume, are on exhibition at Mr. J. McClelland's jewelry store. They are exceedingly handsome, and well worth competing for. Owing to numerous requests from the public, it has been decided to open the gallery to spectators. A limited number of tickets, at 50 cents each, for this purpose can be secured at Stratton's and Sallsbury's bookstores, and the Street Railway Office. Music by the Battalion Band and Butcher's orchestra. Refreshments, all evening, served by the well-known caterer, Mr. William Bowman. Dancing to commence at 8.30 p. m. At 12 o'clock the floor will be open to any of the spectators who wish to join in the dance. Come in costume, if possible, to add to the effect of the scene, and compete for the prizes. Tickets, $1.00, admitting gentleman and lady, or two ladies together, to the floor. Tickets of admission to the gallery, 50 cents each, for sale at Stratton's book store, Sallsbury's and the Street Railway Office.

JANUARY WEDDING BELLS RANG THIS MORNING

Nuptials of Mr. Alfred Parker and Miss Minnie Frise—A Presentation.

The marriage of Mr. Alfred Parker, one of Peterborough's most substantial business men, and Miss Minnie Frise, daughter of Mr. John Frise, took place at nine o'clock this morning, in the presence of numerous relatives, at the residence of the bride's parents, [illegible] street.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. Young, pastor of the George street Methodist church, and the bride was most becomingly costumed in a travelling suit of grey cloth. She was assisted by her sister, Lillie Frise, who was similarly costumed. The groomsman was Mr. Geo. Harris, of Lakeville.

At the conclusion of the ceremony and after the happy couple had received the congratulations of those present, a dainty wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Parker left by the noon train for Montreal. Several weeks will be spent by the newly married couple in the East, during which time a few days will be spent in Ottawa as the guests of the father of Mr. Parker.

Last evening Mr. Parker's large staff of employees assembled, and Mr. Robert Beach read the following address :

To Mr. Parker, upon the eve of his Marriage, January 30th, 1895 :

DEAR MR. PARKER.—We, your employees, desire on this the eve of a happy and momentous occasion, to tender you our individual and collective congratulations. Our relations, as employer and employees, have always been most amicable and friendly, and this is due, not so much to anything we have done, as to the uniform kindness and consideration with which you have always tempered your actions and bearing towards us.

"We appreciate the great interest you have at all times manifested in your employees; therefore, our feelings towards you cannot but be of a most friendly nature, and, as evidence of the esteem in which we hold you, we ask you to accept—for yourself and for the one who will soon be your loya. helpmate—this tea set and salver, and with it the hearty wishes of us all, that only happiness and prosperity, contentment and joy will attend the step you are about to take, and be yours and Mrs. Parker's through life."

The presentation of the handsome silver tea set and salver was made by Mr. Wm. Sharpe.

Although taken greatly by surprise, Mr. Parker's words on the occasion, as he thanked his employees for their kind remembrance, will long be treasured by them.

PERSONAL.

Miss Agatha McCuaig of Ottawa, is the guest of Mrs. R. Maitland Roy, of Stewart street.

The Cobourg Post says: "Mr. Henry, superintendent of the Woollen Mill, spent Sunday in Peterborough."

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor will entertain the ushers, choir and collectors of the cathedral at the palace this evening.

Rev. Father Murray, of Cobourg, was in Peterborough last week on business connected with the erection of the new church.

Miss Maude Sproule, of Peterborough, lately of Tyrconne, Ireland, is the guest of Miss Greatrix, Pinnacle street.—Belleville Intelligencer

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller drove up from Cobourg last week. They crossed Rice Lake on the ice and greatly enjoyed the trip and the visit.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"Mr. Andrew Olver, of Peterborough, we notice is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. Oliver, Chestnut street."

When driving with Mr. Robert Jaffray, last Saturday, Mr. Geo. A. Cox was seized with a sudden chill. He was taken to his residence, where he is rapidly recovering.

It is full of valuable information and reflects credit on the publishers, as well as on the enterprise of the English Company.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR,—Being an ardent admirer of Ruskin, and wishing to impress his beauties on the audience, I stated at the Fortnightly Club meeting on Monday evening that "The Minister of Education had authorised three of my favourite lectures from Ruskin to be used in the high schools, which every youth ought to read, quite certain they would be enobled and better prepared for the duties of life."

The Fast Mail.

The attraction at the Opera House next Tuesday evening will be Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic melodrama, "The Fast Mail." It has been one of the greatest successes known to the stage for years. It has a story of thrilling interest, and the scenic and other mechanical effects are said to be marvellous. There is a representation of an engine room on a Mississippi steamboat, with the furnaces under the boilers in active operation. A very realistic train of cars shoot across the stage, and the Niagara Falls scene is one of the most elaborate and daring things ever undertaken in the drama. It is described as a beautiful, vivid and accurate representation of that stupendous marvel of nature. Prices, 25, 35 and 50c. Box seats 75c.

Sold by all druggists.

THE GENERAL ELECTIONS.

The result of the decision in the Manitoba school case, a report of which appears in another column, taken in connection with the cowardice displayed by the Government in dealing with the subject from the first, will probably precipitate the decision of the ministers to face the people rather than parliament, and the elections may be brought on at once. There is little doubt that the starring tour of the ministers is a preliminary to a general election. The Liberals of East and West Peterborough must see the necessity of getting candidates into the field at once. An extra staff has been put on at the Government Printing Bureau, Ottawa, and the voters' lists are being rushed through—in fact everything points to a general Dominion election before the snow disappears. The Liberals must not be caught napping. With prompt preparation and good candidates, there is no reason why the Peterborough's should not send two Liberal representatives to Ottawa.

ALGOMA GOES TO THE GOVERNMENT.

The result of the elections in Algoma, so far as the returns are to hand, show that Mr. Conmee, the Liberal candidate, has been elected by a majority of over 200. At the general elections in June, an opponent of the government was elected by a narrow majority, and by means which did not indicate the voice of the electors, for the seat of the member-elect having been protested, he resigned, practically confessing corrupt practices. The appeal to the electors on Monday indicates that with a fair chance the electors have declared their well-grounded confidence in the Mowat Government.

CURLIANA.

The Belleville Colts are playing in Campbellford this evening, and to-morrow morning they will come on through to Peterborough and try conclusions with the local Colts before dinner, in order that they may return to Belleville by the afternoon train. The boys from the Bay City missed a good thing in not arranging to play an evening game here, as the local men in this event would have tendered them a banquet.

In an interesting game last evening Skip Connal was successful in defeating Skip Ray by the following scores

Bobcaygeon and Keene have arranged with the Waubashene umpire to postpone their draw in the Tankard series until next Tuesday.

The Tankard series draw between Millbrook and Peterborough has been postponed until next week, but the Millbrook curlers will come up at five o'clock this evening for a friendly game.

The second draw in the Kendry Cup competition was arranged to-day. The announcement concerning the rinks to play is held over until to-morrow.

HOCKEY.

The manager of the Hockey Club has just made arrangements whereby the Bank of Toronto team of the Toronto League will be brought to Peterborough next Saturday evening for a game with the local seven. The two teams will line up as follows :

Toronto.		Peterboroughs.
Carlisle	goal	Dixon
Warden	point	Montgomery
Carruthers	cover point	Parsons
Gilmour, Crawford, Thompson, Reid	forwards	Lefevre, Phelan, King, Wonham

The Torontos are a fast team, and a good game may be expected when they run up against the Peterboroughs on Saturday evening.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Council meeting will be held next Monday evening.

Mr. Geo. Duffield, jeweller, is suffering from a severe attack of quinsy.

The Mechanics' Institute library is only open for the exchange of books from 4 to 6 o'clock p.m., and Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Inspector Seath visited our high school last week. He was pleased with the condition of the school, excepting that the pupils are too numerous for the teaching staff. The report will be made public after it has been presented to the school board.

Evangelistic services are being held in the Baptist church every evening this week. Rev. Mr. Weaver, the pastor, conducts these services.

The regular quarterly meeting services will be held in the Methodist church next Sunday.

The annual convention of the Asphodel and Belmont Sunday school Association was held in the Presbyterian church here on Friday, January 25th. There was a fair attendance at the afternoon session. After devotional exercises, led by Rev. J. F. Somerville, a nominating committee was appointed. Music was followed by reports from the various schools. A very interesting discussion on "What are our needs" came next, followed by a talk on primary work. A conference on "Parents co-operation with the school" was led by Bro. J. F. Somerville, M.A. The report of the nominating committee was received and after some general business the convention adjourned. There was a good attendance at the evening session which was opened by devotional exercises, led by Mr. Wm. Thistlethwaite, after which the newly elected officers were introduced. Dr. Harrison, Keene, took up the subject, "The Life of Christ" in an able manner, and Mr. W. E. Boxburg gave an interesting and instructive address on home classes. Much interest was manifested in the question drawer, which followed. The closing exercises were then held.

ST. LUKE'S CONCERT.

A Most Pleasing Programme Presented Last Evening.

St. Luke's School house was well filled last night with an audience that much appreciated the entertainment provided for them under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary.

Mr. Fred Perrin again scored a great success with his comic songs, good-humouredly giving no less than eight, of which "Michael Clancy's Trotter," and "All the Comforts of a Home" appeared to be the favourites.

Miss Hendren, of Lakefield, was heard in St. Luke's for the first time, creating a most favourable impression. Her rendering of "Madeline," was given with much taste and feeling.

The other performers, all well received, were the Misses Hamilton, Emerson and Maudie Long, and Messrs. Parker, Squires, Steers and Turner. Butcher's orchestra opened the concert with two well executed instrumental pieces, and Mrs. E. A. Peck played the accompaniments.

Hard pan prices at the Peterborough Music Store for 30 days or more. Pianos, organs, small instruments, musical supplies, song books and sheet music, including "Only a Tangle of Golden Curls" and "I don't want to play in your back yard."

YOUNG MRS. SUMMER.

BY ALMA FRANCES MCCOLLUM.

The following graceful little poem, composed by Miss Alma McCollum, Gilmour street, town, will appear in the current number of the New York Independent:—

Young Mrs. Summer, one day in October,
Decided her home to refurnish anew;
For the reds were too bright, and browns were too sober,
Yellows had withered, greens faded from view.
She sent for the wind, and asked him most sweetly
To sweep off the trees and cut every flower,
To brush clean the grass, and smooth it all neatly
And freshen the gardens by sending a shower.

Young Mrs. Summer is tall, fair and stately;
Her favourite colour had always been green;
Her beautiful home, until very lately,
Was furnished and draped in its shimmering sheen.
The wind with a will worked, eager and steady,
But raised such a dust that the birds flew away;
The butterflies too—and when all was ready,
He went to My Lady and waited for his pay.

Young Mrs. Summer, when payment was over,
Had little to purchase her favourite green;
The birds were all gone, the bees and the clover
And everything round looked so cheerless and clean!
She went to the sky to do all her shopping,
And stopped to a counter where bargains were low;
And there with much care, and thinking, and stopping,
She bought a white dimity—we call it snow.

Young Mrs. Summer, with brisk, busy fingers,
Then covers the bareness with drapings of white.
Next sends for Jack Frost, and not a day lingers,
But starts for the South by the first train that night.
There she will work through the long sunny hours,
And Bachelor Jack will look after her home;
She soon can buy green, and then with her flowers,
Sweet young Mrs. Summer will back again roam.

RUSKIN'S RELIGIOUS FAITH.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Mr. Burnham in his report of my lecture on Ruskin before the Fortnightly Club misapprehended what I had said regarding Mr. Ruskin's religious views. He summarizes my statements as he understood them, and speaks of Ruskin passing out of "agnosticism" into "gnosticism." I, of course, did not use these words. Mr. Ruskin, for the first forty years of his life was an evangelical member of the Church of England, and after that date a broad churchman. For a time he lost his child-like, positive faith in dogmatic Christianity. He remained, however, deeply religious, and in all practical ways was ever a devoted Christian. Still his faith was clouded, and no one lamented it more than he did himself. But even in those days, his "honest doubt" had in it more faith "than half the creeds." He has always been a warm admirer of such men as Spurgeon, Guthrie and Chalmers, and the great religious leaders have recognized him as a fellow worker. He was never an opponent, but always a supporter, of faith. Later in life he recovered his strong hold on the spiritual life and to-day visitors at Brantwood will be called in to "Family Prayers" conducted by their host. I should be very sorry to have the impression go abroad that Ruskin was ever an agnostic. He is our great sacred writer, and, though his books may often offend, they never corrupt morals nor shatter faith. On the contrary, they cannot fail to strengthen both—they cannot fail to be a great inspiration to all that is noble in life.

Yours, etc.,
W. H. MURRAY.

A TEMPLE BUILT BY FAITH.

The First Christian Science Church Dedicated in Boston.

Christian science claims to have shown its power over its students, as they are called, by building a church by voluntary contributions, the first of its kind, a church which was dedicated on Jan. 6th with a quarter of a million dollars expended and free of debt.

The money has flowed in from all parts of the United States and Canada without any special appeal, and it kept coming until the custodian of funds cried "enough" and refused to accept any further checks by mail or otherwise. Men, women and children lent a helping hand, some giving a mite and some substantial sums.

Christian Scientists not only claim to cure by faith, but to also have furnished by faith a great building in a period of time which seemed a human impossibility—a building which cost, land included, about $235,000. This church, which is styled the "Mother Church of Christian Science," was dedicated, as mentioned, on Jan. 6th. The auditorium, which is 56 x 80 feet, will seat about two thousand persons, and there were three services on the dedication day to admit of the attendance of 6,000 persons. Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy is the founder of the Christian Science movement, and is its leader and teacher. The congregation of the church in Boston numbers about 4,000, though any Christian Scientist in any part of the world may become part of the mother church by simply making application, and signing the rules and tenets. The band of fellowship consists in reading the names from the pulpit.

The Christian Science movement is represented in Peterborough by a congregation that meets in rooms in the Cox block, George street, over the G. N. W. Telegraph offices. The services are conducted by Mrs. Isabella Lowe. Public meetings every Thursday night at 8 p.m.

ANNUAL MEETING AT ST. ANDREW'S.

THE CONGREGATION RECEIVE THE YEARLY REPORTS.

The Annual Tea Proved a Great Success, and the Reports Showed That Progress was Being Made in the Different Branches of Church Work.

The congregation of St. Andrews church held its annual meeting last evening. A tea was given by the ladies between the hours of 5.30 and 7.30 and over 300 members of the congregation assembled and partook of the hospitality of the ladies.

At eight o'clock Rev. A. MacWilliams, the pastor, asked that a chairman be selected and the business of the evening taken up. The congregation requested the pastor to preside, after which the minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. Gray, and confirmed.

Rev. A. MacWilliams read the report of Session as follows:

It is with profound gratitude to our Heavenly Father that the Session submits to-night a brief report for the year 1894. We believe that the past year has been in many respects one of the most successful in the history of the congregation. As a Session we note with supreme satisfaction many evidences of increased spiritual life. This is manifest in the greatly increased interest by the congregation generally in all the services of the sanctuary. The Sabbath attendance has greatly increased. But special mention should probably be made of the weekly prayer meeting. Here the growth both in numbers and interest has been very great. This is gratifying, for the prayer meeting is the pulse of any congregation, indicating the condition of its spiritual life. But what is true of the prayer meeting is also true in a very marked degree of all other meetings—there has been spiritual quickening. We, therefore, note with great pleasure the excellent work accomplished by the W.M.F.S., the Ladies' Aid, the Junior and Senior Endeavour and the Sunday School, as will be seen by the reports now to be submitted. We refer with very great pleasure to the Sunday School. Never, we believe, was it so well equipped with library and efficient officers and teachers as now. We also refer with gladness to the choir—to the harmony that has prevailed, and the efficient services so freely rendered during the past year under the able leadership of Mr. Mulligan. But we also note sure signs of spiritual growth in cheerful ministrations to the needy, the poor, the afflicted, the bereaved. Never, probably before were your sympathies more demanded, and never, we judge, were they more freely given. In the perfect harmony, Christian forbearance and affection that pervade the whole congregation we read unmistakeable evidences of true spiritual life. This is what constitutes true success in a congregation. There is one fact, however, which the Session notes with deep regret, and which would seem to indicate a decrease rather than an increase in spiritual life, it is that the direct contributions for the missions are not quite so great as the previous year. This we greatly deplore, but believe that the true explanation will be found in the change of mode of collecting these monies. We, therefore recommend a reconsideration of this subject. The total number of deaths during the year was 12; the number of baptisms were 20. The total number of members received was 86. Six were removed by death, eight by certificate, and ten without certificate, leaving a net increase in membership during the year of 62. This, after purging the roll, leaves the present membership about 370.

The report was accepted.

Miss Edmison made the following statement for the Woman's FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

With a membership of thirty-one we have had an average attendance of twenty-three. An interest and a readiness to assist has been shown which has been very encouraging. Miss Carruthers attended the annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society held in Cobourg last February and Miss Forsythe was our delegate at the semi-annual at Keene.

Mrs. Ball, of Toronto, gave an address at our semi-annual last June, and Mrs. Graham, of Lakefield, was with us for the November meeting.

Our collections at monthly meetings amounted to over $20.10. By a special collection during the month of September we received over $20.00, and from the five members hip fees of Mrs. Lundy and Mrs. Stewart $10.00. The total amount sent to Presbyterial Treasurer was $151.10. We also sent clothing to the Northwest, valued at $16.50.

The report was received.

Mr. W. J. Waite read the report of

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

It was one of the most encouraging reports of the evening. The officers of the school are:—Superintendent, Rev. A. MacWilliams; assistant superintendent, G. W. Mulligan; secretary-treasurer, F. W. Gladmen; librarians, R. J. McWilliams, F. A. Waldon and Miss M. Rae; organists, Miss Edmison and Mrs. Jones; teachers, Mrs. Stewart, Miss Lundy, Mrs. Laing, G. W. Mulligan, Miss Forsyth, Mrs. Fowler, Miss Smith, Rev. A. MacWilliams, Mrs. McKenzie, Mr. Humphries, Miss S. Best, Mr. McKenzie, Mrs. Porter, Miss Edmison, A. J. Hamilton, Miss Tully, Miss Anderson, Miss Rae, Miss E. White, Miss Waddel, Miss Williamson, Mrs. VanEvery and H. White. This makes a total of 32 officers and teachers. There were 148 names on the Bible class roll during the year; 58 removed, leaving 95 members at the close of the year. The Sunday school and infant class rolls showed 220 members on the roll. There were altogether 315 on the roll and the average attendance had been 202. Eighty-two dollars had been raised towards replenishing the library. The total had been $251.08, and the expenditure was $189.62. Thirty-four dollars of the expense had been given to missions. The Bible class had raised $65.72 and expended $35. Mrs. McKenzie's class supported a girl in the Point Aux Trembles school at a cost of $47.00.

RECEIPTS OF THE SCHOOL

The report, on motion, was adopted.

THE LADIES' AID.

Mrs. Paton, for the Ladies' Aid said they had a successful year. The society had aided the Point Aux Trembles School by supplying quilts and towels. During the year an anniversary tea, Presbytery dinner and tea, sale and social had been held. There were 14 meetings during the year. The socials had raised $87.77, and expended $42.77. The number of members was 20 and the average attendance 10.

This report was highly satisfactory and was adopted.

THE ENDEAVOURERS.

The Y. P. S. C. E., through Miss Anderson reported a year of gratifying results. The interest in the meetings had been manifest and much good had resulted. The society had 30 members—40 active and 40 associate. Ten committees were at work. The prayer meeting committee held a short prayer meeting on Sunday mornings. There had been forty of these during the year, the average attendance being four. The society supported a native teacher in the New Hebrides at $30 a year. Nine dollars had been contributed to the church at Pontypool. The visiting committee made 230 calls in three months. The sick committee made 83 calls in three months. The good literature committee had sent papers and books to Lakehurst, Apsley and Haultain and to the Rathbun Co. The society cleared $110 at the Jessie Alexander concert, $100 of which was handed over to the church.

THE JUNIOR ENDEAVOUR.

The Junior Endeavour Society reports as follows:—

We are greatly pleased at this, the beginning of a new year, to look back over the past and be able to give such a favourable report of our Junior Society. God, in His Providence, called us to pass through very deep waters in removing from us two beloved sister superintendents; but he has said "When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee," and we can see He is with us, blessing our feeble efforts, and knowing that He uses weak instruments for the advancement of His work, we thank God and take courage. We have sixty members on the roll, and an average attendance of forty, five of whom have joined the senior and we hope soon to see more come out. We have eight good strong committees, and though they have not all got into good working order, yet we look forword to good work in the future. Our missionary committee made up a number of baskets and took them around to the sick of the congregation and many sad hearts were made glad on Christmas morning. The scrap book committe also took a number of scrap books to the Home, hospital, etc., which were also highly appreciated. Our prayer meeting committee has been faithful in their work and it is encouraging to listen to the papers got up on the topic by the boys and girls. The Lookout Committee has been looking after the absent ones and are very active in bringing in new members to the society. The committees not mentioned have also been busy in their own work. The society has been working a good deal for missions, and we hope to give a more clear report another year if spared. We have about eight dollars in our treasury, half of proceeds of a social got up in aid of missions. We have also a missionary quilt, by which we are also raising money, and as a society we have adopted systematic giving, and each member has promised to give from one to ten cents per month of their own earning, and in this way the missionary spirit is being developed in the boys and girls. Such is the brief report of our work as a society for the Master during the past. It is not everything we could desire, but we know that the kind and loving Father will bless and own the imperfect work of His children, and our prayer is that during the present year we may be able to do more for His glory, knowing that a cup of cold water given in the name of the Lord shall not lose its reward, and at last we shall hear Him say: "Welcome, faithful servants, enter into the joy of our Lord."

The report was received and unanimously adopted.

Mr. MacWilliams said this society was the largest in the country.

Dr. Bell reported for the William Hall Poor Trust. He and Mr. A. Stewart represented St. Andrew's church on the Board. The Trust had now $26,000, which was yielding, $1,400 or $1,500 a year. The money was being distributed amongst the poor of the churches. Dr. Bell asked any that knew of poor people in the congregation deserving of aid to inform the pastor, who would hand their names to the Board.

The retiring managers were Mr. Andrew Macfarlane and Mr. Heubeck. Mr. Macfarlane was re-elected on the Board, and Mr. Hugh Weddell was selected to fill the other vacancy.

At the close of the meeting enthusiastic votes of thanks were passed to the members of the choir, Prof. Mulligan, choirmaster, and Miss Grant, organist, also to all the societies engaged in the church work, to the officers, the teachers and the superintendent of the Sunday school, and to the Board of Management.

The congregation was dismissed by the pronunciation of the benediction after the singing of the Doxology.

THE APPLE TRADE.

The foreign market for green apples by to-day's cable shows a downward tendency, in the face of recent advices that green fruit was in demand at tall prices. There is no demand for evaporated stock, but farmers' dried apples are constantly asked for at good prices. First-class evaporated and farmers' dried are now selling at about the same price, whereas two years ago a pound of evaporated was worth two of the other. There is a large visible supply of evaporated apples and the prospects for an increased price are not promising.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for these four first-class instruments, and clear the parchase before the end of the year.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A JAPANESE THEATRE.

SKETCH OF TME HENRY IRVING OF THE FLOWERY KINGDOM.

Donjuro, Who Has the Biggest Theatre in the Empire, and His Works—What the Place Looks Like—Talks with Actor and Comedian.

Donjuro, the Japanese actor, is as celebrated as Henry Irving is in England. He is the Edwin Booth of Japan, and he owns the biggest theatre of the Japanese empire. It is known as the Kabukiza theatre, and it will seat 3,000 people. It has a stock company, I venture, as large as that of any theatre in the western world, and its nightly receipts often run into the thousands of dollars.

It takes a big house to seat 3,000 people. We have only one or two theatres that large in the United States, and we have none like that of Donjuro's. It has no chairs, and the people sit on the floor in little square pens about four feet wide. There is usually a little box of charcoal in the middle of each pen for the lighting of the pipes, and there is no objection to smoking. There is an immense pit and two galleries, and the walls in the summer are open, and it is more like an open-air concert hall than a theatre. The stage is made in the shape of an immense wheel, which is turned by man power at the change of the scenes, and which moves one set of actors behind the scenes, and brings another before you. The supes come on during the play to fix the clothes of the actors. They are dressed in black and you are not supposed to see them. Right through one side of the house there is a board walk of the height of the stage, about five feet wide, which forms a part of the stage, and some of the actors will step off and come down on this walk above the audience and play their parts there. The acting is different from ours, but it is wonderfully strong in some respects. There are no better fencers in the world, and these people have a wonderful power of facial expression: The Japanese appreciate good acting. They roar with laughter over the comedies, and a strong piece of tragic acting brings shouts of applause, and the people tear off parts of their clothing and throw them onto the stage, expecting to redeem them with presents of money at the end of the play. There are no ticket offices, and you get your tickets at the tea houses near-by. Ladies bring their fine clothes to the tea houses sometimes and put them on there before they go in, and many order lunches sent in to them and eat during the acting. The plays begin in the morning and last until night. The shoes are all left outside in the hall, and on going in you pass by 3,000 or 4,000 wooden clogs which are marked with checks. The Japanese women go bareheaded.

I attended the theatre in company with S. H. Tokioka, who is connected with the household department of the palace, and with him made a call upon the famous Donjuro. It was between the acts that we made our way down under the stage, and on through wheel after wheel until we came into the dressing-room. In some of these there were actors half naked taking their siestas. In others they were making up for the next act, and we had gone through about twenty, I judge, when we came into a little den looking out on a beautiful garden. It was a room about twelve feet square, and was carpeted with mats. The walls were filled with closets, and swords and different costumes were lying about. In the middle of the room, lying on his elbow on the floor, was a long, thin, sallow-faced man, with as refined features as I have ever seen. He had bright eyes, a very high forehead, large ears, almond eyes and a very long face. His dress was the soul of simplicity. It consisted of a blue cotton kimono, which was open almost to the waist, and was about as near nothing as possible. This was the great actor Donjuro. He rose to his knees as we entered and bowed gracefully in Japanese style. We got down on our knees and bowed our heads to the floor, and then sat on the floor and chatted for a time about Japanese art and acting.

Leaving Donjuro I made a call on Shinso San, who is one of Donjuro's favorite pupils, and who is, perhaps, the brightest of the younger Japanese comedians. He received us in his dressing-room. He had to go on the stage within a few moments, and he made up for his part while he chatted. His gown was pulled down to his waist, and he was absolutely naked as to the upper part of his body. He squatted on his knees before a little glass on the floor, painting and patching and turning himself from a modern Japanese gentleman into a bridegroom of the olden time. He had his servants to help him, but he did most of the work himself in the most artistic way, painting his arms and his eyes and his neck, and patching up his head so that he looked like an old Daimio. He finally put on a gorgeous suit of light blue silk and stood before us as the hero of the dual marriage, or, as it might be called, of the play which is known in Japan as "The Knight of the One Pantaloon." As he stood there I happened to remark that I wished that I could have a picture of him. Whereupon he replied: "Why don't you take it? There is my camera." I looked, and I saw one of the finest of modern cameras, with tripod and all conveniences. He directed his servant to put it up for us, and Mr. Weldon took the picture while he posed. As the button was pressed the call for the act came, and he left the room for the stage. We took out the plate holder and went back to our seats. It was not a minute after the picture was taken before we reached them, and the house was in roars of laughter. Shinzo was playing one of his great parts, and 3,000 people were doubling themselves up in ecstacy over his acting.

POWER IN THE RAINFALL.

A Promising Field of Work for the Inventive Genius.

A Philadelphia engineer has figured out that one inch of rain, falling upon an area of one square mile is, equivalent to nearly 17,500,000 gallons, weighing 145,200,000 pounds, or 72,600 tons. Assuming this water to have fallen from the clouds about half a mile, or, say, 3,000 feet, above the earth, we have for the energy presented by it about 23,000 horse-power. With pumping machinery working at the low rate of consumption of two pounds of coal per horse-power per hour, it would take 200 gross tons of coal to raise the water represented by one inch of rain on a square mile to the assumed height of 3000 feet. As a matter of fact, rain often falls from clouds which are at much greater height than 3,000 feet above the ground, so that the figures just given are quite conservative ones.

With all the talk that there has been about utilizing waste energies, it seems just a little peculiar that no promising scheme has yet been evolved to turn to good account the prodigious power waste which thus far has been shown to go on with any rainfall of any account. And yet, while writing, a project comes to mind which was advanced about ten years ago, apparently in good faith, by some enterprising genius in the West Indies, to accomplish exactly this saving. What he proposes to do was to conduct the water from each roof, during heavy tropical rains, into a main pipe supplying a small turbine coupled to a dynamo. The electricity so developed by passing showers was to be stored in accumulators, and these, as they became charged in variable times, depending, of course, on the rainfall, were to be collected and stored at central depots, from which the power was afterward to be distributed. Unfortunately, however, this enticing scheme did not materialize, so that the field is still open for someone else.—From Cassier's Magazine.

New Use of the Camera.

Herr Runge describes an original method of determining latitude and longitude on land by means of a photographic camera. To take latitude the camera is placed in a weighted box, lens upward, and floated in a second box, the position being fixed by an attachment. The lens being thus directed towards the zenith, the stars are allowed to draw their trails over the exposed plate in one direction, and then the apparatus is turned through an angle of 180 degrees, and a fresh exposure is made. We are told that the results obtained by this rough and ready method are in wonderfully close agreement with the published latitudes of the places in which these experiments were conducted.—Philadelphia Record.

Stevenson's Books.

The Westminster Gazette prints the subjoined statement concerning the sale of Stevenson's books in their London editions:

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," issued by Messrs. Logmans, easily tops the list. It is a cheap book, and no fewer than 81,000 have been sold to date. "Treasure Island" comes next, and then, a considerable way behind, "Kidnapped." Set out in the order of their popularity, the works omitting "Jekyll and Hyde," would stand thus

Treasure Island	50,000
Kidnapped	30,000
The Wrecker (Stevenson & Osburne)	27,000
The Master of Ballantrae	24,000
The Black Arrow	21,000
Catriona	20,000
The Ebb Tide (Stevenson & Osburne)	14,000

Cold Feet and Sleepy Hands.

A correspondent writes: Please give me a remedy for cold feet. I wear good footwear by day and I have warm bedclothing at night, but I never have warm feet. Also a cure for hands that go to sleep.

A. Bathe the feet in very cold water just before retiring at night, and rub them with a rough towel until they are dry, red and warm. Take the following prescription for several weeks and you will have no further trouble with the hands and there will be less suffering from cold feet.

THE HELPLESS MAN.

Go round the world, from pole to pole,
And tell me, if you can,
What fate so hard as hers, alas!
Who weds a helpless man.
He cannot find a single thing
That he may want to see.
He cannot button up his gloves;
He cannot lace his shoes.

If there is mud upon his coat,
Or dust upon his hat,
He stands in helpless misery,
And mutters: "Look at that!"
And wife will hurry off to bring
The brush, whose place he knows,
And work with all her energy
To renovate his clothes.

His necktie he can ne'er adjust,
And as for using pins,
You'd think, to see his awkwardness,
His hands were surely fins;
And if upon the floor he drops
A button or a stud,
They're lost to him as if they were
Two fathoms deep in mud.

If there is lack of anything,
And wife is not by,
He'll go without, nor make a move
To add to the supply;
And in a great emergency,
When other backs are piled
With burdens, he will sit around
As helpless as a child.

He cannot do an errand straight,
He cannot drive a nail;
In any task he undertakes
He's pretty sure to fail.
And 'tis a mystery to me—
Explain it ye who can—
That any girl is brave enough
To wed a helpless man.

ODD KINDS OF RENT.

Horseshoes, Nails, a Red Rose and Other Payments in Lieu of Cash.

Suit and service for the desirable properties known as "The Forge," in St. Clement Danes, and "The Moors," in the County of Salop, were duly paid by the City of London to the Crown, the rent consisting of six horseshoes, sixty-one nails and two bundles of faggots, one of which has to be cut with an axe and the other with a bill-hook. Mr. Crawford, the City Solicitor, acted as woodcutter, the Queen's Remembrancer officiated as referee, and the interesting ceremony took place at the Law Courts in the presence of a number of ladies and gentlemen. For 600 years and more the rent has neither been raised nor lowered, but has always consisted of the same number of horseshoes, the same number of nails and the same number of cut faggots.

The Queen's Remembrancer, Master Pollock, explained to the company that though now the idea of rent was something paid in hard cash, originally it was some service or thing rendered; and in former days when lands were granted by great lords and knights to tenants, it was on the promise to furnish horses, men, and so on. In process of time these services came to be exceedingly irksome and troublesome, and were commuted into a money payment. An ancestor of Sir Walter Scott held certain lands by payment of one red rose per annum. The rent paid by the city in the reign of King Henry III. for the properties mentioned had never been commuted.—London Telegraph.

Talmage is a Wonder.

The crowd to hear Dr. Talmage, says the New York World, was greater than on any previous Sunday. The doors of the Academy of Music were thrown open at 3.15 p. m., and there was a mad rush of waiting thousands. The crowd had been collecting for half an hour, and the sidewalk and half the street were blocked. One moment the great theatre was empty, the next every seat was filled.

The meetings of Dr. Talmage are held under the management of the owner of the Christian Herald. He has been the Doctor's manager for many years. There is the Christian Herald, of which Dr. Talmage is editor; there are the Talmage books, tracts and sermons; there is the great sermon syndicate, by which millions in all parts of the earth read the Talmage sermon every week, and, lastly, there is the Academy of Music gospel meeting.

Surely there never was on the face of the earth a minister whose work was so vastly and variously ramified and so tremendous a centre of religious propagation. He is a whole denomination in himself, with a multitude of congregations. It is a joy to all, including Dr. Talmage and the owner of the Herald, to see the wide stream of revenue flow in as the wide and gracious stream of religious eloquence flows out.

Animals' Hours of Sleep.

The sleeping hours of the animals out at the Zoo vary as greatly according to the families to which they belong as do their otter characteristics and habits. Chief Utan, the big onrang outang, goes to bed at sundown, wrapping his head in a blanket and refusing to see visitors after dusk. He is also an early riser. With the lions, tigers and other members of the cat tribe, the night finds them at their liveliest, and they do most of their sleeping between the midday meal and suppertime. The eagles go to sleep just about the time their neighbors in the owl cage are waking up, while the bears, during the winter months, apparently sleep all day and all night, too. The residents of the monkey house object seriously to being disturbed after dark, and if one of the keepers happens to take a light into their quarters, they scold him unmercifully. On the other hand, it would probably take a dynamite bomb to arouse the rhinoceroses, and it is no uncommon sight, the keeper's say, to find the rats biting holes in his thick hide with impunity.—Philadelphia Record.

A TRIO OF HAPPY CITIZENS.

Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidences of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, because the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakeable cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and do what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their means were few and small.
We'll promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid,
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE BUBBLE PARTY.

A Pretty Winter Evening Sport That is Exceedingly Diverting.

The bubble party is the especial fad of the season. Grown people are just finding out the possibilities of soap bubbles. A pipe is not the best thing for blowing them. A tin horn about eight inches long and an inch and an eighth in diameter at the big end will make bubbles much bigger and make them much quicker than any pipe. If you have the horns faintly fluted for an inch upward from the base they will be improved, for the irregularities will hold the fluid in small quantities and the bubble will be earlier to start and better fed. Such horns can be made by the dozen at any tinshop for a few cents.

The strongest possible fluid for producing bubbles is made in this way: Take the fourth of an ounce of white castile soap; cut it up into small pieces and boil three or four minutes in three-fourths of a pint of water; when the soap is melted and the water has cooled add three-fourths of an ounce of glycerine. This makes enough of the mixture for a bubble party. It is better made the day before it is used and kept corked tightly: the bubbles are then such visions of glorious violets, rose, green orange and blue as cannot be seen in any other way on this planet.

These bubbles will last half a minute or more, and one of the prettiest sports in the world is to toss them into the air like balls. All that is necessary for this feat is a rough woolen mitten and a little care. Don't lift the hand to meet the bubble in the air, but, on the contrary, sink it a little as the bubble approaches, so that it will settle on it in the gentlest possible way, then, gently again, toss it up and it will rise time after time like a balloon. A long table covered with an old blanket is a fine thing for showing off bubbles; they can be formed from one end of it to the other, and a prize can be offered for the blower who successfully forms the greatest number of bubbles through the whole journey. With a fan, too, bubbles can be kept in the air and a great variety of games invented with them. A fine chance for showing off a pretty figure this exercise gives.

Bubbles can be blown to rest on the damp edges of cups, and they last longer in this position than in any other. If they are put under a glass case so as to be quite protected from currents of air the color in them will settle into regular rainbow bands, and the effect is most curious as well as bewilderingly beautiful.

A NOVELTY IN CALENDERS.

It is in the Shape of a Flag and is Quite Pretty.

First we must shape out a flag in strong cardboard: then get a piece of white satin, and cut it rather larger than the cardboard. In the left-hand top corner embroider the design, and here we may elaborate the ornamentation a little without reproach. To outline the design with fine tinsel cord would be to enrich the effect, and then we may well add a gold gimp edging to the flag. In arranging the embroidery in the first place, enough satin must be kept plain on the left side to allow of its wrapping round the stick when the decoration is completed, and the flag is ready for mounting. Now spaces must be cut in the cardboard, and corresponding spaces in the satin. The cardboard must be gummed at the edge, and the satin placed on it in exact position. Round the spaces narrow gimp can be sewn, which will make them neat. There can be three or four spaces, according to taste—the year, month, date, and, if liked, the day of the week. If the latter is added, it involves the changing of two of the cards each day; otherwise, only the date of the month needs to be altered daily.

THE FLAG CALENDAR.

The second cardboard can be covered with gold-colored surah; then the two can be sewn together to form the flag, only leaving the necessary portions unsewn to allow of the cards being slipped in and out at the top and bottom. Cut a length from one of the thin wooden rods sold for short blinds, paint the top, enamel it white, lace gold cord round it, finish off with a cluster of loods, and add another cluster at the point of the stick.—London Ladies' Gazette.

TO BUILD A NEW LINE.

This is What it is Said the C. P. R. is Going to Do.

LONDON Jan. 30.—The Pall Mall Gazette learns from what it classes as an authentic source that the heavy fall in the price of securities in Canada Pacific is due to the fact that insiders are persistently selling large blocks of securities and that their action is due to negotiations which are now being carried on in London for the issue of 20,000,000 of stock, the interest to be guaranteed by the Canadian Government, the money to be applied to building a new line paralleling a considerable section of Canadian Pacific railroad. A reporter soon after the publication of the Pall Mall Gazette's story called at the office in this city of the Canadian Pacific railroad and was informed by the officials present there that they placed no belief in the story and that they were of the opinion that the foundation for it was a scheme concerning which they had heard rumors for a month past, the main object of which was to float the bonds of a new company in London. They added that the idea of the Canadian Government creating a fresh subsidy for another road was most unlikely, as there was no demand in Canada for another line, nor was there a likelihood of any such scheme succeeding.

In this connection one of the railroad officials said: "We have heard here that the scheme is to unite a number of the little Canadian railroads, many of them being practically without rolling stock, and call the whole a parallel line to the Canadian Pacific. It is true that some of these roads under their old charters are entitled to a subsidy, but I believe that the whole story of Government aid rests on this fact, and I am of the opinion that the scheme will never be carried out."

WILL NOT MEET WHITEWAY.

The Government Does Not Take Kindly to the Scheme of Federation.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Jan. 30.—It was reported that the Canadian Government had declined to meet a delegation of the Newfoundland Government to discuss the question of Federation. While the report has not been confirmed, it is significant to note that the utterances of the government organs are not so favorable to-day on the question as formerly.

Alderman Bowring, ex-Lord Mayor of Liverpool, has collected $3,500 towards the relief fund. The number of people now receiving relief is about 8,000.

The Times, which supports the Government, contends that an Act should be passed by the Legislature to indemnify the members from which disabilities have recently been removed, for losses incurred in defending the prosecutions against them.

Found Dead on Hamilton Bay.

HAMILTON, Jan. 30.—The body of Thos. Ringer, son of Ephraim Ringer of 18 Barton street east, was found on the bay frozen stiff. Deceased had just completed a term of six months in the Central prison on a charge of larceny and was released on Thursday last. He probably sold his railway ticket and remained in Toronto until Saturday, when he started to beat his way home. He may have been put off or fallen from a freight train on Saturday night and started across the bay on the ice for the city when he was overtaken by the storm and unable to proceed further. His nose was flattened out and the body was so badly discolored that foul play may have occurred and Coroner White concluded to order an inquest. After viewing the remains the jury adjourned until this evening, and in the meantime a post mortem examination will be held. Ringer was a moulder by trade and was 24 years of age.

Set the First Mormon Bible.

PALMYRA, N.Y., Jan. 30.—Major John Gilbert died last evening, aged 98 years. Major Gilbert was known from one end of the United States to the other as the man who set up and corrected the proofs of the first Mormon Bible. Prominent Mormons from Utah have made trips here for the purpose of interviewing Mr. Gilbert and visiting what is known as Mormon Hill, where Joseph Smith alleged he dug up the golden plates from which the Bible was printed. Mr. Gilbert was until recently the possessor of the first Mormon Bible, disposing of it a short time ago to Plinty T. Saxon, of this place.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 30, 1895.

On the street here 150 bushels of barley brought 48 1-2c, and one load of blackeye peas 62c. Outside prices were unchanged, with very little demand for anything.

In Buffalo Canada barley was dull and weak and sellers quote 2c lower with buyer's views much below. Some demand for western cheap grades at prices below holders views.

The weakness of the Chicago grain markets was more pronounced than at any time since the present period of depression set in. Wheat lost 1-2 to 3-4c, corn 1c and oats 1-2 to 3-8c.

At East Buffalo, in sheep and lambs, the total offerings were 58 cars. Closed fairly active at opening prices. Only 3 cars Canada's sheep and lambs on sale. Choice Canada sheep $3.75 to $4.00; prime would sell $4.15 to $4.25. Only one load lambs sold $5.40 to $5.50. Canada's arrived late.

The early session at the New York stock exchange was characterized by a heavy and dropping market. In the first hour of business prices dropped anywhere from half to 1 7-8 per cent. After the close of business information reached the street that the Senate finance committee had decided by a vote that it cannot agree on any financial bill.

UNITED STATES FINANCES.

The Senate Finance Committee Can Come to No Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Senate Finance Committee yesterday reached no conclusion on the financial situation, but when recess was taken the chances seemed to be good for positive action and the reporting of a bill upon which the full committee could agree. Various suggestions were made, but that which met with the most favor was one coming from Mr. Voorhees, which contemplated the issue of treasury certificates, interest bearing, to be issued in such amounts as the Secretary of the Treasury deemed necessary for the conditions of the treasury. Separate votes were taken and it was soon apparent that nothing could be done and an adjournment was taken with nothing accomplished.

A prominent member of the committee said after the meeting that the result showed that the Senate committee could agree on no proposition looking to the relief of the treasury and that all it could now do was to await the action of the House and consider such a bill as it might see fit to pass. The Republicans, it appears, went as far as they could in agreeing to report the first two sections of Mr. Voorhee's bill, although all of them would have liked something more in line with Republican policy. This, however, the Democrats refused to permit. The situation which appeared somewhat cleared during the earlier hours of the day is more beclouded than ever.

Cleveland's Appeal for Three Per Cents.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The continued heavy withdrawals of gold have caused the general belief that a bond issue will have to come very shortly unless Congress takes quick action on the proposition of the President for an issue of three per cent. gold bonds. It was expected that the issue would be made this week but the President decided to make one last appeal to Congress for a three per cent. gold before sacrificing the credit of the Government by the sale of four or five per cent. bonds. If Congress does not accomplish anything this week in the section of the President's suggestions it is understood that $100,000,000 four per cent. bonds will be issued next Monday or before the close of next week. The withdrawal of $100,000,000 from circulation will also cause an active money market and in this way add to the check upon gold shipments.

May Possibly be a Big Strike.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 30.—Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is having a vote polled on the Southern Pacific along the entire system on the question of ordering a general strike if the Southern Pacific Co. will not recede from the schedule presented the first of the year. Such a strike cannot be ordered unless two-thirds of the entire membership consents. The result of a general strike of the engineers depends entirely on the attitude of the men who lost their places in the A. R. U. strike last July.

Shutting Out Blue Point Oysters.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—A special from Sayville, L. I., to the Times says: "Shippers of Blue Point oysters of the Great South bay have received a despatch from England directing that no more oysters be shiped there for the present. It appears that the message is based upon printed statements that oysters from certain points contain typhoid contagion, owing to the alleged sewerage deposit upon the oyster beds. The Great South bay is entirely free from sewerage of any kind."

Mexican Boundary Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Gresham brought together the Mexican and Guatemalan ministers, Senors Romero and Arriaga, at the State Department, for the second practical step in a peaceable settlement of the boundary dispute. While the conclusions reached at this conference are not made public there remains no doubt in official circles that there will be no war and that the bad feeling between the two countries will be quickly dispelled.

Narrowly Escaped Cremation.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Richard Myers, of Cherry street, while lighting a lamp spilled some oil on her clothes and the oil became ignited. She was alone in the house but had sufficient presence of mind to run outside and bury herself in a snow bank, extinguishing the flames. She was found two hours later in great agony and it is expected will die.

Fatal Gasoline Explosion.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 30.—An explosion of gasoline occurred in the cellar of Gaynor's hot, at the corner of Canal and Adams streets. John C. Walsh was burned to death and William Francis was so badly burned he will die. Walsh was "throppler" of the hotel and Francis the night clerk.

A Wyoming Cattle King Murdered.

BUFFALO, Jan. 30.—News has been received here of the murder of Harvey Booth, a Wyoming cattle king, the motive being robbery. Booth was an uncle of the Messrs. T. and G. Spaven, the barley and grain dealers of Hagersville, Ont., who have a branch office in this city.

The Suit Against Pullman.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The hearing of the quo warranto suit of the Attorney-General against the Pullman Palace Car Company for forfeiture of its charter was begun before Judge Baker yesterday. The argument on the Attorney-General's demurrer to the pleas was not concluded.

A Child Burned to Death.

BUFFALO, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Laws, of Jamestown, N. Y., left her four-year-old child alone in the house for a few minutes yesterday. Returning she found the little one's clothes on fire and before she could extinguish the flames the child was fatally burned and died in the afternoon.

Collided in the Storm.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—In the snowstorm two cars of the Tenth avenue horse car line came into collision at the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street terminus. The passengers were bruised and cut and three women were so badly injured they had to be taken home in cabs.

Fought a Duel With Pistols.

HINTON, W. Va., Jan. 30.—M. F. Wykoff and Fred Nihoof, an engineer, fought with pistols, and Nihoof received a fatal wound. Wykoff found Nihoof at his home in the parlor with his wife. Wykoff was arrested and is in jail. He was also shot in the leg.

THE TEMPERANCE & GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Synopsis of the Annual Report Which Was Submitted at its Annual Meeting on 23rd inst.

(Detailed reports can be had on application at head office or to any agent of the Company).

The report shows an income from premiums after deducting payments for reinsurance of $129,199.34, and from interest of $13,475.72, being an excess in total income of $16,020.84 over the previous year's income.

The net death losses were 16 for $22,099, which was a loss rate of 3.8 of the average number of lives at risk, and 4.02 per $1,000 of the average amount of insurance in force.

Briefly stated, the Company's cash income for the year was $142,675.06, while its net death losses, payments for surrendered policies and expenditures for all other purposes amounted to $86,881.92, leaving the handsome sum of $55,793.14 from current cash income for permanent investment.

Referring to its assets, the report says: "We did not have a single dollar's worth of real estate on our hands or a single dollar of interest overdue and unpaid.

"Our assets at the end of the year amounted to $305,568.71, being an increase of $67,144.38 over what they were at the end of the previous year."

The liabilities were $234,826.99, being an increase of $47,467.03 over the previous year. This was an increase of 41.5 per cent. more in assets than in liabilities.

One thousand eight hundred and thirteen applications for $2,100,000 of insurance was received, and 1,634 for $1,883,725 were approved.

At the close of the year the Company had 4,793 policies in force on 4,519 lives for $5,877,958.51, as follows: There were 3,650 policies in the Temperance Section for $4,256,879.51 and 1,143 policies in the general section for $1,621,079.

A division of surplus to the amount of $6,726.44 was recommended to take place amongst the policies entitled thereto, those in the Temperance Section being entitled, according to the experience of the Company, to one-third more on similar policies than those in the General Section.

A dividend of 5 per cent. was declared on the paid-up capital.

The concluding sentences of the report are as follows:

So far this year, not only has the payment of our outstanding and deferred premiums been more prompt and satisfactory than in any previous year, but the amount of new insurance applied for has also been in excess of any previous year's record.

We have pleasure in referring again to the loyalty and efficiency of all the members of our office and field staff. They have our fullest confidence and deserve our highest commendation.

Independent audits have been regularly made by the Company's Auditor, and by the Auditing Committee of the Board, whose certificates are attached to the Financial Statement, and are warrants for its correctness, and for the correctness of our accounts.

By Section 9 of our Act of Incorporation, all the Directors retire, but are eligible for re-election.

GEORGE W. ROSS, President. H. SUTHERLAND, Manager.

CONDITION DECEMBER 31ST, 1894.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors the former officers were unanimously re-elected.

Stock in the Temperance and General is held at 125, with no sellers.

The Peterborough agency put in about $200,000 worth of new business last year—a proof not only of the popularity of the company, but of the energy and industry of the District Agent, Mr. H. P. Lindsay.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

TEMPERANCE WORK.

The Supreme Court having decided that the Provincial Legislature have not the right to pass prohibitory laws for the liquor traffic, nor the right to pass local option laws, the only course open at present to those who favour the lessening of the evils of intemperance is to agitate for the curtailment of the legal selling hours in saloons and hotels. We are glad to see the Christian Endeavour Societies of Toronto are taking action along this line and are circulating petitions to that effect to be presented to the council.

Why cannot the churches, Christian Endeavour and Temperance Societies in our town do the same thing? This is perfectly within the powers of the town council and if the true sentiment of the people on this question was expressed by petition, the council would certainly act favourably on the suggestion, because the feeling of the council in favour of temperance appeared to be unanimous on their first meeting night as reported in the papers.

We all know that the aim of the 1894 council miscarried, and a feeling of sympathy was evoked for the hotelmen who were refused a license. This feeling culminated in the decision to again have 24 licenses in the town.

This early closing movement (say at p.m.) will be quite an advance step on the present hours. The "topers" and "soakers" as a usual thing drink in the day time, not caring who sees them. But the young men, our clerks in stores and offices and our young mechanics are the ones who do the most liquor drinking at night and this is the very class the temperance people are trying to save.

Close up the bars at 9 o'clock and let the officers of the town see that the law is enforced, and many a mother, wife or sister will heartily thank the council and police force for the removal, to a great extent, of the temptation laid before their loved ones.

If any action is going to be taken it will have to be done at once, as the council will have to pass the early closing by-law before the 1st of March. Up, Endeavourers and Temperance Societies, now is the time for action. "Save our young men" is the watchword.

ST. PAUL'S SOCIETY.

This society held their monthly consecration meeting on Monday night, and the attendance was the largest during this winter. The topic, "Accept Christ," was well presented, and a number applied for membership. Miss May Coulter presided. The Social Committee intend holding a social at the end of the month of "Ye olde time stamp."

TOWN AND COUNTY PRESIDENTS.

Is there nothing transpiring in your society worthy of note in this column, or is it the fault of your secretary? Please take a note of this, and let us hear from some representative of your society. If you will not help us, the object of this column is a failure—the space being given to us to publish items of interest from all Societies of Young People in connection with the town or county unions.

THE LOCAL JUNIOR EXECUTIVE

will hold a meeting at the residence of Miss Mann, George street, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The topic for the evening "Benefits derived from the pledge," prepared by Miss Robinson and Miss Bennett, of Cold Springs Society.

Far Reaching in its Benefit.

The last day of January ends our year's business—a successful one in every respect, in spite of the hard times. We are getting closer to the people every year, and we are gratified that the people appreciate our efforts so unmistakably. Growth is proof, continuous growth is proof positive. Our business proceeds on SOLID IDEAS PERSISTENTLY FOLLOWED, and not upon spasmodic excitements.

We have sold more goods, counted more dollars, and entertained bigger crowds than ever before. Our best expectations have been more than realized and we enter upon a new year with our stores standing solidly on our past records, more than ever determined to beat that record, if possible.

Starting Saturday Morning

We commence our annual STOCK-TAKING CLEARANCE SALE. The recollection of last year's and previous season's mammoth sales will be ample to incite enough people to crowd our stores from end to end. Unbounded attractions will prevail in every department, and another triumph will be added to our long list of irresistible bargain sales.

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

ON THEIR HANDS!

We're decidedly opposed to buying damaged goods or ancient Job Lots, just because they are cheap. They cast suspicion on an otherwise first-class stock. Merchants who dabble in such merchandise generally find they have an elephant on their hands.

We have no "elephants" on on our hands. Nor do we allow percentages to our clerks for forcing off out-of-season or unsaleable goods. Our care is for our customer's interest, at every point, and at points not always manifest. We find the choicest goods go first.

We want to emphasize the better values in store for you here. Every price is less than regular goods usually sell for. If careful buying and cash payments and small expenses count for anything. You're sure to get genuine goods here for less than anywhere, especially in the following special lots:—

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 13,000,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots, and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance

Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

AWFUL DISASTER AT SEA

Steamer Elbe Founders in a Collision Off Lowestoft.

ONLY TWENTY-TWO SURVIVORS

Nearly Four Hundred Passengers and Sailors Lost—Several Americans on Board—A Boat Containing About 30 May Have Been Picked Up.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The North German Lloyd Steamship Elbe, bound from Bremen for New York, was sunk in a collision with a small steamer, fifty miles off Lowestoft, yesterday. She carried 400 souls. But twenty-two survivors have been landed, but a few others may still be afloat in one of the ships small boats. At ten o'clock last evening the number of lives lost was given out as 378.

The survivors of the wreck were landed at Lowestoft by the fishing smack Wild Flower. They are Stollberg, third officer; Neussel, first engineer; Wezer, paymaster; Schultheiss, Linkmyer and Sitting, assistant paymasters; Eurest, chief stoker; Viceba, steward; Wenning, Singer and Seibert, sailors; Dreson and Batko, ordinary seamen; Deharde, German pilot; Greenham, English pilot; Hoffman, of Nebraska, Lugen Schlegel, of Cleveland, Ohio; Vevera, Bolthen and Miss Anna Buecker, passengers; Hoffman's wife and boy went down with the ship. All the rescued were in a pitiable condition. The passengers were but half clothed. Their few garments were frozen stiff, their hair was coated with ice and anxiety and effort had exhausted them so completely that they had to be helped ashore. The officers and sailors were fully dressed but their clothes had been drenched and frozen and they had been almost paralyzed with cold and fatigue. They had been ashore three hours before they had recovered sufficiently to tell the story of the wreck. Their accounts agreed upon the following points:

The Elbe left Bremen on Tuesday afternoon. The few hours of the voyage before the disaster were uneventful. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning the wind was blowing very hard and a tremendous sea was running. The morning was unusually dark. Numerous lights were seen in all directions showing that many vessels were near by. The captain ordered therefore that rockets should be sent up at regular intervals to warn the craft to keep out of the Elbe's course. It was near 6 o'clock and the Elbe was some 50 miles off Lowestoft, coast of Suffolk, when the lookout man sighted a steamer of about 1,500 tons approaching. He gave the word and as precaution the number of rockets was doubled and they were sent up at short intervals. The warning was without effect. The steamer came on with unchecked speed and before the Elbe could change her course or reduce her speed notably there was the terrific crash of the collision. The Elbe was hit abaft her engine room. When the smaller steamer wrenched away an enormous hole was left in the Elbe's side. The water poured through and down into the engine room in a cataract. The room filled almost instantly. The engines were still, and the big hulk began to settle.

The passengers were in bed. The bitter cold and rough sea had prevented any early rising, and only the officers and crew on duty were on deck when the ship struck. The shock and crash roused everybody. The steerage was in a panic in a moment and women and children half dressed or in their night clothes came crowding up the companion-ways. They had heard the sound of rushing water as the other steamer backed off and had felt the Elbe lurch and settle. They had grasped the fact that it was then life or death with them and almost to a man had succumbed to their terror. They clung together in groups, facing the cold and storm, and cried aloud for help or prayed on their knees for deliverance. The officers and crew were calm. For a few moments they went among the terror-stricken groups, trying to quiet them and encouraging them to hope that the vessel might be saved.

The officers were convinced that she was about to founder and gave orders to lower the boats. In a short time three boats were got alongside, but the seas were breaking over the steamer with great force and the first boat was swamped before anybody could get into it. The other two boats, lowered at about the same time, were filled quickly with members of the crew and some passengers, but the number was small, as the boats held only 20 persons each.

The boat carrying the 22 persons who were landed at Lowestoft put off in such haste from the sinking steamer that nobody in it noticed what became of the other boat. The survivors believe however, that she got away safely. They say that they tossed about in the heavy seas for several hours before they sighted the Wild Flower. The little smack bore down on them at once and took them aboard. Miss Anna Buecker, the only woman in the party, was prostrated as soon as they left the side of the Elbe. She lay in the bottom of the boat for five hours, with the seas breaking over her and the water shipped half covering her body. Although her physical strength was gone, she showed true pluck, and did not utter a word of complaint and repeatedly urged her companions not to mind her but to look after themselves.

Carl Hoffmann, who came ashore in the Wild Flower, said in an interview: "My home is in Grand Island, Neb. I had my wife and boy of seven with me on the Elbe. I am utterly wretched, for I became separated from them and hardly dare hope that they have been saved. I came abroad to visit relatives in Germany and during the last four months was accompanied by my wife and boy. We left Bremen for home on Tuesday. I was asleep in our stateroom when a noise like a gunshot awoke me. I was not greatly alarmed, although I heard scuffling of feet and hoarse shouts on deck. I hurried into my clothes and went to the upper deck. I saw only too clearly what had happened. I rushed below and helped my wife and boy throw on a few clothes and we went on deck together. Everybody seemed to have lost his head. The scene was distressing beyond anything else I ever saw. Men, women and children were running about madly, the women screaming with terror and every man getting in the way of others. The darkness increased the confusion and fright.

"Suddenly I heard a shrill despairing cry from the women, 'There are no more boats.' I then saw the men at the davits. I noticed that the ropes were frozen so hard or were so tangled or something of the sort that the sailors had to chop them frantically to get the boats clear. The sailors were doing their best, however and worked with might and main. They finally got out the aftquarter boat on the port side. I could see that it was full of people, but the sailors could not lower it. Meanwhile the steamer was settling perceptibly. I took my boy in my arms and got into the second boat. My wife was close behind when somebody shouted, 'All women and children go on the other side of the ship.' I believe the captain gave the order. My wife started to run across the deck and that is the last I saw of her. I clung to my boy but some men seized us and dragged us out of the boat and my place was taken by one of the crew. This boat got clear of the steamer. Another boat was got out. I took my boy into it and supposed that he had remained by my side, but just as the boat was lowered I found that he had disappeared. He had been torn away in the rush and scramble for places. I tried to get back but the boat went down with a jump and the moment we reached the water the sailors pushed off."

Third officer Stollberg says that he cannot explain the collision and that it is unlikely that any adequate account will be obtained as all the deck watch on duty at the time were drowned. The captain was on the bridge when the collision occurred and Officer Stollberg heard him shout in a loud firm voice that the women and children were to be saved first. His order was repeated by the chief officer and must have been heard by everybody aboard. There is some hope that the missing boat has been rescued inasmuch as there were several smacks in the vicinity of the collision. Probably some women and children got into the missing boat.

A despatch from Amsterdam says that the steamer Crathie from Rotterdam for Aberdeen has returned to Maasluis with her stem stove in. Her captain reported that about 5 o'clock yesterday morning she collided with a vessel whose name he could not learn some 30 miles from the Hock of Holland. It is supposed that the Elbe is the steamer in question.

Some of the Victims.

BUFFALO, Jan. 31.—Jacob Frank, one of the victims of the Elbe steamship disaster, was a member of the firm of L. Newman & Co., ticket brokers, at 41 Exchange street. Frank was returning home from Bavaria, where he had been visiting his parents. He was 30 years old and married and quite wealthy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Henry N. Castle, of Honolulu, one of the Elbe's passengers, is said to have been a commissioner sent by the Royalists faction in Hawaii to the German government on a secret mission. He was accompanied by his wife and both are believed to be lost.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 31.—Kert Kleinschmidt who perished on the steamer Elbe had just received his diploma as Professor from the Royal School of Mines of Freiberg, Saxony, having obtained the highest diploma issued by the School in 15 years. The young man had lived in Helena all his life.

CARS RUN IN BROOKLYN.

The Attention of the Strikers is Now Centered on Court Proceedings.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Every trolley line in the city of Brooklyn was in operation yesterday except one. That was the Third avenue line to Fort Hamilton. The strike is over. New mortormen and conductors have replaced the men who went out in a body on January 14. The linemen who went out a week later have broken ranks in several lines, and those whose places have not been filled were taken back. The 6,000 men who went out in a body are still holding out. About one-third of the trolley cars in Brooklyn have broken windows, disabled motors, or are otherwise incapacitated by the scrimmages they have been through during the past sixteen days. The strikers are now directing all their attention to court proceedings.

The Pope and the Anglican Churches.

ROME, Jan. 31.—A week ago a despatch was published in London Chronicle under a Rome date stating that the Pope in deference to the advice of Cardinal Vaughan had decided not to submit to a conference of cardinals his proposed scheme for a union of the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches. Furthermore it was asserted that the Pope had abandoned the idea of issuing an appeal to England on the subject. These statements are positively denied at the Vatican where it is said that Cardinal Vaughan's advice has not in the slightest degree affected the Pope's ideas or purposes in the matter. His Holiness is thoroughly determined to make an appeal to the Anglican church and will summon the Catholic bishops of Nottingham, Salford and Southwark to Rome to consult with them in regard to the plan. These bishops are much more favorable to the issuance of an appeal than is Cardinal Vaughan.

OPENING OF THE HOUSE

The Local Legislature Called for Thursday, February 21.

SENN WILL KEEP HIS SEAT

An Irregularity of the Courts Saves the Haldimand Patron—Sir Oliver and the Dominion Alliance—South Perth Election Protest—Conmee's Majority.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—The Ontario Legislature has been called to meet on Thursday, February 21.

Sir Oliver and the Dominion Alliance.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—A deputation from the Dominion Alliance waited on Sir Oliver Mowat yesterday and asked him to appeal to the Privy Council the decision of the Canadian Supreme Court on the prohibition question. Sir Oliver said he had already taken the necessary steps to have this done.

South Perth Election Protest.

MITCHELL, Jan. 31.—The hearing of the petition against John McNeil, Patron M.P.P., commenced in the town hall yesterday before Justices Barton and Osler. B. B. Osler, Q.C., appeared for petitioner; Malcolm and Aylesworth, Q.C., for the respondent. Several witnesses were examined relative to the part taken in the campaign by the C. P. A. and Patron of Industry movement, but nothing of a damaging nature was elicted. The enquiry will be continued to-day.

Patron Senn Retains His Seat.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—John Senn, of Haldimand, will retain his seat. Previous to the election last June he had held a commission to sell marriage licenses and failed to resign as commissioner. After his election a protest was issued against him and in due time he entered a disclaimer, which, however, has not been regularly acted upon by the courts, and he is now advised by his legal representatives in Haldimand and Toronto that he can hold his seat by effluxation of time in spite of all that may be done to prevent it.

Conmee's Majority in Algoma.

RAT PORTAGE, Jan. 31.—So far as heard from the majority for Conmee, the Liberal candidate, is fixed at over 100. King's friends concede the victory.

RAILWAY SCHEMES TALKED OF.

Competition for the C.P.R. in Ontario and Quebec—The Parallel Line.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The rumors that C. N. Armstrong has nearly completed negotiations for a railway to compete with the Canadian Pacific in Ontario and Quebec, are exciting the Canadian market here. The stock exchange denied that the Canadian Government has given a guarantee of interest, but it is believed the London supporters of the scheme have deposited a sufficient amount with the Canadian Government to purchase an annuity and to provide four per cent. interest for a given number of years. The Bank of British North America is mentioned in connection with the scheme. It is said that twenty million dollars' worth of stock will be shortly offered to the public. Mr. Armstrong is out of town, and the brokers and the bankers are reticent about giving information. It is supposed the scheme includes the Baie des Chaleurs and the Montreal and Sorel lines.

The British Pacific railway scheme is also being pushed here by Gordon Kane, working in conjunction with Mr. Rithet, of Victoria. The British Pacific plans are to parallel the C. P. R. on the north in British Columbia and to utilize a northern pass in the Rockies. Thence eastward to the head of Lake Superior a line would be built and extended from the latter point to the Baie des Chaleurs, making that point the port for European traffic.

Canada's Longest Criminal Trial.

BEAUHARNOIS, Que., Jan. 31.—The celebrated case of Queen v. Boyd and Somerville, in which the defendants are accused of fraudulently obtaining $51,000 from the Eastern Townships bank at Huntingdon came to a close yesterday, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty against both the defendants, with a strong recommendation for mercy. This has been the longest criminal trial in Canada, the preliminary examination lasting 24 days. At the expiration of 18 days on the first trial one of the jurymen took sick and a new jury had to be taken. The present trial has lasted 23 days. In addition to the crown prosecution, two associate counsels were empanelled by the bank.

An Ottawa County Farmer's Death.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—Octave Labelle, one of the oldest and best known farmers of the township of Wright, Ottawa county, was found dead on Saturday evening on the Gatineau road, near Maniwaki. He had left his home on Saturday morning with his team to draw a load of oats to one of the lumber camps about Desert. He was about 25 miles from home at the spot where his lifeless body was found late the same evening. It is supposed Labelle died of heart disease. It was not thought necessary to hold an inquest.

Attempt to Commit Suicide.

HAMILTON, Jan. 31.—Fred Ponsonby, of Park street south, tried to commit suicide last night by taking a dose of two drams of carbolic acid. A couple of doctors succeeded in saving his life and he is much better. Ponsonby is a cutter by trade and has wife and family of small children depending on him for support. He has been out of work for a long time and unable to procure employment he became despondent and wanted to end his earthly career.

Five Horses Burned.

HAMILTON, Jan. 31.—Yesterday a barn in rear of 96 Bay street, owned by Thomas White and rented by Mrs. Sutton, was burned to the ground together with contents. Five horses and several sets of harness were consumed in the flames. Mrs. Sutton had four of the horses insured for $100 each. White has $200 on the building.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

CHATHAM, Jan. 31.—James Duggan, a brother of the King street hardware merchant here, was killed yesterday near Wallaceburg in West Zaild's bush by a tree falling on him. He leaves a widow and two small children.

THE DATE OF THE ELECTIONS.

Some persons who do not pause to reflect, cannot see why so much anxiety is manifested as to learning the date of the general elections. At the best, an election campaign, when it is on, is bad enough for business, and certainly business at present is in no need of any discouraging element. But there is a greater evil when the situation is complicated by doubts. There is a marked delay in calling parliament together, and everybody refers this to the probable immanence of the elections and on behalf of business interests the government should take the business world into its confidence and give some idea of the date of the elections, so that business matters can be arranged with a reference to that event. The Cabinet, wonderful to say, have not yet considered the subject. In connection with Hon. Mr. Foster's position on the subject, the Globe says:—"Mr. Foster's position as Minister of Finance establishes a connection between him and the commerce of the country. He knows that a general election has an unsettling effect on business and that an uncertain prospect of it is almost as disquieting in trade circles, if not altogether so, as a certainty. It is not fair that the country should ask the Cabinet to make up its mind one way or the other? The delay in calling Parliament together has led to a whispered belief that a general election is impending. If such is not the case, the Ministry owes it to the country to remove the doubts on that point. Business has enough burdens to bear just now without unnecessarily adding any. In regard to the same question Mr. Foster was at Galt inclined to be humourous. He said the Liberals were going about the country declaring that the general election was at hand, but that they did not state when they intended to bring it on. The joke is a little worn, but the matter is too serious to the business interests of the country to be the subject of joke, new or old. Mr. Foster should know whether there is to be a session of Parliament at the usual time, and the country is clearly entitled to a frank statement in regard thereto."

WORKINGMEN AND THE GOVERNMENT.

Hon. Mr. Foster at Galt said that the government policy was the policy for the working men of Canada "because it gives him a chance to work in fair competition against the labourers of other countries." It seems that there are a few thousand of labourers in Canada who would be heartily glad of a chance to work at all, not taking into account "fair competition." The workingmen are thankful for decidedly small favours if they think they have any special cause of gratitude to the Dominion Government. Thousands of Canadian workmen cannot get work at home, and if they go to the larger field of the United States, they find the gate that opens inwards padlocked by statute, and the gate that opens into Canada wide ajar. The Canadian workman cannot enter by this, because it is filled with a rush of American workmen of a certain class who are permitted to come into Canada and work in our timber limits, while our placid Dominion Government stands smiling by doing nothing more to protect the Canadian labourer, than to assure him in conventional platitudes that the policy of the government gives him "a chance to work in fair competition with the labourers of other countries." The workingmen themselves can be trusted to know how they fare under the policy of which Hon. Mr. Foster so glibly boasts.

THE Welland Tribune this week comes to its readers with a beautiful new dress, exceedingly neat, tasty and legible. The Tribune is one of the best, brightest, compactest and most enterprising weekly journals in the Province—in every way an ideal newspaper in the literal sense of the word. For thirty-eight years the Tribune has done yeoman service in the cause of Reform, most of that time under its present management. It boasts of a list of 3,400 bona-fide subscribers. And every subscriber represents a good dollar in the proprietor's till for, for years, the system of payment in advance has been strictly adhered to. The paper is worth the money, and the people see no hardship in paying promptly for what they get. The EXAMINER wishes the Tribune and Brer'r Sidey a continuance of its phenomenal success.

It does not seem that Mr. Finance Minister Foster takes a very hopeful view of the prospects of success of an appeal by the government to the people. It is significant that the Minister of Finance has signified to the Conservatives of his county (King's N.B.) that he will not be a candidate, and a convention to choose a successor has been called for February 14. Mr. Foster realised that he would be beaten and has retired. He will run in York County, now represented by Mr. Temple. It will be cheering news to the Liberals that the Finance Minister has surrendered his county to the Opposition before the first gun was fired.

TORONTO'S Young Liberals have wisely decided in favour of Newfoundland becoming a part of the Dominion, provided the French claims on the west shore are first extinguished. Those claims have been a millstone around the neck of the island, and if they still remained after the admission of the ancient colony they might involve the Dominion in serious difficulties.

A provincial convention under the auspices of the Young Liberals, will be held in Toronto on Feb. 8th. It is expected that from 150 to 200 delegates from the different Young Men's Liberal Associations in the province will be present. The young men are beginning, or rather have become, an important factor in the exploitation of political matters and there is no doubt that the coming convention will be a great political success.

THE French scientists are struggling with the problem of the cause of a cat always falling on its feet. Mr. Marter should ask the French savants to explain how it is that Sir Oliver always lights on his feet politically?

WE have noticed no reports of the discovery by the Ministerial combination of the home market, that was to absorb, at big prices, the entire product of the farmers of Canada.

Sentenced to Two Years in Penitentiary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—John Matthews, formerly manager of the Foreign Express firm of Pitt & Scott who was convicted of having conspired with others in this city, Montreal, Havana and other places to defraud the United States government out of customs duties, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Benedict to two years in the King's county penitentiary. The full penalty of the crime is two years imprisonment and a fine of $1,000.

Conspirators Jailed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Herald's special from Buenos Ayres says: Rio Janeiro advices state that late on Saturday night the government learned of a projected rising of ex-President Peixoto's friends, who intended to depose President Moraes. The plot was quickly stifled and several of the conspirators were thrown into jail. The coast fortifications will be begun immediately, especially at Rio and southern ports.

Australian Federation.

HOBARTTOWN, Tasmania, Jan. 30.—The federation conference unanimously adopted the motion of Premier Reid of New South Wales, affirming that federation is the principal and most urgent question in Australian politics. A private and entirely harmonious discussion followed on the best means of accomplishing federation. The conference then adjourned until to-morrow.

A French Deputy Dead.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Deputy de Douveille-Maillefu is dead. Louise Marie Caston, Comte de Douveille-Maillefu, was born in Paris in 1825. He was first elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1876 and represented the second district of Abbeville, Department of Somme. He was an ardent Republican and sat with the extreme Left.

More Ships for the Navy.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the naval programme which has been approved by the cabinet involves the construction within the ensuing financial year of four first-class, four second-class and two third-class cruisers, twenty torpedo boats and twenty torpedo destroyers. The cost of these vessels is to aggregate £6,500,000.

Killed by a Sentry.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—It is reported that a sentry shot and killed a man near the military laboratory at Jungfernheidt, near this city. The man had been loitering in the neighborhood during the night and was endeavoring to get away when he was shot.

The Black Eagle for the Mikado.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Emperor William conferred the collar and black eagle on the Emperor of Japan and the star of the red eagle upon Viscount Aoki, the Japanese minister to Germany.

A Missing Coal Barge.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—No word has been received from the missing coal barge H. A. Fisher, which broke adrift from the tug boat Ice King during the gale on Saturday morning off Long Branch. The Fisher is commanded by Captain Daniel Morrison, who resides in Somerville, Mass., where he has a wife and family. Besides the captain the barge carried a crew of three or four men. Their names cannot be ascertained. The tug Ice King is now cruising in search of the barge.

Drowning at Merritton.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 30.—A young man named Kenneth Bessey, employed in the cotton mills at Merritton, was drowned in the race-way here. He was keeping the race-way clear of ice and fell in. He leaves a wife and child.

A Softened Heart.

Little Dick—Mamma, may I go and play with Robby Upton, and stay there to dinner if they ask me?

Mamma—I thought you didn't like Robby Upton.

Little Dick—I didn't; but as I passed his house just now my heart softened toward him.

Mamma—Did he look lonely?

Little Dick—No'm; he looked happy.

Mamma—What about?

Little Dick—He said his mother was makin' apple dumplin's.—Good News.

A Perplexing Question.

Mrs. Gruff—What might be the matter, Mrs. McDuffer? Sure and ye look mighty puzzled.

Mrs. McDuffer—And I am that, Mrs. Gruff. I want to buy a quarter of a pound of tay and a new buther dish, and by this and by that I don't know whether to buy my tay at the shop where they give away the buther dishes, or to purchase my buther dish at the shop where they give away the tay.—Half-Holiday.

A Great Big Swear.

Dicky Dogood—Did you swear off any great evil this year?

Charley Poorpeigh—Indeed I did. I swore off being in debt.

Dicky Dogood—That was well. How did you do it?

Charley Poorpeigh—Took an oath in supplementary proceedings that I had not a cent in the world.

Burial of Lord Randolph.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The interment of the body of Lord Randolph Churchill took place at Blenheim Park, Wookstock, yesterday. The Queen, the Prince of Wales and the Emperor of Germany sent representatives to the funeral, and there were also delegates from the various conservative associations, and a number of members of the House of Commons.

Newfoundland Affairs.

ST. JOHNS, N.F., Jan. 29.—A new political deal is likely to be consummated today whereby Whiteway is to resume the premiership. A new allocation of offices is being made. Writs have also been issued for bye-elections. Four men were killed at the Port au Prince asbestos mine on the west coast yesterday by a landslide.

LIVE LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A very interesting and instructive lecture on Dickens was delivered in the town hall on Tuesday evening of last week by Rev. H. Symonds, of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham. A number of musical selections were given during the evening. It is to be regretted that a greater number were not present to enjoy Mr. Symond's highly entertaining lecture.

No trains have arrived here since Friday owing to the heavy snow storm, the roads through the country are blocked in all directions.

On Friday evening of last week Mr. Evans, of Toronto, gave a very fine steroptiocon entertainment, in the Presbyterian church, on "The Life of Christ," over one hundred views being presented on the canvas.

Beresford, L.O.L., No. 122, will meet in the Orange Hall on Monday evening next. Clementi Lodge, No. 313, A. F. & A. M., will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday evening. Stanley Lodge, L.T.B., will meet in the Orange Hall on Wednesday evening. Young Canadianda, L.O.L., No. 1365, meet on Wednesday night. Court Lakefield, No. 49, C.O.F., will hold a regular meeting on Thursday evening of next week.

Mrs. Sarah Lord Bailey, Queen of Elocutionists, will give a recital in the town hall here Monday evening, Feb. 11th, under the auspices of the Methodist church. We are sure tht talented lady will have a full house as she is highly recommended by the press. The Toronto News says: "She proved the ablest elocutionist that has visited Canada since the days of Mrs. Scott-Siddons."

Rev. A. C. Reeves preached an able and clearly thought out temperance sermon, taking for his text. "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red," etc.

On Monday evening of last week the new council met for first time. Present, Reeve Casement in chair and Messrs. J. Hull, Dr. Burgess, F. J. Lillicrap and G. B. Hilliard, Auditors appointed: Messrs. C. J. Blomfield and F. R. S. Barlee. Standing committees appointed were: Finance—Councillors Hull and Burgess; Roads and Side walks—Councillors Lillicrap, Hull, Burgess and Hilliard; General Committee—Councilliors—Burgess, Hull, Hilliard and Lillicrap. Finance Committee recommended payment of accounts of W. P. Gray, pump $12.—Adopted. Mr. Doidge was re-appointed to the combined offices of assessor, collector, constable, roadmaster, etc., at a salary of $325 per annum. The Board of Health was are appointed for the year. The council adjourned.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The annual congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church, Lakefield, was held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 16th. Rev. A. C. Reeves in the chair. After devotional exercises reports were read from the different departments of the church. The report of Session showed that the congregation had been for 8 months without a pastor, but were now happily settled. The number of communicants on the roll was 171; number added during year 4, withdrawn 4, baptisms 3.

The Board of Management presented the financial report as follows:

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

BEFORE MATCHES CAME.

The Flint and Steel and Rush Lights and Tallow Dips of Our Ancestors.

To the present generation it may seem next door to the incredible that in the first years of the reign of William IV. there were no lucifer matches. In lieu thereof there were only long matches or splints of wood tipped at each end with melted sulphur, and, before the complicated system of dipping the sulphuretted match in concentrated sulphuric acid came into use, these matches were kindled by first striking a light with flint and steel and then causing the spark to ignite a small quantity of tinder—an inflammable substance, usually composed of partially burned linen.

This simple adjunct to the process of obtaining a light had been in use all over the world from time immemorial. The French tinder was called "amadou," a word the etymology of which has been fiercely contested, some philologers deriving it from the old French adjective "amadou," equivalent to amorous, and conveying the moral idea of the sweetly agreeable sensation of the hand coming in contact with a very soft substance, while others trace it to the Latin "ad manum dulce." The French tinder was often made of the spongy portions of mushrooms and other fungi, and prior to the introduction of lucifer matches the manufacture of amadou was one of considerable importance. The cryptogamic substance was beaten on a block somewhat after the manner of felt until it became homogeneous, and it was then impregnated with a solution of salts of nitre or simply pulverized gunpowder. The Germans still fabricate a delicate kind of amadou which is used in surgery for stanching hemorrhage. As for flint and steel, they have as completely faded out from our domestic economy as they have from firearms, and the tinder-box is so rarely seen that it might well be included in an exhibition of old social curios.

With tinder and tinder-boxes has also vanished the rushlight which, when William Cobbett was a boy, English cottagers used to make for themselves by gathering rushes and dipping them successively in melted tallow until sufficient thickness of adipose matter was obtained. In houses where refinement was supposed to prevail the rushlight was placed in a japanned tin shade perforated with circular orifices, and the insomnolent invalid had the pleasure of contemplating a large number of round spots of light on the ceiling reflected from the rushlight screen. "Dips," another form of tallow candle, much given to spluttering, which smelt abominably, have also died the death; and "mould candles," which strove to emulate wax ones in their form, but hardly succeeded in doing so, have been superceded by cheaper candles, almost as shapely and as light-giving as the old and costly spermaceti. Seventy years ago gas was little used; there were no railroads, no steamboats, and no lucifer matches; yet, as Mr. Walter Besant might put it, the world went very well then.—London Daily Telegraph.

The Berlin Assault Case.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 30.—Action has at last been taken in the brutal assault case of Saturday night. Warrants have been issued and the three firemen, Massel, Seibert and Denges, were brought before Mayor Hibner and J. Mackie, J.P. The evidence given by two onlookers, Mr. Geo. Potter and F. G. Millar, was of such a corroborative character to the charge of assault that the accused were remanded for a week until Bishop, the injured man, is able to appear. Bail was accepted in $600 each.

"Five years ago" says Angs A. Lewis, Richard, N. Y., "I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh and had given up physicians. I began take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles was completely cured.

HON. WM. HARTY NOW CHIEF OF ONTARIO'S PUBLIC WORKS.

Another of the Sons of the Limestone City Elevated to an Important Position—A Successful Business Man for the Province's Greatest Spending Department.

The Limestone City, Kingston, already famous for bringing to the front more distinguished Canadians than any other town in the country, claims the new Commissioner of Public Works for Ontario, the Hon. William Harty, as one of her sons. Although not born there, she caught him while very young and when he was at the most impressionable period of his life. The product of her training and care in citizenship is highly creditable to both. Mr. Harty has made his mark as a successful business man. Now he steps into the forefront of the arena of public affairs in Ontario, as a member of the administration of Sir Oliver Mowat and charged with the responsibility of one of the great spending departments of government, as we have it in this country.

He was born on the 5th of March, 1847, in the township of Biddulph, Middlesex county. His parents were natives of County Tipperary, Ireland, and pioneers in the then "out west" township of Canada where they settled on coming to the new world.

Young Harty received his primary education at the Christian Brothers' School, at Kingston, and completed his studies in the same city at Regiopolis College, when that institution was under the presidency of the late Rev. Father Stafford of Lindsay.

For a while partner in the wholesale grocery firm of James Harty & Co., upon the death in November, 1868, of the senior member, he succeeded to the complete control of the business, carrying it on for the period of ten years, when he retired, selling out to his brother-in-law, Mr. C. Birmingham.

As a means of extending the business of his city into the timber and mineral regions of central and northern Ontario, the Kingston and Pembroke railway from its inception to completion always had an earnest advocate in the future Minister of the province, part of whose duties it will now be to see that the conditions on which legislative assistance, by way of provincial subsidies, for the extension and perfecting of the great and growing railway system of Ontario is granted, are complied with. Mr. Harty was a director and a member of the executive committee of the board from the reorganization of the K. and P. R. Company in January, 1875, until he retired in 1879.

He took a prominent part in the formation of the present proprietary of the Canadian locomotive and engine works, and became the managing director of that important industry, severing his connection with the company in 1888.

For several years since then he was general manager for Canada of the Equitable Life Insurance Company of New York. Recently he retired from that position and became one of the three trustees of the company for Canada, the other trustees being Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Hugh Ryan, of Toronto.

Mr. Harty has also done considerable successful financing in connection with railways.

In 1870, when but 33, he became a member of the Board of Trade of Kingston, and in the years 1873 and 1874 was president of that institution as well as a delegate to the Dominion Board of Trade.

The summer session of the Dominion Board of Trade in 1874 was held in St. John, N.B., to consider the basis of the reciprocity treaty negotiated by the late Hon. George Brown with the United States commission appointed for that purpose.

Mr. Harty has always taken a very active interest in the affairs of the city he has made his home. He was a member of the City Council from 1879 to 1881.

An active member of the Reform Association of Kingston, from 1879 to 1881 he was President of that body and upon his retirement was elected Honorary President, which position he still holds.

When Mr. Metcalfe succeeded the late Sir John Macdonald in the representation of Kingston in 1891, the seat for that city in the Ontario Legislature became vacant.

Mr. Harty was nominated as the Reform candidate and after a most enthusiastic campaign was elected by the largest majority ever given a parliamentary candidate in Kingston.

In the house during the sessions subsequent to his election Mr. Harty has not taken an active part in the discussions, but was always in attendance and very watchful of every proceeding, evidently having determined to make himself thoroughly acquainted with all the business that came before the legislature.

He has taken a much more active part in the real work of lawmaking, the proceedings in the committee rooms, and has there shown a thorough and very practical knowledge of many of the most difficult questions dealt with.

When he has addressed the House, the subjects under discussion not having been of first-rate importance, there was no demand for any special debating effort by Mr. Harty, yet he showed himself master of a ready and vigorous style of speaking, and it was abundantly evident that he could hold his own in parliament.

Mr. Harty's personal popularity, which has almost passed into a proverb in Kingston, is easily explainable after having met and conversed with him. He has that gift of geniality that is worth more than any other quality to a man in public life.

It is safe to say that his rapid rise to the distinction of a portfolio in the cabinet of Ontario's Grand Old Man will not in any way tend to diminish the remarkable popularity he has attained.

His career has been a busy and useful one. The striking success that now crowns it will be a fit subject for congratulation by his many friends he counts amongst his acquaintance in various parts of Canada.

Mr. Harty was married in 1870 to Catherine Mary, the daughter of Mr. James Birmingham, of Ottawa, by whom he had three children. Mrs. Harty died a few years ago.

NOT A VERY HAPPY NEW YEAR.

A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.

Signor Giolitti, the Ex-Premier of Italy, to be Arrested.

The Rome newspapers state that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of ex-Premier Giolitti, who is now a fugitive. A decree closing the session of the Italian Parliament has been published.

The issue of a warrant for the arrest of Signor Giolitti, ex-Premier of Italy, is an emphatic reminder that the Italian scandals are far from finished. It is clear, however, that they are now about to take another direction. Their latest development has arisen out of the action of Signor Giolitti in submitting to the Chamber of Deputies certain papers relating to the Banca Romana scandals.

These papers, it was understood, had come into Signor Giolitti's possession when he was Prime Minister. The documents were referred to a committee for examination, and were found to contain papers implicating Signor Crispi in a number of disgraceful financial transactions. The object aimed at was the overthrow of Signor Crispi, and it seems to be generally agreed that the peculiar manner in which the papers were classified and selected gave evidence of a strong desire to blacken the Premier's character.

The scheme was the same as that employed in 1891 against Crispi, and later against Giolitti, to create a scandal and a stormy sitting, with overwhelming accusations against the Ministry, and so to get a surprise vote, under which it was hoped that the Ministry would resign, and then, with a new Cabinet, dependent more or less on the radical vote, the whole affair would be put out of sight and remembrance, burying Crispi at least. Signor Giolitti the year before lost his nerve and resigned before the vote, but this time Crispi was in the mood to fight, and he did not shrink from the measures required to control the excitement.

Parliament was suddenly prorogued after Crispi had denounced the papers as a "mass of lies and slanders," and information was lodged with the Public Prosecutor charging Deputies Giolitti and Massino and Signor Martuscelli, the official who inspected the books of the Banca Romana, with forgery.

Signor Giolitti left Italy hurriedly as soon as the storm burst.

They do not Despair.

An utter loss of hope is not characteristic of Consumptives, though no other form of disease is so fatal, unless its progress is arrested by use of Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil made as palatable as cream.

After La Grippe.

After La Grippe obstinate coughs, lung trouble, etc., frequently follow. ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The private parts are a severe irritation, which, when scratching only seems to make it unbearable. Once the sufferer scratches the parts it is impossible to stop. Often the private organs become so terribly inflamed that ulceration sets in, causing a most malignant form of Piles. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve at once, and by its soothing, healing properties, effect a permanent cure. Thousands are daily using it and recommending it to their friends. There is not a case of Itching Piles or Irritation in any part of the body can be immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop bleeding, heal the parts and absorb the tumors.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Bleeding Piles, but the itching and symptoms are generally the same. Dr. Chase's Ointment relieves the moment applied. Any child can use it. Nothing will so quickly afford relief from this torment.

Young Women's Association.

Class in physical culture will meet this evening in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock. Teacher, Sergt.-Major Randle. Let there be a full attendance. Miss Hughes, convenor of the Reception Committee, desires to meet every member of the committee for a few minutes in the rooms on Saturday evening at the close of the service. We hope all the convenors will take notice and do likewise.

A Strong Combination.

As will be seen by advertisement in another column, Mr. Fred Cook, artistic sign writer, Mr. Joseph Mitchell, art paper hanger, and Mr. Edward Cook, have formed a partnership under the title of the "Artistic Triplets," Cook, Mitchell and Cook. Each being a specialist in his line the firm combines all the requirements that customers can demand. The new firm should receive a liberal share of public patronage.

Do You Paint?

We have made special arrangements with the largest artists' material house in Canada for the exclusive sale of their superior artists' material in Peterborough. They have exchanged the stock on hand for a brand-new supply of their newest colours. A Clever Invention.

The EXAMINER has been shown a very ingenious little device for carrying street car tickets, the invention of Mr. Ed. Kemp, (with Mr. Adam Hall.) It is called "Kemp's Reversible Street Car Ticket Holder," (patent applied for in Canada and the United States). It consists of a small oblong box, a little larger than a ticket, with a space on either side to hold about a dozen tickets. A ticket is withdrawn, and a spring forces up the remaining tickets so as to be accessible. Made of aluminum or nickel silver, it forms not only an elegant pocket piece, and a very useful article, but with the demand for such a convenience. Mr. Kemp should make good money out of his handy little invention.

The Queen of Elocution.

Sara Lord Bailey, elocutionist of Boston, will give one of her famous recitals in the Opera House, Feb. 14. Miss Sara Lord Bailey is known as the "Queen of Elocution," whose name as an elocutionist is famous throughout the United States, and stands second to none in America. Her entertainments are fine representations of the different authors. Few elocutionists, if any, can combine in their repertoire the very heavy pieces with the humorous; with Mrs. Bailey it is different. During her hours she has given Lew Wallace's immortal description of the Chariot Race" over 500 times, and the ablest critics pronounce it the finest rendition of that famous piece they have ever heard, while with humorous dictes, and odd selections she is equally at home. —Special meeting of the Board of Education to-night.

—Peterborough Lodge I. O. O. F. meets this evening.

—The Ontario Legislature has been called to meet Feb. 21st.

—Mr. Zach White, proprietor of the White mills, Harwood, is in town to-day.

—The Committee on Finance and Appointments both meet at eight o'clock to-night.

—The walls and ceilings of the post office are being kalsomined in pretty shades.

—The Board of Health will hold its inaugural meeting on Monday afternoon at five o'clock.

—Charles R. Devlin, M.P., of Aylmer will be present and speak at the E. B. A. concert on the 18th March.

—The annual meeting of the Hall Trust will be held in the town clerk's office on Monday evening next.

—Engineer Andy Young of the steamer Daisy, and now of Buckhorn, is in town visiting his old ship mates.

—Mr. Robert Jackson, the popular manager of Jubilee Point summer resort was in town yesterday on business.

—Yesterday was livestock day at the market, but the roads were in too bad a condition to admit of any being brought in.

—Two 'bus loads of young people drove out to Chemong last evening and on their return reported having a most pleasant time.

—Mr. Wm. Payne, foreman of the barreling department of Calcutt's brewery, will be able to resume his duties in a day or two.

—The EXAMINER'S Keene correspondence that should have arrived yesterday was missent to Lakefield and did not arrive till after the issue of the Weekly.

—The reckless manner in which children hang on sleighs on George street is a source of much annoyance to drivers. Several of the youngsters narrowly escaped being run down during the week. This dangerous practice should be stopped.

—An Ashburnham citizen would call the attention of the health authorities of the village to a breach of the Health Act existing on Lake street. Chief of Police Craig will doubtless take necessary action once his attention is drawn to the circumstances.

—Henry Calcutt, brewer, shipped to Lindsay on Wednesday one hundred and twenty-five dozen of his famous English hop ale. He also has a large consignment ready for wholesale and retail dealers in Toronto, which will be shipped to-morrow. This well for a home industry.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING WITH THE BISHOP AND HIS CLERGY.

The Church Officials and Members of the Choir Tendered the Annual Dinner.

The annual supper was tendered the members of the choir, the ushers and the collectors of the Cathedral last evening at the Presbytery. At the conclusion of the most appetizing repast which was served an adjournment was made to the Palace, where a few hours were spent in social enjoyment.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Venerable Archdeacon Casey and Rev. Father Scollard were all in attendance during the evening, and the pleasure of the occasion was greatly enhanced by the presence of Rev. Father Jeffcott, the popular parish priest of Oshawa.

An impromptu programme of vocal and instrumental music was rendered, after which Mr. Thos. Cahill, in a few well chosen words, thanked His Lordship and the clergy for the pleasant evening enjoyed by all. His Lordship made a brief reply in which he voiced the sincere happiness which was afforded him by the presence of his friends and by their partaking of his hospitality. Father Jeffcott added a few words expressive of the pleasure it gave him to be present on the occasion.

The evening was perhaps the most enjopable of the many spent by the choir and church officials as the guests of His Lordship and the Cathedral clergy.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Father Murray, Cobourg, was in town last evening.

Rev. Father Jeffcott, of Oshawa, is in town for a few days.

Miss Minnie Jones is suffering from a severe attack of quinsy.

Miss Jennie McIlwaine, of Lakefield, is in town visiting friends.

Mrs. G. S. Casey, of Napanee, is the guest of Mrs. M. T. Ostrom, Weller street.

Mrs. Wm. Scott and her daughter, Miss Lizzie, Ashburnham, have returned home after an extended visit to friends and relatives at Galt.

Miss Mabel Metheral has quite recovered from the recent severe strain which was sustained to her wrist by reason of a fall on the ice recently.

Mrs. Chas. Lyle, Mrs. Sharpe and Mr. Morley Lyle left this morning for Bowmanville to attend the funeral of the grandfather of the latter.

Mr. James McDonald, of Ashburnham, returned last evening from Ottawa, after taking in the winter carnival, and attending to personal business affairs.

The Misses Lambard have joined their father, Capt. Saml. Lambard, and will stay the balance of the winter season at Commodore Calcutt's summer resort, Jubilee, Rice Lake.

Mr. H. R. H. Keaner, who had the misfortune to break his arm at the Millbrook carnival, has sufficiently recovered as to be able to resume his classes at the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. John L. Wells, of Winnipeg, is in town visiting friends for a few days. Mr. Well has many friends in his old home who are always glad to see him and to know that he is prospering in the West.

Mrs. E. Corbin left to-day for her home in London, after spending several weeks here at the bedside of Mr. W. S. Corbin, wso has now sufficiently recovered from his illness as to make her presence no longer necessary.

Mr. J. J. Gates left last evening for Vankleek Hill on a visit to friends at that place. Mr. Gates, who is a prominent member of the Good Templar Order in town, will be greatly missed by the friends of temperance reform.

Mr. Fred J. Perrin, of Toronto, humorous vocalist, who has become so popular in Peterborough, was in town yesterday. He appeared with much success at St. Luke's Tuesday night, and went to Selwyn last night to fill an engagement.

The Watertown, N.Y., Herald contains a long account of a brilliant social function which was held in Watertown last week by the 39th Separate Company. Amongst a long list of guests is noticed that of Mr. Richard Gough, of Peterborough. Governor Flower, and all the most important state officials were in attendance at the assembly.

DRIVEN TO EXTREMES.

Broke Into a Store to get Near a Fire for the Night.

On Sunday morning, Mr. A. T. Green, of Campbellford, noticed a pane of glass broken in the rear door of his harness shop, and upon going inside he found that a man had taken up his quarters there during the night. The fellow had gained an entrance by breaking the glass, and putting some wood in the stove, he made a fire, and then rolling himself up in a fine robe, went to sleep.

Mr. Green asked him why he had done so, and he said because he did not want to freeze outside. The poor fellow, whose name is Isaac Covert, has been cared for by his brother in Belmont township, but a few days previously he slipped away to seek the hospitality of strangers. Mr. Green showed him kindness by telling him to go to Mrs. Chester's restaurant for a meal, and afterwards had him put aboard the Havelock stage and taken back to Havelock.

Before going to Mr. Green's premises, Covert sought shelter in a stable on Centre street, but was driven out of it by the owner. He also broke a pane of glass in a window of the basement of the Presbyterian church, and crawled through, but did no other damage.

ANOTHER JANUARY WEDDING.

Celebration of the McWilliams-Bates Nuptials Yesterday.

Last evening a very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mrs. Bates, 656 Stewart street, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Jessie Bates to Mr. Charles H. McWilliams.

The important ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. MacWilliams, of St. Andrew's church, in the presence of a large number of friends, both of bride and groom. Mr. Stanley Bates, brother of the bride, and Miss Amy McWilliams, sister of the groom, supported the happy couple, while the youngest sister of the groom was maid of honour.

The presents were quite numerous and useful. After the ceremony, an excellent dinner was greatly enjoyed by all present. Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams propose making Peterborough their home. Their many friends will unite in wishing them all the happiness of a long wedded life.

WESTWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Foresters' concert in Westwood town hall on Tuesday night, Jan. 22nd, was a success in every respect. The audience was large and appreciative and the best of order prevailed throughout. H. W. Rich, of Toronto, humourous vocalist, sang many songs fairly well. Miss Annie Radden, of Norwood, presided at the piano in her usual able and excellent manner. Miss Radden is an excellent musician and a great favourite with the people in and about Westwood. Mr. H. Simpson, ventriloquist, Toronto, was the star of the evening and received prolonged applause. Mr. Simpson is an excellent feature at any entertainment. Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, gave an excellent address on Forestry. The receipts at the door were $52.20 and although the weather was unfavourable, the hall was was packed. Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., presided in his usual able and happy manner.

When all other corn preparations fail, try Holloway's Corn Cure. No pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it.

Men's Lined Gloves,
Men's Mufflers,

In fact our entire stock of Men's Furnishings must be reduced. We cannot afford to wait for profit.

This department must be kept busy at all times in season and out. Low prices will do it. The entire stock has been overhauled since January 1st and the low prices made still lower.

A more practical idea of the low cost can be gained in a few minutes spent in examining than by reading a whole page of price lists.

The second game of curling scheduled for Lindsay in group 2, Ontario Tankard series, took place at a late hour last night, between Waubaushene and Lindsay. The latter rinks were victorious. Subjoined is the score :

Lindsay.		Waubaushene.

Majority for Lindsay, 17 shots.

On Saturday a rink composed of four of the masters in the Collegiate Institute will journey over to Lindsay and curl against a rink picked from the Collegiate Institute staff of that town. The local rink will be composed as follows :

E O'Brien,
W J Drope,
J Jeffries,
C Fessenden, skip

It is reported that the Belleville Colts were beaten badly by the Campbellford Colts at that place last night, and that the score stood some twenty odd shots in Campbellford's favour. The Belleville rinks did not arrive in town this morning as was expected, but returned home. They will not play in Peterborough until next week.

A couple of days ago Mr. G. J. Horkins, who is a great "Colt" man, while expounding on the prowess of the younger curlers, was advised by Mr. G. W. Hatton never to run any of his Colts up against any of the veterans of the rink unless he was looking for trouble. The insinuation was obvious, and as George sees things about as quick as the next man, it was but a very few minutes before Skip Hatton was invited to pick a team from his veterans and try conclusions with a Colt rink. The challenge was closed with at once and yesterday afternoon there was electricity in the air when the two rinks come together. The result is appended :

Note.—[Skip Hatton buys the oysters.]

As the Tankard match was postponed yesterday, the Millbrook curlers came up to town last night to play a friendly game. A couple of scratch rinks were picked up to accommodate them, with the result that Millbrook met with the most disastrous defeat that the local men have ever meted out to a visiting rink.

It was Millbrook's day off to a certainty, and though the local men displaced their own guards, raised the visitors stones into the rink and left splendid openings, the Millbrook men were unable to take advantage of the situation. Skip Counal's rink during the game actually made a seven end as well as a six and two fours. The rinks were composed as follows :

This afternoon the Granites sent three rinks out to Lakefield to play the village a friendly game. The local rinks will be skipped by Messrs. D. W. Dumble, E. B. Edwards and G. W. Hatton. The Lakefield curlers are exceptionally strong this year and some good games are anticipated.

HOCKEY.

The Collegiate Institute hockey team had just about completed arrangements to bring the Harbord street Collegiate team from Toronto for a match on Saturday evening, when it was announced the Toronto team of the Bank of Toronto would play the Peterboroughs here on that evening. The inter-Collegiate game is cancelled in consequence, but it is hoped that arrangements will be made to bring the Harbord street Collegiate boys down at some future date.

This evening the third game in the town league series will be played at the rink between seven and eight o'clock, when the Collegiate I play Volts II. On Saturday afternoon the I and II teams of the Volts come together.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Pastors, directors and workers meet for supper and conference this evening.

To-morrow evening will be "Printers' Night." The fellows will enjoy themselves.

The convention at Belleville was grand. Many hours' full of practical, helpful hints were given to the delegates. Peterborough Association had five delegates — Messrs. J. W. Bennet, F. Mason, T. H. Martin, Alf. Miller, and R. O. Crowe. Addresses by Hon. S. H. Blake, on "Why I am Interested in the Y. M. C. A. Work, Locally, Provincially and Internationally," Geo. B. Hedge, of the International Committee on "Educational Work," and Fred S. Goodman, on "College and Spiritual Work," were exceedingly interesting. In the reports of the associations, the reaching and saving of many young men were prominent features. The pastors of Belleville gave warm testimonies to the value of the work. They all believed that this branch of the work of the church was stamped with God's approving smile, and urged the people to support it by their time, prayers and wealth.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action ; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs, will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Own a Good Piano

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is but for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with [illegible] at Walter street, the only [illegible] before the end of the year.

Best dressed girl, napkin ring — Miss Eddie Burnett, Shepherdess.

Judges—Mr. J. Hartney, Perth ; Mr. D. Ford, Montreal ; Messrs. W. B. Burnett, J. Campney, Havelock. A. McAuley, chairman.

Owing to the grand success of the above carnival, it is the intention of the Park and Pleasure Ground Committee to hold another one in the very near future. Watch for the posters.

DESPERATE RESISTANCE OFFERED THE CHIEF.

A Wiry Young Fellow Objects to Being Arrested and Makes a Bold Fight.

An arrest was made by the Chief this morning of a certain wiry little citizen who gave the big Chief no little trouble before he submitted to be taken to the police station. In fact, if assistance had not been invoked, it is doubtful if the Chief could have placed his man in the cells.

The arrest was the outcome of a complaint laid by Mr. John Steele, who keeps a barber shop next the Carew House, on Hunter street, to the effect that a couple of young fellows had been fooling around his barber shop and shortly after their departure a pair of clippers were missed. He suspected the pair, and as the two had been in the Carew House where a bottle of whiskey had mysteriously taken unto itself wings during the time when they were on the premises, it was thought advisable to run the two down.

EARLY THIS MORNING

The supposed culprits were tracked to a hotel, where they were found having a quiet drink. One bolted, and the other for his liberty, almost tearing the Chief's overcoat from his back. Assistance was invoked in the name of the Queen, and a bystander entered into the fray. The prisoner was finally secured, but the bystander and the Chief both looked a trifle the worse of wear when the scuffle was over.

Police Constable Stewart soon afterwards took the prisoner in charge, but at intervals on the trip to the police station, he furnished amusement for a big crowd that followed, by his reluctance to walk peacefully to the cells.

On being searched at headquarters, a pair of clippers and a whiskey bottle, corresponding to the ones lost, were found upon the prisoner's person, who, as he was being searched, taunted the Chief unceasingly for having to call assistance before the arrest could be consummated.

It is thought that there is already a suspended sentence hanging over the prisoner's head, as well as there being a warrant in existence, which was recently sworn out, for his arrest on a charge of assault.

THE ORANGE SOCIAL.

The following interesting programme was rendered at an Orange Social, which was held under the auspices of the Epworth League in the George street Methodist church on Tuesday night :

CONDOR OF THE ANDES.

IT IS THE LARGEST OF KNOWN FLYING BIRDS.

The Subject of Many Interesting Stories is the Great Bird of the Andes—It Can Eat Eighteen Pounds of Meat in a Day—London Specimen.

The condor of the Andes is the largest of known flying birds and is the subject of many interesting stories.

The London Zoological Gardens have recently acquired two new condors, which are probably the rarest and most valuable birds possessed by that great institution. An illustration of one of these two birds, taken from the London Sketch, is printed here.

An artist who went to inspect the new condors found them sitting disconsolately on the stump of a tree, and was somewhat disappointed at their appearance. Having read that these birds occasionally measured eighteen feet from wing to wing, he was surprised to find them considerably smaller than himself.

The condor belongs to the vulture family. Although its size has been frequently exaggerated by travelers, it undoubtedly attains a great size. The ordinary expanse of the wings in a full-grown bird is said to be about nine feet, and the height four feet, but the wing measurement is sometimes as great as fourteen feet.

The wings are long in proportion to the body and extremely powerful. The tail is short and wedge-shaped. The general color is black and is brightest in the males. Around the lower part of the neck there is a broad white ruffle of downy feathers. Above this the head is bare and of a raw appearance. The male has a large cartilaginous comb on his head and a dilatable wattle on his neck. The beak is very thick and strong and the upper mandible is sharply curved at the end. The condor could probably kill an unarmed man if inclined to do so.

The condor feeds by preference on carrion. It is quite unpleasant to look upon and a disagreeable neighbor, on account of its appearance, its personal uncleanliness and its habits in general.

It is an enormous feeder. The naturalist Tschudi mentions the case of one which ate eighteen pounds in one day and the next day appeared to have as big an appetite as if it had not eaten for weeks. Condors often eat so heavily that they cannot fly, and then if attacked they disgourge their food in order to be able to get away.

Their usual dwelling place is at a height of 10,000 or 15,000 feet above the sea, in the Andes Mountains. They make no nests, laying their eggs on the bare rocks.

They usually live in little companies. Together they descend to the plains for food and then return to their mountain strongholds.

The condor is said to soar to a height of six miles above the level of the sea, or six times the ordinary height of the clouds. This is a higher flight than that of any other bird.

He Got Mixed.

"Unc' Toby," a man for whom Bartlett's creek has more attractions than the hot and grassy cotton field, not long ago took a "day off" in pursuit of his favorite amusement. He baited his hook, and long and patiently sat upon the bank of the stream, vainly waiting for a bite. At last, under the combined influence of the warmth of the day and the sluggish movement of the stream, Unc' Toby fell asleep. Eternal vigilance is the price of trout, and while our weary angler slept an enormous fish took the bait and pulled him in the creek. Of course this awakened the old man, and he was overheard to inquire, as he floundered about in the water: "For de Lord's sake, Toby, am dis niggah a-fishin', or am dis fish a-niggerin'?"—Youth's Companion.

Her Weak Points.

A Hiawatha woman has twenty hens which she claims have laid 2,400 eggs since last January. We don't believe it. We don't believe what any woman says about her cows and chickens.

In Baby-Time.

Benedick (8 a.m.)—My dear, can't you do something to quiet that child?

Mrs. Benedick (wearily waking)—Well, I might hand him over to you!

Also on the Lie.

Teacher—Tommy, would you say that a man lies easy, or lies easily?

Tommy—It depends on the man.

A GREAT MANY CHILDREN —have been cured of scrofula and other skin diseases—as well as thousands of grown people, by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood, yields to its purifying qualities. Besides, it builds up wholesome flesh and strength; not merely fat like Cod liver oils. A scrofulous condition of the blood invites Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. We're all exposed to the germs of consumption, grip, or malaria—yet only the weak ones suffer. When you're weak, tired out, and debilitated, or when pimples and blotches appear—heed the warning in time. The "Discovery" sets all the organs into healthy action—especially the liver, for that's the point of entrance for these germs, then if the blood is pure, they'll be thrown off. There's no risk. If it fails to benefit or cure in all cases of impure blood or inactive liver, your money is returned.

The key to the situation —if you suffer from Catarrh, you'll find in Dr. Sage's Remedy. No matter how bad your case may be, the proprietors of the medicine promise to pay $500 if they can't cure you. You're cured, or you're paid.

PRINCE GALITZINE.

HIS BRILLIANT SCHEME WHEREBY TO SWINDLE HIS FRIENDS.

New York Society Swells Fooled by a Young Russian Nobleman—How the Prince Arranged to Get Up a Fraudulent Sale of Royal Treasures.

Not many Canadians will sympathize with the tuft-hunting Americans who have been taken in by a real, live Russian prince. The story of his adventure, however, is interesting.

Prince Alexander Galtzine, a young Russian of pleasing manners, at present associating with members of the Four Hundred in New York, is not a humbug nobleman, but he is a noble humbug. His title is genuine, and there is no question that he is one of the great and distinguished Galtsine family so intimately connected with the history of Russia.

But the Prince is "on his uppers," after an exciting career at Monte Carlo, Paris and elsewhere on the Continent, where he ran through a fortune, and he has now concluded to swindle the Four Hundred of New York's swell society. Finding himself received with open arms on all sides, the Prince has decided to make some money out of his princely name. He is fully aware of the commercial value of the name of prince.

The Prince believes that he can enhance the value of any article with which his name is associated, and that a 40-cent china jug can be made to sell for $40 by labelling it "From the Prince Galitsine Collection." In this curious view of commercial values the Prince is undoubtedly right. But what will his friends in the Four Hundred have to say now that the Prince stands exposed as an adventurer and a swindler?

It is only a few weeks since the first of the alleged "Galitsine works of art" were thrown upon the New York market, when there was a scramble among society people here for their possession.

The catalogue announced that it was a "sale of personal property, including antique and modern furniture, tapestries, rugs, draperies, embroideries, Russian and sterling silver, bric-a-brac, oil paintings, miniatures, porcelains, arms, sculpture, diamond jewelry, etc., belonging to the late Princess Galitzine, of St. Petersburg, Russia." "The late Princess Galitzine" was presumed to be the mother of Prince Alexander, who had recently died. The Prince appeared at the sale as a guarantee of good faith, and was much admired and courted by the society women present. He is a medium-sized, rather handsome young man, very modest in his dress, and withal of distinguished and charming manners and with an excellent command of the English language.

Society condoled with the Prince at such a sacrifice, but he said he was glad to know that the precious heirlooms were to become the property of friends. Several friends of the Prince bought in articles which they did not want, to spare his noble feelings from the pain of seeing them go to hard-hearted strangers. This also pleased the Prince. But towards the end of that first day's sale an incident occurred which cast a gloom over the proceedings. A rude man (not of the "Four Hundred") came in and served a paper on the Prince. He was a bailiff!

The Prince gazed sadly at the paper and saw that suit had been begun against him in the Supreme Court here for $35,000 by Henry de Gesne, a jeweler of Paris, who cruelly alleges that the Prince secured jewelry, etc., from him in July, 1892, and has failed to pay for it. The Prince threw the hateful paper to the floor of the auction room and stamped upon it. Then the plaintiff's attorney announced that he had grave doubts as to the Prince's ownership of the "royal heirlooms" which were being sold at auction, and that but for this fact he would have levied on them. These doubts of Lawyer Eckerson as to the authenticity of the alleged heirlooms of the noble Russian house were, unfortunately for the Prince, published in the papers of the following day, containing notices of the suit, and the bottom fell out of the "sale," so far as society was concerned.

Here is the copy of the contract which he signed with the man who put up the bogus ancestral treasures:

New York, Dec. 28, 1894.

In consideration of the sum of one hundred dollars ($100) to be paid to me before the sale hereinafter specified and the 3 1-2 per cent., also mentioned, I, Prince Alexandre Galatzine, agree to represent myself as the owner of certain paintings, bric a-brac, bronzes, rugs, tapestries, jewelery, etc., to be put up and sold at public auction in or near New York City; I also agree that my name shall be publicly used as that of the owner, with the statement, that said paintings, jewelry, etc., are historic heirlooms of my family imported by me to America and to personally guarantee the authentic history of each piece, traced through several generations to some romantic episode or royal giver, and never thereafter to deny any of such statements. It is also agreed that in consideration of such guarantee and use of my name I am to receive three and a half per cent. (3 1-2) of the gross profit resulting from such sale, free and clear. I also agree to in every way use my name and social position in New York towards making said sale a success and to do what I can to induce my wealthy friends in this city to purchase such articles as may be offered at auction.

It is also agreed by me that three hundred dollars ($300), which are to be advanced to me in addition to the $100 before mentioned, shall be deducted from the net profit coming to me as a result of such sale, $200 of this sum to be paid me before Jan. 1, 1895, the remainder of said advance $200 to be paid me before said auction sale.

PRINCE ALEXANDER GALITZINE.

The second bogus sale of heirlooms of the great Galitzine family will not take place, and society is disconsolate.

THE AFFECTIONS OF ANIMALS.

Curious Attachments of a Foxhound to Cat, Pig and a Duck to a Rooster.

A farmer and naturalist of Gates, N. Y., Henry Carey Dinslow by name, writes about curious affections which he has observed among animals:

"My foxhound, an intelligent fellow, took a fancy to a small pig, and would spend hours in the barnyard cutting up antics to attract the attention of this pig. He was overjoyed when his portly friend would condescend to play at tag or pounce out in most furious manner from the darkness of its pen.

"Fowls often show a decided liking for whomever feeds and cares for them, but I well remember a pullet which was constantly at my heels as soon as I entered the poultry-house or yard—not for food, for there was generally some in the pans, but because of a fancy. I had never petted her, yet as soon as I came in sight she left the others and followed, all the time uttering a peculiar low, trilling sound only heard when hens are selecting a nest with the male bird of the flock, and as this flock contained forty or fifty of all ages and both sexes, this peculiarity was quite conspicuous. Did she imagine me an unusually large sort of Shanghai rooster? I did not consider her attentions complimentary.

"A duck raised with others on the place greatly admired a fine white leghorn rooster, and everywhere the rooster went the duck was sure to go. She bowed her head with the rapid quacking sound which is the duck's usual homage to the drake, very much to the chagrin of Chanticleer, who proudly disdained such companionship, and finally, by repeated pecks and sharp digs, convinced the duck, after several weeks of assiduous courting, that she must not aspire to a better male than the old drake with only one little curled feather in his tail and forget the beautiful plumes of the leghorn."

A French Mathematical Prodigy.

Young Vernier, the mathematical prodigy from the provinces, of whose success in obtaining admission to the higher normal school without undergoing an examination you were informed a few days ago, has arrived here, and is the object of much curiosity. This youth of eighteen has a great opinion of his genius, for, when complimented on his wonderful proficiency, he calmly remarked that mathematics were so badly taught in France that he had no trouble in convincing the real savants of the "insanity" of the prevailing methods. He says that during his stay at the Lyons Lycee his master treated him as a "visionary"; but, he adds generously, "I forgive the poor man." Vernier attracted notice by entering into correspondence with several mathematicians of note, who imagined that they were replying to an elderly savant like themselves, and were astounded when they ascertained that he was a schoolboy. The Minister of Public Instruction was informed of the existence of this "infant phenomenon," and promptly admitted him to the higher normal school on his own responsibility. Young Vernier does not intend to repose on his laurels. On the contrary, he is writing for the Academy of Science a work which will be ready by the summer, and which, as he confidently puts it, will bring about "a revolution like that accomplished by Laplace and Newton." He attributes every mathematical discovery to "intuition," of which he evidently believes that he has a considerable stock at his command. It remains to be seen whether young Vernier will succeed in carrying out his threat of demolishing the existing system, and it is quite possible that he overrates his powers. There is no doubt, however, that he possesses exceptional talents, and his career will be watched with interest.—Paris Correspondence London Telegraph.

MAKING LOVE MATCHES

AN EXPERIENCED WOMAN TELLS HOW IT IS ACCOMPLISHED.

The Surroundings Have Much to Do With Results—Match-Makers Must Know How to Secure Cosy Effects in Parlors—An Incident From Life.

Women are born match-makers. This characteristic in many becomes a positive mania, like unto the craze for five o'clock teas, Russian cigarettes and other oddities. Some times the match-maker shows a total lack of discretion the selections that she makes, giving outsiders a wild desire to incarcerate her in a permanent asylum for weak-minded females.

But these are exceptions, for the woman of society, whose personality has brought her into prominence, has sufficient tact and knowledge of human nature to show her who shall meet who.

Matchmaking is the easiest sort of thing if you just know how, as it is simply a case of propinquity—continued association with the charming surroundings in which Cupid so delights to revel.

It is as impossible for a worthy chaperon of any perception at all to do aught but match make at a summer resort as for the sun not to shine when the clouds have rolled away.

Last summer at one of the loveliest and most picturesque lakes in the Northwest, in the prettiest little cottage imaginable, I dwelt for many long weeks. Trees were so conveniently arranged that the hammock swung dreamily all day long; old Sol's too ardent rays were kept from view by the thick green foliage; the water splashed lazily along the shore, rocking the boats to and fro, and all was ideal except for the lack of a scheme. So I planned to do a little unselfish matchmaking. The first thing I did was to send this note:

My Dear Mr. Spires—Do come down for a day of rest next Sunday. I know you feel the uselessnes of femininity up to date, but I promise you a cordial welcome and incidentally an introduction to a charming little friend, who is a visitor at my home for a few days. Trusting that no business affairs will cause you to forego the little jaunt, I am yours most sincerely.

MARY WANN.

A few short hours and this telegram came:

Will be with you early Sunday morning. FRANCIS SPIRES.

On our way to service the next day I said: "Well, Francis, it is really time you were overcoming that old love worry which has lasted you two years."

"I have entirely recovered," he said, "but women are not at all needful to me, strange as it may seem."

With a quiet smile, I determined otherwise. Lunch over, I saw Gwendolene, who had been spending the night away, drive up. An introduction followed, and at the end of ten minutes' chat a sail was proposed. I am dreadfully afraid of that numerous person, an amateur sailor, so, with my blessing, they departed en duo. Queer that, with no interest in women, Francis should have found Gwendolene such famously interesting company until 7 p. m., at which hour he decided that a vacation was necessary for him and telegraphed for his trunk, one mandolin and one guitar. The suddenness almost deprived me of breath, but condoling with him on his feeble appearance, I explained, too, my delight at having him remain

It was a moonlight week, so serenely lovely, so full of the little god everywhere that even the twinkling stars kept time to the pretty mandolin strains, while Francis and Gwendolene were drawn nearer and nearer together. Friday came the declaration and announcement to me, then his departure the next day, only to be followed by daily letters, and reckless extravagance in telegrams. As sequel, the wedding is to take place June 12 at the same pretty church in which I planned the match.

Any man can marry the woman of his choice if he has perseverance. This is a sweeping assertion, but one made by a man who knows. The first thing to be done is to secure the unselfish cooperation of a woman friend. The cosy nooks now arranged in so many homes where a soft light blends dreamily with the partl, closed portiers, the low rockers drawn up in front of an open fire, while the warm fur rug just adds the necessary touch of comfort—all these are responsible for much of the havoc cupid is blamed for. Man is influenced by the poetry of his surroundings.

I feel it a dangerous pastime to matchmake unless positively certain of the thoughts, aspirations and temperament of the man and woman one brings together. Even then someone may in the future cordially detest you for your interest in his or her matrimonial affairs. But, perhaps, it is the excitement and delightful uncertainty inside of life that makes every woman a born matchmaker.—MARY WANN, in St. Louis Republic.

Brief Sermon on Human Nature.

"It has always been my aim in life," said the dark-skinned man, "in all my business transactions to seek the happiness of the other party rather than my own."

"What is your business?" asked the man with the long nose.

"I am a smuggler; that is to say, I sell domestic goods by convincing my customers that they were smuggled."

A Great Battle
Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidences of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, became the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakeable cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So Hagering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke us kind and fair,
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then were home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But 3 "s said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

MILKMAIDS WEARING TROUSERS.

Novel and Serviceable Costume Adopted in a Big West Prussia Establishment.

Orders were recently issued by the owners of the great Elbing dairies in West Prussia that all the milkmaids should adopt some costume which would be warm, useful and becoming at the same time. The managers had been considering the matter for some time, and this fact was known to the 300 female employes, but when the order came consternation spread anew all over the vast establishment. Consultation followed, and in a short time a costume was devised and adopted, with the result that universal satisfaction has ensued. The milkmaids could not now be induced to return to long skirts and discomfort as of yore. The skirts formerly worn were continuously proving a hindrance to the work. Indeed on many occasions they were often a dangerous adornment, for once in a while an unruly cow would step on the skirt and upset milk and milker at once. The costume adopted looks somewhat similar to the "advanced" bicycling and fencing dress worn by women. It is of blue and white striped linen for summer wear and of flannel in similar colors for winter. The girls wear no corsets, and the modern hygienic principle of combining warmth with the smallest possible weight in woman's dress is well exemplified. Nothing hinders the free use of their arms and legs. They may sit down, rise and bend over their work without adjusting their clothes and also without experiencing any discomfort. The loose-fitting waistband serves to hold up the stockings by suspenders. To distinguish between the different grades of employes, the milkmaids wear white caps, the pupils white caps with black velvet bands, and the dairy teachers caps with silver lace, for not only the employes, but also the apprentices, among whom are daughters of well-to do farmers and ladies of the landed nobility, must don the new costume. Since its adoption the milkmaids have found no difficulty in dealing with refractory animals, and as the Elbing is the largest dairy establishment in the country, the expectation is that others will soon follow suit by discarding long skirts.

Workbench and Tool Chest.

The ordinary workbench is too often a litter of tools, shavings, bits of wood, nails, screws, and other articles, affording no little inconvenience whenever it is desired to use the bench. Tools are thus frequently lost, and many of them made dull by contact with each other, and with nails and other hard substances. There is frequent rusting also when the weather becomes damp. A plan is shown in the illustration by which the tools may be kept each in a safe place, and yet conveniently at hand the moment one is wanted. Nails and screws should be kept in boxes with apartments for the various sizes, and these boxes may also find a place in the closet at the head of the bench, or, if desired, a drawer for nails, screws, etc., may be made below the bench.—American Agriculturist.

Human Nature.

It is related that a certain man was recently very sad because his wife had gone on a visit, which she would not shorten in spite of his appeals to come home. He finally hit upon a plan to induce her to return. He sent her a copy of each of the local papers with one item clipped out, and when she wrote to find out what it was he had clipped from the papers he refused to tell her. The scheme worked admirably. In less than a week she was home to find out what it was that had been going on that her husband did not want her to know about.—Tit-Bits.

The reason why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so much more effective than other remedies for colds and coughs is because it is the most skilful combination of anodynes and expectorants known to medical science. It is in every respect a scientific medicine

THE MINISTERIAL TOUR.

Hon. Messrs. Foster and Costigan Go Back to the Capital.

LISTOWEL, Jan. 31.—Reginald Saunderson, who on January 3rd was fully committed for trial for the murder of a young woman named Augusta Dawes, whose throat he cut in Holland Park Road on the night of November 25th, was arraigned in the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey yesterday. After the testimony of medical experts and other witnesses had been heard, the prisoner was adjudged insane and it was ordered that he be committed to an asylum.

Hon. Costigan, Foster, Haggart, Montague and Ives. In the course of Mr. Foster's speech he expressed the hope that Newfoundland would come into Confederation in the near future. Mr. Haggart told the audience that an appeal to the country would shortly be made, but omitted the date.

Essex Fishermen's Appeal.

WINDSOR, Jan. 31.—Men who are engaged in the fishing industry in the waters bordering on Essex county are making another attempt to have the laws amended so that fishermen along the international boundary waters may catch fish at any season of the year. Under the present fishing laws, while the Canadian fishermen have to remain idle the Americans on the other side of the river can catch at all seasons of the year. A largely-signed petition from the Essex county fishermen has been endorsed by the county council, and Wm. MacGregor, M.P., will present it to the Government. The petitioners say on the American side of the water opposite Essex county 145 fishermen are employed. They take from the water annually 37,513,739 pounds of fish, valued at nearly $2,000,000, while the value of fish taken on the Canadian side is less than one-quarter of this amount.

A Green Goods Swindler Convicted.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Hugh Barry, of Orillia, was convicted in the police court yesterday on a charge of stealing $190 from Alfred Orser, the guileless farmer from the north country, who was swindled in a green goods deal some weeks ago in John O. Wood's drug store on York street. Sentence was deferred until to-morrow in order that the defence may submit some evidence as to character. At the close of the case the druggist Wood was arrested in connection with the same case and was allowed out on bail.

Chinese Peace Envoys Mobbed.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The Times correspondent in Kobe says: "When the peace envoys from China landed, the mob hooted and menaced them and it was necessary to protect them with a large force of police. The foreign secretary received them. The press admits that this embassy shows a more sincere desire for peace than Commissioner Detrings, but believes it will be fruitless, as China is not likely yet to accede to Japan's demand.

Applications for Chief of Police.

HAMILTON, Jan. 31.—At noon yesterday all applications for the position of Chief of Police that will be considered by the commissioners had been received and altogether there is a total of 21 applications. Major Jno. Stoneman. of Hamilton, Sergt. Prentice, of Hamilton, and Mayor A. D. Stewart put in applications. The commissioners will meet to-morrow morning to take action in the matter.

Smallpox Quarantine Raised.

GUELPH, Jan. 31.—Yesterday the quarantine against the Ontario Agricultural College and creamery students was raised. Miss Green, who shows symptoms of smallpox, has been isolated in a house near the college. The medical men are undecided whether it is smallpox or from the effects of vaccination. In any event it is expected that it will be but a mild case.

The Berlin Assault Case.

BERLIN, Ont., Jan. 31.—Bishop, the victim of Saturday night's assault, is reported as doing well. It transpires that Mr. Allan Huber laid the charge against the firemen, and Lawyer E. P. Clement conducted the prosecution free of any remuneration whatever, which is highly commended by our best citizens.

Young Saunderson Insane.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Reginald Saunderson, who on January 3rd was fully committed for trial for the murder of a young woman named Augusta Dawes, whose throat he cut in Holland Park Road on the night of November 25th, was arraigned in the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey yesterday. After the testimony of medical experts and other witnesses had been heard, the prisoner was adjudged insane and it was ordered that he be committed to an asylum.

Shoe Workers on Strike.

ASHLAND, Mass. Jan. 31.—The three hundred employes of the Ashland Shoe and Leather Company struck yesterday to support the "treers" strike against a ten per cent. reduction. The firm has refused to arbitrate. The total number of hands now on strike is 350.

A Big Find of Gold.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 31.—Sixty thousand dollars in gold was found by Jesse J. Drew at his saw mill near Hollandale, Washington county. The treasure is supposed to have been buried during the civil war by Captain Barfield.

Cremated in Their Building.

BISMARCK, S.D., Jan. 31.—Peter Olsen and his family, consisting of his wife and three children, were burned to death here and their dwelling destroyed. He was manager of the farm of Judge Dwyer, of Dayton, Ohio.

That hacking cough can be quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Price 25 cents.

TO ANNEX WITH THE U.S.

Agitators in Newfoundland Are Getting in Their Work.

GOVERNOR O'BRIEN INDIGNANT

St. Johns Placarded With Anonymous Notices—A Definite Admission From the Government With Regard to the Proposal to Enter Confederation.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld. Jan. 31.—The inhabitants of St. Johns awoke yesterday to find the city placarded with large bills calling upon the people to agitate for the annexation of Newfoundland to the United States. The placards are unsigned, but it is believed they owe their origin to a faction of Radical politicians in this city who have been avowing annexationist principles for years past. It is understood that a club, whose object will be the furtherance of the annexation movement, is being formed and that members of the organization will begin the work of popular agitation in a day or two.

The city is in a fever of excitement over the matter. Governor O'Brien is very indignant because of the appearance of the placards.

Supporters of the Colonial Government now admit that the Canadian Cabinet declines to discuss terms for Newfoundland entering the Canadian Confederation before the anticipated Canadian general election takes place.

Several additional failures were announced yesterday and it is known that more will follow. The Hon. Maurice Fenelon was unanimously elected trustee of the Commercial Bank on behalf of the shareholders.

A BAD BOILER EXPLOSION.

Denver Electric Power House Destroyed—Three Dead in the Ruins.

DENVER, Jan. 31.—The boiler at the Denver electric power house in West Denver blew up last night, wrecking the building and machinery. C. Betzer was found dead in the ruins. William Cafferty, electrician, and Hugh Ellis, engineer, are supposed to be dead among the wreckage. John Brown and Frank Walrodt, employes, and a visitor named Stanley were seriously burned. It is thought Walrodt cannot live. Building and machinery were valued at $150,000. The explosion will seriously interfere with the street railways of Denver.

A Musician's Sensational Suicide.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Prof. Vigo Anderson, one of the finest flutists in the world and a prominent member of the Theodore Thomas orchestra, made a dramatic ending of his somewhat eventful life last night. He called together practically all his friends and gave them a grand musical entertainment. Then he shot himself through the head. One of the invited guests was Miss Frances Streigel. Anderson killed himself virtually at her feet. Among his effects was found a notice to appear in court to answer a bill of complaint filed by his wife in a divorce proceeding.

The Brazil Revolt Breaks Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. — The Herald's special from Buenos Ayres says: "Troops are camped in the squares of the Rio Janeiro and patrolling the principal streets. The military are in revolt, and a cavalry regiment is preventing their exit from the school. The cadets have Krupp guns, and ex-President Peixoto's friends have other munitions of war. Cheers were given for Peixoto by the marines who were laden from the ships to help the troops preserve the peace. Peixoto is recovering from illness at Hot Springs. He disclaims connection with the rebellion.

Cherokee Bill in the Toils.

WAGONER, I.T., Jan. 31.—W. C. Smith, deputy marshal, has distinguished himself again in effecting the capture of Cherokee Bill, alias Crawford Crosby, the notorious outlaw and companion of Bill Cook in the Indian Territory during the last five months. The prisoner boasts that he has killed fifteen men and admits the killing of Station Agant Dick Richards at Nowata last summer. He also confessed the killing of his brother-in-law at the same place a few weeks ago. He is only 18 years old and does not look like a desperado. There was a reward of $1,000 for his capture.

Icemen on Strike.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The first ice strike of the season of any proportion on the Hudson River is now on at Glasco where about 1,000 men have quit work demanding an increase of 25 cents a day. The strikers held a meeting and decided to visit the Knickerbocker and other houses and compel the men to quit unless they are receiving $2 a day for indoor work.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Jan. 31, 1895.

On the street here 200 bushels of wheat sold at 63 to 64 1-2c. for white and 61 to 62c. for red, 500 of barley at 47 to 48 1-2c., one load of peas (common) at 61c., and 200 bushels of oats at 35 to 36c.

The Chicago grain markets advanced all around, apparently in response to financial news. Wheat gained 3-8 to 1-2c.; corn 1-4 to 3-8c. and oats 1-4 to 1-2c.

Buffalo malsters did nothing in barley and the outside demand was limited. Holders are still asking old prices, butter less firm. No. 1 Canada 66 asked, sellers would sell at 65c. No. 2 Canada, 64c. asked; sellers would take 63c. and buyers would not give above 61 to 61 1-2c.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs market closed very dull for fair to medium grades, but steady prime lambs; 15 loads unsold at close. Only 8 cars of Canadas on sale, which were taken at $5.50 to $6.00 These were of fine quantity and sold for export.

Operators at the New York stock exchange were waiting to hear from Washington in regard to the financial matters, and in consequence there was a material falling off in business. At the opening there was some pressure to sell, but considering the development ever night the liquidations were on a very moderate scale. The comparative strength in the face of the unfavorable developments noted was due to a general belief that negotiations had been completed between the treasury department and a syndicate of foreign capitalists and national banks for the sale of $100,000,000 of four per cent. bonds, $75,000,000 to be placed abroad.

The London stock markets were dull. Consols were also lower. Americans were flat but closed half a dollar better.

Thousands of cases of rheumatism have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This is abundant reason for belief that it will cure you.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY.

Asphodel and Belmont Association—The County Convention—Other Notes.

[This column, for which space has been kindly granted in this paper, is edited by Dr. Harrison, of Keene, to whom items for it should be sent.]

The convention of the Asphodel and Belmont Association was a success, so far as the programme was concerned, although there was not the attendance that might have been looked for.

Rev. Mr. Somerville, of Norwood, gave a good address, clearing showing that a large responsibility rests upon the home, that if the home is alive to its duty and does it, the church, the school, and the home itself will be a large gainer, while the converse is too true. It should be, "Let us go to the church," and "Let us go to the school," and not, "Now, children, hurry up, and go," while the father and mother settle down for a good time, and perhaps to sleep.

Rev. Mr. MacWilliams read a most admirable paper on "Soul Winning," setting forth that the human heart to-day, if more enlightened, polished and cultured, is still, if unregenerated, the stronghold where sin and evil are just as strongly entrenched. To capture this stronghold requires training how to do so, tact must be used, perseverance, persistency in effort, and reliance upon the Holy Spirit as a guiding agency. They should strive to win one at a time rather than many in a batch. Rifle work, with definite aim, was better than a broad-side discharged in the hope that some might be hit.

Mr. Roxburgh presented in clear and concise terms the "Home Class," strongly urging its adoption by all schools represented there.

Dr. Harrison gave a normal lesson on the "Life of Christ" in a clear and practical way, and was heard with marked attention to the end. He also answered questions in a satisfactory manner.

Rev. Mr. Peak is the new president, and Miss Pettigrew the secretary-treasurer. At a later date the names of the executive will be given. Rev. Mr. Cook, the retiring president, manifested a deep interest in the success of the association, and was an efficient head.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

The county convention will, as stated before, be held on Feb. 28th and March 1st next. The meeting will be held at Havelock in the Presbyterian church. The provincial secretary of normal work will be there, also Mr. Duncan, of Toronto, Hon. Primary Secretary for the province, assisted by the following from our own field:—Rev. A. MacWilliams (President), Rev. J. J. Rae, Rev. L. Williams, Rev. S. S. Weaver, Rev. D. A. Thompson, Rev. J. H. Coon, Rev. D. McClelland, Messrs. S.R. Armstrong, J. A. Hall, and others.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Smith Sunday School Association convention will be held in Bridgenorth on Feb. 12th. Let all the schools of Smith send a good large representation, for the three special topics recommended by the recent meeting of the Executive of the County Association will be strongly presented, namely:—"Primary Work, Normal Classes, and Home classes."

The normal superintendent urges all schools to form classes. He will gladly supply all information, and if needed, an instructor to help organize the class. The text books adopted by the Provincial Association are the "Legion of Honour Series," by Prof. Hamill.

For the benefit of those who are asking what books will help in the study of the lessons on the "Life of Christ," outside of the regular lesson helps, the following may be mentioned: "Harmony of the Gospels," Withrow, 50c.; "Life of Christ," by Stalker, 75c.; Farrar's "Life of Christ," centenary edition, $1; Legion of Honour, class book No. 1, 15c., and "The Public Life of Christ," Fleming H. Revell Co., Toronto, $1, or in map on rollers, $1.25.

The township of Dummer convention will shortly be on. All who can should go there—it is the township Sunday School Mecca. They report a live normal class in Warsaw.

Villiers Sunday School regrets the removal of Mr. Fred Grylls. Mr. Grylls took an active part in their normal work, and at the last year's provincial examination took 190 marks out of a possible 200.

Rally to the county convention. Havelock is preparing to have a good time and hospitable entertainment.

Do not fail to send news of Sunday School interest to the editor of this column.

In 1890 there were 14,000,000 in Sunday School work; in 1890, 20,000,000, now many more. Still the work grows like a snowball, as it rolls continually adding.

If you have not seen the new Sunday School paper, "Our Sunday Schools," send to the editor, Geo. M. Elliott, Napanee. One cent will bring it.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The council elect for 1895, met Jan. 21st at Centreville. The members elect subscribed to the declaration of qualification of office. The reeve, Mr. Robt. Fisher, took the chair. Communications were read and laid over for consideration. Messrs. Joseph Fisher, Thos. Dodds and John Mouncy were appointed members of the board of health for 1895. Councillor McAllister introduced a by-law be appoint auditors for the year 1895. Messrs Isaac Kerr and Andrew McClelland were appointed auditors. Mr. Alexander Brown made application to have his road work remitted in consequence of having to shovel snow at the railway gates at Frazerville. He said the snow drifted against the gates making it impossible to open them, thus stopping the road in that street Moved by Councillor McAllister, seconded by Councillor Dawson, that the amount charged to Mr. Alex. Brown for statute labour be remitted on account of snow obstructing his gate.—Carried. On motion the collector, Mr. Kerr, was allowed a rebate of $6. Mr. Kerr, the collector, was on motion, given an extension of time till next meet to collect the remainder of the taxes. The treasurer of the Agricultural Society was, on motion, paid the sum of $4 for use of the hall at the late provincial election. Councillor Hutchison's bylaw was passed to provide that any moneys raised by the assessment of dogs shall not go to paying damage to sheep injured by dogs, but shall form part of the general fund of the township. The treasurer, Mr. Hall, was on motion, allowed 45c. charge on a cheque. The following applications for assessors were handed in: Mr. T. M. Willan, at a salary of $30; Mr. Isaac Kerr, no salary mentioned; Mr. James Wood at a salary of $35; Mr. Martin Parker at a salary of $38. Mr. Wood was appointed assessor; salary, $35. Mr. J. W. Hall asked the council for a grant of $2,000 towards building a bridge across the Otonabee river, at the north end of lot 15, con. 5, South Monaghan. Proposed by Councillor McAllister, seconded by Councillor Perrin, that at the next meeting a bylaw be introduced granting the sum of $2,000 to a committee appointed to build said bridge, to be repaid by five yearly installments of $400, with interest, each year, and that the clerk have said bylaw prepared to present to the council at its next meeting. Council adjourned to meet again at the call of the reeve.

Far Reaching in its Benefit.

The last day of January ends our year's business—a successful one in every respect, in spite of the hard times. We are getting closer to the people every year, and we are gratified that the people appreciate our efforts so unmistakably. Growth is proof, continuous growth is proof positive. Our business proceeds on SOLID IDEAS PERSISTENTLY FOLLOWED, and not upon spasmodic excitements.

We have sold more goods, counted more dollars, and entertained bigger crowds than ever before. Our best expectations have been more than realized and we enter upon a new year with our stores standing solidly on our past records, more than ever determined to beat that record, if possible.

Starting Saturday Morning

We commence our annual STOCK-TAKING CLEARANCE SALE. The recollection of last year's and previous season's mammoth sales will be ample to incite enough people to crowd our stores from end to end. Unbounded attractions will prevail in every department, and another triumph will be added to our long list of irresistible bargain sales.

NEW YEAR NEW GOODS NEW LEAF 1895

On looking over last year's business we find that we have everything to be thankful for, as it was one of the best years that, notwithstanding the hard times, we ever had, and that is saying a great deal.

Now, as this is the season for making good resolutions, we have resolved to surpass, if possible, last year's trade. To attain this end we have duplicated all our fall Cloths and added all the latest winter patterns we could find. We buy for spot cash and can afford to sell on a small margin. Give us a call and we will do the rest.

Our Gent's Furnishings and Underclothing Departments are both well stocked. We have a few choice Overcoats still left which we will let off cheap.

An Elephant
ON THEIR HANDS!

We're decidedly opposed to buying damaged goods or ancient Job Lots, just because they are cheap. They cast suspicion on an otherwise first-class stock. Merchants who dabble in such merchandise generally find they have an elephant on their hands.

We have no "elephants" on on our hands. Nor do we allow percentages to our clerks for forcing off out-of-season or unsaleable goods. Our care is for our customer's interest, at every point, and at points not always manifest. We find the choicest goods go first.

We want to emphasize the better values in store for you here. Every price is less than regular goods usually sell for. If careful buying and cash payments and small expenses count for anything. You're sure to get genuine goods here for less than anywhere, especially in the following special lots:—

DIRT!

Your watch needs cleaning and oiling, once every eighteen months if you would preserve its time-keeping qualities. Consider: In that time the balance wheel turns on its delicate axes 13,996,800,000 times. It does not "rest" at night like ordinary machines, but keeps at its work unceasingly. You oil an engine, or a sewing machine, or any other mechanical contrivance, daily or weekly; but that delicate instrument of precision—your watch—is allowed to go uncared for until it is clogged with dirt, and stops. The best of oil becomes thick and dirty in time; in this condition it wears the pivots and destroys that exactness of their fit in the jewel-holes which is necessary to a correct performance

Let me look at your watch—I will give you a conscientious opinion as to whether it needs attention.

THE LOSS OF THE ELBE

Heavy Storms Interfere With the Search for Survivors.

AN INQUIRY TO BE OPENED

Conflicting Statements With Regard to the Conduct of the Crew—No Hope for the Missing Boat—The Loss of Life is Now Placed at 303.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The absorbing topic of conversation and comment is the loss of the North-German Lloyd steamship Elbe, with nearly 400 lives, as the result of a collision in the North Sea with a steamer which at the time was unknown, but it is now ascertained beyond the possibility of doubt was the British steamer Crathie, Captain Gordon, from Rotterdam for Aberdeen. Although the figures of the various statements of the loss of life differ, no two being exactly alike, the latest information as to the number of lives lost places it at 894, at least that is the number missing, and there is very little hope entertained that any of these will eventually be heard from alive. It is true, however, that some Yarmouth and Lowestoft fishing smacks which are out on cruises in the vicinity where the Wild Flower picked up the Elbe's boat with the twenty survivors have not returned to their home ports yet, so that there still remains a possibility that one or more of them may have rescued some of the unfortunates of the lost steamer.

On the other hand the weather is unfavorable to the survival of the castaways for any considerable length of time. A heavy north-east gale has prevailed on the North Sea all day and the weather at Lowestoft and thereabouts is very cold. The gale increased to almost a hurricane and has been accompanied by a blinding snowstorm. Notwithstanding the discomforts involved, however, the coast guards and customs officers are exerting themselves to the utmost and are leaving no means untried in the search for possible survivors or even for signs of any kind indicating that more of the Elbe's people escaped than have yet been heard from. Thus far no article of woodwork or furniture belonging to the lost vessel has been washed ashore on the Suffolk coast, a fact in itself regarded by experts as proving the sudden completeness of the disaster and tending to diminish the probabilities of further salvage of life being reported. A lifeboat of the Elbe, it is true, washed ashore at Yarmouth, oars and life buoys being found in it, but this is undoubtedly the boat from which the Wild Flower rescued the survivors and which was left adrift after its occupants had been taken off, so that its discovery on shore furnishes no additional news or encouragement.

The officers in London of the North German Lloyds say the company was besieged with anxious enquiries, but the officials are without information or details beyond the news published in the press and can do nothing to allay the anxiety of the relatives and friends of the Elbe's passengers. The company is refunding fares to the survivors and paying the expenses of their return to Germany or to whatever point they select as their destinations.

The company sent out the ocean tug Dispatch to cruise around in search of survivors of the Elbe, but the tremendous wind, heavy sea and blinding snowstorm drove the boat back to Lowestoft at noon after she had proceeded only a short distance on her way. The storm moderated after her return, and in the afternoon she started again. The raging blizzard prevented the sea from being seen off Ramsgate and Yarmouth and compelled a total suspension of coasting traffic. In this way the experts accounted for the non-arrival of fishing boats which might bring some additional survivors or at least have picked up some wreckage which might serve to identify the ship which cut the Elbe almost in two. The life boat of the life-saving station at Ramgate returned to that place after having been out fifteen hours searching for possible survivors without having found any traces of either boat or wreckage. A blinding snowstorm is raging at the mouth of the Thames and navigation is also suspended.

The survivors of the Elbe, who were brought to Lowestoft by the steam trawler Wild Flower, have nearly all recovered from the effects of their shock and exposure. Miss Anna Buecker, the only woman who is known to have been saved, is the only one not able to be about. She is suffering from nervous prostration and will be obliged to remain in Lowestoft for several days. The surviving officers of the Elbe are very reticent in regard to the disaster, reserving their statements pending an official inquiry into the circumstances, but it transpires that an officer of the Elbe saw a green light on the port bow belonging to an unknown vessel which, it is alleged, was trying to cut across the Elbe's bows. This light evidently belonged to the Crathie, which is now certainly known as the ship which struck the liner and sent her to the bottom.

Gunnesham, the English pilot of the Elbe, who was one of the survivors, made the following statement in the course of an interview to-day: "When I came on deck of the Elbe, Captain Von Goessel was on the bridge in charge of the ship. The orders were given to swing the boats out but not lower them until further orders. Then came an order summoning everybody on deck and sending the crew to their stations. This order was followed by another command for the women and children to go to starboard boats, the order giving everybody to understand that the women and children were to be saved first. These orders were given by the captain himself and were repeated by First Officer Wilhelm. The next order given was for the lowering of the boats. The Elbe went down two minutes after we pushed away from her side."

William Wright, the skipper of the fishing smack Wild Flower, says: "We were east-south-east of Lowestoft with our trawling gear down, when I saw a ships lifeboat a mile away. The boats mast was naked but I saw something fluttering from her stern. The water was breaking over the boat. I watched her closely. Her occupants seemed to think I was going to leave them so I waved my hat. It took us half an hour to get up our trawling gear and in the meantime the boat was drifting away from us. When I got close to them I cast them a rope but they were so cold, wet and numb that they could not make it fast for some time. The woman lay in the water in the bottom of the boat. She wore a long coat but had on neither boots nor dress. Pilot Greenham helped her to get on board the smack. Just as all had boarded the smack the line again parted and the boat was lost. I got the woman below and asked all the others to go to the engine room while she took off her clothes and wrapped herself in dry blankets. I am sure another hour's exposure in the boat would have killed some of them for there were six inches of ice on my deck."

Steerage passenger Bothen, says that after the strange vessel struck the Elbe she sheared off and steered in a semi-circle around the Elbe, but did not come near her, though had she done so, she could have rescued a large number of those on board the sinking ship. This seems to be the opinion of several others of the survivors.

A great deal of adverse comment is caused by the fact that of the twenty persons saved from the Elbe, fifteen of them were of the ship's crew, and the boat in which they saved themselves contained only one woman and no children. Attempts have been made by some of the survivors so account for this, but in no case in a satisfactory manner. Even the solitary woman who was saved was not originally taken into the boat but was picked up in the water after the boat had pushed away from the sinking ship, greatly against the wishes of some of the occupants of the boat.

Captain Gordon, of the Crathie, says the steamer with which his ship came into collision was lost sight of immediately after the vessels came together, and it was thought she had proceeded. The Crathie remained in the vicinity for two hours, and then returned to Rotterdam as it was feared she could not keep afloat. The second officer of the Crathie says that immediately after the collision the ship struck by the Crathie burned blue and red lights. Similar signals were returned by the Crathie, his belief being that no assistance was required on either side. The Crathie's officers say that the ship with which the Crathie was in collision was a large steamer with two funnels.

A despatch from Bremen says:—The owners of the Elbe have received the following telegram from the Emperor's aide-de-camp:—"The Kaiser and Kaiserin have heard with deep emotion of the terrible disaster which has befallen the Elbe and express their warmest sympathy and heartfelt condolence."

The German Consul will open the inquiry here to-day. The agents of the owners and the insurance companies and the officials of the admiralty and board of trade will be present. The inquiry will last eight days.

Fifteen fishing smacks which sailed near the spot where the Elbe lies arrived at Lowestoft. Not one reported seeing any signs of the wreck or the passengers. Their reports banished the last hope of finding the second lifeboat. A smack returning shortly before midnight brought a boat's rudder and log line but there was nothing to indicate what boat they were from. The customs officers at all ports along the south and east coast are on the alert to hail and question the skippers of all incoming craft, and the coast guard patrol the shore for miles in search for wreckage and dead bodies.

The Graphic reporter says:—"One memory will linger in the minds of all who visited the survivors in Lowestoft. It is the vision of poor Hoffman sitting broken-hearted by the fireside and saying nothing except, "My poor boy, my poor little boy."

All reports received confirm the statements from Bremen that the steamer Elbe carried 149 officers and sailors, 50 cabin and 125 steerage passengers or 324 persons in all. There are 21 survivors. The loss, therefore, number 303.

A Toronto Newspaper Shuffle.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—A current report is that the Mail-Empire deal is about consummated and may go into effect in a week. According to street talk the Empire goes out of existence altogether, being entirely merged into the Mail. The point to be determined absolutely is regarding the managership, which it is said Mr. Bunting is desirous of retaining. Mr. Creighton is understood to have said that the report of the deal having been arranged is incorrect. The Globe has purchased one of the Empire's presses, an incident which, it is declared, possesses no especial significance at this particular juncture, as the Empire had one more press than it required.

The Ministers at Leamington.

LEAMINGTON, Feb. 1.—The ministerial party, consisting of the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia, Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways, Hon. W. B. Ives, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. W. H. Montague and Hon. Dr. Ferguson, arrived by special train last evening. A large procession was formed from the railway station and headed by the town band and a large torchlight procession the party proceeded in carriages to the hall where a crowded house awaited them. There an address of welcome was presented by the mayor and the Young Men's Liberal Conservative Association. In the absence of Hon Mr. Foster Hon. Mr. Montague was the chief speaker.

PRESSMEN IN SESSION

Thirty-seventh Annual Convention of the Press Association.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR REPORTED

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Attends the Meeting and Receives an Ovation—The "Old Timers"—Presentation to Mr. John King—A Banquet in the Evening.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—The thirty-seventh annual convention of the Canadian Press Association convened in the reception room of the Parliament buildings at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning, with President T. H. Preston, of the Brantford Expositor, in the chair.

It was reported by the Executive that the Canadian Press Association was never in a more prosperous condition than it is at present. Its membership was constantly being strengthened by the addition of representative journalists of all classes, and its beneficial influences is now generally recognized.

Since the last annual meeting the subject of libel legislation had occasioned a considerable measure of attention and it was to be regretted that the measure introduced at the last session of the Ontario Assembly had not removed the chief grievance of which they complained. Some measure of success had been achieved with respect to the duties on stereotype plates, printing presses, type, etc.

The secretary-treasurer's report showed that for 1894 the receipts from fees were $412.20, as compared with $395 of 1893 and $451 in 1892. There is at present a balance on hand of $11.95. It was pointed out that the Executive Committee meetings were too costly and it has been suggested that hereafter only railway fares be paid in future.

The Presidential message was not long but it was both pithy and interesting.

Mr. Preston welcomed the old time members of the "Ancient Guild" who had gone into the "Senate" of life by taking up other callings.

Perhaps the most pleasant feature of the morning's proceedings was the presentation to John King., Q.C., of an oil painting of himself from the brush of A. Dickson Patterson.

No better man in the association could have been chosen to deliver the presentation address than J. S. Willison, of the Globe, who did it in his own graceful and eloquent style.

THE "OLD TIMERS."

An Interesting Gathering and Some Interesting Reminiscences.

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL.

In the afternoon the president took the chair sharply at two o'clock and the nomination of officers was immediately proceeded with. The election will be held to-day.

The "Old Timers."

When Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Premier of the Dominion, entered the hall the members rose and greeted him with an ovation which was thoroughly heartfelt. He enjoyed, as did the other "old timers" the prompt despatch of business which is characteristic of modern methods.

President Preston, in introducing and welcoming Sir Mackenzie Bowell as the eldest living past president of the association, did so in most felicitous words and with a genuine heartiness that was much appreciated. He likewise covered himself with glory with an original parody on Sir Joseph Porter's little ditty in "Pinafore," "When I was," etc., but now "I'm the Premier and a K.C.M.G." He noted, too, that this was the first public appearance made by Sir Mackenzie since his call to the premiership and to knightly honor by the crown.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, in replying, after the cheering had subsided, travelled in a rapid manner over the ground occupied by the press since the inception of the Association when he had assisted the late Mr. Gillespie and others to form it. His personal reminiscences were, however, the most enjoyed and altogether his speech was a delightful one for such an occasion.

Mr. E. Jackson, Rev. W. P. Clarke, H. Clough, Mr. James Innes, M.P., Geo. Tye, Wm. Watt, jr., Mr. J. A. Davidson and Rev. Dr. Dewart, all past presidents, made most interesting five-minute addresses.

The pleasant afternoon had arrived at about five of the clock before the "Old Boys" had had their pleasant and profitable say, and Mr. Willison asked that the meeting be adjourned instead of taking up his paper on "Law Reform as it Affects the Ontario Press."

Adjournment was accordingly made until six o'clock, when the members of the association and their friends met at the Board of Trade Building. The material portion of the banquet was all that could be desired but the intellectual was more, as such notable and distinguished men as Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Premier of Canada; Prof. Goldwin Smith, Hon. James Young, N. F. Davin, M.P., Hon. G. W. Ross, Wm. Buckingham, J. S. Willison, D. Creighton, H. F. Gardiner, A. Pattullo, J. Brierley, H. P. Moore, and others, delivered addresses.

The Banquet.

President Preston occupied the chair and delivered a most able address on "The Canadian Press Association."

Thousands of cases of [illegible] have been cured by Norway Pine Syrup. It is absolutely reliable for curing coughs. Cure you.

THE FACTS AND THE FICTION.

The Ministerial journals affect to find fault with Sir Richard Cartwright's denunciations of a fiscal policy that is blighting the country. Sir Richard's fault is that he indulges in too free statement of facts, which are as sad for the country as they are unpalatable to the "party." What will be thought of the utterances of the President of the Toronto Board of Trade, Mr. Hugh Blain, who can in no sense be regarded as a politician? Speaking at the annual meeting of the Toronto Board of Trade on Wednesday night, Mr. Blain in the course of his address, speaking of the 40 per cent. increase of failures, said: "Altogether, although the total amount of failures for the Dominion has been larger other years, I am of the opinion that for purely trading concerns, with, perhaps, the exception of lumber and leather, the year may be regarded as the most unsatisfactory, if not the most disastrous, since Confederation. It is impossible to give a reliable forecast of the future. The outlook is not encouraging. The best that can be said is that business can hardly be worse than now, and that any change must, therefore, be in the direction of an improvement." Here is a sober, calm, considered, deliberate statement of a man who looks at the situation from a business stand point; made in the regular course of an address on the commercial situation and with no desire to make political capital. It is very unfortunate that Mr. Blain's remarks are true, and it behooves the ministers, who go about the country preaching the flapdoodle of the country being prosperous, to explain how their roseate promises of prosperity in business have failed to materialize. The starving ministers must think the people are fools to expect them to believe they are thrifty and prosperous, when they know quite to the contrary.

THE Globe and the Empire have dissolved the informal partnership that existed since the Globe fire, and terminated yesterday, the Globe removing to its new offices. The fire has been a calamity to the Globe only in a financial sense it seems. Of necessity, they have had to procure an entire new typographical and mechanical outfit—everything of the newest modern style, including the latest improvements. Their new Potter press will print 24,000 complete eight-page Globes in an hour. The Globe is a great newspaper in every sense of the word and the high prosperity and far reaching influence it has obtained, have been won by extraordinary merit.

Swamp Plants on Dry Land.

It should be well known by this time, says Meehan's Monthly, that swamp plants as a rule will do much betrer in comparatively dry land than in swamps where we naturally find them. Even the rice plant, which usually grow in water, will grow well and produce a fair crop of seeds in common garden ground. The reason for this has been fully explained in scientific serials. It reads oddly in a report just issued by the United States department of agriculture, suggesting that the common swamp rose mallow, hibiscus moscheutos, would possibly grow in dry land, as an experiment was made to test this fact on the Delaware river thirty five years ago. The plant is growing in every well ordered herbaceous ground and is one of our most popular border plants.

The Wishing Bow.

The "wishing bow" has for a long time been a pretty fad among the New Orleans girl. And a girl without a trim little bow of red or blue or some other color is hard to find on that most fashionable promenade, Canal street. "The bow must be put on with a wish and not removed until it is granted or until the time for granting it has passed by," any Creole girl will tell you. The tendency of the age, some people are glad to note, is to let fancy have a little freer scope than heretofore. No one was ever harmed yet by pretty make believes, such as fairy stories, mythological legends, jewel traditions, and the like, any more than by the judicious commingling of sweets with a solid dinner.

Royal Heads.

The Prince of Wales is said to have a remarkably fine-shaped head, the silk hat he wears being the size known as 7¼. The late czar wore a 6¾ and the present Czar Nicolas an even 7. The Emperor of Germany has a head composed of an aggregation of bumps, and covers it with a hat of the 6¾ size. The Prince of Wales wears a larger hat than either of his sons.

A Parsee's Gift.

The Countess of Elgin recently laid the foundation stone of a Dufferin Hospital at Karrohi. The cost of the building, which is estimated at 50,000 rupees, is the generous gift of a wealthy Parsee. The Countess of Dufferin fund has an assured income for the maintenance of the hospital, as well as sufficient money for furnishing and equipping it.

He Changed His Color.

Ebenezer Long, of Manicua, Fla., was born perfectly black some 64 years ago. He is now as white as any white man in the country.

A Pretty Face

Is the result of a healthy physical condition. "Beauty is but skin deep" yet it greatly depends on a clear complexion, free from wrinkles and hollow cheeks.

Health always brings wealth of beauty. A healthy state of the system comes with Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a medicine prepared for woman's ailments—it cures those derangements and weaknesses which make woman's life miserable.

A woman who neglects to take proper exercise is particularly prone to excessive congestion, debility and a sluggish circulation. This is the time we advise the "Prescription." In all derangements and displacements of the special organs which result in "signs of inflammation," in catarrhal discharges from the lining membranes, and in distressing irregularities—this medicine is guaranteed to cure, or the money will be returned.

NEW WOMAN IS EVIL

IN HER INFLUENCE ON SOCIETY SAYS CARDINAL GIBBONS.

The American Prelate's Views on the Modern Woman and Her Ways—Malthusian Theories Condemned—He Eloquently on the Importance of the Little Child.

The New Woman visited Cardinal Gibbons at his residence in Baltimore last week. She went to confession to him, so to speak, and the Cardinal has given her permission to print what passed between them.

Directly the Cardinal entered the room the glory of the New Woman seemed to turn wrong side out. It was not the brilliancy of his dress, with its gleam of cardinal about the edge of the habit, the broad cardinal sash, the cardinal cap and heavy gold chain with pendant cross about his neck, that distinguished him in a way to embarrass the aggressive, advanced, end-of-the-century woman. It was his impersonality that offered her nothing to combat. It was the simplicity of his manner that, without diminishing the dignity of his rank, greeted her familiarly—rather as if she were a familiar object, a woman—just a woman, no more, no less. That's the greatest embarrassment possible for the New Woman—to be stripped of her discriminating adjectives.

However, with an effort she made bold to say bluntly: "If it please Your Eminence, I am the New Woman come to confession."

"The New Woman," repeated the Cardinal wonderingly; "who, what is she? I did not know there is a New Woman."

"Not know there is a New Woman! Your Eminence cannot be in ignorance of the New Woman. Why, she is the great achievement of the nineteenth century. She controls the age. She is the 'I am' of modern civilization. Surely you must know that she overthrew Tammany in New York."

"Oh, I understand," said the Cardinal. "She is the woman suffragist and her daughter. Personally I know nothing of that woman except that recently she strove to prove my knowledge of ancient history incorrect. However, I bear her no ill will for that. But as a Catholic I am bound to disprove any so-called woman movement. The Church of Rome exalts womanhood in the veneration it accords the Mother of Jesus Christ, but in exalting woman it still has regard for the special nature of her mission in the world, which is equal to man's, though not identical with it. Advocates of women's rights, though I would be very sorry to impugn their motives, are very far from contributing to the real progress and happiness of woman.

"God has given us a heart to be formed to virtue as well as a head to be enlightened. Taking no more sentimental or religious authority than Webster, his definition of to educate is 'to instil into the mind principles of art, science, morals, religion and behavior.'

"Also Guizot, an eminent Protestant writer, declares that education to be truly good must be fundamentally religious. Now, fatal as is the indifference to eternal truths resulting among men from a rejection of this principle, if the women, the mothers of our country, are to divorce religion from their reason, and gauge their excellence by the standard of a secular education, what can we expect of their children?"

The new woman interrupted the Cardinal here, saying: "Your Eminence there jumps to a startling conclusion from an unwarranted hypothesis. You assume that the new woman has children. As a matter of fact, she does not. She puts off the evil hour of matrimony to the latest possible time, during which interim she enjoys a man's social license as a bachelor girl. She is devoted to her club. She excels in all manly sports, and smokes cigarettes with as much unconcern as she dons bloomers and rides a bicycle. If she happens not to like cigarettes or bicycles, of course she lets them alone.

"Wrong, wrong, all wrong, and the greatest menace to our American liberty is the growing disregard of this country for the little child," answered the Cardinal. "Religion reveres and glorifies the little child. It is as a little child that the second person of the Blessed Trinity is born into the world. It was the little children that without reserve Christ bade come unto Him, and it was little children He set up as a type of spiritual excellence by which men attain the Kingdom of Heaven.

"Yet, as a people, we neglect the American child in our system of public education that excludes all religious training. We further disregard the little child in lax laws that make possible the divorce of parents and the disruption of homes. And if now the standards of the woman movement are carrying us still further from the assurance of all good that inheres in the little child, our future is a sorry one indeed. I have reason to apprehend that the tendency among women to restrict the number of offspring is a growing evil. The Catholic Church has one law fixed forever on this point—that human life is sacred, and any means whatsoever employed to extinguish life, though it be of but an instant's duration, is murder, for which the offender's soul must one day answer before a God who has declared 'Thou shalt not kill,' and further declared, 'Vengeance is mine; I will repay.'

"The human race depends for its existence on the intercourse of the sexes, which Christ himself has dignified, blest and made holy in the church through the sacrament of matrimony. The union of man and woman in marriage is natural and noble. It is unnatural and ignoble if such union contemplates the avoidance of the responsibility of its fruits. In this connection, as in every other relation of her life, a woman finds divine light to guide her in the life of the mother of Jesus Christ—'Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it done unto me according to Thy word.'

"The woman who makes his marriage vows with any reservation concerning the will of God in the number of her children, is a worshipper not of God, but of mammon, and is unworthy the love and protection of an honest man.

"If a New Woman came to Your Eminence and told you she is wretched without knowing why, what would you say to her?"

"I would tell her that the cardinal virtues of a woman are chastity and humility. The one attracts God, and through the other God is born into the world. I would tell the New Woman that to be happy she must purify her heart by prayer and humble herself by self-denial, remembering that self-denial is actually the denying of one's self, and that herself being the vanity of intellect, she must subject reason to faith; as St. Paul says, and her whole being to religion. For what doth it profit a woman if she gain the whole world and lose her own soul?"

The Building of the Future.

This cut shows "the building of the future" as constructed on paper by a Boston architect, with boldly original ideas. In this building of 50 floors there are to be 2,500 flats, with stores, theatres, ball rooms, etc., for the accommodation of 20,000 people. Like the crystal palace at Sydenham, the entirety of this city in a city will be roofed over with plate glass, but it will be so constructed that at the pressure of a finger this prismatic crown can be lifted and laid aside to allow air from heaven free entrance.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

THE NEW YORK POLICE.

THE RESIGNATION OF THE GREAT SUPERINTENDENT BYRNES.

The Sensation of the Closing Day of the Lexow Committee's Work Was His Testimony and the Announcement of His Resignation From the Force.

With the dramatic air of a trained actor, Thomas Byrnes, Superintendent of the New York Police Department, and famous the world over as a detective and a terror to evil-doers, announced to the Lexow Committee in New York at its closing session on Dec. 29, 1894, that he had severed his thirty-two years' connection with the police force.

The announcement marked the climax of the Lexow investigation and came just before the final adjournment of the committee shortly after nine o'clock.

Superintendent Byrnes had been on the stand for nearly five hours and had finished his testimony as to the origin of his wealth. He had been explaining to Mr. Goff how he came to possess more than $300,000 worth of real and personal property, and why the fact that corruption in the police force did not argue that he was an incompetent official.

The last question had been asked and answered, when Byrnes, reaching into an inside pocket, drew forth a paper, and, holding it in his right hand, said, his whole poise being most dramatic:

"I have been a member of the department for thirty-two years, and I believe that I have been a faithful servant. I have endeavored to do my duty in all things. For reasons which I have explained, I had decided to leave the department after election day, but the result of the election caused me to change my mind.

POLICE SUPERINTENDENT BYRNES.

"This," said the Superintendent, holding up a letter, "is my resignation from the New York Police Department, which I forwarded to Colonel Strong, the Mayor elect, on the thirteenth of this month. I feel that I want to retire, but I am ready and willing to give help whenever it is required. I do not want to embarrass Colonel Strong or anyone else."

The great Superintendent had severed, perhaps forever, perhaps only for a time; his connection with the force! The news spread like wildfire. There was an immediate exodus from the committeeroom and men rushed about, breaking the news.

No greater excitement has been witnessed in New York, except on election night, since President Garfield's death, by the appearance of newspaper extras.

At police headquarters the news created almost a panic. The Inspectors had gone home, but there were a number of subordinate officers about, and they acted as if their main prop had been kicked from under them.

Thomas Byrnes is registered in the force books as having been born in Ireland in 1842. He was a child when his parents came to this country. He went to the war with a New York regiment. In 1858 he was appointed on the police force and performed his first duty in the Mercer street precinct.

He was made roundsman about four years later, and in 1869 he was promoted to sergeant. He was appointed captain in 1870.

The first precinct he commanded was the East Fifty-first street, and afterward he was sent to the Mercer street. It was while he was captain there that he became famous and noted as a detective through his successful work in the Manhattan Bank burglary.

His success was so marked that he was designated to reorganize the Detective Bureau at headquarters. This was in 1880, when he was promoted to chief through all the grades of the detective force.

He was promoted to Inspector, and under his leadership the Detective Bureau became a most successful institution. He established a branch bureau in Wall street, and a special squad of tried men were detailed to look after and protect the banking and financial institutions in the lower part of the city.

The depredations of bank sneaks, badgers and pickpockets which had been common around Wall street became a thing of the past. Inspector Byrnes gave orders to arrest any thief who might be found around the Wall street district, and who could not give a good account of himself. In this way he drove the thieves and crooks out of Wall street.

A special law was enacted several years ago creating the office of Chief Inspector for Mr. Byrnes at a salary of $5,000 per year. He held this office until he became Superintendent, on April 12, 1892, succeeding William Murray, who was retired on that day.

During the first four years of Mr. Byrnes' administration of the Detective Bureau more than 3,800 arrests were made. During the entire time that he was in charge of the bureau the criminals arrested by his men received sentences to State Prison aggregating ten thousand years.

Mr. Byrnes has a national reputation as a thief taker. A complete record of his notable cases would fill columns. One of his noteworthy achievements was the arrest of the blackmailer of Jay Gould.

The case of the French Saloonkeeper Louis Hanier, who was shot dead by Patrick McGloin, is well remembered. The murder was shrouded in mystery for a long time, but the Inspector finally ran down the murderer, who was hanged in the Tombs.

The arrest of "French," who murdered the woman known as "Old Shakespeare," in a Water street hotel a few years ago, also made him famous.

There are other cases in which Mr. Byrnes distinguished himself and gained much prominence and fame. As a thief taker, he has been regarded as the greatest in the country. He received honorable mention for brave deeds on several occasions.

They Always Are.

"There is a man who will be missed after he is gone."

"Who is he?"

"A bank cashier."

"King Solomon's Mines."

The death of Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson reminds me of the following interesting circumstance. Several years ago soon after "Treasure Island" had appeared and attracted public attention to Mr. Stevenson, two gentlemen were traveling up to London from Norfolk. One of them was reading "Treasure Island." Presently, having finished the book, he dropped it into his traveling bag, remarking, "Well, I think I could myself write a better child's story than that." The other, who by the way was his brother, urged him to try. Six weeks afterwards the former handed to the latter a complete tale in manuscript. It was "King Solomon's Mines," the first novel that made a reputation for Mr. Rider Haggard.—"Marmaduke" in the London Graphic.

A Popular Delusion.

It is an error to suppose that a man belongs to himself. No man does. He belongs to his wife, or his children, or his relations, or his creditors, or to society in some form or other. It is for their especial good and behalf that he lives and works, and they kindly allow him to retain a percentage of his gains to administer to his own pleasures or wants. He has his body, and that is all, and even for that he is answerable to society. In short, society is the master and man is the servant, and it is entirely as society proves a good or a bad master whether the man turns out a good or bad servant.

An Anecdote.

From the Saunterer's London friend comes a little anecdote of a Glasgow minister. The reverend gentleman, having observed that one of his congregation was in the habit of gazing about the church during prayers, told him one day that he considered it would be more becoming in a worshiper to keep his eyes decently closed. The man scowled. "Doesna the Scripture bid us watch as well as pray?" he replied. "And hoo can a body watch wi' their een steekit? Na, na; I'll just stan' and glower aboot as I hae aye dune!"—Boston Budget.

A Tight Habit.

Tattler—Miss Highflier has a new riding habit.

Rattler—I haven't seen it.

Tattler—No; you wouldn't. She takes a cocktail every day before she starts for the park.

What Noah Was Doing.

While teaching a class of girls in our school recently, says a London exchange, the master asked the following question:

"What was Noah supposed to be doing when the animals were going into the ark?"

He received several answers. At last a little girl put her hand up.

"Well," he said, "what do you say?"

"Taking tickets, sir!"

Cardinal Wiseman's Ready Retort.

The umbrella of a Catholic penitent was stolen while she was at confession. She went with the story to Cardinal Wiseman, hoping probably to obtain compensation. The only consolation she got from the Cardinal was this: "My child, I am sorry for you; but the Scripture tells us to watch as well as to pray."

"Five years ago" says Angus A Lewis, Richard, N Y., "I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had given up physicians. I began take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles was completely cured.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, based alike on the rich and poor, male and female. Its symptoms are a severe itching, which is worse at night when the warmth of the bed seems to set the irritated parts on fire. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to remain still. Often the sufferer scratches until blood flows, when the parts at once become inflamed and ulcerated, and very frequently a small tumor or pile will form. These symptoms are sometimes accompanied by a moisture, at other times by a dryness, with intense itching and stinging sensations. Remember that Itching Piles or Irritation in any part of the body are immediately relieved and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop the most intense itching, and a few applications will make a permanent cure. Every sufferer is earnestly requested to try this remedy. Sold by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto, at 60 cents a box.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, but the effects and symptoms are exactly the same. Intolerable itching, the most crawling, creeping, exciting sensation, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment will relieve at once and afford rest from this torment.

Lovers of Oysters

Can always depend on one thing at least—that the oysters we sell are ALL good. If people could only see how some cheap brands of oysters are handled and kept, and the conditions surrounding their handling, they never could buy them. Our long experience in the business and the direct connections we have with the most reliable oyster shippers, permit of no cheap crop being consigned to us.

We are Sole Agents here for H. F. HEMINGWAY & CO's celebrated
